RIDES from San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number — 771-1710 — and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur. Unfortunately, this service cannot be offered for any other area.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Since there are many activities at night and the grounds are not brightly lighted, please bring a flashlight for your own convenience and safety.

San Francisco Programs

EXTENDED GROWTH PROGRAM

(Robert Cromey, Director)

The second intensive six-month personal growth program in the San Francisco Bay Area will be coordinated and led by Robert Cromey. Similar to other extended Esalen programs, it provides an exposure to many disciplines . . . but, unlike residence programs, it allows participants to remain in an urban setting, living and working in their own real environment. The program combines a selected schedule of workshops with ongoing small group work under the direction of an experienced facilitator, allowing participants to undertake a genuine integration of their workshop experience into their everyday lives.

The Extended Growth Program consists of the following, all in the San Francisco area: two five-day residential (live-in) encounter groups with Robert Cromey (April 5-9 and Sept. 27-Oct.1), and six weekend programs to be selected by participants according to individual interest and need from regularly scheduled workshops during the April-to-September period. In addition, the group will work with Mr. Cromey continually, over the entire program period, to integrate workshop experiences into daily life and to ground developing personal insights in a more sensitive, open and honest life style. These meetings will take place at mutually convenient times — weekday evenings, weekends or other times which the group selects.

Selection for the Extended Growth Program will be made by interview with Esalen staff at the San Francisco office during the period March 1 through April 2. The group is limited to 14 persons. Cost is $850 (including room and meals at the two residential workshops). Nonrefundable deposit of $250 is payable upon selection: balance is due at mid-May, except by special arrangement at the time of selection. Scholarship funds are available under the general Esalen scholarship policy. (See page 6). Write or call the San Francisco office for further information.

For Biographies, see pp. 34-37

RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS

Esalen/San Francisco is offering a limited number of residential weekend and five-day workshops in the Bay Area. There are no longer any weekend programs at Big Sur and many persons from out-of-town, as well as local residents, want the benefit of a short-term, live-in program. The scheduled workshops listed below will be held at a large conference center and retreat in Mill Valley (Marin County) or at a conference center in the East Bay; exact location will be included with registration confirmation or you may write or call the San Francisco office for advance information. Program cost, listed separately under each workshop description, includes tuition, food and lodging (shared occupancy only, no private accommodations available).
Weekend workshops begin at 8 p.m. Friday (no supper served) and conclude with Sunday lunch.
5-day workshops begin at 10 a.m. Monday and end with Friday lunch.

The following is our spring schedule of residential workshops:

April 19-23:	Movement, Energy and Sound, with Gabrielle Roth & Ann Armstrong (See page 24).
April 23-25:	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff (See below and next page).
	Breathing and Awareness, with Magda Proskauer (See page 25).
May 21-23:	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff (See below and next page).
	Education for Rebirth, with Dane Rudhyar, Jose & Miriam Arguelles (See page 28).
May 28-31:	Esalen Staff Encounter, with Pamela Portugal (See below and next page).
May 29-31:	Massage Workshop, with Larry Frantz, George Downing & Eva Jalkotsky (See page 29).
June 4-6:	Encounter for Singles, with Robert Cromey (See page 30).
June 4-6:	Experiences for the Mind's Eye, Robert McKim (See page 30).
June 18-20:	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff (See below and next page).
June 25-27:	Reality and Illusion (Part 1), with George & Judith Brown (See page 32).
July 2-5:	The Language of Movement, with Gabrielle Roth (See page 32).

ENCOUNTER PROGRAMS

A wide variety of encounter programs is listed on the next page. They are led by an experienced group of leaders trained and associated with William C. Schutz. All leaders have completed Residence Programs and are working to develop more highly integrative approaches in the general field of encounter, incorporating the techniques and insights of other disciplines: nonverbal, gestalt and fantasy methods, meditation, massage and creativity techniques. While no two programs will incorporate exactly the same methods, the goal of all such groups is a more dynamic and positive life experience which is grounded in openness and honesty and which allows the exploration of individual freedom in a supportive context.

INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS

These programs — evening, one-day and weekend — are specially intended for, but not limited to, persons who have not previously participated in Esalen encounter groups. Workshop leaders will be drawn from a group including Betty Fuller, Tom Allen, Seymour Carter, Robert Cromey, Jacqueline Doyle, Al Drucker, John Heider, Pamela Portugal and Helen Stephens.

EVENING INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN

Working in small group sessions as well as large, participants will have introduction to many methods for personal growth being explored at Esalen. Comfortable clothing recommended; bring pillow for easy sitting. $5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m.
April 21: Millberry Union, UC Medical Center, 3rd Ave. & Parnassus, San Francisco.
May 13, June 7, June 30: First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

SINGLE-DAY ENCOUNTER

An intensive day of group work, along the lines of evening introductory programs, with the additional advantage of more hours, shared mealtimes and some leisure moments. Leaders will work with small groups.
Programs run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Workshop location to be announced at time of registration. Bring your own lunch. $15 per person. April 10, May 15, June 12.

WEEKEND INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN

Incorporating a wide variety of approaches, group leaders will work with participants in large groups and sub-groups. These are residential programs, beginning at 8 p.m. Friday (no supper) and ending after lunch on Sunday. $65 per person, including room and meals. April 23-25, May 21-23, June 18-20.

ENCOUNTER PROGRAMS WITH THE ESALEN STAFF

These encounter programs, led by members of the Esalen Staff, are for persons with or without prior group experience. Some programs have a special emphasis, as noted.

April 9-11 INTENSIVE GROUP EXPERIENCE Helen Stephens
Limited to persons with some previous group experience. Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $45 per person.

May 3-31 AN ENCOUNTER SERIES Robert Cromey

June 11-13 ART EXPRESSION AND ENCOUNTER Tom Allen
Art, movement, sensory awareness and fantasy are ways to deepen awareness. As part of the encounter experience, they offer increased interpersonal contact and a more profound realization of self. Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $45 per person.

July 2-4 ESALEN STAFF ENCOUNTER
Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $45 per person.

 For Biographies, see pp. 34-37

GESTALT WORKSHOPS

Gestalt training is an awareness-centered integrative process concentrating on how and now, rather than why and fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own untapped potential. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients" but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

April 9-11 GESTALT WEEKEND FOR PROFESSIONALS Robert Resnick

A workshop for psychiatrists, psychologists, teachers, clergy, group leaders, social workers, etc. Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $55 per person.

April 17-18 ADVANCED GESTALT WEEKEND Eric Marcus

Although this workshop will emphasize gestalt training, body movement, sensory awareness, dance and art media will also be utilized. Focus will be on intensive depth experiences. Persons with some previous gestalt training and/or experience are preferred. 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday; 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., Sunday. $50 per person.

April 23-24 OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND Esly Barreras and Jerry Kogan

A workshop for persons with or without previous gestalt training or experience. 8 to 11 p.m., Friday; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday. $45 per person.

May 5 THE PRACTICE OF AWARENESS: GESTALT EXERCISES FOR DAILY USE John Enright

An evening introduction to gestalt awareness training, emphasizing methods of tuning in to self and world that can be used in life situations. $3 general; $2 student, Wednesday. Milberry Union, U.C. Medical Center. 3rd Avenue and Parnassus, San Francisco.

May 7-9 THE GESTALT THEATRE OF THE SELF John Enright and Lynn Kaufman

We have in our repertoire right now all possible human roles, but we spend most of our time overusing a few of them and waste most of our energy holding back the remainder. During this weekend, theatre games will be used to evoke and energize some of these neglected parts of the self, play, or make a play, with them and use gestalt methods to integrate them, with the goal of having more roles fluidly available for life. Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $50 per person.

May 21-23 THE GESTALT APPROACH TO DREAMS Elaine Kepner

This workshop will focus on the dreams of participants, using methods of dreamwork developed by Fritz Perls. Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $50 per person.

May 27 INTRODUCTION TO GESTALT THERAPY Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner

An evening experience of gestalt methods with particular emphasis on their use with large groups. $3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

June 11-13 GESTALT WEEKEND FOR PROFESSIONALS Robert Resnick

A workshop for psychiatrists, psychologists, teachers, clergy, group leaders, social workers, etc. Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $55 per person.

June 18-19 ON BEING A WOMAN Cynthia Werthman and Estelle Resnick

A gestalt workshop for women only. 8 to 11 p.m., Friday; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday. $50 per person.

June 21 INTRODUCTION TO GESTALT THERAPY Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner

An evening experience of gestalt methods with particular emphasis on their use with large groups. $3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

June 25-27 OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND Lois Brien

A workshop for persons with or without previous gestalt training or experience. Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $45 per person.

CONTINUING WEEKLY PROGRAMS

April 8-29 Thursday Evenings
MASSAGE WORKSHOP John Ullman

Massage quiets the mind and soothes the spirit; it is a flow of energy, a means of intimate communication. Group members will learn how to give a massage and then practice at developing their own approach. Limited to 16 persons.
$40 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.
Four Thursday evenings, April 8-29.

April 13-June 29 An Extended Workshop Series
MASSAGE TRAINING Gunvar Jackson

Participants in this extended training workshop will receive instruction in massage techniques and will work to develop receptivity to touch, both giving and receiving. Relaxation, breathing and gestalt awareness exercises will be used to supplement thorough massage training. Gunvar Jackson writes: "The goal here is to teach that life is an act, not a thought. Action in life and our basic need for touch will be combined in the teaching of massage."
The course consists of twelve three-hour classes in massage, taught by Gunvar Jackson, and ten classes in human anatomy, taught by E. Jackson, M.D. Separate massage classes are scheduled for two groups, limited to eight participants each.

Group I: 1 to 4 p.m., twelve Tuesday afternoons, April 13-June 29.
Group II: 7 to 10 p.m., twelve Tuesday evenings, April 13-June 29.
Anatomy Class (for both groups): 7:30 to 9 p.m., ten Thursday evenings.

$260 per person. Nonrefundable deposit of $150 is required. Indicate whether Group I or Group II is preferred when registering.

April 14-June 9 Alternate Wednesday Evenings
PSYCHODRAMA SERIES Lewis and Donna Yablonsky

Psychodrama, involving the spontaneous acting-out of real personal and social situations, is one of the most effective and versatile of group interaction techniques. In these intensive pscyhodrama sessions, the group as a whole will be introduced to the basic roles of psychodrama — "protagonist", "auxiliary", and others. Each participant will be given the opportunity to become involved as actively and creatively as his own needs and preferences demand.
$50 per person. 8 to 10:30 p.m., five Wednesday eves, April 14, 28, May 12, 26, June 9.

May 3-31 Monday Evenings
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP SERIES Robert Cromey

In this encounter series, people will be helped to see the restraints which they may have imposed on themselves which limit joy, growth and personal fulfillment.
$45 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., five Monday evenings, May 3-31.

May 6-27 Thursday Evenings
CULTURAL GESTALTS Joan McKenna

Man, in his religions, his cultures, his science, seeks the Universal. Ritual is a journey through perceptions of time and space through which we can experience ancient memories, dreams and understandings. This series will explore the texture and meaning of ritual in relationship to modern Western man.

Man Alone (May 6): Druidic, Teutonic, Judeo-Christian and Greek enactments, utilizing group energy, initiate the individual to his own freedom.

Two of You (May 13): Teutonic, Animistic and Celtic rituals provide the form to explore the Universal Man and Universal Woman in each of us.

Unto Each Other (May 20 and 27): Together, moving, feeling, even thinking, we are not separate. Cultural gestalts of Western origin provide confirmation of our commonality.
$35 per person. 8 to 10:30 p.m., four Thursday evenings, May 6-27.

For Biographies, see pp. 34-37

May 12-June 9 Wednesday Evenings
LIFE ENERGY: A WORKSHOP SERIES Robert Frager and Robert Nadeau

Each evening will consist of a wide variety of energy-freeing and energy-producing exercises. These evening workshops will form a coherent whole in which certain basic ideas and disciplines are covered in every session, but each evening will stress a different approach to energy. We will also expect a growing level of understanding and ability to use life energy at each successive evening. The real intent of these programs is to familiarize each person with energy, so that he may use it as a tool for higher awareness.
$25 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., five Wednesday evenings, May 12-June 9.
Tickets to individual sessions available at $6 per person per evening.

ENERGY FLOW (May 12): An introduction to energy. Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness and mental concentration. Exercises will include relaxation, meditation and energy flow disciplines.

CENTERING AND LIFE ENERGY (May 19): A center in the body is important to be balanced in dealing with energies. The group will explore many movement exercises that teach moving and acting from center, and create a smooth, efficient, effective flow of energy.

ENERGY AWARENESS (May 26): Exercises in learning to become more directly aware of energy flow in oneself and in others. The session will stress the development of direct perception of energy, and the importance of concentration and attitude in the awareness of energy flow.

ENERGY AND ITS USE IN HEALING (June 2): This session will emphasize a deeper sensitivity and development of energy awareness. Transferring energy to another for healing purposes will be demonstrated.

ENERGY AND SPIRITUAL GROWTH (June 9): The group will explore and practice how to use energy properly in the spiritual dimension, how to approach and experience higher realms through energy and how to practice living in this dimension in terms of higher states of being.

June 1, 8, 15, 29, July 6 Tuesday Evenings
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP SERIES Betty Fuller

During the five weekly meetings participants will explore their self-concepts and define the imagined limits they set to being more fully themselves. Within a supportive context, group members will give each other feedback, encourage acceptance of what is and the taking of appropriate risks to be who and what they want. The basic format will be encounter.
$60 per person. 7:30 to 11 p.m., five Tuesday evenings, June 1, 8, 15, 29, July 6.
(Note: No session June 22).

June 2, 9, 16, 30; July 7 Wednesday Evenings
COUPLES' SERIES Betty Fuller

During the five weekly sessions, couples will endeavor to focus on the man-woman relationship, to encounter the person behind each partner's projection, to clear lines of communication and to establish openness and honesty as a base for relating. Encounter, gestalt, massage, sense awareness and other approaches that promote individual growth and stimulate, strengthen and enrich the couples' relationship will be used.
$120 per couple ($40 deposit required). 7:30 to 11 p.m.
Five Wednesday evenings, June 2, 9, 16, 30, July 7.
(Note: No session June 23).

June 8-29 Tuesday Evenings
MASSAGE WORKSHOP John Ullman

Massage quiets the mind and soothes the spirit; it is a flow of energy, a means of intimate communication. Group members will learn how to give a massage and then practice at developing their own approach. Limited to 16 persons.
$40 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., four Tuesday evenings, June 8-29.

June 24-July 22 Thursday Evenings and a Weekend Session, July 23-25
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS SERIES FOR PROFESSIONALS Jim and Susan Vargiu

Five evenings, plus a weekend, designed for psychotherapists, educators, counselors and others involved in the helping professions. The group will explore the fundamentals of psychosynthesis, theoretically and experientially, in a coordinated program designed to give each participant both the understanding and the personal experience needed to begin to utilize and apply psychosynthesis within his own field. We will work together so that each can see the process of psychosynthesis at work, both in himself and in the others. There will be assignments and exercises to complete between meetings. Opportunities for further individual work during the five week period can be arranged.
$110 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., five Thursday evenings, June 24-July 22.
Weekend program, July 23-25, included in tuition.

PROGRAMS

April 8, 15, 22, 29: MASSAGE WORKSHOP John Ullman. See Continuing Programs, page 21.

April 9-11 Weekend Workshop
ART AND SELF Tom Allen and Sy Weisman

Participants will explore through art ways in which certain group experiences can nurture and expand personal expression. The group will interact in various perceptive and graphic explorations of self, others and the environment, and examine the relationship between self process and image.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 9.

April 9-11: GESTALT WEEKEND FOR PROFESSIONALS Robert Resnick.
See Gestalt, page 20.

April 9-11: INTENSIVE GROUP EXPERIENCE Helen Stephens. See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

April 10: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN: ONE DAY The Esalen Staff.
See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

April 13-June 29: MASSAGE TRAINING Gunvar Jackson
See Continuing Programs, page 21.

April 14 An Evening Lecture
ON LOSING YOUR HEAD AND FINDING YOURSELF Douglas Harding

A lecture and experiential demonstration of Douglas Harding's method of enlightenment. The core of the technique is the realization that each of us is faceless to himself; alienation is an illusion; we contain the world.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 14.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

April 14, 28, May 12, 26, June 9: PSYCHODRAMA SERIES Lewis and Donna Yablonsky.
See Continuing Programs, page 21.

April 16-17 and April 30-May 1 Two Weekend Workshops for Teachers
LEARNING/TEACHING: THE PERSONAL COMPONENT William Bridges

This workshop is designed for college and high school teachers who want to move beyond the limits of their training and into the area of person-centered education. Drawing on a wide variety of techniques, the experiential and didactic sessions will be grouped into two weekend units, so that teachers can use the interim for their own classroom experiments based on the first weekend, and can use the second weekend to explore the possibilities and problems encountered during the interim period.
Participants must commit themselves to both workshops. Workshop hours are 8 to 11 p.m., Fridays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturdays.
$60 per person for both weekends. Nonrefundable deposit of $30 required.

April 16-18 Weekend Workshop
A WORKSHOP IN SYMBOLDRAMA Jay Stattman

Symboldrama relies upon evocation of spontaneous imagery through day dreams and fantasies. This approach to unresolved psychic dilemmas by-passes verbal and conceptual resistances that may block energy and inhibit growth. Deep relaxation and a synthesis of other techniques which facilitate imagery will be used to enhance psycho-motor functioning.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 16.

April 17 One-Day Workshop
LIVING WITHOUT A FACE Douglas Harding

This one-day seminar will be an introduction to the theory and the practice of Douglas Harding's technique for enlightenment. Harding discovered after many years of studying philosophy and of meditating that there existed a simple way for realizing experientially the truth that each of us is one with the world and contains the world. Harding writes that the results of this realization depend upon the student's continued practice, but "unlike many spiritual disciplines, this way places the crucial enlightenment experience at the beginning of the path, and readily accessible there to anyone interested."
$12 general; $8 student. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (with break for lunch), Saturday, April 17.

April 19-23 5-Day Residential Workshop
MOVEMENT, ENERGY AND SOUND Gabrielle Roth and Ann Armstrong

A week-long ritual with Ann Armstrong and Gabrielle Roth, working together to open and unite energy systems through chanting, sound and movement.
Begins at 10 a.m., Monday and ends 5 p.m., Friday.
$180 per person, including room and meals. Nonrefundable deposit of $50 required.

April 21: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Wednesday.
Sponsored by U.C.S.F. Committee on Arts and Lectures. See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

April 23-24: OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND Esly Barreras and Jerry Kogan.
See Gestalt, page 20.

April 23-25 Residential Weekend Workshop
BREATHING AND AWARENESS Magda Proskauer

A workshop involving various breathing techniques and exercises in awareness. Mrs. Proskauer's approach educates awareness of somatic processes which are normally unconscious or semi-conscious.
$65 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 23.

April 23-25: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

April 23-25 Couples' Weekend Workshop
SEPARATE AND TOGETHER Larry and Evelyn Solomon

Larry Solomon writes: "This workshop will provide an opportunity to disengage, temporarily, from our marriage relationship in order to deal with ourselves as unique, separate beings. From this base of separateness, we will move toward each other. We will try to look at ourselves as individuals as well as partners in a marital relationship. We will explore, share, play and hopefully grow together."
$100 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 23.

April 24 Saturday Workshop
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS: RETURNING TO YOUR CENTER James Fadiman

Too often we are concerned with our faults, our inadequacies, our doubts and fears. Psychosynthesis techniques are ways to recall and develop our deepest untroubled center. This workshop will teach basic techniques which may be used in active self-discovery or in educational or therapeutic settings.
$18 per person. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. (with breaks for meals), Saturday, April 24.

April 26 An Experiential Session
AN EXPERIENCE OF RITUAL Joan McKenna

Joan McKenna has translated "cultural gestalts" into rituals with meaning for modern man. She writes: "Rituals are born through ancient memories, dreams and understandings that endure despite differences in language, culture or religion." During this program, persons will share in some of the rituals of mankind and celebrate the joy of being alive.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

San Francisco Programs

April 29 An Evening Discussion
AN EVENING WITH PAUL REPS

Every night you enter deep sleep, free from I. Paul Reps invites you to enter deep wake, free from I in an eclectic evening of discovery and the merging of your subjective and objective worlds.
Reps, whose numerous books include Zen Flesh, Zen Bones and 10 Ways to Meditate (No Need to Kill), lives in Hawaii when he is not moving from country to country giving shows of his picture-poems. An ardent anti-guru, he claims we are already free.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m.
Thurs., April 29. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

April 30-May 2 Weekend Workshop
THE BODY OF GOD: THE BIOLOGICAL ROOTS OF SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE
Stanley Keleman and Richard Rubenstein

Stanley Keleman writes: "We are our bodies; our understanding of the universe innately involves our biological existence." Richard Rubenstein writes: "We do not have bodies; we are our bodies."
In this workshop, the group will explore the relationship between bodily experience and religious insight. Utilizing the bioenergetic approach, Stanley Keleman will facilitate group exercises to bring about direct experience of energetic states in participants. The resultant physical-emotional experiences will be the starting point for a new evaluation of spiritual depth and the teachings of Judaism and Christianity. Limited to 25 persons.
$80 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 30.

April 30-May 2 Weekend Workshop
A WAY OF CENTERING — AND USING IT Benjamin and Judyth Weaver

The Weavers describe their workshop as follows: "We will work to find our centers and explore ways of relating and using them in everyday life. Through breathing and sensing and meditation, we will tune into our physical being, our centers, our selves. From center, we may move out into the discovery of our own dance — our own natural, spontaneous movements." Participants should wear loose, comfortable clothing.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 30.

April 30-May 2 Weekend Workshop
A TIME TO GROW Arthur Hough and Evelyn Jernberg

In describing this workshop Art Hough writes: "We long for growth but hang back from it as well, living day to day within the easy limitations of our habits. It is hard to grow alone. Most of the growth we seek comes out of the rhythm of community, advancing and withdrawing, interacting and processing that interaction. This workshop offers a variety of techniques to intensify the growth process and to examine the blocks that retard it — group interaction, communication games, and exercises in self-awareness, listening, feedback and spontaneity. The program is not encounter. The aim is to loosen the deeper communication blocks of hidden dogmatism, risk refusal and build techniques and insights that can be absorbed for use within an individual's intimate community."
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 30.

May 3, 10, 17, 34, 31: ENCOUNTER SERIES Robert Cromey.
See Continuing Programs, page 21.

May 5 An Evening Discussion and Participation
THE PRACTICE OF AWARENESS: GESTALT EXERCISES FOR DAILY USE John Enright

An introduction to gestalt awareness training, emphasizing methods of tuning in to self and world that can be used in life situations, ad. lib.
Sponsored by U.C.S.F. Committee on Arts and Lectures.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, May 5.
Millberry Union, U.C. Medical Center, 3rd Ave. & Parnassus, San Francisco.

May 6, 13, 20, 27: CULTURAL GESTALTS Joan McKenna.
See Continuing Programs, page 21.

May 7-9 Weekend Workshop
COMMUNICATION CHECK-UP FOR PARENTS AND TEENAGERS Gerald Smith

In every family there are tacit rules for communicating, such as which subjects are appropriate for discussion and which are not, and how "no" is said. This workshop will center on a systematic check-up of the communication rules of each family, concluding in an evaluation of strengths as well as areas for possible change and improvement. Essentially, this will be a preventative experience, since focus will be on the present, not on past difficulties.
This workshop is for parents (single or married partners) and their children, ages 12 to 20. Limited to 8 families.
$70 per family. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 7.

May 7-9: THE GESTALT THEATRE OF THE SELF John Enright and Lynn Kaufman.
See Gestalt, page 20.

May 7-9: ESALEN STAFF ENCOUNTER Helen Stephens. See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

May 8-9 Weekend Workshop
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS Martha Crampton

The workshop will introduce some of the fundamental concepts and methods of work in psychosynthesis, with emphasis on the transpersonal stages and the processes of inner purification and guidance. Creative symbolism (in the form of mental imagery, mudra or gesture, and spontaneous movement or drawing) will be used as a bridge to the inner worlds, as well as more direct ways which transcend the symbolic or image-making level. A group climate will be fostered in which energy fields may combine to enhance transpersonal contact. Participants are requested to bring a notebook for writing and colored crayons or markers.
$50 per person. Begins 10 a.m., Saturday, May 8.

May 10 An Evening Lecture
PERSONAL ASTROLOGY FOR THE AQUARIAN AGE Marc Edmund Jones

Marc Edmund Jones is a father of an astrology for the creation of a new consciousness, which is now coming into public view. He holds a doctorate in philosophy from Columbia and has spent the last fifty years studying and writing about various branches of science and psychology, occultism and religion. He founded the Sabian Assembly in 1923.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday, May 10.

May 14-16 Weekend Workshop
MASSAGE AND MOVEMENT Gabrielle Roth

Many massage techniques will be demonstrated and taught; however, emphasis will be on finding your own rhythm and creating your own massage.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 14.

May 14-16 Weekend Marathon
BEYOND GAMES: ENCOUNTER FOR COMMUNICATORS Richard Marsh and Ronald Jones

Whether you are a professional communicator or not, you must communicate to live. Communication is a basic human and cosmic process, and encounter — with the self, with others, with the more-than-other — is its goal. This marathon encounter group will alternate between periods of unstructured spontaneity and periods of structured sensory, self and social games. Purpose of the games: to lead beyond themselves to the ecstasy of unselfconscious communication. Bring a sleeping bag for rest periods during the marathon.
$80 per person, including meals and snacks. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 14 and continues for 45 hours or longer. Includes a follow-up meeting approximately one month later.

 For Biographies, see pp. 34-37

May 14-16 Weekend Workshop
TOWARD DEEPER DIMENSIONS IN ENCOUNTER Gordon Clough

An exploration of mind sensitivity. Religio-philosophical beliefs may be either static or dynamic, the latter projecting toward self-actualization. The group will alternate, experimentally, from the activity of philosophy to the experiential in personal confrontation. This largely unexamined field of interaction will be explored in part by reference to Eastern religio-philosophy, by discussion of unusual communities (e.g., Synanon) and by discussion of both in relation to the writings of certain humanist thinkers.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 14.

May 15: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN: ONE DAY The Esalen Staff.
See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

May 15-16 Couples' Weekend Workshop
THE EXPANDING RELATIONSHIP John and Rebecca Fuller Rinn

Most couples limit their style of interaction to a few roles (usually learned from their parents) and thus leave a lot of excitement (fear, anger, grief, joy, etc.) out of their lives. The Rinns' workshop has developed out of their experience in dance and psychotherapy and has been designed to bring couples into contact with a full spectrum of motions and emotions.
$90 per couple. Begins 10 a.m., Saturday, May 15.

May 17 An Evening Lecture
ATHLETICS FOR WHAT? David Meggyesy

A critique of American sport today, and its dehumanizing aspects, by David Meggyesy, former linebacker for the National Football League's St. Louis Cardinals and author of the recently published and controversial book Out of Their League. Meggyesy will also explore various ways in which sport can be made a better vehicle for self-expression, personal growth and enhancement of the body.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday, May 17.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

May 17 Evening Lecture and Demonstration
PSYCHOPHYSICAL INTEGRATION Robert Hall

Robert Hall is a medical doctor, psychiatrist, gestalt therapist, practitioner of Rolf's structural integration and a student of meditation. He will approach human wholeness and unity from his varied perspectives and experience. Sponsored by U.C.S.F. Committee on Arts and Lectures.
$3 general; $2 student. 7:30 to 10:00 p.m., Monday, May 17.
Millberry Union, U.C. Medical Center, 3rd Avenue & Parnassus, San Francisco.

7:30 to 10:30 p.m., $6 per person. See Continuing Programs, page 22.

May 21-23 Residential Weekend Workshop
EDUCATION FOR REBIRTH Dane Rudhyar, Jose Arguelles, Miriam Arguelles

This program will include general group participation and discussion. The weekend will organize itself around the following concerns: the threefold process of human unfoldment — education, instruction, initiation (Rudhyar); education in an instruction-oriented learning situation (Jose Arguelles); from birth to rebirth (Miriam Arguelles).
$65 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 21.

May 21-23: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

May 22-23, June 5-6 and June 19-20 A Three-Weekend Series
BIOENERGETIC ANALYSIS Stanley Keleman

These workshops are an exploration of the biological hindrances (i.e., muscular contractions) that prevent self-expression or limit our being in the world. There is an attempt to re-experience our biological protoplasmic streamings that are our feeling roots and self-knowing.

Enrollment is limited to twelve participants. All participants must commit themselves to the series of three weekends, May 22-23, June 5-6 and June 19-20; workshop sessions begin at 10 a.m. each of the Saturday mornings.

$175 per person for the series. Nonrefundable deposit of $100 required.

May 26: ENERGY AWARENESS: An Evening Workshop.
7:30 to 10:30 p.m., $6 per person. See Continuing Programs, page 22.

May 27 An Experiential Program
GESTALT THERAPY: AN INTRODUCTION Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner

An experience of gestalt methods, with particular emphasis on their use in large groups.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday.

First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

May 28-31: RESIDENTIAL STAFF ENCOUNTER Pamela Portugal.
See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

May 29-30 Weekend Workshop
ATHLETICS FOR WHAT? David Meggyesy

The Grecian conception of sport was that of the amateur. Sport was conceived of as a way for individual self-expression and a means for self awareness — an integrative activity. Most sport played today in America is antithetical to the classical conception of athletic activity. There is in this country an emphasis on winning (the product) and the teaching of competition. Sport ceases to become an integrative activity but rather is conceived of as a training ground for learning the "values" of competition, authoritarianism, physical aggression and winning.

In this workshop we will examine the role of sport in society, particularly concerning ourselves with the spectator, how and why he personally identifies so closely with sport, sport heroes and particular teams. We will also examine the contemporary athletic experience, the nature of competition and winning and discover why or why not this is important in "character and development."

The workshop will include encounter, physical competition and body movement to develop ideas about forms of athletic activity that are more consistent with the classical conception of sport. Some scholarships are available to persons actively engaged in athletics. Inquire at the Esalen office.

$40 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, May 29-30.

May 29-31 Extended Residential Weekend Workshop
MASSAGE WORKSHOP Laurent Frantz, Eva Jalkotzy, George Downing

This three-day workshop in massage instruction will also include some beginning practice in meditation, hatha yoga and breathing exercises.

Laurent Frantz is a certified massage technician who teaches in the Bay Area; Eva Jalkotzy is a professional physical therapist as well as a masseuse; and George Downing, former philosophy professor, is an experienced instructor in both yoga and massage.

$90 per person, including room and meals.

Begins 10 a.m., Saturday and ends Monday following lunch.

June 3 An Evening Experience
WHAT TO DO TILL THE MESSIAH COMES
Bernard Gunther

Sense relaxation, awareness, movement, meditation, verbal and nonverbal communication; integration; flowing free toward a higher consciousness energy. A new way to be: with yourself and others. $3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m. Thurs., June 3. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

June 4-6 Residential Weekend Workshop
EXPERIENCES FOR THE MIND'S EYE Robert McKim

Capacity for visual imagery, important to many forms of creative behavior, is allowed to atrophy (or is even actively repressed) by contemporary education. This workshop is based on an integrated series of exercises which Professor McKim has collected and developed to restore vitality to the visual imagination. Participants will begin with "mind's eye-openers"; relaxation, sensory awakening and massage. They will then build self-confidence in their imaging ability with after-images and group fantasy. Meditation techniques and tachistoscopic (flashing) images will develop concentration: experiences with synasthesia (combining sense modes) will intensify imagery. Finally, the mind's eye will be exercised by creative action. Wear old clothes (we'll use art materials).
$65 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 4.

June 4-6 Weekend Workshop
COUPLES IN COMMUNICATION Bill and Audrey McGaw

This workshop will provide an opportunity for married or engaged couples to explore marriage, not as an institution, but as an extremely vital and personal way of life. The McGaws will concentrate on the positive aspects of partnership, increased understanding of self and mate, and deeper, more meaningful communication. Participating couples should expect to spend 20 to 25 hours in group sessions over the workshop period.
$115 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 4.

June 4-6 Residential Weekend Workshop
OPEN ENCOUNTER FOR SINGLES Robert Cromey

A workshop based on encounter methods for unattached singles who want to go beyond possible blocks of fear, boredom and indifference and to discover new ways of moving more creatively into relationships. Focus will be on such issues as letting go of relationships that are over, loneliness of the single life, the acquaintance process and pursuit of a new partner, coping with rejection and disappointment and the meaning of commitment in a relationship.
Workshop participants, as far as possible, will be chosen to assure a balance of sex and age. Please state age on application. Limited to 40 participants.
Some members of the Extended Growth Program (San Francisco) will assist as group facilitators with Robert Cromey.
$65 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 4.

June 7: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday. See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

June 9: ENERGY AND SPIRITUAL GROWTH: An Evening Workshop.
7:30 to 10:30 p.m., $6 per person. See Continuing Programs, page 22.

June 11-13 Weekend Workshop
VIDEOTAPE WORKSHOP: LONELINESS & ALIENATION Stephen B. Lawrence & Staff

An increasing number of individuals are experiencing the pain of loneliness, isolation, lack of involvement and helplessness that occurs as we pass through the impersonal institutions of our age. During this session, participants will develop novel and practical methods of gaining intimacy with others. Experimental encounter group techniques facilitating intimacy and growth will be utilized and videotape recordings of participants interacting with each other will be available for viewing and in-depth discussion.
$50 per person. Begins 7:30 p.m., Friday, June 11.

June 11-13: GESTALT WEEKEND FOR PROFESSIONALS Robert Resnick.
See Gestalt, page 20.

June 11-13 Weekend Workshop
BEING AND BECOMING AT MIDSTREAM William Golden, Jr. and Helen Ross

This encounter group is for those over 35 — for those who have reached certain goals and who at midstream are asking: "Where am I?" "Is it too late to change?" "How do I get moving again?" "What's left in life for me?"
This workshop will use a wide variety of encounter methods to help participants focus on the subjective experience of being "middle-aged". It will be an opportunity for those over 35 to reflect on where they have been, to share peak experiences and blocks to growing, and to relight a spark for living. The weekend will endeavor to help all participants become more aware of their potential for new ventures and personal growth. Specific structured group experiences will be used to highlight "life-goal" planning and action steps related to attaining the goals.

June 11-13: ART EXPRESSION AND ENCOUNTER Tom Allen. See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

June 12: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN: ONE DAY The Esalen Staff.

June 17 An Experiential Session
ENCOUNTER FOR TWO Gerald Smith

A variety of verbal and nonverbal experiences for couples (not necessarily married) who want to learn new ways of adding life and increased understanding to their relationship.
$5 per couple. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, June 17.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

June 18-19: GESTALT WORKSHOP FOR WOMEN ONLY
Cynthia Werthman and Estelle Resnick. See Gestalt, page 20.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS Jim and Susan Vargiu

The Vargius write: "In this workshop we will emphasize the aspects of psychosynthesis which lead to greater unity, which can be used for integrating the encounter experience into something more. Psychosynthesis is not primarily expansion or experience — it is a way of pulling it all together. It is an approach which fosters the balanced development of body, feelings and mind and their harmonious integration around a unifying center of being and awareness, the Transpersonal Self. We will reach toward this higher Self by consulting the best-self within each of us, and will attempt to use its energy and guidance for a more joyful and effective actualization of the unfolding meaning, value and direction in the life of each. We will use techniques of movement, visual imagery, writing, symbolic art work, mental concentration and meditation. Our emphasis will not be on producing immediate breakthroughs, although this often occurs, but rather on initiating a gradual process of growth that, with continuing application, can gain increasing momentum and ultimately become a life-style."

Leaders' Biographies

TOM ALLEN, an artist, teaches at Cabrillo College. Since his year as an Esalen resident fellow, he has concentrated on developing workshop processes that nurture authentic being and rich interpersonal contact. He sees art not as an isolated speciality, but as one of the many ways to self-realization.

JOSE ARGUELLES, and his wife, MIRIAM, are co-creators of Mandalas, both as painting and as ritual. Dr. Arguelles is Assistant Professor of Art History at University of California, Davis.

ANNE ARMSTRONG, a clairvoyant from Sacramento, uses her abilities for deep level analysis of personal problems and for guidance in the growth of the inner life.

ESLY BARRERAS is a psychiatrist and gestalt therapist in private practice in Berkeley. He is a director and training therapist at the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco.

WILLIAM BRIDGES is Associate Professor of American Literature at Mills College, Oakland. He is also director of the AHP Summer Workshop for College Teachers, researcher, practitioner and consultant in humanistic education.

LOIS BRIEN is a gestalt therapist and communication consultant. Dr. Brien is a member of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco and was formerly an assistant professor of speech communication at Case Western Reserve University.

GEORGE I. BROWN, Professor of Education, teaches courses in creativity, awareness and sensitivity training at the University of California at Santa Barbara. He is a nationally known researcher in the affective domain and creativity.

JUDITH R. BROWN, co-trainer with her husband, trained with Frederick S. Perls with whom she worked as a co-therapist.

SEYMOUR CARTER, a former resident of Synanon, is a leader of Esalen workshops and a massage specialist. In his work he draws on a variety of approaches to awareness. He has been trained in structural integration by Ida Rolf.

GORDON CLOUGH was a writer for two religio-philosophical journals for several years, and served as review and education editor of Manas Weekly from 1948-1967. He has also lectured abroad and has coordinated programs and taught a variety of courses for University of California, Santa Barbara, Extension Division.

MARTHA CRAMPTON is a psychotherapist and group leader on the faculty of the Graduate School of Education at Sir George Williams University in Montreal. She has studied with Dr. R. Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and directs the Canadian Centre for Psychosynthesis.

ROBERT CROMEY is an experienced group leader, teacher of massage and sensory experiences. He completed the Esalen Residential Program at Big Sur in 1969. He has worked as a priest, politician, administrator and counsellor.

AL DRUCKER was a resident fellow in the first Esalen Residence Program. He now lives in Big Sur where he leads workshops and practices structural integration.

JOHN ENRIGHT is vice president of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco. His current directions are the application of gestalt methods to as many areas of life as possible, and integration with psychodrama.

JAMES FADIMAN is an educational and management consultant. He is a lecturer in Design Engineering and a psychological counselor at Stanford University. Dr. Fadiman is also associate editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and the Journal of Humanistic Psychology.

ROBERT FRAGER is Assistant Professor of Psychology at University of California at Santa Cruz. He studied Aikido at the International Headquarters, Tokyo, under the founder Master Morihei Ueshiba, and holds the rank of third degree black belt. He also teaches karma and raja yoga.

BETTY FULLER is Esalen's director of Consulting Services and a former resident fellow. Her background, in addition to encounter group work here and abroad, includes teaching and several years in radio, television and theatre.

WILLIAM P. GOLDEN, JR., is Professor of Public Health at the University of Hawaii. He has been working with encounter groups, T-groups and sensitivity groups since the early 50s, and is a consultant on organizational development for business, government and other agencies.

June 25-27 Weekend Workshop
DRAMA WITH THE WORLD Michael Harner

This is not an encounter group. Anthropologist Michael Harner, will use the small group setting to explore participants' relationships to mankind, technology and the resources of nature. This is an "ecodrama" in which man's encounter with himself and the world will be intensified. At the end, we will consider the possibilities for the development of human societies. Materials will include six plastic bottles of Vitalis hair lotion, a ball of cotton strings, thirty-five brown paper bags, hammers, saws, lumber and peanut butter. A more complete list will be sent to participants upon registration.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 25.

June 25-27 and July 23-25 Two Residential Weekends
REALITY AND ILLUSION: LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE George I. and Judith Brown

These workshops will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples (involved in or contemplating marriage), to the relationship. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness, followed by gestalt awareness training.
The initial workshop, June 25-27, will be combined with a follow-up workshop on July 23-25. All participants must commit themselves to both workshops. Both are residential; participants will be informed of exact location upon registration. First session begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 25.
$140 per person for both weekends, including room and meals. Non-refundable deposit of $70 required.

June 26 Saturday Workshop
GRAPHOTHERAPY: PEN AND PENCIL THERAPY Paul de Sainte Colombe

This one-day seminar will be an introduction to graphotherapy, an outgrowth of graphology, or handwriting analysis. Graphotherapy, a system which claims treatment of character deficiencies and emotional ills by changing handwriting patterns, has been explored clinically in France but is relatively unknown in this country. Mr. de Sainte Colombe will explain the graphotherapeutic approach and will present some of his case histories.
$18 per person. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. (with break for lunch), Saturday, June 26.

June 30: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Wednesday. See Encounter, pp. 18-19.

July 2-5 Extended Residential Weekend Workshop
THE LANGUAGE OF MOVEMENT Gabrielle Roth

A workshop in getting to know your inner self by using movement and rituals to explore feelings, dreams and to rediscover the childspirit of your soul.
$90 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday and ends following lunch on Monday.

SAN FRANCISCO INFORMATION

San Francisco area programs include regular seminars and workshops, lectures and symposia, continuing groups and occasional special events. Information, literature and tickets for lectures may be obtained Monday through Friday, 9:30 to 4:30, at 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Tickets obtained by mail will indicate the exact location and time of events; when not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door. No programs are held at our offices, but several facilities in the Bay Area are used, including First Unitarian Church (San Francisco) and the Berkeley Center for Human Interaction (Berkeley). Participants will be informed of workshop location at time of registration and confirmation.

WORKSHOP REGISTRATION: Advance registration is required ten days prior to start of program. A nonrefundable deposit of $20 per person, unless otherwise stated, must accompany a reservation form or letter sent to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, 1776 Union, San Francisco 94123. Balance of tuition is payable at the first session of the program. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur.

SCHEDULES: Specific meeting times for weekend workshops are announced at the first meeting. Usually, however, workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sundays. Schedules are not rigid and specific meeting times are established at the group's first session.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Residential seminars include meals and lodging. For other programs, each participant must reserve his own accommodations at local hotels or motels. Unless stated otherwise, meals are not provided at workshops.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes for men.

WAITING LISTS: Names are placed on waiting lists in cases of over-subscription or when demanded by workshop requirements. Registrants placed on such a list will be informed immediately and deposit checks held. Checks will be returned if reservation cannot be confirmed or upon request by persons not wishing to be on a waiting list. Notification of reservation status will be sent no later than seven days before workshop begins.

GERALD SMITH is a family therapist in San Mateo, California. He has taught his approaches at numerous agencies and recently completed a book entitled Encounter for Two.

EVELYN SOLOMON is a graduate student in leadership and human behavior, has led many groups at universities and growth centers, in addition to co-leading couples groups with her husband, Larry.

LAWRENCE N. SOLOMON, clinical psychologist, is presently teaching university graduate courses and developing a humanistically oriented training program for psychotherapists, co-editing a book on encounter groups and consulting with a number of community and municipal organizations.

JACOB STATTMAN is an instructor in humanistic psychology at the San Francisco Art Institute and is also director of the San Francisco Encounter Center and the Rivendell Center for Integrative Education. Trained in several growth disciplines, he leads groups here and in London.

HELEN STEPHENS is a former Esalen resident fellow, the mother of a prospering family and a leader of Esalen encounter groups.

CHARLES T. TART is Associate Professor of Psychology at University of California, Davis. He has conducted extensive research into sleeping and dreaming, hypnosis, ESP and drugs. Dr. Tart is editor of Altered States of Consciousness: A Book of Readings.

R. GERALD THATCHER, an Esalen staff member for six years, is an author, musician and amateur astrologer.

JOHN ULLMAN has led numerous encounter groups and massage workshops in the Bay Area.

JIM VARGIU, and his wife SUSAN, are the directors of the Psychosynthesis Institute, Palo Alto, California. They were trained in Italy by Roberto Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and have lectured and given workshops in this country and in Europe. They are presently working with self-actualizing and gifted adolescents and are training people in the helping professions in the use of psychosynthesis.

BENJAMIN WEAVER was for two years director of Esalen/Big Sur. He is also a former Esalen resident fellow.

JUDITH WEAVER is a student of Charlotte Selver and Magda Proskauer and has a background in modern dance, t'ai chi chuan and the dance of Kubuki and Noh.

SY WEISMAN is an artist who has exhibited widely on the West Coast and elsewhere. He is currently a Lecturer in Art at San Jose State College.

CYNTHIA WERTHMAN is a psychiatric social worker who uses the gestalt method in private practice in Berkeley and at the Family Therapy Institute, San Rafael. She is a director of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco.

SHARON WHEELER is a masseuse in residence at Esalen/Big Sur.

DONNA YABLONSKY has worked in psychodrama for ten years. She has been accredited as a psychodrama director by the Moreno Academy of New York.

LEWIS YABLONSKY is president of the California Institute of Psychodrama in Los Angeles and is an accredited psychodramatist who has worked with J.L. Moreno for over 20 years. He is also professor of sociology and the author of Synanon: The Tunnel Back and The Hippie Trip.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recorded tapes of many past Esalen programs are available. This service, originally developed to provide archive copies for Esalen, rapidly became of use to organizations requesting recordings of lectures and seminars, training tapes of techniques and methods, demonstration workshop sequences, and experiential programs. Requests now come from educational institutions, public and private libraries, religious bodies and professional groups with funds for a recording library concerned with the human potential. Commercial use is prohibited; all rights are reserved. Recording, editing and distribution of tapes is performed by Big Sur Recordings, from whom a complete catalog may be obtained. The cost of recordings is $10.00 per tape-hour, stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette. Write BIG SUR RECORDINGS, Inc., 117 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael, Calif. 94903.

PUBLICATION AND BROADCAST RIGHTS to all lectures delivered at Esalen Institute meetings and workshops belong to Esalen and no use of such material is to be made without the express written permission of one of the Directors in each occurrence of such use.

VIDEOTAPES AND 16mm FILMS of Dr. Frederick S. Perls' demonstrations of gestalt therapy and Alexander Lowen's demonstrations of bio-energetic analysis are available for professional use from MEDIASYNC, P.O. Box 486, Del Mar, California 92014. Films of Dr. Perls' work are also available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 205 West Twentieth Street, Santa Ana, California 92706 along with films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow and Virginia Satir. For list of films of Alan Watts and Huston Smith and many others, write: Association for Humanistic Psychology, 584 Page Street, San Francisco 94117.

MICROFILM records of Esalen history, brochures and publications are available through MICROBIZ, 590 Howard Street, San Francisco, California 94105.

ESALEN PROGRAMS is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a nonprofit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA and KQED) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has a dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, as well as KPFT Houston and WBAI New York City, broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides. A series of 12 one-hour programs titled "The Scope of Human Potential" was released for broadcast in 1969-70 through National Educational Radio Network to its affiliates. A second series will explore "Religion, Eastern Mysticism and Metaphysics" during 1971. Future series will focus on encounter and education as well as the creative value of madness. Inquire of your local educational radio stations.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please also see membership form (opposite page 36).

ESALEN BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS: Written materials of particular significance associated with the programs of Esalen Institute are available at the Big Sur center. Selections include work produced at Esalen as well as writings of a number of past seminar leaders. Direct inquiries to Esalen Books, Esalen Institute, San Francisco.

ACCREDITATION AND THE USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have recently involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs; our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools. For the information of the public, we do maintain a consulting service, under the direction of Betty Fuller, that will furnish information about leaders.

SPECIAL MEMBERS' PROGRAMS in the San Francisco Bay Area this spring will include the following guest lecturers. Membership newsletters will contain further details.

Bernard Gunther — Thursday, April 29, 8 p.m.
James Fadiman — Thursday, May 20, 8 p.m.
Stanley Keleman — Thursday, June 17, 8 p.m.

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATION AND TICKET ORDER

This form is for your convenience in preparing attendance at Esalen seminars, workshops and lectures. You may use it for Big Sur (South Coast Center and Esalen) or San Francisco area programs, although it is suggested that you make reservations independently at each location rather than place a "mixed" order. You will receive a new order form with your tickets or confirmation of reservations. Please do make reservations early; some seminars are booked to capacity months in advance.

ESALEN INSTITUTE MEMBERSHIPS

The continuing work of Esalen Institute is funded virtually in toto through tuitions paid by those attending workshops and seminars — but research, future development and expansion depend greatly upon funds assured through Memberships and special grants.

As a Member, you enjoy a tuition reduction of $10 at every seminar and workshop you attend, including encounter groups, plus opportunity to participate in occasional gatherings with Esalen officers, leaders and project coordinators. You are also kept informed of new developments and programs via a special newsletter.

You may wish to consider tax-deductible Membership either for yourself or as a fitting gift in the name of another.

Those friends of Esalen interested in sustaining the Institute in a more substantial way may wish to discuss details of this matter with the Director of Development, Dr. Stuart Miller. The legal counsel of the Institute is also available to discuss various details of gifts and bequests, including tax arrangements. Individual attention can be given in these ways to the particular wishes of donors and the current needs of the Institute.

Please complete Membership and Gift Order Form on other side.

ESALEN INSTITUTE
is a center to explore those trends in the behavioral sciences, religion and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops such as the ones described in this brochure, research and consulting programs, and a residential program exploring new directions in education and the behavioral sciences.

SPECIAL SERVICES AND PROGRAMS

Esalen Consulting Service is developing resources to assist those individuals, groups and organizations wishing to apply the various approaches to human development presented in our seminars and workshops. Programs and leaders have thus far been provided to various community, governmental, religious, industrial and education groups.

Esalen Residence Program: The seventh series will be offered at Big Sur in Fall 1971. For further information see page 10.

Extended Growth Program: A six-month personal growth program in the San Francisco Area will begin in April 1971. For further information, see page 17.

NEWS

ESALEN: A STATEMENT TOWARDS CLARIFICATION

Esalen has come to be thought of in a number of ways — in so many, in fact, that we sometimes speak of ourselves as "Inkblot Institute." Among these projected "identities" and our relation to them are:

A "sensitivity training" center. This is a term we rarely, if ever, have used. That increased sensitivity is a hoped for outcome in many programs is, of course, true.

A "growth center." We recognize that the "growth center movement" has largely developed in relation to Esalen. We still best consider ourselves to be an evolving kind of school for experimental education and not a place that can, in any sense, promise a particular result.

A psychiatric hospital. On one occasion the Miami police called asking if a person then in their custody had "escaped" from our "institution". We are not a hospital and do not give the type of "care" or "treatment" identified with one. Our programs are oriented toward growth rather than pathology and we believe explicitly so. The statement made in relation to Gestalt Workshops is applicable to all programs: "The assumption is made that participants are not "patients" but are persons responsible for their own life decisions." Anyone not willing to make such an assumption about himself should find resources other than those we presently offer.

Particular identifications with one or another of the areas of work in which we have been involved such as encounter or gestalt or sensory awakening or structural integration. Here our function has been to facilitate the development of work in those and other areas but we are not solely involved in only one or two of them.

A religious center or retreat. This is true to the extent that an individual chooses to make it so. Historically Esalen began largely out of the founders' interest in Eastern philosophy and spiritual practice and part of the program remains focused in those areas.

A training center for mental health and teaching professionals. We have no formal training programs although the residence programs have, in fact, developed a number of group leaders. These roles are better understood as those of educators and not of psychiatric or social work practitioners. We do have particular programs that are especially directed to psychiatrists, social workers, teachers and so forth. Hopefully many of our programs offer enriching possibilities to these and many other professions.

We have left out a number of derogatory projections in relation to Esalen (and also some equally unrealistic eulogizing ones). Perhaps the best brief definition remains that which has appeared in our brochure for a number of years: "Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in the behavioral sciences, religion, and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence." In this area we have been a forum, and it is primarily this we hope to remain.

ESALEN AND EDUCATION

In 1967/68, George Brown met with a devoted group of teachers to investigate the use of Esalen techniques in education. This first investigation of what has become known as confluent education was funded by the Ford Foundation and is now presently written up in Dr. Brown's Human Teaching for Human Learning (see page 38). Dr. Brown has more recently been granted over a quarter of a million dollars to further investigate, define and apply confluent education. Esalen has received a sub-grant in this project to relate confluent education to the teaching of elementary school reading. Under the direction of Sukie Miller, working with 14 teachers and principals, the three-year program will be spent in training, with regular Esalen workshop experience and meetings spent in discussion and classroom planning. The teachers are responsible for keeping a complete journal of their experience from which may be compiled a year-end report and a projection for the next two years. Further, funds are being sought which will allow project members to involve themselves in specific disciplines more intensively than present weekends have provided.

This year teachers participated in special workshops in gestalt, encounter, body awareness, psychosynthesis, and affective education. The coming year is expecting to include training in body disciplines such as aikido, tai chi, Alexander Method, rolfing and exposure to physiological feedback processes and computer education.

Director Sukie Miller explains the project as "a pilot study with the goal of relating the Esalen techniques to the teaching of reading for children — and as part of this year we have been developing specific techniques and lesson plans. We are not sure where it will all lead — perhaps to an Esalen school in several years, or simply a group of happier, wiser teachers."

As a culmination to this year's work, the Ford-Esalen project will be leading two weekend workshops reporting on the year's work and sharing with participants, experientially and didactically. At this moment no further written information on the project is available, but much more information will be shared during the weekend workshops entitled: Giraffe, or How to Teach Reading Confluently. These workshops, and other "Workshops for Educators" in Esalen's second annual program series, are described on pages 18-19.

APPROACHES TO PERSONAL GROWTH: SOME DESCRIPTIONS

Because so many of Esalen's programs are experiential, we have been asked by many people who are new to Esalen to differentiate among a number of approaches that seem, at first glance, so similar. The various disciplines being practiced at Esalen have influenced one another so that the task of producing an encounter group totally free from gestalt techniques, for example, is impossible. Furthermore, different practitioners of various disciplines stress different aspects. What follows is, therefore, not a scientific statement but rather a first attempt at making some rough distinctions among a number of approaches. (And we welcome suggestions for improved descriptions).

Encounter Groups: The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing in their statements and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. Generally, in Esalen encounter groups, participants are encouraged and helped to express their feelings about themselves and other members of the group through nonverbal as well as verbal means. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontation between participants; the point is to allow participants to explore and work through such emotions rather than retreat from them. The focus of encounter groups is on exploring interpersonal relations, and the expression and exploration of self through interpersonal relations ("the between and the within"). Techniques and approaches such as gestalt therapy, sensory awareness and those exploring fantasy and inner imagery may be added to the basic encounter situation.

Gestalt Training: Participants meet in a group of between eight and twenty, or more, always with a leader. Generally, the leader works with one person at a time, while other members observe or participate minimally, as compared with, for example, encounter groups. The aim of gestalt training is to increase a person's awareness of the instant moment and to further, thereby, his personality integration by having him acknowledge his responsibility for how he exists at any given moment. Emphasis is placed on having a participant explore his dreams, fantasies, expectations, gestures, voice and other aspects of personal functioning, by enacting them before the group. By so doing he becomes aware of the unity of his organism — mind, body, emotions and feelings.

Sensory Awakening and Sensory Awareness: The focus of these disciplines is on the body. The leader directs the group in a series of exercises designed to broaden and deepen the participant's awareness of his sensory existence, including awareness of his own body, nature and energy. Occasionally this is followed by encounter-style discussion of the participants' experience, but the emphasis, in any case, is nonverbal.

Meditation: Participants in meditation exercises generally meet in groups, but the focus of meditation is inward. The leader directs the group in exercises and then the group members may share their experiences. Meditation exercises are usually mental, though some forms of moving meditation, such as t'ai chi chuan, involve a concentrated awareness on the movements of the body. The aim of meditation is to break through ordinary consciousness to various levels of being, ranging from relaxed but alert awareness of self to the deepest levels of mystical experience in which the identity of self and cosmos become apparent.

Experience of Esalen programs join staff members and participants in an experience of each other and of the Institute, surrounded only by as much structure as the group wishes to create. Each member may choose to join a group or not, as he wishes; individual choices can go from intense encounter to silent meditation. No two Experience of Esalen workshops are alike, since the mix of staff resource availabilities and interests of group members varies with each workshop. Among the offerings are encounter, gestalt dream work, massage instruction, meditation, yoga, instruction in arts and crafts, Rolf treatments, body awareness, movement and astrology. Rolf treatments and massage are available only at extra cost; inquire when making reservations.

BIG SUR

PROGRAMS

A WORD ABOUT THE PROGRAMS AND FACILITIES AT BIG SUR

Esalen Institute now has the use of two facilities along the Big Sur Coast: its original home (also known as the Hot Springs) and the South Coast Center, one and a half miles north. Like Esalen itself, the South Coast Center is complete with meeting rooms, sleeping accommodations, dining room, pool and sauna. Persons attending programs at the South Coast are free to use the hot baths, pool and other facilities at Esalen if they wish. Program descriptions indicate whether a program is to be held at South Coast; programs without this designation will be held at the Hot Springs. All the information on page 14 applies to both of Esalen's Big Sur locations.

As a reminder, approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer at Esalen Institute. The programs at South Coast include community work of about six hours per week.

RESIDENCE PROGRAM

Beginning September 5, the two-week Open Residence Programs will be under the coordination of Betty Fuller, aided by members of the Esalen Staff. Persons interested in a Residence Program will be selected from these two-week workshops; program length and emphasis will vary according to individual need and direction. Preference will be given to persons who can potentially contribute to one or another of Esalen's work. This new on-going Residence Program is based on the model of Fritz Perls' Lake Cowichan experiment and differs markedly from past, more formalized Esalen Residence Programs. For more information write to Esalen/Big Sur.

EIGHTH ANNUAL PROFESSIONAL PSYCHOTHERAPIST TRAINING PROGRAM IN GESTALT THERAPY

Gestalt therapy, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is non-analytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through non-interpretive focusing in the here-and-now.
Gestalt therapists believe that people can change their behavior only if they are aware (responsible) of what and how they do what they do. The Aristotelian why-because "game" is rejected as another avoidance technique (phobic behavior).

August 1-14 TWO-WEEK PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP
with DRS. JAMES SIMKIN and ROBERT RESNICK

October 17-30 TWO-WEEK PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP with DRS. JAMES SIMKIN and ELAINE KEPNER

These workshops will provide theoretical as well as practical training in the application of the existential and phenomenological method for individual, group and self-treatment. The participants will have an opportunity to learn through facing and coping with their own personal problems. Attention will be primarily focused on phenomenology through the use of non-interpretive techniques. Audio-tape feedback and possibly video-tape feedback will be used as training tools.
Each two-week workshop is limited to 24 qualified professional psychotherapists, in individual or group practice, who are licensed or license-eligible in the state or country where they practice. Apply well in advance and state qualifications including academic, professional and experiential backgrounds. Mark envelopes "Attention of Gestalt Professional Workshop".
$650 per person for two-week period. Nonrefundable deposit of $250 required.

 For Biographies, see pp. 33-37

PROGRAMS WITH THE ESALEN STAFF

The four-week, two-week and one-week programs listed below will be led by members of the Esalen staff and by visiting teachers and group leaders. Esalen/San Francisco staff will also be drawn upon.

Big Sur Staff includes: Jean Butler, Michael Butler, Deborah Carson, Seymour Carter, Roberta DeLong, Jack Downing, Al Drucker, Betty Fuller, Ann Heider, Lynn Johnson, Janet Lederman, Milton Lees, William Leigh, John Lilly, Theodora Lyon, Hector Prestera, Richard Price, Carole Rosenblatt, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Julian Silverman, Steven Stroud, Simone Surpin, Gerald Thatcher and Sharon Wheeler.

Frank and Ilana Rubenfeld of the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy will be in residence during July and August. John Heider is on study leave for most of 1971.

FOUR-WEEK WORKSHOPS

July 4-31 and October 31-November 27
GESTALT AND STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION

Psychological dis-ease and physical tension are two aspects of one phenomenon. Gestalt training is an awareness-centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. Structural integration (rolfing) while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body process in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolf treatments as part of this workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.)
$875 per person. $400 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

October 3-30
FREEING THE BODY

This intensive program introduces various body-oriented disciplines such as massage training, the Rolf method of structural integration, movement, tai chi chuan, yoga and techniques based on the work of Wilhelm Reich. The aim is to give group members greater awareness of their physical structures and to demonstrate methods for achieving freer movement, more expressiveness and life feeling. There will be weekly sessions in gestalt and encounter to integrate the total experience.
$875 per person. $400 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

TWO-WEEK OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAMS

These programs center on encounter and gestalt-oriented work. Each two-week period includes additional opportunities in other experiential areas (such as bio-energetics, movement, massage and sensory awakening, depending on group interest and leader availability. All workshops have a structural integration (rolfing) demonstration; individual sessions are available at extra cost.

ONE-WEEK PROGRAMS

These week-long programs are led by Esalen staff members and combine two and sometimes more of the areas of work in which Esalen is involved. Emphasis is directed toward the first of the disciplines when two are indicated (e.g. Encounter and Movement). When only one is named (e.g. Open Gestalt), introduction is given to at least one other area according to group interest and leader availability.

PROGRAMS

June 27-July 3 One-Week Workshop
BOB & JOSE & JIM & CHARLEY Robert Ornstein, Jose Arguelles, James Fadiman, Charles Tart

A new conception of man's capacities is forming in psychology, art, physiology, philosophy and in an understanding of older esoteric disciplines.
The program leaders reflect this new understanding in various facets. In the use of mandala, in the significance of the I Ching, in psychosynthesis, in understanding paranormal phenomena, in physiological feedback training, meditation and stories of the Sufi tradition. Participants will have the opportunity both to experience many of these techniques and, additionally, to relate them to their current life and professional situations. $260 per person.

July 4-9 5-Day Workshop
REALITY AND ILLUSION: LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE George I. and Judith Brown

This workshop will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples (involved in or contemplating marriage), to the relationship. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness, followed by gestalt awareness training.
$255 per person.

July 4-10 One-Week Workshop
LIFE ENERGY Robert Nadeau

This workshop will consist of a wide variety of energy-freeing and energy-producing exercises. The intent of these exercises is to make each participant familiar with life energy so that he may use it as a tool for higher awareness. Some of the basic ideas and disciplines to be covered are energy flow and energy awareness, energy and its use in spiritual growth and in healing, and centering and the development of center. Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude and mental concentration, centering and moving from center, direct perception of energy and transferring energy to others. $260 per person.

July 11-17 One-Week Workshop
ANOTHER ASPECT OF GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING Jack and Leonne Downing

Utilizing familiar gestalt methods, combined with additional techniques from the Arica School of Oscar Ichazo, the Downings will work to increase participants' objective awareness of the concrete, actual world. $250 per person. (At South Coast Center).

July 11-17 One-Week Workshop
TAI CHI WORKSHOP Al Huang

Of the East: born in China, trained in tai chi chuan, kung-fu, kendo, cursive calligraphy and educated in Chinese classics and Buddhism. Of the West: B.A. in architecture, M.A. in choreography. Actor, mime, teacher-performer of creative dance.
The synthesis of the East-West of Al Huang's own experience is what the group will share. Tai chi is the tao, the way, the wisdom of our own nature, expressiveness with total spontaneity. $260 per person.

July 11-31 Three-Week Workshop
EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING: A WORKSHOP FOR EDUCATORS
Janet Lederman and Betty Fuller

The resolution of chaos to heal a torn society; to create a beginning through exploration into human differences, polarities and control madness.
You and me, us and them, ins and outs. Our experimental environment, the Esalen community, our focused awareness, our intent that each participant assume responsibility for being his own teacher, therapist, judge and appreciator. (Preference will be given to administrators and department heads). $750 per person.

July 18-22 Four-Day Workshop
SHANGRI-LA ON THE EDGE OF THE SEA Alan Watts

A contemplative retreat on one of California's most beautiful shorelines to generate beneficent vibrations and compassion for all beings through meditation, singing, dancing and joyous rituals, and for bottomless za-zen in harmony with the universe.
(Note: check-out time for this workshop is Thursday noon, July 22). $210 per person.

July 18-24 One-Week Workshop
GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING AND MEDITATION Claudio Naranjo

Claudio Naranjo writes: "I combine the modern techniques of gestalt training with ancient techniques of self-awareness, thus endeavoring to maintain a balance between working in the interpersonal domain and working in isolation from others; between contacting the environment and contacting one's deeper self. Hopefully, a better balance may be established between both." $250 per person. (At South Coast Center).

July 25-August 7 Two-Week Workshop
THE HUMAN BIOCOMPUTER John Lilly

As a result of his recent work with Oscar Ichazo in Arica, Chile, John Lilly has expanded his mind-brain-body biocomputer model of human nature to include the "essence". His new configuration is essence-self-computer-ego programs. Using methods derived from Eastern and Western mystical traditions as well as modern science, this program will work to move participants toward essence. (Recommended reading: The Human Biocomputer by John Lilly. Available for $1.50 by writing Esalen/San Francisco). $490 per person.

August 1-6 5-Day Workshop
REALITY AND ILLUSION:
LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE
George I. and Judith Brown

This workshop will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples (involved in or contemplating marriage), to the relationship. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness, followed by gestalt awareness training. $255 per person.

August 8-14 One-Week Workshop
HUMAN EDUCATION FOR HUMAN LEARNING Aaron and Rosemary Hillman

The merging and the process of education are called confluent education. Though directed toward the classroom teacher, the workshop is also appropriate for any educator, persons interested in education or as an individual growth experience. Gestalt awareness training will be an integral part of the program. Recommended reading: Human Teaching for Human Learning by George I. Brown. $250 per person. (At South Coast Center).

August 8-14 One-Week Workshop
GUILD OF HANDS WORKSHOP Tony Wagner, Craft Director and the Craft Staff

The "Barn" has traditionally been the artists' center at Esalen and for many years staff members have made it their studio. Recently Esalen's craftsmen began an ongoing program offering such diverse arts as leatherwork, welding, woodcarving and woodcut prints, batiking, macrame, jewelry, ojos de Dios, tie-dying, photography, ceramics and forging. Participants in this workshop will learn various crafts and will have access to the barn's facilities all day, every day, after-dinner hours included. $250 per person.

August 8-14 One-Week Workshop
"IT'S NOT FAR BUT I CAN'T FIND THE WAY" Huston and Kendra Smith

Exploration of Asian and Western ways to find it. Yoga, Zen, Tantra, I-Thou, Norman Brown. Theory (including brief daily readings) bracketed by morning meditation ('kindergarten zen') and evening encounter to bring the whole self into the quest.

$280 per person.

 For Biographies, see pp. 33-37

August 8-14: ANOTHER ASPECT OF GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING
Jack and Leonne Downing. See page 10 for description and cost. (At South Coast Center).

August 15-21 One-Week Workshop
MYTH AND IDENTITY Joseph Campbell and Sam Keen

Dialogue between practical and theoretical ways of discovering relationship between myth and identity. The workshop will explore the life stories of the individuals participating and search for their mythical dimensions. $280 per person.

August 15-21 One-Week Workshop
GESTALT, MOVEMENT AND MASSAGE Elaine Kepner and Gabrielle Roth

Many persons, in giving and receiving a massage, experience feelings of sadness, anger, hostility or joy, particular areas of muscular holding and blocked energy, and the emergence of past memories of pain and pleasure. Methods of gestalt will be used to deal with such emotional experiences, as they may occur, during the course of massage instruction. $240 per person.

August 15-28 Two-Week Workshop
CENTERING AND ENCOUNTER Carole Rosenblatt and Deborah Carson

The first week will focus on the methods of massage, yoga, movement and meditation to increase energy awareness and to explore the use of energies in becoming centered and quiet; the second week will emphasize methods of encounter and gestalt training. Participants will be encouraged to keep a journal of their workshop experience.
$450 per person.

August 22-28 One-Week Workshop
SOUND AND MOVEMENT Anne Heider and Gabrielle Roth

The group will experiment with spontaneous movement and sound, working toward a freer range of expression with body, voice and musical instruments. (Musicians, bring your instruments). No formal training in music or dance is necessary. $240 per person.

August 22-28 One-Week Workshop
MEDITATION Robert Nadeau

An intensive program for sincere spiritual seekers. Meditation for increased personal awareness of universal perfection. Instruction and practice in individual, partner and group meditation. Personal sessions to help the individual realize his higher self.
$250 per person. (At South Coast Center).

August 29-September 4 One-Week Workshop
THE EXPERIENCE OF ENVIRONMENT Lenore Schwartz and Noel Tichy

This workshop aims to help participants realize and practice the richest daily extension of their own emotional and esthetic world. The group will experiment with the arrangement of personal experience in form, space, color, sound, taste, smell, rituals and social forms, using group interaction methods to move from individual perception to community building. Of special interest to architects, designers and their spouses.
$250 per person. (At South Coast Center).

August 29-September 4: GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING AND MEDITATION
Claudio Naranjo. See page 11 for description. $260 per person. (At Esalen Institute).

August 29-September 11: THE HUMAN BIOCOMPUTER John Lilly.
See page 11 for program description and cost. (At Esalen Institute).

September 5-11 One-Week Workshop
MASSAGE, MEDITATION AND YOGA Deborah Carson

Through the meditation of hatha yoga and various other exercises, group members will become acquainted with their centers and the flow of body energies. Massage instruction, based on this energy awareness, will emphasize development of individual technique and rhythm. $240 per person.

September 5-11 One-Week Workshop
JOY & WOE
Carole Rosenblatt and Stanley Freitas

It is right it should be so;
Man was made for Joy & Woe;
And when this we rightly know
Thro' the World we safely go.
Joy & Woe are woven fine,
A clothing for the Soul divine.

(William Blake)

$220 per person.

September 12-18: ANOTHER ASPECT OF GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING Jack and Leonne Downing.
See page 10 for description. $260 per person. (At Esalen Institute).

September 12-25 Two-Week Workshop
MOVING INTO GESTALT Gabrielle Roth and Richard Price

A body and celebratory movement workshop, emphasizing body consciousness, combined with intensive gestalt work. The program will include other areas of body awareness, such as massage and bio-energetics. $450 per person.

September 19-24 5-Day Workshop EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN Esalen Staff
See page 9 for program description. $215 per person. (At Esalen Institute).

September 26-October 2: GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING AND MEDITATION
Claudio Naranjo. See page 11 for description. $250 per person. (At South Coast Center).

October 10-16 One-Week Workshop
AWARENESS TRAINING FOR THE HEALTH PROFESSIONS Jack Rosenberg

This workshop is designed for people in the health professions — dental, medical and allied fields, including nurses, technicians, and assistants; spouses are particularly encouraged to attend.

A factor in health care, often forgotten, is the health of those who provide care for others, much as the cobbler is the last to get shoes. The purpose of this workshop is to allow the health professional to take time to explore and take stock of his direction in both aspects of a professional person's life — his practice and his inner life — in hopes of developing a deeper significance, awareness and pleasure in both. Gestalt and body awareness, and videotape feedback, will be used. Participants will be shown ways to apply gestalt awareness techniques to their practice, as well as the technique for treatment of fixed muscular patterning of facial expression. Sessions in hatha yoga and movement expression will be included. $280 per person.

October 31-November 6 One-Week Workshop
BODY AWARENESS AND THE SENSE OF BEING Ed Maupin

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as bodies. Even relating to other people requires that we be someone in this sense. In this workshop, a variety of approaches — sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method and from several yoga traditions — are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of the imagination. Bring sweat pants or leotards. $280 per person.

BIG SUR INFORMATION

GROUNDS ARE CLOSED EXCEPT BY RESERVATION. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Accompanying the reservation deposits are required as follows: $70 for one-week and 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $300 for 3-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

CHECK IN/CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening; however guests are welcome to arrive earlier in the afternoon. All programs begin with dinner on Sunday. The last session of 5-day programs is Friday morning; check-out time is 12 noon on Friday. One-week programs usually end Saturday morning. 2-week, 3-week and 4-week programs usually have final sessions on the last Saturday morning, with some programs ending Friday morning of the last week. Check-out time is noon of the final Saturday for all programs, except 5-day programs.

PROGRAM COSTS: cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra. Reservations must be made in advance; balance of payment is due on arrival. Foreign currency: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. Esalen accepts major credit cards, including BankAmericard, Master Charge and American Express.

SCHOLARSHIPS: Scholarships and interest-free loans are available through the Claire Nelson Scholarship Fund. Preference is given to persons who have attended a one-week (or longer) program at Esalen and who have been interviewed by a member of the administrative staff. Grants may cover from one-fourth to one-third of the program fee. To receive a scholarship application write to Scholarships, Esalen Institute/Big Sur.

ACCOMMODATIONS: The rooms of Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property — in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms — is strictly prohibited.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute — Reservations Only. The South Coast Center is 1½ miles north of Esalen Institute.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen representative.

LONG-TERM PROGRAMS: Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer at Esalen Institute. The work requirement is 6 hours per week at South Coast Center.

ORGANIC FOOD: The organic garden on the Esalen grounds is flourishing and provides the kitchen with most of its vegetables and herbs. We try to serve only organically-produced meats, poultry and dairy products; most breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

A SUMMER WORKSHOP FOR COUNSELORS

Esalen is offering a two-week workshop, August 2-13, for college and high school counselors, social workers, ministers and peer counselors. Working as a training group, participants will gain experience in a variety of affective techniques which are being developed into useful and innovative counseling methods. There will also be theoretical sessions and overview meetings throughout the program to help integrate and apply experiences to individual situations. Specifically included will be one-to-three day sessions on: encounter and eclectic group methods; gestalt training techniques; psychodrama and fantasy; facilitating in a climate of social change; applications to crisis intervention; drug-crisis intervention; alternative models for counseling programs; and counseling to contemporary values. Faculty includes Paul Aiken, Ph.D. (Program Coordinator); Esly Barreras, M.D.; James Fadiman, Ph.D.; Ian Grand, B.A.; Stuart Loomis, M.A.; Stewart Shapiro, Ph.D. See pages 33-37 for biographical descriptions.

This is a full-time, live-in program, beginning Monday, August 2, and continuing through Friday, August 13, 1971. It will be held at a conference center near San Francisco. Tuition is $420 per person, and includes dormitory lodging and meals.

To apply, send a letter with information about your counseling background to: Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco, CA 94123. A non-refundable deposit of $150 is required with registration.

Three quarter-units of post graduate professional credit available through University of California Santa Barbara Extension. Interested persons may apply for credit and pay credit fee of $10 per unit at program's first session, August 2.

AN EXTENDED TRAINING PROGRAM IN GESTALT THERAPY

A program for professionals who will be using gestalt methods in their occupational contact. Emphasis will be placed on the application of these methods to individual growth, families, couples, therapy groups and work groups. Special attention will be given to gestalt strategies of consultation, staff observation and organization building.

The program will be held at a conference center near San Francisco and consists of six weeks of residential workshops over a calendar year. The schedule is specially designed to provide continuity of training, and to allow for integration and application of learning to individual situations through direct consultation with the training staff during the year. The schedule is:

Sunday, August 22 to Friday, September 3, 1971 (two weeks)
Sunday, November 14 to Friday, November 19, 1971 (one week)
Sunday, March 12 to Friday, March 17; 1972 (one week)
Sunday, July 18 to Friday, July 30, 1972 (two weeks)

Lois Brien, Ph.D. and Elaine Kepner, Ph.D., are coordinators; other faculty members are John Enright, Ph.D., Sherman Kingsbury, M.A., Abe Levitsky, Ph.D., Leon Lurie, M.A., Curtis Steele, M.D., and Cynthia Werthman, M.S.W. See pages 33-37 for biographical sketches.

Program cost is $1080 per person. For detailed information, write to Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123.

SUMMER PROGRAM IN THE PSYCHOLOGY OF HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS

There is an old Central Asian tale:

A man, having looted a city, was running around attempting to sell a stolen rug. "Who will give me 100 pieces of silver for this priceless rug?" he cried. After the sale, a friend came by and asked, "Why did you not ask more for that priceless gem?" "Is there any number higher than 100?" said the man.

Scientific psychology has just recently gone beyond this type of thinking. A more complete conception of man is beginning to emerge within the academic disciplines, a conception which includes man's capacity for self-regulation, his sensitivity to subtle sources of energy, his facility for "paranormal communication". A new view of the nervous system is evolving and, along with it, a new conception of health. Current thinkers have discovered many older, esoteric disciplines for training these human capacities and are developing many new technologies. The present scientific revolution represents for Western man a synthesis of the religious (in the broadest sense) conception of the human potential with the methods and technological sophistication of 20th century science.

Esalen Institute, in cooperation with the Transpersonal Association, is offering a seven-week curriculum this summer in the Psychology of Human Consciousness, with a faculty of leading researchers, teachers and practitioners. Participants will have the opportunity to explore intellectually and to experience many techniques and disciplines concerned with extending human consciousness. For each student, the seven-week program will center around an individual curriculum selected from the nine main courses listed below, each of which meets weekly or twice weekly. The faculty will work with students in selecting courses and in developing reading and study programs.

THE NATURE OF STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS (Instructor: Charles Tart). A general overview, with emphasis on theoretical structure, of various altered states of consciousness, including hypnosis and self-hypnosis, drug-induced states, extra-sensory perception, dreams and borderline states.

THE TRAINING OF CONSCIOUSNESS (Instructor: James Fadiman). The exploration and training of awareness, control and expansion of consciousness through practice exercises and readings. Evaluation, comparison and practice of disciplines from Western traditions will be stressed. The aim is to give each class member a "beginner's mind" in the teaching and understanding of altered states of consciousness.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF MEDITATION and the ESOTERIC PSYCHOLOGIES OF CONSCIOUSNESS (Instructor: Robert Ornstein). In other cultures those interested in the mind or in the problems of psychology became involved in Buddhism, Yoga or Sufism. These ancient disciplines present avenues of investigation currently closed to modern psychology. Class members will experience different practices of meditation, sitting, mantra, mandala, koans, self-remembering and meditation on stories of the Sufi tradition. There will be some emphasis upon the psychologies underlying these practices and their relevance to psychology today.

PHYSIOLOGICAL FEEDBACK (Instructor: Robert Ornstein). The importance of feedback for our conception of ourselves, our self-control over the nervous system, for research in psychology, psychiatry, physiology and medicine and its relevance to education and to meditation. Feedback machines, such as EEG and EMG, will be available for use by students.

CUTLTURE AND CONSCIOUSNESS (Instructor: José Argüelles). Through historical example and personal experimentation, an exploration of the uses and effects of cultural imprinting and a study of symbolic systems. Emphasis will be on utilizing various techniques and art forms for synthesizing and harmonizing the individual and his environment.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCES (Instructor: Claudio Naranjo). A comprehensive overview of types of religious experience and expression, East and West, with an emphasis on their similarities and basic unity. Discussion, study and reading in the psychological implications of such experiences.

YOGA PSYCHOLOGY (Instructor: Eleanor Criswell). The theory and practice of Raja (Ashtanga) yoga, the yoga of consciousness, in the light of modern psychophysiology and bio-feedback. Students will practice yoga and keep a personal yoga journal. Discussion of application of yogic practices and meditation in educational settings, personal growth experiences and transpersonal experiences.

GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING (Instructor: Claudio Naranjo). Gestalt training, as developed by Frederick S. Perls, is an awareness-centered, integrative process which concentrates on the here-and-now. Group sessions in gestalt training will offer a direct experience of this important existential process.

AN INTEGRATIVE SEMINAR (Instructors: James Fadiman and Robert Ornstein). An attempt to coordinate and to compare the different approaches to consciousness in the summer program to relate them to the situation of the student and to offer suggestions of where to go from here.

In addition to the above on-going seminars during the seven-week period, the following special courses are part of the summer program. These courses vary in length, from two to four days:

STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION: Ida Rolf will discuss and demonstrate her method of body integration and physical alignment, and the psychological implications of the process.

UNDERSTANDING HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS: Arthur Deikman will review past models (Eastern and Western) of human consciousness, their phenomenal data, their insights and limitations. Recent research on meditation and feedback, plus the phenomena of psychedelic drugs, will be covered.

BIOLOGICAL ROOTS OF EXPERIENCE: Stanley Keleman will examine the biological roots of life experience and the relationship between energy and structure, between physical form and expressive movement and feeling.

BIOLOGICAL RHYTHMS: Gay Luce will discuss ways in which man can become reacquainted with the biological rhythms which link us to earth and nature.

Esalen's public lecture series this summer is recommended to participants in this program and is available to them free of charge. Guest lecturers will include Elmer Green, George Leonard, Lawrence LeShan, Arthur Deikman, Huston Smith, Gay Luce, Joseph Pearce, Katherine Kocel, David Galin and others.

This summer program will be held July 9 through August 29, 1971, near Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, approximately 30 miles south of San Francisco. The program is geared to students, researchers and teachers in psychology, psychiatry, philosophy and the social sciences, although all applicants will be considered. The course must be taken in its entirety; no partial or part-time participation will be possible.

Course tuition is $750. Nonrefundable deposit of $100 is required with registration. Room and board is not included in this fee. Esalen will assist out-of-town participants in finding convenient and reasonably priced housing in the Palo Alto area. PARTIAL SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AVAILABLE; students are encouraged to apply. An application for funds will be sent upon request.

University of California Santa Barbara Extension is granting from five to nine quarter credits for this summer program. The fee is $10 per unit, payable to the Regents of the University of California. Interested persons can register and pay fee on the first day of the course, July 9. Students should also check about obtaining credit from their own departments for this program.

To apply, send a letter to Esalen Institute, "Summer School", 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123, telling us who you are, what you are doing, teaching, practicing or studying and the reasons why you would like to join this summer program. Apply early; the program is limited in enrollment.

ROBERT ORNSTEIN, Ph.D., teacher and researcher at University of California Medical Center.

WORKSHOPS FOR EDUCATORS: Second Annual Series

HUMAN TEACHING FOR HUMAN LEARNING: Workshops in Confluent Education

"Confluent" education is a process of teaching and learning that integrates affective, emotional aspects of learning with cognitive or intellectual functions: The term was coined by a research group, funded by the Ford Foundation, who met during 1967-68 under the direction of George Brown to explore application of Esalen approaches to classroom education. Included among these approaches are group encounter, sensory awareness, fantasy, gestalt training. Dr. Brown's project staff, Development and Research in Confluent Education (DRICE) at the University of California, Santa Barbara, was recently awarded a three-year grant by the Ford Foundation to further investigate, define and apply confluent education.

The workshops listed below, led by members of the DRICE staff, provide a comprehensive overview of current projects in confluent education. There is great variety in the interests and approaches of program leaders, and participants may attend any or all programs in the series without fear of repetition. Programs are designed for teachers at all levels, administrators, university students and "helping" professionals.

The findings of Dr. Brown's group are reported in his new book, Human Teaching for Human Learning, which will be sent to all program registrants as part of their seminar fee. It is recommended reading before participation in these programs.

July 19-23 (5 days): INTRODUCTION TO CONFLUENT EDUCATION
Aaron and Rosemary Hillman

Individual and group exploration of the processes of confluent education, discussion of teaching experiences, and introduction to completed and on-going research in the field. Gestalt awareness training will be an integral part of the workshop.
$125 per person (nonresidential); $165 per person (residential).

July 24-25 (Weekend): ON TEACHING READING CONFLUENTLY
Ford/Esalen Reading Project Staff

An experiential and didactic introduction to reading readiness activities and a report on the first year of the Ford/Esalen reading project. Recommended reading: Teaching Remedial Reading to the Disadvantaged, by Lilly Pope. Copies available through Esalen/San Francisco.
$60 per person (nonresidential); $75 per person (residential).

July 26-30 (5 days): THE HUMAN DIMENSION OF TEACHING
Robin Montz and Gloria Castillo

An experiential workshop designed specifically for elementary and secondary classroom teachers. Participants will have opportunity to devleop new approaches to their teaching, applying methods of gestalt awareness training, sensory awareness, fantasy and play therapy to the classroom situation. $125 per person (nonresidential); $165 per person (residential).

July 31-August 1 (Weekend): MICROLAB IN CONFLUENT EDUCATION Lynne Cantlay, Spencer Ward, Tom Yeomans

An overview of the approaches being developed by DRICE, including experiential sessions and discussion of practical applications of these approaches to particular classroom situations.
$60 per person (nonresidential); $75 per person (residential).

August 2-6 (5 days): HUMANIZING LEARNING:
Innovative Approaches to Educating the Whole Person Paul and Anne Nash

A variety of techniques will be used to encourage participants to respond creatively to the phenomena of educational and social change. Emphasis will be placed on integrating feeling, thought, action, accepting oneself and others, and on relating immediate experience to backhome situations and future plans. $125 per person (nonresidential); $165 per person (residential).

August 9-13 (5 days): CHANGE AGENTS IN HIGHER EDUCATION Stewart Shapiro

A workshop intended to support and deepen the efforts of professors, students, administrators and concerned others in facilitating positive change toward humanizing our colleges and universities. Various obstacles and resistances to relevant learning and change in higher education and strategies for change will be examined and demonstrated. "Agents of change" in higher education will have an opportunity to improve their skills in verbal and nonverbal communication and significant personal contact. The workshop is especially designed for teachers, teaching assistants and others who wish to introduce and develop confluent education in higher education.
$125 per person (nonresidential); $165 per person (residential).

August 15-16 (Weekend): ON TEACHING READING CONFLUENTLY
Ford/Esalen Reading Project Staff

An experiential and didactic weekend focused on elementary school reading, and a report on the first year of the Ford/Esalen reading project. Recommended reading: Teaching Remedial Reading to the Disadvantaged, by Lilly Pope. Copies available through Esalen/San Francisco.
$60 per person (nonresidential); $75 per person (residential).

August 16-20 (5 days): GESTALT LEARNING THEORY George and Judith Brown

An experiential workshop in gestalt awareness training based on the principles of gestalt therapy. There will also be discussions on the application of the work to classroom situations. Participants will be encouraged to develop their own approaches with the assistance of the leaders and other members of the group. This work is also appropriate for marriage and other primal relationships. Recommended readings: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, by F. Perls and Anger and the Rocking Chair, by Janet Lederman.
$135 per person (nonresidential); $175 per person (residential).

The entire series will be held at a conference center in Berkeley, California. All 5-Day Programs meet from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Mondays through Fridays; Weekend Programs meet from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays. Residential tuition includes lodging (Sunday through Thursday nights for five-day programs, Friday and Saturday nights for weekend programs) and breakfast and lunch on program days. Both single and shared accommodations are available, on a first-come basis. Please specify. Nonresidential tuition includes lunch on program days.

Persons may register for the entire series, or for one or more programs in the series. To apply, please send the following: (1) Title of each workshop you wish to attend; (2) a deposit covering each program — 5-day residential, $75; 5-day nonresidential, $40; weekend residential, $35; weekend nonresidential, $20. Send to Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123.

Two quarter units of post-graduate professional credit from University of California Santa Barbara Extension are available for each five-day workshop. The fee is $10 per unit ($20 per program). Interested persons may enroll for credit and pay the credit fee at the first meeting of the workshop in which they are registered. Credit is not available for weekend programs.

The following workshops, led by persons other than members of the DRICE staff, are also part of the "Workshops for Educators" series and are of interest to teachers, students and school administrators at all levels. The above information relating to location, time schedules and reservation procedure applies to these workshops as well, except no University credit is available.

July 31-August 1 (weekend): EDUCATION AND APOCALYPSE Peter Marin

Peter Marin writes: "We know by now the old ways in education won't work; we have to jettison almost every habit of seeing and even the idea of "schooling" itself. We need to rethink for ourselves what being young is like and what is going on in America. That means more than "improving" education; it means to stand in and against and for history. That is the heroic task we will be trying here." $55 per person (nonresidential); $70 per person (residential).

PETER MARIN is former director of Pacific High School and has been visiting fellow at The Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. He has worked as a counselor and has taught literature at various colleges. He is author of The Free People and (with Allan Cohen) Understanding Drug Use.

August 23-27 (5 days): LEARNING TO LEARN Arthur Hough and Evelyn Jernberg

"The greatest temptation in teaching," writes Art Hough, "is for the teacher to do the learning and then transplant it into the student. We believe that the learning process appropriately belongs to the student, so we concentrate on three learning relationships: the student's preparation of himself to learn, the communication bond between learner and teacher, and the joining of their separate objectives through clear, humanizing contracts."
$120 per person (nonresidential); $160 per person (residential).

ARTHUR HOUGH is Associate Professor of Communication Theory and Mass Media at San Francisco State College. He is an educational television and film producer, author of Stand Up and Speak, and interpersonal communication consultant for educational and government agencies.

EVELYN JERNBERG is a psychologist and guidance consultant for public schools. Her background includes training in behavioral and gestalt therapy.

July 31 Saturday Workshop
TRANSPERSONAL PHOTOGRAPHY Pamela Portugal

Pam Portugal writes: "I like to take pictures of people and find that with a camera I often make contact on a more essence-to-essence level than I do with words. I'd like to take a group of amateur and professional photographers, and some rank beginners, and use assorted Esalen methods to work toward a deeper being together. Each participant will be both photographer and model. Bring a camera that you know how to work and (if you want) film; we'll use the cameras more for focusing than for recording."
$10 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday.

August 2-6 5-Day Residential Workshop
GESTALT TRAINING AND BODY AWARENESS George and Barbara Dillinger

This workshop combines principles of gestalt therapy with bio-energetics analysis. Some sessions will be devoted to basic encounter, sensory awareness, art expression and focused energy in group body movement.
$190 per person, including room and meals. 10 a.m., Monday through lunch on Friday.

August 2-6 5-Day Residential Workshop
OPENING TO CREATIVITY Helen Stephens

Using adaptations of creativity exercises developed for businessmen by Danzig-Nevis International with encounter techniques, group members will be encouraged to define their own major blocks to creativity and to learn ways to overcome them. This will be an experimental and low-key program, open to all persons ("creative" or not).
$180 per person, including room and board. 10 a.m., Monday through lunch on Friday.

August 2-6: HUMANIZING LEARNING Paul and Anne Nash.
See Education Workshops, pp. 18-19.

August 2-13: SUMMER WORKSHOP FOR HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE COUNSELORS.
See page 15.

August 4 An Evening Lecture
MAN'S "SILENT" HALF-BRAIN David Galin, Katherine Kocel, Robert Ornstein

The left hemisphere of the cortex is specialized for linear, verbal, intellectual functions; the right side, it seems, contains elements of the musician and the dreamer, the unconscious and the mystical. The lecturers will discuss recent research and the implications of our biological duality for psychology, education and mysticism.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, August 4.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

August 6-8: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN WEEKEND The Esalen Staff. See page 20.

August 6-8 Couples' Workshop Using Videotape Feedback
MORE LIFE IN MARRIAGE Gerald Smith

If a couple can be both close and the partners also free to grow as individuals, there is a good chance for continuing life within marriage. Using experiential and family therapy approaches, workshop focus will be on prevention and growth rather than past problems.
$115 per couple. $40 deposit required. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

August 7-8 Weekend Workshop
MEDITATION ON SUFI WORD-PICTURES AND STORIES Robert Ornstein

In man's history, some stories, tales and poems have been written which contain symbols and situations carefully designed to make an end-run around our intellectual filter. This weekend will consist of meditation and reflection on stories of the dervish tradition, their word-pictures and the mind experience which they can create. (Suggested reading: The Sufis and Tales of the Dervishes by Idries Shah.)
$30 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, August 7-8.

For Biographies, see pp. 33-37

August 9-13 5-Day Residential Workshop
MOVEMENT AND MASSAGE Gabrielle Roth

Many massage techniques will be demonstrated and taught; however, emphasis will be on finding your own rhythm and creating your own massage. Workshop includes use of movement and rituals to explore feelings, dreams and inner self.
$180 per person, including room and meals. 10 a.m., Monday through Friday lunch.

August 9-13: CHANGE AGENTS IN HIGHER EDUCATION Stewart Shapiro.
See Education Workshops, pp. 18-19.

August 11 An evening Lecture
THE CRACK IN THE COSMIC EGG Joseph Chilton Pearce

Man's mind is a mirror of a universe that mirrors man's mind. Pearce talks about our conception of the universe and the "cracks" which provide new glimpses into the open-ended function of reality.
$3 general; $2 students. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, August 11.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

August 12: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Thursday. See page 20.

August 13 An Evening Lecture
THE PSYCHOLOGY OF ENLIGHTENMENT Arthur Deikman

A discussion of the specific personal problems and the general psychological problems responsible for the difficulty in attaining enlightenment. Enlightenment consciousness will be compared to ordinary consciousness and the role of meditation as the means to enlightenment will be analyzed.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, August 13.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

August 13-15 Residential Weekend Workshop
GROWTH AND BOUNDARIES David Schiffman and Bob Kriegel

Using encounter and sense relaxation, risk-taking and games, the group will explore personal boundaries — both as limitations and as tools of self-survival.
$70 per person, including room and meals. 8 p.m., Friday through Sunday lunch.

August 13-15 Residential Weekend Workshop
MASSAGE WORKSHOP Helen Stephens

Massage instruction for persons who wish to learn a "loving" masage which gives relaxation, comfort and release from tensions. If possible, bring a friend, parent or child.
$70 per person, including room and meals.
8 p.m., Friday through Sunday lunch.

August 13-15 Weekend Workshop
SAYING YES TO LIFE Joseph Fabry

Using group techniques and creative activities developed from Viktor Frankl's logotherapy, this workshop aims to establish an atmosphere of trust in which each participant can: clarify his life goals and take positive steps toward achieving them; break the stranglehold of failure; take command of his life; honestly explore his feelings and talk about what is most important to him; establish solid relationships with others.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

August 14-15: ON TEACHING READING CONFLUENTLY
Ford/Esalen Staff. See Education Workshops, pp. 18-19.

August 14-21 7-Day Outdoor Workshop
ENCOUNTERING IN THE HIGH SIERRAS Walt Anderson and Dan Holland

Outdoors in the High Sierras, the group will explore experiences of sensory awakening, meditation, psychodrama and encounter. The group will meet at a designated roadhead point Saturday, hike to the campsite on Sunday and return the following Saturday. Mountaineering experience is not required, but applicants should be in good condition and capable of hiking. Details will be supplied on application.
$95 per person. ($50 nonrefundable deposit required).

August 16-20 5-Day Residential Workshop
A WEEK FOR DETOXIFICATION Bob Kriegel with the Esalen Staff

During this week we will attempt to construct an environment free of the pressures we react to with armoring, tension and defensive alienation. Massage, yoga and meditation sessions, breathing and sensory awareness experiences will be available during a flexible schedule — hopefully to facilitate a gentle centering experience for participants. Periods of rest, music and outdoor exploration will alternate with group sessions.
$180 per person, including room and meals. 10 a.m., Monday through lunch on Friday.

August 16-20: GESTALT LEARNING THEORY George and Judith Brown.
See Education Workshops, pp. 18-19.

August 18 An Evening Lecture
THE INEVITABLE TRANSFORMATION OF MANKIND George Leonard

Our civilization has entered a period of transformation from which it will emerge with radically altered values and behaviors, feeling and being. The transformation is the subject of George Leonard's new book for publication the fall of 1972. Leonard will discuss the startling findings and speculations of his work-in-progress.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

August 20 An Evening Film and Discussion
A CONVERSATION WITH KRISHNAMURTI Huston Smith

An hour's filmed conversation between this self-disclaiming guru to our century and a philosophy professor at MIT. This is expected to be the first Bay Area showing of this major attempt to preserve for posterity something of Krishnamurti's person. Smith will relate the circumstances of the filming and lead a discussion of Krishnamurti's thought following the film.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, August 20.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

August 20-22 Residential Weekend Workshop
THE BODY AS A FOCUS OF MEDITATION Hildegard Elsberg

Miss Elsberg's work is designed to unify body and mind, especially through breathing, sense of touch and through introverted sensation (the proprioceptive function). She is a pioneer on the West Coast of what has popularly become known as sensory awareness or body sensitivity. $70 per person, including room and meals. 8 p.m., Friday through lunch on Sunday.

August 20-22 Residential Weekend Workshop
DIVORCE: A CREATIVE EXPERIENCE Robert Cromey

A group for the divorced, those contemplating divorce or those whose lives have been touched by divorce. Emphasis will be on expressing emotions accompanying separation and conflict, and moving from feelings of loneliness, helplessness and despair toward a positive view of one's new life situation.
$70 per person, including room and meals. 8 p.m., Friday through Sunday lunch.

August 20-22 Weekend Workshop
ENCOUNTER FOR UNMARRIED COUPLES Jackie Doyle

This weekend for couples going together, living together or planning marriage is designed to lead from the fragility of romantic illusion to a broader and stronger loving based on knowing yourself and your partner in new ways.
$100 per couple. Begins 8 p.m, Friday.

 For Biographies, see pp. 33-37

August 21: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN: ONE DAY The Esalen Staff. See page 20.

August 23-27 5-Day Residential Workshop
ENCOUNTER FOR THE EXPERIENCED Betty Fuller

An encounter workshop limited to persons with previous group experience. $180 per person, including room and meals. 10 a.m., Monday through Friday lunch.

August 23-27: LEARNING TO LEARN Arthur Hough. See Education Workshops, pp. 18-19.

August 26 An Evening Lecture-Discussion
AMERICA 1971: DOES ANYONE KNOW WHERE IT IS GOING? Robert Schwartz

Possibly — Bob Schwartz, at least, has been keeping notes. A writer, entrepreneur and intellectual, he became intrigued several years ago with the thought that "the emergent American is going to be the most interesting native the world has ever seen." Schwartz will share his observations, from the amusing to the more serious, and will invite comments and discussion from the audience.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, August 26.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

August 27-29 Weekend Workshop
OPEN GESTALT WORKSHOP John Stevens

A workshop for persons with or without previous gestalt training or experience.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

August 27-29: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN WEEKEND The Esalen Staff. See page 20.

August 27-29 Weekend Workshop
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS Jim and Susan Vargiu

The Vargius write: "In this workshop we will emphasize the aspects of psychosynthesis which lead to greater unity, which can be used for integrating the encounter experience into something more. Psychosynthesis is not primarily expansion or experience — it is a way of pulling it all together. It is an approach which fosters the balanced development of body, feelings and mind and their harmonious integration around a unifying center. We will reach toward this center by consulting the best-self within each of us, and will attempt to use its energy and guidance. We will use techniques of movement, visual imagery, writing, symbolic art work, mental concentration and meditation. Our emphasis will not be on producing immediate breakthroughs, although this often occurs, but rather on initiating a gradual process that, with continuing application, can gain increasing momentum and ultimately become a life-style." $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

August 30: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN

August 30-September 3 5-Day Residential Workshop
OPEN ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP Jackie Doyle

Although this program is open to anyone, it is especially intended for unattached persons who want to explore problems of loneliness, boredom, superficial and transient relationships and emotional insecurity. $180 per person, including room and meals.
10 a.m., Monday through lunch on Friday.

September 2 A Lecture and Demonstration
ON YOGA Joel Kramer

An evening designed to acquaint the interested non-practitioner, as well as the practitioner, with yoga. Mr. Kramer will demonstrate hatha yoga and discuss yoga both in classical structure and as an evolutionary approach to living in the modern world.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

August 30-September 3 5-Day Residential Workshop
OPEN GESTALT WORKSHOP Thomas Munson

A gestalt program for professionals and nonprofessionals. $180 per person, including room and meals. 10 a.m., Monday through Friday lunch.

September 3-6
Extended Residential Weekend Workshop
LIFE ENERGY Robert Nadeau

A wide variety of energy-freeing and energy-producing exercises will be used to make each participant familiar with life energy and its usefulness as a tool for higher awareness. The group will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude, mental concentration, centering and moving from center. There will be special emphasis on group and individual meditation. $95 per person, including room and meals.
8 p.m., Friday through Monday lunch.

September 4-5 Weekend Workshop
THE LANGUAGE OF MOVEMENT Gabrielle Roth

A workshop in getting to know your inner self by using movement and rituals to explore feelings, dreams and to rediscover the childspirit of your soul.
$50 per person. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday; 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Sunday.

September 4-5 Residential Weekend Workshop
OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND Thomas Munson

A gestalt weekend for professionals and nonprofessionals, for persons with or without previous gestalt experience. $65 per person, including room and meals. 10 a.m., Saturday to 5 p.m., Sunday.

September 8 An Evening Lecture
BIMODAL CONSCIOUSNESS Arthur Deikman

Mystical perception, hallucinogenic drugs, psychosis, alpha states and a variety of other phenomena of attention and perception can be understood as representing one of two basic modes of being organized biologically to serve two basic functions. A discussion of this concept and its implication for the individual and society.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, September 8.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

September 10-12 Weekend Workshop
BODY AND SOUL Jack Rosenberg and Lynwood Walker

Professionals who work in black and/or white communities often voice their frustrations about the racial impasses. This group will focus on gestalt methods of dealing with these impasses and will explore areas of spiritual involvement in black/white concerns, especially in the helping and health professions. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

September 10-12 Weekend Workshop
SELF-AWARENESS THROUGH ART Tom Allen

In this workshop group members will explore dynamic uses of the visual imagination through a variety of perceptual and graphic or spatial events. The images that emerge from deeper levels of consciousness, as experienced in sensory awareness, guided imagery and gestalt methods, will be investigated through art. Come ready to get paint or clay on your clothes. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

 For Biographies, see pp. 33-37

September 10-12 and September 24-26 Two Weekend Workshops
ENCOUNTER AND BEYOND: A MARATHON AND A WORKSHOP Richard Marsh

Workshops in "Higher Self" psychology often suffer from a serious flaw: they ignore the "lower self" and consequently have an air of unreality. In the attempt to contact the superconscious, the participants are partially frustrated by having to walk on eggs in their relationships with each other. This double weekend is an attempt to remedy this flaw. A weekend encounter marathon will be followed two weeks later by a workshop in techniques derived from psychosynthesis and involving directed imagination, sensory focusing, meditation and selective use of the arts. The participants, having become humanly acquainted in the marathon, will be relatively free of unexpressed angers, suspicions and jealousies; thus, it is hoped, contact with the "Higher Self" will be solidly based on healthy and loving human communication.

Participants must commit themselves to both weekends. Group is limited to 14 persons. The marathon, lasting 45 hours or more, begins at 8 p.m., Friday, September 10. Bring a sleeping bag; meals and snacks will be served during the program. The second weekend, September 24-26, begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 24. This is not a marathon and meals and accommodations will not be provided.

$125 per person for both weekends. Nonrefundable deposit of $50 required.

September 11-12 Weekend Seminar
A NEW LOOK AT BLAVATSKY'S SECRET DOCTRINE Dane Rudhyar

Nearly 100 years later, H.P. Blavatsky's works, from which so many of the esoteric concepts of the last decades were derived, retain their all-human significance and take on an even deeper meaning for new generations breaking away from their ancestral traditions and eager to restructure their minds. Many fresh insights will be presented.

$30 per person. 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

September 13 Professional Workshop
INNOVATIONS IN FAMILY THERAPY Gerald Smith

An all-day workshop for those in the helping professions. Demonstrations will include: modification of structured interview for marriage counseling, application of gestalt therapy to families, art expression with couples and family, role-playing applications, and family communication check-up, a preventative experience for families.

$50 per person. 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday.

September 15 An Evening Lecture
THE ONE QUEST Claudio Naranjo

We are looking for something.
For What? Do we truly lack something?
Do we know where to find it?
Does anybody else know?
A talk about the Ways and their Masters.

$3 general; $2 student.
8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, September 15.
First Unitarian Church,
Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

September 17-19 Residential Weekend Workshop
MASSAGE AND ENCOUNTER Robert Cromey

This workshop will begin with instruction in massage; methods of encounter will be used to deal with whatever emotional issues may evolve from the massage work.

$70 per person, including room and meals. 8 p.m., Friday through Sunday lunch.

September 17-19 Weekend Workshop
YOGA: EXPLORATIONS IN AWARENESS AND SELF-KNOWLEDGE Joel Kramer

A workshop for the interested novice and serious student of yoga. Through the examination and practice of yoga techniques, pranayama (breathing) and meditation, the group will become acquainted with yogic structure, both classical and modern.

$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

September 18 Saturday Workshop
GRAPHOTHERAPY: PEN AND PENCIL THERAPY Paul de Sainte Colombe

This one-day seminar will be an introduction to graphotherapy, an outgrowth of graphology, or handwriting analysis. Graphotherapy, a system which claims treatment of character deficiencies and emotional ills by changing handwriting patterns, has been explored clinically in France but is relatively unknown in this country. Mr. de Sainte Colombe will explain the approach and will present case histories.
$18 per person. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. (with break for lunch), Saturday, September 18.

September 18-19 Residential Weekend Workshop
GESTALT TRAINING AND BODY AWARENESS George and Barbara Dillinger

This workshop combines principles of gestalt therapy with bio-energetics analysis. One session will be devoted to basic encounter, sensory awareness, art expression and focused energy in group body movement. $75 per person, including room and meals.
10 a.m., Saturday to 6 p.m., Sunday.

September 22: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Wednesday. See page 20.

September 24-26: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN WEEKEND The Esalen Staff. See page 20.

September 24-26 Residential Weekend Workshop
PLAY, TOUCH AND TALK Marian Saltman and Don Clark

Assuming that personal growth need not be a tense and painful experience, this weekend will use creative adult play, massage and group interaction, allowing time for reflection and rest as well as group sharing of feelings and experiences.
$70 per person, including room and meals. 8 p.m., Friday through lunch on Sunday.

September 24-26 Weekend Workshop
THE PSYCHOLOGY OF OVER-EATING: AN EXPERIENTIAL WORKSHOP Leonard Pearson

This workshop will provide an opportunity for participants to explore in depth their particular way of utilizing food as a response to emotional needs. Instead of emphasizing calories, food categories or will power, Dr. Pearson will concentrate on developing an awareness of the "wisdom of the body" and an understanding of the reasons behind excessive eating. Workshop experiences will deal with eating fantasies, food and feeding, how hunger is felt and what occasions provoke it. Alternate ways of dealing with hunger will be developed for each participant. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 1-3 Weekend Workshop
COMMUNICATION GAMES Art Hough and Evelyn Jernberg

A workshop to uncover and work with communication problems through games. These communication games — lasting from one minute to three hours — are used to heighten the communication experience, improve habits of listening, feedback, empathy, spontaneity and awareness, and to loosen the deeper communication blocks that result from hidden dogmatism, rigidity and risk-refusal. This is not encounter; it is for people concerned with improving their communication. Experiences can be taught to friends, children and students. $55 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 1-3 Couples' Workshop Using Videotape Feedback
MORE LIFE IN MARRIAGE Gerald Smith

If a couple can be both close and also free to grow as individuals, there is a good chance for continuing life within marriage. Using experiential and family therapy approaches, workshop focus will be on prevention and growth rather than on past problems.
$115 per couple ($40 deposit required). Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 1-3 Weekend Workshop
MASSAGE AND MOVEMENT Gabrielle Roth

Many differing massage techniques will be demonstrated and taught; however, emphasis will be placed on finding your own rhythm as well as creating your own massage.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 2: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN: ONE DAY The Esalen Staff. See page 20.

Coming this Fall:
SECRETS OF THE TRADE:
Essays in Madness, Creativity and Ideology,
by Joe Kennedy Adams.
Hardbound.

HOT SPRINGS, OR THE TRUE ADVENTURES OF THE FIRST NEW YORK JEWISH LITERARY INTELLECTUAL IN THE HUMAN POTENTIAL MOVEMENT by Stuart Miller.
A rollicking chronicle of what it means in contemporary America to undergo a spiritual death and a spiritual rebirth. The book is played out against backdrops that range from Orchard Street in New York's Lower East Side, to the Yale Graduate School, and finally to Esalen Institute at Big Sur. Michael Murphy has said that Hot Springs is the first book "to capture the human complexity of the Esalen-'Human Potential'-Counter-Culture world."
Available July 1, 1971. $7.95, hardbound.

ON THE PSYCHOLOGY OF MEDITATION by Claudio Naranjo and Robert Ornstein.
Two psychologists examine the spiritual ground of meditation and the implications of meditation for modern psychology. New insights into the nature of consciousness have resulted from current experimental work with computers and electroencephalograms and from a synthesis of meditative techniques derived from Zen, Yoga, the Sufis and Shamanism.
Available July 31, 1971. $8.95, hardbound.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recorded tapes of many past Esalen programs are available. This service, originally developed to provide archive copies for Esalen, rapidly became of use to organizations requesting recordings of lectures and seminars, training tapes of techniques and methods, demonstration workshop sequences, and experiential programs. Requests now come from educational institutions, public and private libraries, religious bodies and professional groups, government agencies, corporations and private individuals with funds for a recording library concerned with the human potential. Commercial use prohibited; all rights are reserved. Recording, editing and distribution of tapes is performed by Big Sur Recordings, from whom a complete catalog may be obtained. The cost of recordings is $10 per tape-hour, stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette. Write BIG SUR RECORDINGS, 117 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael, California 94903.

VIDEOTAPES and 16mm FILMS of Dr. Frederick S. Perls' demonstraions of gestalt theapy and Alexander Lowen's demonstrations of bio-energetic analysis are available for professional use from MEDIASYNC, Inc., P.O. Box 486, Del Mar, California 92014. Films of Dr. Perls' work are also available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 205 West Twentieth Street, Santa Ana, California 92706 along with films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow, Virginia Satir and others. For a list of films including the work of Alan Watts, Huston Smith and many others, write to ASSOCIATION FOR HUMANISTIC PSYCHOLOGY, 584 Page Street, San Francisco, California 94117.

ESALEN BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS: Written materials of particular significance associated with the programs of Esalen Institute are available by writing: Esalen Books, Esalen Institute, San Francisco.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA and KQED) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has a dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, as well as KPFT Houston and WBAI New York City, broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides.

MICROFILM records of Esalen history, brochures and publications are available through MICROBIZ, 590 Howard Street, San Francisco, California 94105.

ESALEN PROGRAMS is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a nonprofit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please also see membership form (on opposite page).

ACCREDITATION AND THE USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have recently involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs; our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools. For the information of the public, we do maintain a consulting service, under the direction of Betty Fuller, that will furnish information about leaders.

ABOUT THE ILLUSTRATIONS IN THIS ISSUE

"The illustrations in this issue of Esalen Programs comprise a Mythical Bestiary," states the designer, Red Dog Pie Face/Peter Bailey, "those beings invented by man to express, not just the dark implacable aspects of life, but his own attitude toward them and the transitions necessary to incorporate them into his evolving cosmic view of life. Besides familiarly exotic creatures such as unicorns, satyrs, chimaeras and sphinxes, there are the Egyptian hippo goddess, Thoueris, who aided pregnant women; a magic Japanese cat slyly impersonating his mistress for nefarious purposes; the Hindu elephant deity, Ganesha; an Eskimo fish spirit; the Thunderbird lending his power to a supplicant Tlingit Indian; a Kabuki actor impersonating a fabulous spider; an Ivory Coast buffalo icon; Mishipizhiv, the fantastic night panther of the Ojibwa; Quetzalocoatl, the plumed serpent of the Aztecs; an oriental boy-Hercules on his magic bear; and an inexplicable hatted creature from the farthest reaches of Pieter Breughel's Sixteenth-Century mind."

The continuing work of Esalen Institute is funded virtually in toto through tuitions paid by those attending workshops and seminars — but research, future development and expansion depend greatly upon funds assured through Memberships and special grants.

As a Member, you enjoy a tuition reduction of $10 at every seminar and workshop you attend, including encounter groups, plus opportunity to participate in occasional gatherings with Esalen officers, leaders and project coordinators. You are also kept informed of new developments and programs via a special newsletter.

You may wish to consider tax-deductible Membership either for yourself or as a fitting gift in the name of another.

Those friends of Esalen interested in sustaining the Institute in a more substantial way may wish to discuss details of this matter with the Director of Development, Stuart Miller. The legal counsel of the Institute is also available to discuss various details of gifts and bequests, including tax arrangements. Individual attention can be given in these ways to the particular wishes of donors and the current needs of the Institute.

Please complete Membership and Gift Order Form on other side.

NEWS

NEW DIRECTIONS AT ESALEN

This fall a major new program will begin at Esalen in San Francisco. It will provide three things that our staff and seminar participants have long wanted: a course structure that will enable persons to immerse themselves in Esalen work over a long period of time, rather than making do with occasional seminars; a range of courses that relates the experiential and process work characteristic of our core programs (such as gestalt therapy, psychosynthesis, encounter) to other fields of interest, e.g., nutrition, sports, anthropology, physics; and finally, counselors or tutors who can give students individual attention and guidance in their studies. These three elements are described in the San Francisco program section on page 11.

Professors and departments at various colleges are willing to give college credits for some of these courses. We hope that as time goes on more and more college students will be able to supplement their regular studies with Esalen programs and receive credit for their work. But the program is not limited to college students working for such credit.

This program will have to find its structure within Esalen as it evolves. In a way it is a new program, but it grows out of our past work and has as one of its chief aims the further relating and integrating of elements within our usual format.

GESTALT INSTITUTE OF CANADA

During the past year, the Gestalt Institute of Canada has continued its evolution toward community. Its core staff has grown to 15, each a resource available to those who join them.

They write: "Our commitment is to the processes of gestalt as gestalt processes – and not as fragments alienated from a complete living situation. In training, in a program for college-age people, in a three-month resident work program to begin in September, we all join to discover what is possible given what we have, and to enlarge our contact with the world so that new forms can emerge". Write to the Gestalt Institute of Canada, Folded Hills Farm, Kuper Island, British Columbia for details.

GUILD FOR STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION

There will be a class in structural integration taught in the Bay Area from September 13 through October 28. Twelve models will be needed, plus an additional waiting list of ten. Models are expected to be available by appointment on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons; appointments are about two hours long. Contact the Esalen/San Francisco office for information.

The Guild for Structural Integration would like to encourage research in rolfing and invites interested researchers to make application to the class. Write: The Guild for Structural Integration, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123.

PSYCHIC DISCOVERIES BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

An Esalen group travelled to Czechoslovakia and Russia to get first-hand acquaintance with the scientists whose work was reported in Psychic Discoveries Behind the Iron Curtain. This recent book by Lynn Schroeder and Sheila Ostrander indicated that government-sponsored scientists in these countries were on the verge of, or had already made, astonishing breakthroughs into the investigation of such psychic powers as ESP, telepathy, psychokinesis and the human aura. The authors raised the spectre of a "psychic space race" between the American and Soviet governments — a headlong rush to discover and control extraordinary human powers.

We found in our three-week visit that, while there was much going on of great interest, the scientific work in Russia and Czechoslovakia on paranormal phenomena was less extensive than the book seems to imply. In many ways the field of parapsychology is in the same state in Russia and Czechoslovakia as it is in the United States and Western Europe. A small group of dedicated scientific workers carry on interesting research without any widespread approval by the scientific establishment and without the benefit of governmental support.

Nevertheless, some formidable beginnings are being made. The Eastern European approach to parapsychology is almost entirely physical. The paradigms and methods used assume that paranormal phenomena are physical in nature (as opposed to "spiritual") and that they will yield their secrets to investigation employing the electronic and mechanical apparatus of modern physics. Using this approach the few scientists working in the field have discovered and measured unusually high energy fields around a physical medium, Mrs. Kulagina, who is able to move small objects without touching them. They have invented a small device which when brushed against a person's skin lights up as the device passes over one of the seven hundred acupuncture points which ancient and modern Chinese doctors have used in treating illnesses. They have photographed vibrations of light around animals, plants and objects which strongly resemble the halo, aura and "subtle bodies" described by psychics throughout the ages. A theory held by some Eastern European scientists states that many of these effects can be explained by investigation into "bioplasma". According to modern physics, matter exists in four states — solid, liquid, gas and plasma. Some Eastern European scientists believe that the free floating electrons associated with plasma exist in the human body and underlie many paranormal phenomena.

The scientific results of these investigations are still far from conclusive. Although we believe that the physical approach to psychic phenomena is of major importance, there are dangers in pursuing obscure human powers without paying more attention to psychology and to the warnings contained in the wisdom of the East. There, the aspirant yogi is cautioned to be wary of psychic powers, called "sidhi" in Sanscrit. He is told that these powers will probably arise during his yogic studies and not to be seduced by them. Such powers can corrupt and lead the student away from the true yogic goal, "moksha" or "enlightenment".

Not only are there personal dangers in acquiring psychic powers, but there are also social dangers. Should these investigations result in a breakthrough, a government — either our own or some other — could create a social monstrosity. Dr. Vasiliev showed that people can be significantly affected by feelings projected by others from a distance. If it becomes possible to train such capacities, science may have opened yet another Pandora's Box. Fortunately, as one good-humored Soviet scientist put it, "We may hope that these scientific problems are so complex that neither I nor my colleagues will ever be able to solve them and present to the world the dangers which could happen".

THE ESALEN SCHOOLHOUSE

The school at Esalen in Big Sur is now a reality. Rooted in the gestalt approach to education and creativity, its ultimate aim is to coordinate with seminars in the areas of teacher training, family therapy, gestalt awareness and structural integration.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS: VISIT TO ROBERTO ASSAGIOLI

In May, three members of the Esalen staff revisited Roberto Assagioli, the founder of Psychosynthesis, in Florence, Italy. One gets a most complex impression of him. Assagioli is an eighty-three year old gentleman whom you are likely to find seated behind his old Victorian desk dressed in a smoking jacket. His gay smile, however, seems to contradict his age, particularly when you realize that it has a peculiar radiance — as if you and he shared some deep and happy secret. And yet, as time goes on, you gather from his conversation and from the knowing twinkle in his eye that he is a seasoned physician and scholar, well-acquainted with life's difficulties and frustrations. Educated in Florence, he speaks eight languages. He knew Freud and Jung, and has been actively working and publishing in psychology for nearly sixty years. One is struck by how lightly he carries his learning and experience, and with what cheerfulness and serenity he accepts and deals with his nearly total deafness, caused by a bomb blast during World War II. Imprisoned then for being a Jew and "Internationalist" by the Fascists, he is said by his students to have remarked on the joys that solitary confinement allowed him because he could, at last, meditate in peace.

Many of us at Esalen used to think of Psychosynthesis as nothing more than a few of its techniques, such as the guided day dream. Now we have come to realize that Psychosynthesis, as developed by Dr. Assagioli, is a far wider and deeper approach to personal growth and human evolution. While other approaches are holistic in character, attempting to include many facets of the human personality and situation, no approach that we have yet encountered seems to be as comprehensive and integral as Psychosynthesis. It organizes approaches for training and harmonizing not only the unconscious, the emotions, and the body; but also the will, the imagination, and the spirit. Not simply a method of therapy or education or religious training, it seems to provide a base for unifying all three concerns. Furthermore, while it can be taken simply as a comprehensive method of personal growth, it has implications beyond the personal to man's social and even cosmic concerns.

We do not wish to imply that in rediscovering Psychosynthesis we are convinced of having found the final answer to life's problems — that answer will probably continue to elude all. But Psychosynthesis is so impressive that we think it deserves careful exploration as a promising synthesis of much that Esalen Institute has been doing. Starting with this issue of our brochure, we will be offering a permanent series of workshops in Psychosynthesis in conjunction with the Psychosynthesis Institute directed by James and Susan Vargiu. They have spent many years studying with Dr. Assagioli, and now live in the San Francisco Bay Area. We have just published the paperback edition of Psychosynthesis, Assagioli's treatment of the basic theories and techniques, in the Esalen Institute Publishing Program with Viking Press. His latest work, The Act of Will, will be brought out by Esalen/Viking within the next year, and we are completing arrangements to make available much of his unpublished material. We hope that participants in the Psychosynthesis program and readers of the books will let us know how useful they are.

Esalen has come to be thought of in a number of ways — in so many, in fact, that we sometimes speak of ourselves as "Inkblot Institute." Among these projected "identities" and our relation to them are:

A "sensitivity training" center. This is a term we rarely, if ever, have used. That increased sensitivity is a hoped for outcome in many programs is of course true.

A "growth center." We recognize that the "growth center movement" has largely developed in relation to Esalen. We still best consider ourselves to be an evolving kind of school for experimental education and not a place that can, in any sense, promise a particular result.

A psychiatric hospital. On one occasion the Miami police called asking if a person then in their custody had "escaped" from our "institution". We are not a hospital and do not give the type of "care" or "treatment" identified with one. Our programs are oriented toward growth rather than pathology and we believe explicitly so. The statement made in relation to Gestalt Workshops is applicable to all programs: "The assumption is made that participants are not "patients" but are persons responsible for their own life decisions." Anyone not willing to make such an assumption about himself should find resources other than those we presently offer.

Particular identifications with one or another of the areas of work in which we have been involved such as encounter or gestalt or sensory awakening or structural integration. Here our function has been to facilitate the development of work in those and other areas but we are not solely involved in only one or two of them.

A religious center or retreat. This is true to the extent that an individual chooses to make it so. Historically, Esalen began largely out of the founders' interest in Eastern philosophy and spiritual practice and part of the program remains focused in those areas.

A training center for mental health and teaching professionals. We have no formal training programs although the residence programs have, in fact, developed a number of group leaders. These roles are better understood as those of educators and not of psychiatric or social work practitioners. We do have particular programs that are especially directed to psychiatrists, social workers, teachers and so forth. Hopefully, many of our programs offer enriching possibilities to these and many other professions.

We have left out a number of derogatory projections in relation to Esalen (and also some equally unrealistic eulogizing ones). Perhaps the best brief definition remains that which has appeared in our brochure for a number of years: "Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in the behavioral sciences, religion, and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence." In this area we have been a forum, and it is primarily this we hope to remain.

BIG SUR PROGRAMS

ABOUT BIG SUR PROGRAMS AND FACILITIES

Esalen Institute now has the use of two facilities along the Big Sur Coast; its original home (also known as the Hot Springs) and the South Coast Center, one and a half miles north. Like Esalen itself, the South Coast Center is complete with meeting rooms, sleeping accommodations, dining room, pool and sauna. Persons attending programs at the South Coast are free to use the hot baths, pool and other facilities at Esalen if they wish. Program descriptions indicate whether a program is to be held at South Coast; programs without this designation will be held at the Hot Springs. All the information on page 10 applies to both of Esalen's Big Sur locations.

May we remind you that approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer at Esalen Institute. The programs at South Coast Center include community work of about six hours per week.

Persons who are familiar with Esalen programs are invited to stay at South Coast independent of workshops being conducted there, provided space is available. Rooms can be rented on a daily or weekly basis at $35 single or $25.00 shared per day, all meals included.

RESIDENCE PROGRAM

Beginning in November, an on-going Residence Program will be initiated and directed by the Esalen staff. This program will be based on an apprentice model: persons will be accepted into leadership training on the basis of their possible contribution to a given area of work and will apprentice themselves to a staff leader. Duration will be according to individual need. All selections will be made from one-, two-, and four-week workshops. This new on-going Residence Program differs markedly from past, more formalized Esalen Residence Programs. Cost will be $800.00 per month.

In addition to the apprentice training program, an intensive long-term program may be initiated by an individual according to his interests and needs, chosen from among the continuing workshops available. No selection process is required for this type of program. Cost will also be $800.00 per month.

PROGRAMS WITH THE ESALEN STAFF

Some of the four-week, two-week, one-week and five-day programs listed below will be led by members of the Esalen Staff. Esalen/San Francisco staff will also be drawn upon.

Big Sur Staff includes: Diana Bechetti, Michael Butler, Deborah Carson, Roberta DeLong, Al Drucker, Betty Fuller, Ann Heider, Peggy Kriegel, Janet Lederman, Milton Lees, Dub Leigh, Theodora Lyon, Hector Prestera, Richard Price, Carole Rosenblatt, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Julian Silverman, Simone Surpin, Gerald Thatcher and Sharon Wheeler.

Jean Butler, Seymour Carter, Jack Downing, John Heider, John Lilly and Steven Stroud will be on study leave until January, 1972.

John Argue will be in residence during Fall, 1971.

PROGRAMS

October 1-3 Weekend Seminar
THE LAWS OF FORM Stewart Brand and Heinz Von Foerster

"Draw a distinction. Call it the first distinction." Thus opens the first canon of a revolutionary book which charts routes to resolving understandings of the Tao, mathematics, consciousness and time. The book is Laws of Form by G. Spencer Brown. The purpose of the weekend is to penetrate the book and to mine it for practical use. $85.00 per person.

For Leaders' Biographies, See Pages 20 & 21

Big Sur Programs

October 3-8 Five-Day Workshop
HOW TO BEAT THE GAME
Julian Silverman, Carole Rosenblatt and John Brent

Successful game-playing is the art of getting what you want. Through the use of gestalt, encounter and theater games, we will become more aware of the games we play and which ones work and which ones don't. $215 per person. (At South Coast Center).

October 3-9 One-Week Workshop
THE HEART OF THE MATTER Stephen Schoen and Lois Brien

Body, feeling and mind are interpenetrating aspects of our inner experience; the "passionate mind" and the "informed heart" actualize their union. To become aware of this unity of self, to enjoy ourselves, to stay with ourselves, to sense our self-desertion as we yield to it and our self-support as we invite it, to focus on what is, in ourselves, as autonomous and whole, is the purpose of this workshop. Techniques from gestalt therapy will be used to facilitate the experience. $260 per person.

October 3-9 One-Week Workshop
ENCOUNTER AND MASSAGE Esalen Staff

In this workshop the emphasis will be placed on communication through verbal and nonverbal techniques. Group leaders will integrate a variety of methods to help participants become more aware of what is real to them, how they feel, what they feel about others and how others experience them. As the need arises sense awareness exercises and body movement, fantasy, meditation and gestalt will be used. $240 per person.

October 3-16 Two-Week Program
OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAM Theodora Lyon and the Esalen Staff

This program will center on encounter and gestalt-oriented work. Additional opportunities will be available in other experiential areas (such as bio-energetics, movement, massage and sensory awakening) depending on group interest and leader availability. There will also be a structural integration demonstration; individual sessions are available at extra cost. $450 per person. $200 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

October 3-30 Four-Week Program
FREEING THE BODY Esalen Staff

This intensive program introduces various body-oriented disciplines such as massage training, the Rolf method of structural integration, movement, tai chi chuan, yoga and techniques based on the work of Wilhelm Reich. The aim is to give group members greater awareness of their physical structures and to demonstrate methods for achieving freer movement, more expressiveness and life feeling. There will be weekly sessions in gestalt and encounter to integrate the total experience. (At South Coast Center). $775 per person. $400 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

October 8-10 Weekend Seminar
BIO-FEEDBACK TRAINING Barbara Brown

This seminar will discuss and introduce techniques for measuring the brain's electrical activity (brain waves). The group will explore the effect of bio-feedback training and will control brain waves through this training. Emphasis will be placed upon differences among individuals and the significance of this to bio-feedback training and its consequences. $65 per person. (At South Coast Center).

October 10-15 Five-Day Workshop
EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN Esalen Staff

This program will join staff members and participants in an experience of each other and of the Institute surrounded only by as much structure as the group wishes to create. Each member may choose to join a group or not; individual choices can go from intense encounter to silent meditation, depending on the availability of the staff. Among possible offerings are encounter, gestalt, meditation, body awareness and movement, and instruction in yoga, massage and arts and crafts. Rolf treatments will be available at an extra cost. $215 per person.

October 10-15 Five-Day Workshop
FOR HOMOSEXUALS Stanley Freitas and Owen Garner

We are experiencing the beginning of a homosexual revolution in which the resolution of conflict has become one of the most critical areas for our survival as individuals. This workshop will be geared toward a resolution of that conflict and whatever happens will happen. $175 per person. (At South Coast Center).

For Big Sur Reservations, see page 10

October 10-15 Five-Day Workshop
OPEN GESTALT Richard Price

Gestalt training is an awareness-centered integrative process concentrating on how and now, rather than why and fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own untapped potential. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients" but are persons responsible for their own life decisions. $215 per person. (At South Coast Center).

October 10-16 One-Week Program
AWARENESS TRAINING FOR THE HEALTH PROFESSIONS
Jack Rosenberg, DDS

This workshop is designed for people in the health professions — dental, medical and allied fields, including nurses, technicians, and assistants; spouses are particularly encouraged to attend.
A factor in health care, often forgotten, is the health of those who provide care for others, much as the cobbler is the last to get shoes. The purpose of this workshop is to allow the health professional to take time to explore and take stock of his direction in both aspects of a professional person's life — his practice and his inner life — in hopes of developing a deeper significance, awareness and pleasure in both. Gestalt and body awareness, with videotape feedback, will be used. Participants will be shown ways to apply gestalt awareness techniques to their practice, as well as the technique for treatment of fixed muscular patterning of facial expression. Sessions in hatha yoga and movement expression will be included. $280 per person.

October 17-22 Five-Day Workshop
FOR WOMEN ONLY Marilyn Harris and Carole Rosenblatt

"Promise her anything but give her Arpege"?
$215 per person. (At South Coast Center).

October 17-22 Five-Day Workshop
MASSAGE WORKSHOP Roberta De Long and Peggy Kriegel

This workshop will present several different approaches to massage. The participant will be able to learn a variety of personal styles and orientations. The emphasis will be on experiencing energy and contact. Limited to 12 persons with previous massage experience. $215 per person.

October 17-23: OPEN GESTALT WEEK WORKSHOP Esalen Staff.

October 17-30: OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAM: Two-Week Program
Michael Butler and Esalen Staff. $450 per person. See above for description.

October 17-30 Two-Week Workshop
TRAINING PROGRAMS IN GESTALT THERAPY
James Simkin and Elaine Kepner

This workshop will provide theoretical as well as practical training in the application of the existential and phenomenological method for individual, group and self-treatment. The participants will have an opportunity to learn through facing and coping with their own personal problems. Attention will be primarily focused on phenomenology through the use of non-interpretive techniques. Audio-tape feedback and possibly video-tape feedback will be used as training tools.
The two-week workshop is limited to 24 qualified professional psychotherapists, in individual or group practice, who are licensed or license-eligible in the state or country where they practice. State qualifications including academic, professional and experiential backgrounds with application. Mark envelopes "Attention of Gestalt Professional Workshop." $650 per person. Nonrefundable deposit of $250 is required.

Big Sur Programs

October 22-24 Weekend Workshop
SUN RISE Deborah Carson

Yoga at dawn, barefoot wandering. Mantra and meditation by the sun. $65 per person. (At South Coast Center).

October 24-30 One-Week Program
ENERGY: AN APPROACH TO SPIRITUAL AWARENESS Robert Nadeau

The finer energies of the Universe are natural stepping stones to spiritual perfection. The proper approach, awareness and utilization of "energy dimensions" will be taught so that the student can clearly understand and follow his own path to perfection.
Here-and-now practice patterns and meditation will be emphasized with special attention given to the individual's personal approach.
$220 per person. (At South Coast Center).

October 24-30 One-Week Workshop
CELEBRATION Betty Fuller, Dub Leigh and the Esalen Residents

This workshop is based on open encounter as a way of life. Modeled on the "More Joy" workshops led by Will Schutz and the Flying Circus, methods and experiences will be available which may enhance individual growth and enrich the life of the community as a whole. Emphasis will be on nonverbal ways of developing body and sense awareness for the expression and communication of feelings here and now. Integral to the workshop is membership in the Esalen community, which will be facilitated by the participation of the Esalen Residents. $260 per person. (At South Coast Center).

October 24-30: OPEN GESTALT WEEK WORKSHOP Julian Silverman.
$240 per person. See page 6 for program description.

October 31-November 6 One-Week Workshop
ENCOUNTER AND AWARENESS Esalen Staff

In this workshop the emphasis will be placed on communication through verbal and nonverbal techniques. Group leaders will integrate a variety of methods to help participants become more aware of what is real to them, how they feel, what they feel about others and how others experience them. Work will include massage, movement and a structural integration demonstration. $240 per person.

October 31-November 6 One-Week Workshop
BODY AWARENESS AND THE SENSE OF BEING Edward Maupin

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as bodies. Even relating to other people requires that we be someone in this sense. In this workshop, a variety of approaches — sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method and from several yoga traditions — are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of the imagination. Bring sweat pants or leotards. $280 per person.

For Big Sur Reservations, see page 10

October 31-November 6: OPEN GESTALT WEEK WORKSHOP Esalen Staff.
$240 per person. See page 6 for program description.

October 31-November 6 One-Week Program
ACTING AND THE CREATIVE STATE John Argue

An actor prepares his mind/body through a set of exercises that open him to emotional interaction, sharpen his awareness of himself and others, and center him in the creative state. These exercises are a synthesis of many key insights derived from bioenergetics, gestalt, sensitivity and meditation, and are valuable to everyone seeking centeredness. They include breathing and relaxation, attention, give-and-take, speech and movement.
$200 per person. (At South Coast Center)

October 31-November 13: OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAM: Two-Week Program
Pamela Portugal, Carole Rosenblatt and Esalen Staff.
See page 6 for program description. $150 per person.

October 31-November 27 Four-Week Workshop
GESTALT AND STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION
Richard Price, Julian Silverman and the Esalen Staff

Psychological dis-ease and physical tension are two aspects of one phenomenon. Gestalt training is an awareness-centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. Structural integration (rolfing) while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body process in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolf treatments as part of this workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.).
$775 per person. $400 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.
(At South Coast Center)

November 5-7 Weekend Workshop
BREATHING AND AWARENESS Magda Proskauer

A workshop involving various breathing techniques and exercises in awareness. Mrs. Proskauer's approach educates awareness of somatic processes which are normally unconscious or semi-conscious. $85 per person.

November 7-12 Five-Day Workshop
REDISCOVERING THE EXPERIENCE OF BEING
Helen Stephens and Jonathan Daemion

Every experience that issues from within is a meditation. Through music, movement, rhythm and the poetry of space and time, we may begin to repoin body, mind and spirit and share our growing selves with others. Bring a musical instrument if you wish. $275 per person.

November 7-12: EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN: 5-Day Workshop Esalen Staff.
$175 per person. See page 6 for program description. (At South Coast Center)

November 7-13 One-Week Workshop
GESTALT AND MASSAGE Robert Martin

Gestalt is a non-interpretive form of existential psychotherapy focused on the restoration of awareness and integration of the organism. The therapist works toward integrating the fragmented, split personality through guiding the individual towards "experiencing" his being in the here and now, rather than "talking about" the past. Gestalt seeks to reveal how we prevent ourselves from feeling, experiencing and living fully and honestly. Our intent is what is rather than what "should be."
Participants in this workshop will have the opportunity to take part in gestalt sessions and to learn massage. $260 per person.

November 14-20 One-Week Workshop
ANOTHER ASPECT OF GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING
Jack and Leonne Downing

Utilizing familiar gestalt methods, combined with additional techniques from the Arica School of Oscar Ichazo, the Downings will work to increase participants' objective awareness of the concrete, actual world. $280 per person.

November 21-27 One-Week Workshop
ENERGY AND RELAXATION Robert Nadeau

Through an awareness of energy and "energy dimensions" participants will be able to reach deeper states of calmness and relaxation. The natural outcome of this approach will be an understanding of energy, balance, harmony, proper movement and physical efficiency. $260 per person.

November 28-December 3 Five-Day Workshop
GUILD OF HANDS Tony Wagner, Craft Director, and the Craft Staff

The "Barn" has traditionally been the artists' center at Esalen and for many years staff members have made it their studio. Recently Esalen's craftsmen began an ongoing program offering such diverse arts as leatherwork, welding, woodcarving and woodcut prints, batiking, macrame, jewelry, ojos de Dios, tie dying, photography, ceramics and forging. Participants in this workshop will learn various crafts and will have access to the barn's facilities all day, every day, after-dinner hours included. $215 per person.

November 28-December 3 Five-Day Workshop
FIRE IN OUR SOUL Pamela Portugal

"There may be a great fire in our soul, and no one ever comes to warm himself at it, the passers-by see only a little bit of smoke coming through the chimney and pass on their way . . . I should be very glad if you could see in me something besides an idle fellow." — Vincent Van Gogh. A workshop using techniques from aikido, hatha yoga, meditation and encounter. $215 per person. (At South Coast Center).

November 28-December 4 CELEBRATION
Betty Fuller, Dub Leigh and the Esalen Residents. $220 per person.
See page 7 for program description. (At South Coast Center).

November 28-December 11: OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAM:
Two-Week Program. Robert Cromey and Esalen Staff.
$450 per person. See page 6 for program description.

November 28-December 11 Two-Week Workshop
FOR PSYCHOTHERAPISTS ONLY
Julian Silverman, Janet Lederman and the Esalen Staff

Recent developments, both inside and outside the behavioral sciences, indicate the need for re-examining important philosophical and experiential concerns in the field of psychotherapy. This workshop combines a variety of theoretical and experiential approaches in exploring such issues as: the role of the professional helper, styles of contacting others, loss of control, suffering and death, the nature of madness and other states of consciousness, and the meanings of professional responsibility and concern. There will be opportunity for contact with patients on the Agnew State Hospital experimental ward where some of these new approaches are being employed. Please state background information with application. $500 per person.

December 3-5 Weekend Workshop
MODERN APPROACHES TO HYPNOTHERAPY
Peter Mutke and Emmett Miller

This workshop is designed to familiarize participants with the latest approaches to hypnotherapy, utilizing the increased state of receptivities towards programming and the control of autonomic nervous system functions through the state of hypnosis. All participants will experience the phenomena of hypnosis and some individuals may learn self-hypnosis by the end of the weekend. $85 per person.

December 3-5 Weekend Workshop
AN EXPERIMENT IN SURRENDER Claudio Naranjo

Claudio Naranjo writes: "This is the contract: 1. Neither you nor I know what we shall be doing. 2. To the best of my ability I shall endeavor to help you go where we all are going. 3. You agree to do exactly as I tell you for 10 hours.

"The experience is likely to take you into avenues other than those your initiative has made you acquainted with and will specifically be an opportunity to explore issues of trust vs. need to manipulate self and environment." $65 per person. (At South Coast Center)

December 5-10 Five-Day Workshop
GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING AND MEDITATION Claudio Naranjo

Claudio Naranjo writes: "I combine the modern techniques of gestalt training with ancient techniques of self awareness, thus endeavoring to maintain a balance between working in the interpersonal domain and working in isolation from others; between contacting the environment and contacting one's deeper self. Hopefully, a better balance may be established between both." $215 per person. (At South Coast Center).

December 5-11 One-Week Workshop
ENCOUNTER AND MASSAGE Esalen Staff

In this workshop the emphasis will be placed on communication through verbal and nonverbal techniques. Group leaders will integrate a variety of methods to help participants become more aware of what is real to them, how they feel, what they feel about others and how others experience them. As the need arises sense awareness exercises and body movement, fantasy, meditation and gestalt will be used. $200 per person. (At South Coast Center).

December 5-11 One-Week Workshop
FREEING THE BODY Esalen Staff

Participants will be introduced to various body oriented disciplines such as massage training, the Rolf method of structural integration, movement, tai chi chuan, yoga and techniques based on the work of Wilhelm Reich. The aim is to give group members greater awareness of their physical structures and to demonstrate methods for achieving freer movement, more expressiveness and life feeling. $210 per person.

December 12-17 Five-Day Workshop
ENCOUNTER AND EFFECTING CHANGE Jacqueline Doyle and Philip Slater

This workshop will attempt to integrate personal change through encounter with efforts to effect changes in the immediate social environment. Our explorations will make use of techniques ranging from nonverbal encounter to theoretical talk. $275 per person.

December 12-17: EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN: 5-Day Workshop
Esalen Staff. $215 per person. See page 6 for program description.

December 12-17: Five-Day Workshop
SMOKING: A MODERN WAY TO SELF-POISON
Richard Price, Diana Bechetti, Hector Prestera and Carole Rosenblatt

What, where and how? Breath and life are interrelated. How do you stop life? Using gestalt techniques, this workshop will explore for what purpose you need to smoke. $175 per person. (At South Coast Center).

December 12-18 One-Week Workshop
COUPLES' WORKSHOP Michael Butler and Simone Surpin

Many couples have a lingering suspicion that there is more to be had from a relationship than what they are getting. How do our games limit us, collectively and individually? How can we better grow together? This workshop will explore the thesis that a couple is not an institution; it is two unique individuals who are free to be close to each other. $400 per couple. (At South Coast Center).

December 12-25: OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAM: Two-Week Program
Esalen Staff. See page 6 for program description. $450 per person.

December 17-19 Weekend Workshop
EXPLORING MADNESS Julian Silverman

What sense is contained in psychotic phenomena? What possibilities for growth exist in "losing one's mind"? The value of becoming aware of one's own personal style of madness is explored in this seminar. Gestalt awareness techniques and active imagination are utilized to probe personal and empirical meanings of emotional dis-ease. $65 per person. (At South Coast Center).

December 19-24 Five-Day Workshop
ENERGY AND MASSAGE Roberta De Long

This workshop will explain the theory and application of energy in massage. Participants will learn to experience energy, to move with it, to work with body blocks according to their energy content and to balance the flow of energy within a body. Limited to 12 persons. $215 per person.

December 19-25 One-Week Workshop
NONVERBAL COMMUNICATION THROUGH MOVEMENT
Bo Conley and Sir Washington

Participants will build collectively a set of rituals using movement and other primarily nonverbal methods. The focus will be on animal imagery, a way of developing in dramatic form instinctual responses on primary emotional levels. $220 per person. (At South Coast Center).

December 19-25 One-Week Workshop
ENCOUNTER AND BODY AWARENESS Esalen Staff

In this workshop the emphasis will be placed on communication through verbal and nonverbal techniques. Group leaders will integrate a variety of methods to help participants become more aware of what is real to them, how they feel, what they feel about others and how others experience them. Work will include massage, movement and a structural integration demonstration. $200 per person. (At South Coast Center).

December 19-25 One-Week Workshop
INTEGRATING GESTALT THERAPY AND THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE
Frank and Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop will offer a combination of the Alexander Technique, gestalt therapy and sensory awareness in a flowing, congruent manner. The Rubenfelds have discovered that direct body work at critical junctures during group sessions can lead to powerful experiences for participants. The Alexander Technique is a method for integrating body/sensory awareness, coordinated movement and kinesthetic experience to contact, express and work through deep feelings. $260 per person.

December 26-30 Five-Day Workshop
REALITY AND ILLUSION George and Judith Brown

This workshop will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples (involved in or contemplating marriage), to the relationship. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness, followed by gestalt awareness training. $255 per person.

December 26-31 One-Week Workshop
A WEEK AT YEAR'S END Betty Fuller, Dub Leigh and the Esalen Residents

A week to celebrate, to rest, to work, to play, to explore, to discover, to learn, to feel, to sing, to dance, to massage, to care for yourself and others. The resources of both Esalen's Big Sur centers and of the leaders and participating staff and residents are available to help ring in 1972. $260 per person.

December 26-31: EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN: One-Week Workshop
Esalen Staff. $200 per person

December 26-31 One-Week Workshop
PERSON-CENTERED EDUCATION Aaron and Rosemary Hillman

Responsibility, ability to respond intellectually and emotionally to the moment, for both educators and students, is part of the process termed "Confluent Education." This workshop will focus on helping individual growth as well as illustrating ways of teaching that, in turn, will assist a student's individual growth. Gestalt awareness training will be an integral part of the workshop. Each participant will be sent a copy of Dr. George Brown's book, Human Teaching for Human Learning. $260 per person.

January 2-7 Five-Day Workshop
GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING AND MEDITATION Claudio Naranjo

Claudio Naranjo writes: "I combine the modern techniques of gestalt training with ancient techniques of self-awareness, thus endeavoring to maintain a balance between working in the interpersonal domain and working in isolation from others; between contacting the environment and contacting one's deeper self. Hopefully, a better balance may be established between both." $215 per person. (At South Coast Center).

January 2-29 Four-Week Program
MINI-RESIDENTIAL PROGRAM Michael Butler

This program is an experiment designed to convey in a month the intense group experience of a longer Esalen resident program. Participants will live and work together at the South Coast Center and be exposed to all of the disciplines available at Esalen. Please state background information with application. $775 per person. (At South Coast Center).

January 9-14 Five-Day Workshop

FREEING THE BODY Esalen Staff

This intensive program introduces various body-oriented disciplines such as massage training, the Rolf method of structural integration, movement, tai chi chuan, yoga and techniques based on the work of Wilhelm Reich. The aim is to give group members greater awareness of their physical structures and to demonstrate methods for achieving freer movement, more expressiveness and life feeling. There will be weekly sessions in gestalt and encounter to integrate the total experience.
$875 per person. $400 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

January 14-16 Weekend Seminar
HUMAN POTENTIALS WITHIN THE FRAME OF AMERICAN CIVILIZATION Max Lerner

Max Lerner writes: "My idea is to pull together the various strands of experience we have had and are having in our American civilization — sex and love and the whole human potential movement. One of the things I've noted about Esalen, as others have, is how hospitable it has been to fragments of experience and new movements from every direction. But, like others, I've felt no real thurst towards synthesis. If I have anything to contribute it's likely to be in that direction." $85 per person.

January 16-21: EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN: 5-Day Workshop Esalen Staff.

January 16-22 One-Week Workshop

January 30-February 5 One-Week Workshop
WORKSHOP FOR THE MEDICAL PROFESSIONS
Hector Prestera, M.D. and the Esalen Staff

Body energetics and somatic disease: this workshop will explore the concept of the body as an energy system with static as a cause of disease. Reichian energetics, rolfing and gestalt techniques will be used. $240 per person.

BIG SUR INFORMATION

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Accompanying the reservation deposits are required as follows: $70 for one-week and 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $300 for 3-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

CHECK-IN/CHECK-OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening; however, guests are welcome to arrive earlier in the afternoon. All programs begin with dinner on Sunday; weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday. The last session of a five-day program is Friday morning; check-out time is 12 noon on Friday. One-week programs usually end Saturday morning. 2-week, 3-week, and 4-week programs usually have final sessions on the last Saturday morning, with some programs ending Friday morning of the last week. Weekend programs end Sunday after the morning session. Check-out time is noon of the final day for all programs.

PROGRAM COSTS: cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra. Reservations must be made in advance; balance of payment is due on arrival. Foreign currency: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. Esalen accepts major credit cards, including BankAmericard, Master Charge and American Express.

SCHOLARSHIPS: Scholarships for staff-led programs are available through the Claire Nelson Scholarship Fund. Preference is given to persons who have attended a one-week (or longer) program at Esalen and who have been interviewed by a member of the administrative staff. Grants may cover from one-fourth to one-third of the program fee. To receive a scholarship application write to Scholarships, Esalen Institute/Big Sur.

ACCOMMODATIONS: The rooms of Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property — in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms — is strictly prohibited.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute — Reservations Only. The South Coast Center is 1½ miles north of Esalen Institute.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen representative.

LONG-TERM PROGRAMS: Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer at Esalen Institute. The work requirement is 6 hours per week at South Coast Center.

ORGANIC FOOD: The organic food garden on the Esalen grounds is flourishing and provides the kitchen with most of its vegetables and herbs. We try to serve only organically-produced meats, poultry and dairy products; most breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

A NEW DIMENSION AT ESALEN

It has long been our hope at Esalen that a comprehensive approach to learning for the whole person might evolve from our potpourri of disciplines. As a step in that direction, Esalen is moving toward the creation of an urban center for continuous, integrative learning — an evolution from our former programs that is new in structure. Through additional programs, and a greater variety of formats and prices, we hope to make Esalen a resource that is responsive to a wider range of interests; a center for those seeking alternative vocations, learning processes and life designs. The San Francisco schedule is being expanded to include:

EXTENDED STUDIES/TUTORIAL PROGRAM: Extended Studies at Esalen is an educational supplement and alternative for those who want to integrate interests in areas where Esalen is a resource. Each student will meet with a tutor each week while engaged in a full time or part-time three month program individually designed from the expanded Esalen schedule. A full-time program during any quarter might include three ten week courses, a weekly body-oriented group, two weekend workshops, and several evening lectures. Several colleges may grant formal course credit to participants. Tuition depends on individual program design, and ranges from $450 part-time to $750 full-time per quarter, including tutorial fees. For information and applications, call or write Esalen's San Francisco office.

CURRICULUM AND COURSES: Universities have restricted themselves almost exclusively to the development of verbal and intellectual skills and, as a consequence, many persons have rejected this educational approach and have turned toward "growth centers" or the more esoteric or occult schools which concentrate on nonverbal and experience based learning. Esalen is organizing a curriculum in which intellectual growth can take its place in a coordinated program of development of the entire person — body, intellect, emotions and spirit.

Core curriculums are forming around special subject areas; lectures, demonstrations and extended coursework in these areas will be offered each quarter:

Health and the Human Body: A study of health as a vibrant, energetic state of well-being, not as the absence of disease. Positive health is a balanced integration of the body and mind, to explore this approach, course material will draw on various disciplines and fields of inquiry: biochemistry, physiology, psychic healing, Oriental medicine, nutrition, yogic therapy, movement, breathing, relaxation, biological rhythms and others.

Physical Education: Athletics, exercise and physical movement as ways of discovering natural harmony and grace and self-expression. Athletics as competition or physical achievement is de-emphasized.

Extending Human Consciousness: Intellectual and experiential inquiry into our own consciousness, including meditation, the nature of religious experience, physical and mental exercises and techniques, to contact the latent capacities of man.

Art and Creative Expression: One of the primary urges of man is the need to create — to externalize his being and his reality through some form of creative symbol-making. Painting, ceramics, cooking and other art forms will be offered with the purpose of promoting understanding and self-integration through art.

Courses in the above subject areas begin this fall; others will be added and changes made regularly to create an expanding, more complete curriculum. Each course consists of 30- to 40-hours of participation over ten weeks. Each may be taken individually or as part of an extended study program. Included are:

The Psychology of Human Consciousness
The Human Body
Ecstatic Athletics
The Nature of Religious Experience
Experiential Physics
What Are You Doing With Your Life?

(See program descriptions, pp. 13-14.)

A CENTER FOR BODY-ORIENTED DISCIPLINES: In addition, we are incorporating a comprehensive range of body-oriented disciplines. An increasing need has been felt by most Esalen staff and leaders for study and training as a supplement to our regular weekly programs and demonstrations.

Among the disciplines to be offered, beginning this fall and continuing indefinitely are:

Tai Chi Chuan	Body Awareness
Energy Awareness & Aikido	Alexander Method
Massage	Rolf Method of Structural Integration
Breath Energy	Structural Awareness

(See program descriptions, pp. 12-15.)

SAN FRANCISCO PROGRAMS

EXTENDED GROWTH PROGRAM

(Directed by Betty Fuller and Dub Leigh)

The Extended Growth Program is an intensive five-month personal growth program in the San Francisco Bay Area, the second such under Miss Fuller's direction. Combining a schedule of workshops with ongoing small group work under the direction of experienced coordinators, it provides exposure to a number of disciplines, and allows participants to attempt integration of their experience into their customary living and working environments.

Beginning in November, this program will incorporate at least the following elements: two five-day residential workshops with the program directors (Monday, November 1 through Friday, November 5, and Monday, March 20 through Friday, March 24), three weekend sessions selected from regularly scheduled workshops during the November-to-March period, and the full series of ten individual hours of structural integration (rolfing).

In addition, the group will work with the program directors continually, over the entire program period, to provide integration of workshop and rolfing experience and to ground developing personal insights in a more sensitive, open and honest life style. Regular meetings will take place on weekday evenings, weekends and other mutually convenient times.

Selection for this Extended Growth Program will be made by interview with Esalen staff in San Francisco during the period September 15 through October 15. Limited to 18 persons, it will cost $875, including room and meals during the two residential workshops. A nonrefundable deposit of $250 will be payable upon selection; the balance November 1 except by special arrangement. The rolfing series may be replaced by other ongoing work for those who have already completed the rolfing program. Scholarship funds may be available. Write or call the San Francisco office for interview or further information.

WORKSHOPS WITH STANLEY KELEMAN

(Co-sponsored by Esalen Institute and the Institute for Bioenergetic Studies)

Stanley Keleman is an innovative theoretician and practitioner of the approaches to bodily and emotional health characterized by the work of Wilhelm Reich and Alexander Lowen. This Fall and Winter, he will conduct a limited number of workshops in the San Francisco Bay Area for persons selected by application.

Groups to be offered include: open workshops, weekend groups devoted to individual and group bioenergetic work; multiple workshops, a series of three weekends over a three-month period; ongoing series for persons working in the helping professions; five-day intensive workshop.

A complete prospectus and application form may be obtained by calling or writing the Esalen San Francisco office.

For San Francisco Reservations, see page 19

October 4-December 21 An Extended Workshop Series
MASSAGE TRAINING Gunver Jackson

Participants in this extended workshop will receive instruction in massage techniques and will work to develop receptivity to touch, both giving and receiving. Relaxation, breathing and gestalt awareness exercises will be used to supplement thorough massage training. Gunver Jackson writes: "The goal here is to teach that life is an act, not a thought. Action in life and our basic need for touch will be combined in the teaching of massage."

The course consists of twelve three-hour classes in massage, taught by Gunver Jackson, and ten classes in human anatomy, taught by Ed Jackson, M.D. Separate massage classes are scheduled for two groups, limited to ten participants each.

Group I: 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., twelve Monday mornings, October 4-December 20.

Group II: 7:00 to 10:00 p.m., twelve Tuesday evenings, October 5-December 21.

Anatomy Class (for both groups): 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., ten Thursday evenings.

$260 per person. Nonrefundable deposit of $150 is required. Indicate whether Group I or Group II is preferred when registering.

October 5-November 16 Tuesday Mornings
October 6-November 17 Wednesday Mornings
FOR WOMEN ONLY Betty Fuller

Betty Fuller writes: "I enjoy being a woman and wish to share my experiences with other women who enjoy their own rich and unique possibilities, privileges and response-abilities. We are not victims; let's discover how to make the most of each moment. Encounter-based, the group will explore polarities, differences, control games, sexual enrichment and any other phenomena of interest to women." Dress informally. (Suggested reading: The Key to Feminine Response, Ballantine Books). Indicate preferred group when registering. $65 per person.

Group 1: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., six Tuesdays, Oct. 5, 12, 19, Nov. 2, 9, 16.

Group 2: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., six Wednesdays, Oct. 6, 13, 20, Nov. 3, 10, 17.

(Note: No sessions October 26 and 27)

October 5-November 16 Tuesday Evenings
October 6-November 17 Wednesday Evenings
GROWTH EXPERIENCE WORKSHOP SERIES Betty Fuller and Dub Leigh

These on-going groups are a laboratory to experiment with open encounter as a life style which may then be lived experientially during the week at home and on the job. Although encounter-based, the emphasis in these sessions will be on the development of individual response-ability through heightened body and sense awareness. Dress informally. Indicate preferred group when registering. $75 per person.

Group 1: 7:30 to 11 p.m., six Tuesday evenings, October 5, 12, 19, November 2, 9, 16.

Group 2: 7:30 to 11 p.m., six Wednesday evenings, October 6, 13, 20, November 3, 10, 17.

(Note: No sessions October 26 and 27)

October 5-December 7 Tuesdays
PSYCHOPHYSICAL INTEGRATION
Robert Hall, Richard Heckler, Vincent Regalbuto

Robert Hall and his associates will offer a synthesis of gestalt therapy, polarity therapy, body awareness, tension release, diet, yoga, meditation and health. The group will meet all day each Tuesday for ten weeks. All applicants will be interviewed by Dr. Hall. Limited to 15.

$450 per person. 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., ten Tuesdays, Oct. 5 to Dec. 7.

October 6 Wednesday Evenings
BREATH ENERGY George Downing

George Downing writes: "We will explore a unique approach to breathing and body awareness developed by Magda Proskauer. Our breath regulates much of our emotional life as well as our physical body. By opening ourselves more deeply to the breath within us we will seek to develop more centeredness, greater bodily relaxation, and an enriched experience of our own being."

$22 per person per month. 8:00 to 9:30 p.m., every Wednesday evening, starting October 6.

October 7-December 16 Thursday Afternoons
HUMAN ANATOMY Ed Jackson, M.D.

An anatomy course oriented to therapies and disciplines that require a concern for human structure and function: movement, gestalt, dance, massage. Emphasis will be on the skeletal and muscular systems. The material will be presented both through lecture and direct examination and experience of the living body. Limited to 20 people.

$90 per person ($50 nonrefundable deposit required). 3:00 to 5:00 p.m., ten Thursday afternoons, October 7 to December 16 (no meeting Thanksgiving week).

For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 20-21

CONTINUING PROGRAMS

THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE Frank Ottiwell

Beginning in October, Mr. Ottiwell will offer continuous classes in the Alexander Technique, with enrollment limited to six persons. New persons may join the class as spaces become available. Classes will meet on a weekday evening; beginning date, day of week and hours will be announced by late September. Interested persons should contact the Esalen office to have their name placed on a waiting list.

The Alexander Technique is a method of facilitating psycho-physical integration by applying sensory awareness, inhibition and re-direction to such everyday activities as sitting, standing, walking and lying, under conditions of continuous feedback. Frank Ottiwell writes: "We are already the possessors of a center or pattern which, if left alone, would free us into the conscious pleasure of living our wholeness. These sessions will focus on: experiencing the specific ways in which each individual interferes with the natural flow of his total pattern; learning to inhibit the interference; and allowing and encouraging a response that will strengthen our innate tendency toward a whole use of the self." $35 per person per month.

October 1-December 3 Friday Evenings
PSYCHODRAMA SERIES Donna Yablonsky

Psychodrama, involving the spontaneous acting-out of real personal and social situations, is one of the most effective and versatile of group interaction techniques. In these intensive sessions, the group as a whole will be introduced to the basic roles of psychodrama — "protagonist", "auxiliary", and others. Each participant will be given the opportunity to become involved as actively and creatively as his own needs and preferences demand.

This program may be attended on a series basis or on any Friday evening. Dr. Lewis Yablonsky will be on hand several evenings during the series.

$37.50 per person for the series: $4 per person for individual evenings.

9 to 11 p.m., ten Friday evenings, October 1-December 3.

October 4-November 1 Monday Mornings
STRUCTURAL AWARENESS Marya Melchior

This workshop will concentrate on developing awareness of body alignment. A set of exercises will be taught which are based on Ida Rolf's method of body balance, structural integration. Participation is limited to those who have completed the series of Rolf sessions. Limited to ten persons.

$65 per person. 10 a.m. to 12 noon, five Monday mornings, October 4 to November 1.

For San Francisco Reservations, See Page 19

October 19-November 16 Tuesday Evenings
ON BEING THERE: A SERIES FOR COUPLES Bob Kriegel & Marilyn Harris

In many relationships the primary focus is on the negative aspects while the positive side is taken for granted. In this series — using experiential methods, massage and nonverbal exercises — couples may work toward a relationship with more warmth and joy in which appreciations as well as resentments are expressed.
$100 per couple. 8 to 10:30 p.m., five Tuesday evenings, October 19-November 16.

October 20-November 17 Wednesday Evenings
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP SERIES Bob Kriegel

In this encounter series, people will be helped to see the restraints which they may have imposed on themselves which limit joy, growth and personal fulfillment. $50 per person.
8 to 10:30 p.m., five Wednesday evenings, October 20-November 17.

October 20-November 17 Wednesday Evenings
BEYOND THE TEXTBOOK:
AN INTRODUCTION TO CONFLUENT EDUCATION Marilyn Harris

This workshop series, designed for classroom teachers at all levels and school administrators, will deal with the application of experiential approaches to classroom education and the integration of these approaches with traditional cognitive curriculums. Using methods of gestalt awareness, fantasy, role playing and encounter, each participant may explore his personal and professional awareness and the possibilities of a humanistic and creative education. $50 per person.
8 to 10:30 p.m., five Wednesday evenings, October 20-November 17.

October 21-December 9 Thursday Evenings
YOGA OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND MEDITATION Eleanor Criswell

This eight week series will explore the theory and practice of Raja (Ashtanga) yoga, the yoga of consciousness, in the light of modern psychophysiology and bio feedback. The sessions will follow the eight limbs of Patanjali's yoga (Yama, Niyama, postures, breathing, relaxation, concentration training and various meditative modes — modern and ancient) as they relate to the meditative way and altered states of consciousness. Application of yogic practices and meditation in educational settings, personal growth experiences and transpersonal experiences will be discussed.
Participants will be encouraged to keep a personal yoga journal, experience bio-feedback and share their responses to yogic literature. Wear loose and comfortable clothing.
$45 general; $35 student for the series.
8 to 10:30 p.m., eight Thursday evenings, October 21-December 9.

For Leaders' Biographies, See Pages 20 & 21

San Francisco Programs

October 9 Continuous Saturday Mornings
BODY AWARENESS George Downing and Staff

A morning program and place for stretching out, centering, and experiencing the flow of energy within our bodies. Yoga, massage, movement, Proskauer breathing, Stone exercises, and a variety of other approaches to the body will be used. Can be attended on any Saturday, or as a series.
$6 per person, each Saturday, or $22 per person, per month. 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., every Saturday, starting October 9.

October 11-December 13 Monday Afternoons
WHAT ARE YOU DOING WITH YOUR LIFE? Arthur Deikman

Arthur Deikman is a psychiatrist who has been doing research on meditation for the past ten years. From the perspective of psychotherapy and the psychology of contemplative practice, he will help the participants in this course to explore basic questions about the direction and quality of their lives. Hopefully, this program will help people integrate the kinds of insights and experience which seem most important to them to the rest of their activities.
$130 per person. 4 to 6:30 p.m., ten Monday afternoons, October 11-December 13.

October 11-December 13 Monday Evenings
THE PSYCHOLOGY OF HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS Robert Ornstein

A complete conception of man is beginning to emerge within the academic disciplines, a conception which includes man's capacity for self-regulation, his sensitivity to subtle sources of energy, his facility for "paranormal communication". A new view of the nervous system is evolving and, along with it, a new conception of health. Current thinkers have discovered many older esoteric disciplines for training these human capacities and are developing many new technologies. The present scientific revolution represents for Western man a synthesis of the religious (in the broadest sense) conception of the human potential with the methods and technological sophistication of 20th century science.
This course will be an intellectual and experiential inquiry into human consciousness. Readings and exercises from both ancient and modern disciplines will be included. Emphasis will be on the psychology of meditation and the unity of esoteric and modern psychologies. $130 per person. 7:30 to 10 p.m., ten Monday evenings, October 11-December 13.

October 12 Tuesday and Thursday Evenings, Saturday Mornings
ENERGY AWARENESS AND AIKIDO Robert Nadeau

A continuous program of instruction in energy awareness as used for centering, movement, healing, concentration and relaxation, and in Aikido as a physical expression of that awareness in a self-defense form, with emphasis on harmony and energy in motion. This course will meet each week; participation can be in one, two or three sessions per week, with tuition based on the schedule of participation. Tuesdays and Thursdays, 8:00 to 9:30 p.m., Saturdays, 10:00 a.m. to 12 noon.

One meeting per week: $15 per month (general and student)

Two meetings per week: $25 per month, general; $20 per month, student

Three meetings per week: $35 per month, general; $30 per month, student

October 12-December 16 Tuesday and Thursday Afternoons
ECSTATIC ATHLETICS Ethan Gluck

An experiential study of the movements and philosophy of western sport. In this course, sport will be approached from the point of view of physical harmony, not competition; participants will concentrate on integrating innate strength, grace and physical and mental coordination into smooth athletic movement. The concern is to provide a conducive instructional and play environment in which each group member can develop his own physical rhythms and expressions.
Sports to be included are basketball, tennis, track, table tennis, football and others, depending on the availability of facilities. Two sessions will be offered, one for beginning players and one for more advanced athletes.
$130 per person per series.
Series I: 1 to 4 p.m., Tuesday afternoons, October 12-December 14.
Series II: 1 to 4 p.m., Thursday afternoons, October 14-December 16.

October 14-December 16 Thursday Evenings
THE HUMAN BODY James Koski

Basic introduction to the structure and function of the human body, aimed at developing a concept of health. Topics to be covered are: fertilization and embryonic development, tissue differentiation and growth, birth, death and aging, organ systems and homeostasis, mind-body interaction and health and disease. The central metaphor will be that the body (microcosm) is a reflection of the world around it (macrocosm). The approach will be eclectic, drawing on information from anatomy, physiology, medicine, psychology, psychocybernetics, alchemy and other systems of thought which reflect on the human organism. The course is designed for the layman who wishes to learn about his body and its relationship to the world. The format will include lecture, group discussion, films, guest instructors.
$130 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., ten Thursday evenings, October 14-December 16.

For San Francisco Reservations, See Page 19

November 2-December 7
Tuesday Evenings and a Weekend Session, December 11-12
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS FOR PROFESSIONALS Jim and Susan Vargiu

Six evenings, plus a weekend, designed for psychotherapists, educators, counselors and others involved in the helping professions. The group will explore the fundamentals of psychosynthesis, theoretically and experientially, in a coordinated program designed to give each participant both the understanding and the personal experience needed to begin to utilize and apply psychosynthesis within his own field. We will work together so that each can see the process of psychosynthesis at work, both in himself and in the others. There will be assignments and exercises to complete between meetings. Opportunities for further individual work during the six week period can be arranged.

Special application forms will be sent to persons interested in this professional series. $130 per person.

7:30 to 10:30 p.m., six Tuesday evenings, November 2-December 7.
Weekend program, December 11-12, included in tuition.

November 2-December 14 Tuesday Evenings
GESTALT SERIES FOR PROFESSIONALS Elaine Kepner

A continuing series in gestalt training for mental health practitioners, psychologists and psychotherapists who work with people individually or in group settings. Participants will learn about gestalt theory and methods through their own experience in the workshop. $95 per person.

7:30 to 10:30 p.m., six Tuesday evenings, November 2-December 14.
(Note: No session November 16).

November 7 and 14; December 5 and 12 Sunday Evenings
LIFE ENERGY: A PROGRAM SERIES Robert Nadeau

These programs, which consist of a wide variety of energy-freeing and energy-producing exercises, are intended to familiarize each person with energy so that he may use it as a tool for higher awareness. (Available as a series or as individual sessions).

Energy Awareness (November 7 and 11): Exercises in learning to become more directly aware of energy flow in oneself and in others. The sessions will stress the development of direct perception of energy and the importance of concentration and attitude in the awareness of energy flow.

Energy and Spiritual Growth (December 5 and 12): The group will explore and practice how to use energy in the spiritual dimensions and how to approach and experience higher realms through energy. There will be individual and group meditation exercises.

$20 per person for the series. $6 per person per individual evening.
Four Sunday Evenings, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Nov. 7 & 14: U.C. Medical Center, 3rd & Parnassus, San Francisco, (sponsored by U.C.S.F. Committee on Arts and Lectures.)

Dec. 5 & 12: First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary, San Francisco

November 7-December 5 Sunday Evenings
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS: A WORKSHOP FOR THOSE UNDER 25
Steven Kull and Betsie Carter

This workshop will focus on the experience of identity and those levels of consciousness that bring us in touch with our higher identity, the transpersonal self. The aim is to develop an ongoing process of psychosynthesis through active self discovery, the resolution of inner conflicts and the subsequent release and transmutation of energies, and to harmonize and integrate the various dimensions of being around a higher unifying center. State your age when registering. $30 per person.

8 to 10:30 p.m., five Sunday evenings, November 7 December 5.

December 7-January 18 Tuesday Evenings
GROWTH EXPERIENCE WORKSHOP SERIES Betty Fuller and Dub Leigh

Please refer to program description on page 12. $75 per person.

San Francisco Programs

October 23-24, November 6-7, November 20-21 Three-Weekend Series
THE NATURE OF RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE Claudio Naranjo

In this series Dr. Naranjo will touch on several different "ways" to religious understanding and growth. Persons must register for the entire series.

Trinity in Multiplicity: A Holy Science (October 23-24): A short journey into the heart of the Kabbalah and related systems of knowledge. Sessions will be partly lecture-discussions and partly guided meditations.

Know Thyself, but How? (November 6-7): Psychotherapy answers, with the help of someone else's awareness. Yet there are traditional ways of working on oneself which have been forgotten. This weekend may serve as beginning instruction and practice in an unfamiliar path.

Teachings of the Teachers of my Teachers (November 20-21): A glimpse into the unity that became dismembered in Hindu, Chinese, Christian and Moslem approaches. A series of lecture-discussions designed to bring about an exchange of experiences and not thoughts.

$130 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, Oct. 23-24, Nov. 6-7, Nov. 20-21.

October 25 Every Monday Evening and October 27 Every Wednesday Evening
TAI CHI CHUAN Li Li-Ta

Tai Chi Chuan is a centuries-old movement meditation derived from ancient Chinese forms of self-defense. It promotes gracefulness, relaxation, centering and experience of energy flow. The first meeting will be a participation-demonstration. Instructions will begin at the second meeting.

$22.50 per person per month.
7:30 to 8:30 p.m., every Monday or every Wednesday evening, beginning Monday, October 25 and Wednesday, October 27.

October 30-31, November 13-14, December 4-5: Three-Weekend Series
EXPERIENTIAL PHYSICS Dean Brown

For a thousand years Western man has devoted his attention to matters of external reality or "outer space". This emphasis has culminated in much of the style of life and thought which forms his existence today. Now he is embarking upon a similar adventure into inner space. We should equip ourselves for this venture with the best tools and guidelines that our hard-earned experience from the past can offer. The spirit of scientific creation at its best, and the morality that must necessarily be associated with its reputation, should be distilled and re-directed in the new science. Physics is defined (for purposes of this course) as the study of perceptual phenomena — events as measured in terms of mass, energy, space and time. Starting with early problems of medicine, agriculture, astrology, navigation, and transmutation, we have evolved rigorous constructs supported by pyramiding empirical verifications and applications. These constructs are in the areas of mensuration, models and data, and "scientific methods". These intensive weekends will be devoted to the study of these matters:

Our View of the Universe (October 30-31): Nature of physical law, principles of least action, cosmogeny, vibrations, map of the physical disciplines.

Great Men (November 13-14): Kepler, Newton, Einstein, Poincare; principles of discovery; the evolution of theory; esthetics, inspiration, intuition, ansatz.

New Directions (December 4-5): Inner space isomorphisms; creativity; the task of science; biofeedback; mass-energy-space-time as mental construct.

Our physical view of the universe, macro and micro, is an elegant mosaic of "everything connected to everything" — a solid platform for launching the inner space millenium. No prerequisites and no previous scientific knowledge or background required.

10 a.m. to 5 p.m., each day: October 30-31, Nov. 13-14, Dec. 4-5.

November 1-29 Monday Evenings
LEARNING TO DRAW Sy Weisman

"Art is an impossible demand given expression and form." (Albert Camus). Drawing is a natural expression of human perception; this series is for persons who desire to increase their awareness of what is seen and their ability, through art, to express what is experienced. Individual and group exercises in various media will focus on the uses of one's energy and senses in seeking the substance and form of the visual.

$50 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., five Monday evenings, Nov. 1-29.

For San Francisco Reservations, see page 19

PROGRAMS: WEEKENDS & EVENING

October 6 An Evening Experience
A GESTALT DEMONSTRATION Esly Barreras, Jerry Kogan and Staff

The evening experience will begin with small group, gestalt awareness exercises. For the latter half of the evening, participants will have three choices: to watch a continuous showing of movies on gestalt therapy; to attend a lecture and process demonstration in gestalt which will include art and fantasy; or to continue with the small groups.
$5 per person. 6:30 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 7 An Evening Lecture
PANTHEISTIC AWARENESS & BIO-ELECTRIC FIELD EFFECTS
James Beal

The broadest possible overview of man's effects on his environment, environmental feedback and the mental/physical results is needed for realization of his potential as a total human being. Thus, as a product of the Cosmos we are all "tuned in" and our biorhythms react accordingly to electromagnetic and electrostatic fields, low frequency radiation and ions. Bio-electric field intensity measurements around the body and potential tie-ins to paranormal events and monitoring and training of subjective states of experience will be discussed. Equipment and illustrative slides will be shown.
$3 general, $2 students. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday.
Milberry Union, U.C. Medical Center, 3rd and Parnassus, San Francisco.
Sponsored by U.C.S.F. Committee on Arts and Lectures.

October 8-10 Weekend Workshop
ON BEING A WOMAN Elaine Kepner and Lois Brien

A workshop for women only. Emphasis will be on experiencing one's self as a whole female person in contrast to exploring only the feminine roles imposed by the culture. Gestalt methods will be used to explore women's relationships with other women, with themselves and with men. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 8-10 Weekend Workshop
A WEEKEND OF PSYCHODRAMA Walt Anderson and Fred Moore

Psychodrama brings a group together in spontaneous dramatizations of personal and social problems. In this workshop group members will work with the various roles and techniques of psychodrama and with whatever specific subjects emerge; individual participants will be free to become as involved — or uninvolved — as their personal needs and preferences dictate. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 14 An Evening Participation
EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN Esalen Staff

Participants will have introduction to many methods for personal growth being explored at Esalen. Comfortable clothing recommended; bring pillow for easy sitting. $3 general, $2 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Thursday.
International House, 2299 Piedmont Avenue, Berkeley.

October 15-17 Weekend Workshop
MASSAGE AND BREATH ENERGY George Downing

This workshop will use techniques of yoga breathing and Proskauer breath awareness in order to attain a heightened consciousness of the energy within the body. Through massage, group members will seek to focus this energy in caring for and healing others. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 15-17 Residential Weekend Workshop
THE LIVING PLACE Betty Fuller and Dub Leigh

The creation of a supportive community in which to discover and experience our human divinity; to explore encounter life styles experientially; to develop heightened body and sense awareness; to re-create ourselves through open encounter, enhanced by art, dance and music. If you have musical instruments, bring them. A section for couples may be formed if enrollment warrants. $75 per person, including room and meals. 8 p.m. Friday through Sunday lunch.

October 15-17 Weekend Workshop
REALITY AND ILLUSION: LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE
George I. and Judith Brown

This workshop will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples (involved in or contemplating marriage), to the relationship. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness, followed by gestalt awareness training.
$65 per person, including lunch and dinner. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, and ends after lunch on Sunday.

For San Francisco Reservations, see page 19

October 15-17 Weekend Workshop
TRANSACTIONAL ANALYSIS & GESTALT AWARENESS Ronald Ullman

Transactional analysis is a discipline, originated by Eric Berne, which aims to reveal unconscious behavior patterns, thereby facilitating the creation of new options. Using the encounter format as the basis for exploration of the self, this workshop combines principles of transactional analysis and gestalt theory. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

EXTENDING HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS:

A Lecture Series

The lectures described below, centered around the theme of the nature and extension of consciousness, will take place on eight Wednesday evenings, beginning October 13. All lectures will be held 8 to 10:30 p.m., First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Individual and series tickets are available: series tickets should be purchased in advance through the San Francisco office; individual tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door.

Series tickets (8 lectures): $20 general; $12 student.
Individual tickets: $3 general; $2 student.

October 13: THE CURRENT REVOLUTION Robert Ornstein
A new cultural and scientific era is forming. We as a culture are becoming more aware of our own potential and capacities and, concomitantly, science, "growth centers" and education are developing new techniques to extend human consciousness. This lecture will introduce some of the elements of this new cultural program and serve as an overview for the lecture series.

October 20: THE GESTALT APPROACH John Enright
The gestalt approach develops organismically rooted awareness, as opposed to cognitive speculation as a foundation for any extension of consciousness. A lecture plus gestalt group exercises.

October 27: "WHAT IS WRONG?" Claudio Naranjo
From one point of view, the original sins of delusion, greed and hate; from another, lack of awareness that everything is all right; and these two are not different. How can these ideas help us, however? An evening to find how they apply here and now among and in us.

November 3: THE TECHNOLOGIES OF SELF-CONTROL Robert Ornstein
Western science has recently rediscovered that man possess the capacity to control his heart, brain and "autonomic nervous system." Techniques such as autogenic training and bio-feedback will be discussed and demonstrated in light of their application to science, education and self-understanding.

November 10: STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION Peter Melchoir
A discussion of Ida Rolf's method of body integration and physical alignment in relationship to physical movement and expression, the emotional and feeling life, and self-understanding.

November 17: PSYCHOSYNTHESIS James Fadiman
A discussion of the principles of psychosynthesis and the approach it offers to the harmonious integration of mind, body, spirit and psyche.

December 1: THE SUFIS Robert Ornstein
The Sufis are a group who have been concerned with knowledge. Their teachings are held to lie behind those which are more familiar — Zen, yoga, Christianity, Rosicrucianism, alchemy, the Tarot, etc. This will be an introductory session, reading stories and fables and reflecting upon them.

December 8: THE BIOLOGICAL ROOTS OF CONSCIOUSNESS Stanley Keleman
Consciousness is a transitory state between two levels of being. It is an evolutionary process which is constantly forming and emerging and is rooted in our biological experience. An evening discussion with possible group exercises.

For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 20-21

October 22-24 Weekend Workshop
COUPLES IN COMMUNICATION Bill and Audrey McGaw

This workshop will provide an opportunity for married or engaged couples to explore marriage, not as an institution, but as an extremely vital and personal way of life. The McGaws will concentrate on the positive aspects of partnership, increased understanding of self and mate, and deeper, more meaningful communication. Participating couples should expect to spend 20 to 25 hours in group sessions over the workshop period.
$115 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 22-24 Weekend Workshop
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS: A WORKSHOP FOR THOSE UNDER 25
Steven Kull and Betsie Carter

This workshop will focus on the experience of identity and those levels of consciousness that bring us in touch with our higher identity, the transpersonal self. The aim is to develop an ongoing process of psychosynthesis through active self-discovery, the resolution of inner conflicts and the subsequent release and transmutation of energies, and to harmonize and integrate the various dimensions of being around our higher unifying center. State your age when registering. $25 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 25 Evening Lecture and Demonstration
PSYCHOPHYSICAL INTEGRATION Robert Hall

Robert Hall is a medical doctor, psychiatrist, gestalt therapist, practitioner of Rolf's structural integration and a student of meditation. He will approach human wholeness and unity from his varied perspectives and experience. $3 general; $2 student. 7:30 to 10:00 p.m., Monday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 28 An Evening Discussion-Experience
SCALE: THE GOLDEN MEAN Ron Cooper and Faith Hornbacher

"It is a dragon, destroyer of all, cried the ants. Then the cat leaped and caught — a lizard." (Idries Shah). An exploration of how the concept of scale is used to identify man and his place in the environment and how man structures his world in terms of his own size. There will be exercises to become more aware of scale in relation to individual existence.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 29-31 Weekend Workshop
REFOCUSING ENERGY Bob Kriegel and Marilyn Harris

Since many persons spend time dwelling on negative aspects of their personalities and lives, this weekend will be an opportunity to refocus attention on forgotten positive strengths and individually available tools for continued personal growth and expansion of life possibilities. Approaches from encounter, gestalt and psychosynthesis will be used.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

October 30 Saturday Workshop
EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN Esalen Staff

An intensive day of group work, based in the field of encounter, but incorporating the techniques and insights of other disciplines. The aim is a more dynamic and positive life experience which is grounded in openness and honesty and which allows the exploration of individual freedom in a supportive context.
$15 per person. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday. (Bring your own lunch).

October 31 Sunday Workshop
THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE Frank Ottiwell and Judith Stransky

The Alexander Technique is a subtle re-education of the body which is brought about by producing muscular responses with changing thought patterns while under the guiding hands of a teacher. This introductory workshop will give participants an experience of how to change faulty patterns and to move in more natural balance and freedom. Each participant will be worked with individually. Limited to 16 persons.
$25 per person. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday.

November 1 An Evening Lecture
SOMATIC WHOLENESS: MUTANT HUMAN BEHAVIOR IN A POST-TECHNOLOGICAL SOCIETY Thomas Hanna

The evolutionary structure of human somas and the fixed patterns of soma-environmental interchange evoked within technological environments.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

San Francisco Programs

October 17 and 24: Two Sunday Workshops
RAKU: A SYNTHESIS OF EARTH, AIR, FIRE, WATER Ronald Cooper

"All the genuine, deep delight of life is in showing people the mud-pies you have made; and life is at its best when we confidingly recommend our mud-pies to each other's sympathetic consideration." – J. M. Thorburn.
Raku is a centuries-old philosophy and a technique for the use, forming and firing of ceramics. Because of its emphasis on the simplicity and beauty of nature, raku has been closely associated with the tea ceremony of Zen Buddhism. It provides a dramatic introduction, within minutes, to the fundamentals of ceramics – from soft, raw earth to permanence by fire. The first session will introduce the practice and will conclude with the forming of objects to be fired the following week. During the second Sunday, group members will build a kiln, glaze and fire their ware. Limited to 20 persons. No previous art experience of any kind is necessary.
$30 per person for both sessions. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., October 17 and 24.

October 21 An Evening Lecture
THE BRAIN AS A REDUCING VALVE James Koski

Aldous Huxley suggested that the main function of the brain and nervous system is eliminative. "According to such a theory," Huxley writes, "each one of us is potentially Mind at Large. But in so far as we are animals our business is at all costs to survive. To make biological survival possible, Mind at Large has to be funneled through the reducing valve of the brain and nervous system. What comes out at the other end is a measly trickle of the kind of consciousness which will help us stay alive." This thesis will be discussed in light of neurophysiology, psychedelics and esoteric psychologies. Sponsored by U.C.S.F. Committee on Arts and Lectures.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday.
Milberry Union, U.C. Medical Center, 3rd and Parnassus, San Francisco

October 22-23 Weekend Workshop
THE GESTALT RELATIONSHIP: A WORKSHOP FOR MAKING FRIENDS
Stella Resnick

People often come to workshops with two major goals – to become more aware of themselves and to meet and befriend others. In accord with a basic gestalt principle, making the implicit explicit, this workshop will focus on participants' awareness of themselves as social beings, especially with regard to contacting/withdrawing from others, directness of communications and building relationships. $50 per person.
8 p.m. to 12 midnight, Friday; 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday.

October 22-24 Weekend Workshop
EXTENDING AWARENESS THROUGH HYPNOSIS Lee Pulos

This workshop will combine the approaches of hypnosis and psychosynthesis for furthering personal exploration. Hypnosis and self-hypnosis will be taught so that participants can focus in on themselves through hypnotically induced dreams, automatic writing and drawings under hypnosis. These self discoveries will be extended through guided fantasies, symbolic imagery and learning how to tune in to the "inner theater" of one's unconscious. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

November 13 Saturday Workshop
MODERN APPROACHES TO HYPNOTHERAPY
Peter Mutke and Emmett Miller

This workshop is designed to familiarize participants with the latest approaches to hypnotherapy, utilizing the increased state of receptivities towards programming and the control of automatic nervous system functions through the state of hypnosis. All participants will experience the phenomena of hypnosis and some individuals may learn self-hypnosis by the end of the session.
$20 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, November 13.

November 14 A Lecture and Demonstration
ON YOGA Joel Kramer

An evening designed to acquaint the interested non-practitioner, as well as the practitioner, with yoga. Mr. Kramer will demonstrate hatha yoga and discuss yoga both in classical structure and as an evolutionary approach to living in the modern world.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Sunday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

November 18 An Experiential Session
ENCOUNTER FOR TWO Gerald Smith

A variety of verbal and nonverbal experiences for couples (not necessarily married) who want to learn new ways of adding life and increased understanding to their relationship.
$5 per couple. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, November 18.
Milberry Union, U.C. Medical Center, 3rd and Parnassus, San Francisco
Sponsored by U.C.S.F. Committee on Arts and Lectures.

November 19 An Evening Lecture
THE ALCHEMY OF SCHIZOPHRENIA,
OR HOW TO LIVE WITH SCHIZOPHRENIA RESEARCH Roland Fischer

This will be an informal evening of twisted thoughts and twisted molecules. The "inside story" of biologically oriented schizophrenia research — with all its breakthroughs and all its breakdowns — will unfold as a neurohumorous tale. (Hal Markowitz is lecture discussant).
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, November 19.
Milberry Union, U.C. Medical Center, 3rd and Parnassus, San Francisco
Sponsored by U.C.S.F. Committee on Arts and Lectures.

November 19-21 Residential Weekend Workshop
REALITY AND ILLUSION: LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE
George I. and Judith Brown

This workshop will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples (involved in or contemplating marriage), to the relationship. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness, followed by gestalt awareness training. $75 per person, including room and meals.
8 p.m. Friday through Sunday lunch.

November 19-21 Weekend Workshop
PROFESSIONAL TRAINING IN PSYCHOSYNTHESIS:
FROM THE EGO TO THE SELF Robert and Donna Gerard

This workshop is designed for individuals in the helping professions who want to extend their skills beyond the usual methods of encounter, gestalt and sensory awareness. An extensive series of specialized techniques of psychosynthesis will be demonstrated with opportunity for direct experience. The aim is to explore and integrate all levels of being from the depths of the unconscious to the heights of superconscious awareness, from the personal ego to the transcendental self. Please state professional qualifications when registering. $60 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 20-21

San Francisco Programs

November 5-7 Weekend Workshop
LIFE, DEATH AND DYING Len and Lil Pearson

A weekend experience to explore one's own feelings about death and life, to examine the attitude toward death prevalent in our society and to deal openly with the fact of our mortality in order to take part more fully in the richness of life. This workshop is designed for those whose work brings them in contact with dying persons, those who have "unfinished business" with persons who have died or who are close to death, and for those who wish to confront their own feelings about the ultimate reality, for whatever reason. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

November 5-7 Weekend Workshop
OPEN ENCOUNTER FOR SINGLES Robert Cromey and Helen Stephens

A supportive, expansive group experience for men and women over thirty years of age who want to break out of the loneliness and isolation imposed by a Victorian upbringing and poor communication patterns.
Please state age and sex on application. Some Esalen resident fellows may assist as group facilitators. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

November 5-7 Weekend Workshop
ADVANCED MASSAGE George Downing

For persons who have had previous massage instruction or experience with massage. This workshop will include a review of basic methods and an exploration of a variety of different techniques, such as shiatsu, Reichian massage and Proskauer massage. In addition, the weekend will focus on the meaning of massage for ourselves and others and its relation to other approaches to body awareness. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

November 6 Saturday Workshop
AN INFORMAL SEMINAR IN SOMATOLOGY Thomas Hanna

Theoretical and experiential confrontation with the world of somas — human somas as well as primate and vertebrate somas. Learning to become aware of the somatic depths of our being and learning to recognize and describe somatic patterns. A discussion of the viewpoint and task of the somatologist. $15 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday.

November 6-7 Weekend Workshop
BEYOND THE TEXTBOOK: AN INTRODUCTION TO CONFLUENT EDUCATION Marilyn Harris

This weekend, designed for classroom teachers at all levels and school administrators, will deal with the application of experiential approaches to classroom education and the integration of these approaches with traditional cognitive curriculums. Using methods of gestalt awareness, fantasy, role playing and encounter, each participant may explore his personal and professional awareness and the possibilities of a humanistic and creative education.
$50 per person. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

November 11 Thursday Workshop
BREADMAKING: THE ANCIENT ART AND CRAFT Manuel, Master Baker

The dynamic principles of physics, chemistry, mathematics, sculpture and philosophy are in action when fingertips perform with dough. Manuel will teach methods in primitive and natural foods baking as applied through modern technology. Class to be held at Whole Earth Breads, Palo Alto.
$12 per person. 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Thursday.

November 12-14 Weekend Workshop
ENERGY AND RELAXATION Robert Nadeau

Through an awareness of energy and "energy dimensions", participants will be able to reach deeper states of calmness and relaxation. The natural outcome of this approach will be an understanding of energy, balance, harmony, proper movement and physical efficiency.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

November 12-14: THE LIVING PLACE: Residential Weekend Workshop
Betty Fuller and Dub Leigh. $75 per person. See page 15 for description.

November 12-14 Weekend Workshop
ART AND SELF Tom Allen and Sy Weisman

Participants will explore through art ways in which certain group experiences can nurture and expand personal expression. The group will interact in various perceptive and graphic explorations of self, others and the environment, and examine the relationship between self process and image. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

For San Francisco Reservations, see page 19

November 30 An Evening Lecture
ON DEVELOPING A CONCEPT OF HEALTH H. F. Parsons and G. L. Schiller

Health is not merely the absence of disease but is a vibrant, energetic state of being of the whole organism. This lecture will emphasize the importance of living in harmony with nature and in ecological balance. Some practical guidelines for better health through nutrition will be presented.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Tuesday.
Milberry Union, U.C. Medical Center, 3rd and Parnassus, San Francisco
Sponsored by U.C.S.F. Committee on Arts and Lectures

December 3-5 Weekend Workshop
A WEEKEND OF PSYCHODRAMA Walt Anderson and Ira Greenberg

Psychodrama brings a group together in spontaneous dramatizations of personal and social problems. In this workshop group members will work with the various roles and techniques of psychodrama and with whatever specific subjects emerge; individual participants will be free to become as involved — or uninvolved — as their personal needs and preferences dictate.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

December 3-5 Weekend Workshop
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS Jim and Susan Vargiu

The Vargius write: "In this workshop we will emphasize the aspects of psychosynthesis which lead to greater unity, which can be used for integrating the encounter experience into something more. Psychosynthesis is not primarily expansion or experience — it is a way of pulling it all together. It is an approach which fosters the balanced development of body, feelings and mind and their harmonious integration around a unifying center. We will reach toward this center by consulting the best-self within each of us, and will attempt to use its energy and guidance. We will use techniques of movement, visual imagery, writing, symbolic art work, mental concentration and meditation. Our emphasis will not be on producing immediate breakthroughs, although this often occurs, but rather on initiating a gradual process that, with continuing application, can gain increasing momentum and ultimately become a life-style." $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

December 3-5 Couples' Workshop Using Videotape Feedback
MORE LIFE IN MARRIAGE Gerald Smith

If a couple can be both close and the partners also free to grow as individuals, there is a good chance for continuing life within marriage. Using experiential and family therapy approaches, workshop focus will be on prevention and growth rather than past problems.
$115 per couple. ($40 deposit required). Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

December 3-5 Weekend Workshop
YOGA: EXPLORATIONS IN AWARENESS AND SELF-KNOWLEDGE
Joel Kramer

A workshop for the interested novice and serious student of yoga. Through the examination and practice of yoga techniques, pranayama (breathing) and meditation, the group will become acquainted with yogic structure, both classical and modern.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

December 4: BREADMAKING: THE ANCIENT ART AND CRAFT Manuel
Saturday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. $12 per person. (See description, page 17).

December 4 Saturday Workshop
NEW PERSON POLITICS John Vasconcellos

Exploration of a theory of institutions and a practice of politics based upon a reassessing of human nature and human potential, new consciousness, authentic relationships and a caring, human community. (Michael Murphy and George Leonard will join the program as discussants.)
$15 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, December 4.

December 6 An Evening Lecture
WOMEN, MEN, CHILDREN AND CHANGE Philip E. Slater

International House, 2299 Piedmont Avenue, Berkeley

For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 20-21

San Francisco Programs

November 19-21 Weekend Workshop
GESTALT THERAPY AND HYPNOSIS Abe Levitsky

Dr. Levitsky writes: "I have been discovering that the methods of gestalt therapy can serve as exciting adjuncts and facilitators in the art of hypnosis. In this workshop we will experiment with techniques of mutual hypnosis and in the hypnotic facilitation of the creative process. Emphasis will be on the gestalt principles of 'staying with it' and of acceptance of phenomena as they occur." $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

November 20-21 Weekend Workshop
BIO-ENERGETICS Michael Conant

Individual bio-energetic sessions and some group work will provide persons an opportunity to get in touch with the physical blocks isolating them from their own life and to work toward increased centeredness and grace. $50 per person 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

November 21 An Evening Lecture
RELATIVITY: THE IGNORED PRINCIPLE IN PSYCHIATRY AND PSYCHOLOGY Hal Markowitz

Consideration of the apparent discrepancy between purported attention to relativity and on-the-job behavior of psychiatrists and psychologists. Despite teaching their students about the importance of probability, the search for functional relations and the tentative nature of science, when it comes to their own research most workers are searching for the "Real Truth." (Roland Fischer is lecture discussant).
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Sunday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

November 22 An Evening Participation

First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

November 26-28 Weekend Workshop
EXPANDING LIFE POSSIBILITIES Arthur Hough and Evelyn Jernberg

This weekend will provide an opportunity for participants to make contact with their unused capacities and to explore an expanded concept of individual life choices and possibilities. Moving from the ideal to the practical, and from long-term goals to here-and-now behavior, each person may examine what actions he may take to live fully. Processes of self-awareness, self-appraisal, individual program building and group sharing will be utilized. $50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

November 26-28 Weekend Workshop
VIDEO INTERACTION GROUP Sy Weisman and Ethan Gluck

With recent innovations in video technology, television can now be considered an available tool for meaningful interaction and personal expression. When persons use video as an expressive, interactive tool it can be a poignant medium for developing and nurturing spontaneity, process awareness and creativity. The group will explore the communication potential of video, and themselves in that process.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

For San Francisco Reservations, see page 19

LEADERS' BIOGRAPHIES

TOM ALLEN, an artist, teaches at Cabrillo College. Since his year as an Esalen resident fellow, he has concentrated on developing workshop processes that nurture authentic being and rich interpersonal contact. He sees art not as an isolated specialty, but as one of the many ways to self realization.

WALT ANDERSON lived for several years in Los Angeles where he was associated with the California Institute of Psychodrama and Topanga Center for Human Development. He is now in Berkeley, writing a book about the political aspects of humanistic psychology.

JOHN ARGUE is the originator of an organic system of actor training which unifies the mental and physical disciplines of the actor's art called "Acting Openhand". He teaches at his own studio in Berkeley and has had many plays produced in the Bay Area. He has done work in bioenergetics, gestalt, tai chi chuan and zen meditation.

ANN ARMSTRONG, a clairvoyant from Sacramento, uses her abilities for deep level analysis of personal problems and for guidance in the growth of the inner life.

ESLY BARRERAS is a psychiatrist and gestalt therapist in private practice in Berkeley. He teaches at U.C. Berkeley and supervises psychology students from Cal State, Hayward. He is president of the Gestalt Institute of Berkeley and a member of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco.

JAMES BEAL works at NASA's George C. Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama in the area of nondestructive testing of aerospace structures. He is interested in parapsychology and various field effect interactions associated with living systems, bio feedback phenomena and science fiction.

STEWART BRAND perpetrated the Whole Earth Catalog.

JOHN BRENT, member of the Committee and Second City, has studied theater games with Viola Spolin.

LOIS BRIEN is a gestalt therapist and communications consultant. Dr. Brien is a member of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco and was formerly an assistant professor of speech communication at Case Western Reserve University.

BARBARA BROWN was trained as a biochemist, attended medical school and earned a Ph.D. in pharmacology. She was an early developer of EEG bio-feedback techniques.

DEAN BROWN is a physicist who is involved in humanistic, computer-assisted education. He works for Stanford Research Institute and UNESCO.

GEORGE I. BROWN, Professor of Education, teaches courses in creativity, awareness and sensitivity training at the University of California at Santa Barbara. He is a nationally known researcher in the affective domain and creativity.

JUDITH R. BROWN, co-trainer with her husband, trained with Frederick S. Perls with whom she worked as a co-therapist.

MICHAEL BUTLER was in the Fall 1970 Residence Program and is on the teaching staff at Big Sur. He is currently involved in the theory and practice of structural integration.

DEBORAH CARSON practices hatha yoga and massage at Big Sur where she is on the teaching staff. She was a member of the Fall 1970 Residence Program.

BETSIE CARTER, a former Esalen resident fellow, has trained with Roberto Assagioli, founder of psychosynthesis, and with Jim and Susan Vargiu at the Psychosynthesis Institute, Calif. She works with gifted and creative young people in psychosynthesis and is associate director of the Ford/Esalen Project in Confluent Education.

MICHAEL CONANT is a psychologist in private practice in Berkeley where he does bio-energetic work and also draws on his past training in gestalt therapy, hypnosis and behavior therapy. He is director of Bridge Mountain Foundation.

BO CONLEY is a singer, drummer and poet as well as dancer/performer and movement workshop leader. He has studied with Ann Halprin for two years and co-led workshops with her.

BOOKS FROM ESALEN

THE ESALEN PUBLISHING PROGRAM WITH VIKING PRESS

Esalen's own books: far-ranging investigations, divinations and reports from the movement to develop human potentialities, highlighting the latest work at Esalen Institute.

HOT SPRINGS, OR THE TRUE ADVENTURES OF THE FIRST NEW YORK, JEWISH LITERARY INTELLECTUAL IN THE HUMAN POTENTIAL MOVEMENT
by Stuart Miller
A rollicking chronicle of what it means in contemporary America to undergo a spiritual death and a spiritual rebirth. The book is played out against backdrops that range from Orchard Street in New York's Lower East Side, to the Yale Graduate School, and finally to Esalen Institute at Big Sur.
$7.95, hardbound.

ON THE PSYCHOLOGY OF MEDITATION
by Claudio Naranjo and Robert Ornstein.
Two psychologists examine the spiritual ground of meditation and the implications of meditation for modern psychology. New insights into the nature of consciousness have resulted from current experimental work with computers and electroencephalograms and from a synthesis of meditative techniques derived from Zen, Yoga, the Sufis and Shamanism.
$7.95, hardbound.

THE FARTHER REACHES OF HUMAN NATURE
by Abraham Maslow
This first of his posthumous works presents his vision that psychology must address itself more to ethical concerns than to an accumulation of data.
$10.00, hardbound.

Coming this Fall:
SECRETS OF THE TRADE:
Essays in Madness, Creativity and Ideology,
by Joe Kennedy Adams.
$8.95, hardbound.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS by Roberto Assagioli.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recorded tapes of many past Esalen programs are available. This service, originally developed to provide archive copies for Esalen, rapidly became of use to organizations requesting recordings of lectures and seminars, training tapes of techniques and methods, demonstration workshop sequences, and experiential programs. Requests now come from educational institutions, public and private libraries, religious bodies and professional groups, government agencies, corporations and private individuals with funds for a recording library concerned with the human potential. Commercial use prohibited; all rights are reserved. Recording, editing and distribution of tapes is performed by Big Sur Recordings, from whom a complete catalog may be obtained. The cost of recordings is $10 per tape-hour, stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette. Write BIG SUR RECORDINGS, 117 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael, California 94903.

VIDEOTAPES and 16mm FILMS of Dr. Frederick S. Perls' demonstrations of gestalt therapy and Alexander Lowen's demonstrations of bio-energetic analysis are available for professional use from MEDIASYNC, Inc., P.O. Box 486, Del Mar, California 92014. Films of Dr. Perls' work are also available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 205 West Twentieth Street, Santa Ana, California 92706 along with films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow, Virginia Satir and others. For a list of films including the work of Alan Watts, Huston Smith and many others, write to ASSOCIATION FOR HUMANISTIC PSYCHOLOGY, 416 Hoffman Ave., San Francisco, California 94114.

ESALEN BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS: Written materials of particular significance associated with the programs of Esalen Institute are available by writing: Esalen Books, Esalen Institute, San Francisco.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA and KQED) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has a dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, as well as KPFT Houston and WBAI New York City broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides.

MICROFILM records of Esalen history, brochures and publications are available through MICROBIZ, 590 Howard Street, San Francisco, California 94105.

ESALEN PROGRAMS is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a nonprofit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATION AND TICKET ORDER

This form is for your convenience in preparing attendance at Esalen seminars, workshops and lectures. You may use it for Big Sur or San Francisco area programs, although it is suggested that you make reservations independently at each location rather than place a "mixed" order. You will receive a new order form with your tickets or confirmation of reservations. Please make reservations early; some seminars are booked to capacity months in advance.

ACCREDITATION AND THE USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have recently involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs; our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools. For the information of the public, we do maintain a consulting service, under the direction of Betty Fuller, that will furnish information about leaders.

The continuing work of Esalen Institute is funded virtually in toto through tuitions paid by those attending workshops and seminars — but research, future development and expansion depend greatly upon funds assured through Memberships and special grants.

As a Member, you enjoy a tuition reduction of $10 at both Big Sur and San Francisco workshops costing $35 or more, as well as a 10% discount on all books available through the Esalen/San Francisco Bookshop. You are also invited to participate in occasional gatherings with Esalen officers, leaders and project coordinators, and to attend weekend programs, for Members only, held at various times during the year at specially reduced rates. Members are kept informed of programs and new developments at Esalen via a special newsletter.

Those friends of Esalen interested in sustaining the Institute in a more substantial way may wish to discuss details of this matter with the Director of Development, Stuart Miller. The legal counsel of the Institute is also available to discuss various details of gifts and bequests, including tax arrangements.

Please complete Membership and Gift Order Form on other side.

ABOUT THE ILLUSTRATIONS

The art is drawn from a collection of woodcuts recently imported from Tibet, states the brochure designer, Red Dog Pieface/Peter Bailey. They are of this century and typical of the flourishing traditional culture centered around monasteries. Most were meant to be part of a larger tanka, or meditation paintings. Such outline figures were printed in certain symbolic arrangements on cloth or paper and then colored by hand. Among the subjects are: Milarepa, famous poet yogin in his mountain retreat, hand cupped to hear the sound of grass growing and the secrets of the Dharma, p. 4; Mahasiddhi, one of 84 yogis who gained magical control over their own bodies and the elements through yogic practices, p. 6; Amitabha and Shakti, the Buddha of boundless light and his energy partner, p. 6; Manjusri, god of saving knowledge with the sword that ends ignorance, p. 7; Padmapani, a Boddhisatva, p. 8; a karma dakini, p. 9; symbols for protection during a journey, p. 10; Buddha Amitabha, p. 11; three of the months depicted as demons, p. 12; the demoness who controls disease, whose appeasement wards off illness, p. 13; and various dragons, conch shell ritual horns, prayerwheels, musical instruments and offerings.

Esalen Programs, January-March, 1972
Volume X, No. 1

Since the first seminars were held at Big Sur Hot Springs in 1962, we have been exploring ways in which to communicate the nature of Esalen Programs. Everything has changed in a decade —the scope and style of groups and the number and variety of disciplines. Sometimes we think we can see a clear pattern of development, a kind of consistency in the way that new techniques and groups unfold. At other times, it seems there is no pattern at all; the concept of "human potentialities" being let loose, the tree sprouts as it pleases. In attempting to organize our diversity and to make program selection convenient, we have previously tried different ways of arranging program listings; chronologically, by discipline, by location, sometimes by leader. In this Winter program we are undertaking the complete redesign of the Esalen Catalog into a form which we think is easier to read and use, and hopefully more sensible to our participants. To present a more organized access to our programs, we are listing them by discipline, or interest area, rather than chronologically.

We recognize that some of the divisions in the catalog are arbitrary, and, in order to avoid strict categorizations, we are supplying multiple listings for several workshops wherever it seems necessary. On page 12 you will find a listing of programs which by their nature defy categorization. And, if you are primarily interested in workshop listings by date and/or location, there is a calendar with complete chronological information for both Big Sur and San Francisco in the center fold.

We would like to have feedback on the new catalog. Please write us your suggestions and comments on the organization, content and graphic design. We need and welcome your reactions.

ESALEN INSTITUTE is a center to explore those trends in the behavioral sciences, religion and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops such as the ones described in this catalog, research and consulting programs, and a residential program exploring new directions in education and the behavioral sciences.

Project on Humanizing Medicine

THE DREAM

Our dream is someday to establish a research hospital and/or clinic which would combine with top-flight conventional medicine the following approaches and disciplines:

1. Humanistic Medicine: Our intent is to humanize the medical situation by l[illegible]ing medical personnel to be more sensitive to the full human needs of their patients and themselves. Esalen techniques such as encounter, gestalt therapy, sensory awareness, psychodrama, fantasy and others, would be used to teach personnel to be more fully aware of the personal and interpersonal dynamics of the m:dical situation.

2. Preventive Medicine: It is our hypothesis that much can be done to prevent illness if people become more aware of how they feel. Techniques for mental awareness, such as meditation, inner-imagery, gestalt therapy, and others can alert people to periods of stress and help them to control these periods. Techniques of physical awareness, like sensory awareness, movement, breathing, and yoga can possibly help people to detect early warnings of impending illness. These mental and physical approaches could be used not only within the clinic situation, but could also be taught in workshops for the general public.

3. Psychosomatic Medicine: The approach of Esalen Institute to the relation of mind to body seems a highly promising way to speed up the process of cure. The same techniques used for preventive medicine could be used in the medical act, itself.

4. Unconventional Medicine: Every subculture and culture limits itself, and the medical subculture does also. We believe scientific medicine in the West may have something to learn from approaches which are used with varying degrees of success in other countries. This project will hope to investigate alternative medical approaches with a view towards combining them with Western medicine.

5. A New Approach to the Problems of Sickness and Health: Many responsible doctors are beginning to see the onset of some diseases as an indicator of imbalance in the patient's lifestyle. Diseases may often be not simply something to be stamped out, but also a signal of a creative crisis going on in the life of a patient. Stomach ulcers, for example, can be seen in many cases as the body's protest against unnatural strain.

6. Nutrition: About four years ago, we were told by Professor Jean Mayer of the Harvard School of Public Health that only three schools of medicine in the U.S. had departments of nutrition. Because of Esalen's emphasis on sensitivity to the body, people at the Institute become acutely aware of the effect of nutrition on their physical and mental health.

These six areas are only a point of departure. It would be the purpose of the project, having once formed a working group of concerned individuals, to evoke other ideas, methods, theoretical formulas, etc., to humanize medicine.

A PLAN FOR STARTING

There is enormous interest among medical people in California in beginning this task, and it seems wisest to start small and to proceed one step at a time. Then, if we can show promising results, the funding and all else that is needed for an eventual research hospital and/or clinic will be readily forthcoming.

We have had remarkably good results in two similar projects at Esalen, funded by the Ford Foundation in the field of Humanizing Education. (See the book Human Teaching for Human Learning, by Dr. George I. Brown, an Esalen book, Viking Press, 1971.)

It is our hope to be able to raise the $25,000 needed to sustain the first year of the project. $3,000 has already been generously contributed by Martin Farber.

Book Review

Excerpts from the reviews of Hot Springs by Stuart Miller (Viking Press, An Esalen Book)

From the New York Times Book Review, Sunday, August 29, 1971, reviewed by Wallace Markfield:

"But Hot Springs should not, must not be read as either celebration or indictment of Esalen. More simply, more important than anything else, it takes hold of my imagination and compels my utmost respect because it is one of the fullest and more unsparing records I have ever seen of a man seeking to turn himself into a mensch—that lovely Yiddish word that can be translated, very loosely, as person, human being: a person who is truly a human being."

From the Los Angeles Times, Friday, August 20, 1971, reviewed by Robert Kirsh:

"Stuart's evocation of Esalen is realistic; his performing art has been transmuted into writing. An authentic voice speaks here. There is no small redemption— . . . Hot Springs is a worthy and entertaining book in the Esalen Series, funny, true, penetrating, an opening to the world."

From Time, July 26, 1971:

"Finely paced narrative of ego death and transfiguration."

From Playboy, September 1971:

"A funny, funky book."

From The Chicago Sunday Sun-Times, August 8, 1971, reviewed by Ashley Montagu:

"Portnoy, move over; Stuart Miller's in town! Portnoy's Complaint was a mere novel. Hot Springs is for real . . . It is moving, touching and written with complete integrity."

Bob Kriegel has joined the Esalen Staff. Bob co-founded Anthos, a New York growth center. He is putting new life and energy into our Membership Program and the Esalen Consulting Service.

The Media and Us: an Editorial

Every time the media does a story about Esalen or the Human Potential Movement, they write about sex and nudity. At least it seems that way: the nude pictures in Life three years ago; in Time one year ago; and the "Sensuous Therapist," article in Newsweek late last year. We are not opposed to sex; don't get us wrong. But it gets pretty boring to be so clearly associated, time after time, only with sex. One wonders why it happens. Maybe it's because if something exciting and adventurous is happening it must mean that something sexy is happening —at least in our sex-obsessed society.

Esalen, of course, sees itself more broadly than that. We are involved with a new vision of man that goes beyond the sex organs. This vision concerns his mind, his whole body, his social relations, his institutions and his highest hopes. The media never talks about the vision of humanistic psychology, of human potentials vastly expanded, or mankind in global transformation. Nor is mention ever made of our work with the public schools under grants from the Ford Foundation, work with the National Council of Churches, work with mental hospitals. Why is there no story about Esalen's exploring the relation of mind to body?

So what are we to do with the media?

One thing we can do is to reprint articles from the media, articles which the newspapers do not associate with our interests, since we have been bagged as being kookey and profligate. These articles show how people are experimenting with new ways of developing their humaness. What we are saying by reprinting them is that the human potential phenomenon is bigger than sex, and that Esalen is interested in it wherever it occurs. It's exciting for us to see that areas of interest which Esalen pioneered —such as alternate forms of medicine, the relationship between mind and body —are now beginning to get the notice they deserve.

In the News

The concept that Western medicine does not have all the answers, and that we must be concerned not only with pills and surgery but with the whole person, has been one of the underlying messages in many Esalen workshops.

We have wished that Western medicine would explore new worlds and become a forum for discovery and the perpetuation of the view of "the healthy man." Esalen workshops in aikido, rolfing, bioenergetics, movement, sensory awareness, massage, nutrition and, most recently, acupuncture, are some of the disciplines offered in keeping with our view of the total man.

Recently, we have been cheered by articles appearing about alternative forms of medicine. We feel that the following excerpts are indicative of the seeds of a broader view of medicine, one which we heartily encourage and support.

Brain Surgery and Needlework—Tokyo, Aug. 25 (Reuter)

A group of 16 foreign newsmen and television cameramen visiting China have been permitted to watch brain surgery using acupuncture at a Shanghai hospital, a correspondent of the Japanese news agency Kyodo reported today.

New York Times — Sunday, Aug. 22, 1971

A View from Shanghai, by James Reston

. . . My wife and I spent four hours yesterday at the Hun Shan Hospital in the middle of Shanghai. This was formerly the Chinese Red Cross Hospital and is now the center of experimentation with acupuncture in Chinese brain surgery. We were properly sterilized and not only allowed into the operating theater, but urged to talk to two of the patients while they were undergoing surgery for the removal of tumors of the brain. They were anesthetized merely by the insertion of very thin three-inch stainless steel needles into the body—usually with one needle inserted into the web of flesh —or, as the Chinese surgeon called it, "the joined valley" between the thumb and forefinger—and they were not only perfectly conscious while their skulls were laid open before us but remarkably alert within half an hour after the operations.

. . . In some ways, the operation on Chen Chien seemed even more astonishing than the brain surgery. His only anesthetic was a single needle inserted in his right shoulder at an acupuncture point identified by the surgeon as Pi Ju. He lay on his stomach with a vast gaping hole in his back, through which you could see the gasping of the remaining lung, but was wholly conscious through the ordeal, talked quietly and coherently in answer to questions and, like the epileptic patient, ate fruit while receiving blood transfusions.

. . . The old traditional Chinese medical theory is that there is a "channel" in the body and that the critical acupuncture points are fixed by this channel. The modern Chinese doctors, who approached this whole subject with considerable skepticism, reject the traditional channel theory and are more inclined to believe in the theory that there are certain nerve centers that govern feeling and can be affected by needle penetration. The interesting thing, here, however, is that, while they cannot agree on the theory of how the needle anesthesia works, they are increasingly convinced that it does work, and they are operating on the pragmatic evidence and not waiting for theoretical justifications.

Medicine on the Move, by Ben Patrusky —Meditations on Health—

Harvard researchers think there may be some important medical uses for a technique called Transcendental Meditation. Adapted from an ancient Indian practice, the mental exercise is said to produce feelings of tranquility and relieve anxiety. But does it really? The Harvard men, Drs. Herbert Benson and Robert K. Wallace, have come up with chemical evidence to support these contentions. In studies on eight TM practitioners, they found markedly decreased levels in a blood substance called lactate during and after the practice. Excessive levels of blood lactate have been linked to stressful episodes suffered by patients with anxiety neurosis (excessive apprehension, psychic tension, uncertainty and fear.)

WEEKENDS ARE BACK AT BIG SUR!

At last a permanent home for San Francisco Esalen programs—a lovely Victorian building on Union Street near Esalen's business office.

The Home News

The Ford/Esalen Project in Confluent Education has begun its second year with the addition of five new teachers to the project. (The report of last year's project is available [$3.50] from the Esalen Bookshop.) There are several workshops during the current brochure period which offer training to teachers and administrators in this work.

Needs continue: Esalen's tuition fees barely meet expenses. Thousands of dollars are needed for a dozen projects. Here are some of them:

$22,000—Project in Humanizing Medicine.

$15,000—Supplement for the Ford/Esalen Education Project.

$5,000—An international symposium on the political and social implications of parapsychology (following up on our trip to the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia last year).

$50,000—Scholarships.

Please help. Become a Friend of Esalen under our new membership program; see page 19.

ENCOUNTER

The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontations rather than away from them. The focus of encounter groups is on exploring interpersonal relations, and the expression and exploration of self through interpersonal relations . . . Over the past years encounter, as practiced at Esalen, has evolved into a broad approach incorporating several related disciplines to achieve its aims. Techniques and insights gained from gestalt, sensory awareness, bioenergetics, massage, movement and structural integration are all part of Esalen encounter groups today. In short Esalen encounter is an amalgam of techniques whose goal is to free the emotions and the body . . . and, ultimately, the whole person.

■ S.F. INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS

These programs—evening, one-day and weekend—are specially intended for, but not limited to, persons who have not previously participated in Esalen encounter groups. Workshop leaders will be drawn from Esalen/San Francisco Staff (see Information section, page 18). Esalen/Big Sur Staff, as well as members of San Francisco's Extended Growth Program, may also act as group facilitators.

Evening Introductions to Esalen: Working in small and large group sessions, participants will be introduced to many methods for personal growth being explored at Esalen. Comfortable clothing recommended; bring pillow for easy sitting.

$3 general; $2 student; 7-11:00 p.m.;

January 24, February 24, April 6:
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

March 15: U.C. Medical Center, 3rd Avenue and Parnassus, San Francisco.

Single-day Encounter: An intensive day of group work, along the lines of evening introductory programs, with the additional advantages of more hours and shared mealtimes. Leaders will work with small groups. Programs run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Workshop location to be announced at time of registration. (Bring your own lunch.)

$15 per person.

January 29, February 13, March 4.

Weekend Introductions to Esalen: Incorporating a wide variety of approaches, group leaders will work with participants in large groups and sub-groups over a full weekend period. $50.

February 4-6, March 24-26.

● B.S. EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN PROGRAMS

Experience of Esalen programs join staff members and participants in an experience of each other surrounded only by as much structure as the group wishes to create. Among possible offerings are encounter, gestalt, meditation, instruction in yoga, massage, arts and crafts and movement. Rolf treatments will be available at an extra cost.

January 9-15
Esalen Staff
One-week workshop $240

January 16-21
Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $175
at South Coast Center

February 27 - March 3
Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $175
at South Coast Center

March 24-26
Simone Surpin
Weekend workshop $85
at South Coast Center

● B.S. OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAMS

The Open Residence Program centers on encounter and gestalt-oriented work. Additional opportunities will be available in other experiential areas (such as bioenergetics, movement, massage and sensory awareness) depending on group interest and leader availability. There will also be a structural integration demonstration; individual rolf sessions are available at extra cost.

January 9-22
Simone Surpin & Esalen Staff
Two-week workshop $450

February 6-12
Esalen Staff
One-week workshop $240

February 13-19
Harry Sloan & Esalen Staff
One-week workshop $240

March 5-18
Michael Butler & Esalen Staff
Two-week workshop $450

March 19 - April 1
Robert & Marilyn Kriegel
Two-week workshop $450

April 2-8
Esalen Staff
One-week workshop $240

● B.S. January 2-29
Mini-Residential Program
Michael Butler
Four-week program $775
at South Coast Center
This program is an experiment designed to convey in a month the intense group experience of a longer Esalen resident program. Participants will live and work together at the South Coast Center and be exposed to all of the disciplines available at Esalen. Please state background information with application.

■ S.F. January 7-9
The Living Place
Betty Fuller & Dub Leigh
Residential weekend workshop
$75 including room and meals.
The creation of a supportive community in which to discover and experience our human divinity; to explore encounter life styles experientially; to develop heightened body and sense awareness; to re-create ourselves through open encounter, enhanced by art, dance and music. If you have musical instruments, bring them.

■ S.F. January 7-9
Couples' Workshop
Marilyn & Robert Kriegel
Weekend workshop $100 per couple.

■ S.F. January 12
Self, Sex and Psychotherapy
Don Clark
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
Demonstration and discusion of Dr. Clark's workshop techniques used in helping psychotherapists and their clients become more alert to and accepting of their total sexuality, including feelings in such taboo areas as homosexuality and incest.

■ S.F. Starting January 13
Open Encounter
Harry Sloan
Ongoing workshop $50
This is series of five Thursday evening workshops from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m., January 13, 20, 27, February 3, 10.

■ S.F. January 14-16
Encounter for Singles
Robert Cromey
Weekend workshop $50
A workshop for unattached persons. Please state sex and age on application. Limited to 40 persons.

● B.S. January 16-22
Refocusing Energy
Robert & Marilyn Kriegel
& Carole Rosenblatt
One-week workshop $280
Since many persons spend time dwelling on negative aspects of their personalities and lives, this week will be an opportunity to refocus attention on forgotten positive strengths and individually available tools for continued personal growth and expansion of life possibilities. Approaches from encounter, gestalt and psychosynthesis will be used.

■ S.F. January 21-23
Communication and Growth
Margaret Conway
Weekend workshop $50
This is a communications workshop; learning to coordinate the feeling (body), the awareness (mind) and the expression (verbal or non-verbal) with economy and honesty.

● B.S. January 23-29
Celebration
Betty Fuller, Dub Leigh
& Esalen Residents
One-week workshop $260
This workshop is based on open encounter as a way of life. Integral to the workshop is membership in the Esalen community, which will be facilitated by the participation of the Esalen Residents.

■ S.F. January 28-30
Massage and Encounter
Robert Cromey
Weekend workshop $50

■ S.F. February 3
New Ways of Meeting New People
Robert Cromey
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
Since many persons attend large group programs to meet other people, this evening's experience will focus explicitly on the acquaintance process. Using methods from encounter and gestalt awareness, group members will explore how they project themselves to others, how others perceive them and discover new ways of moving into friendships and social contact.

■ S.F. February 11-13
Couples' Workshop
Gerald Smith
Weekend workshop $115 per couple

● B.S. February 13-18
Male and Female*
Michael Butler & Simone Surpin
Five-day workshop $215
The roles we adopt as male and female limit us. Men often mistake their gentle energy as something too womanly. Women often hold back their strength. The goal of this workshop is to go beyond male/female roles.

■ S.F. February 18-20
Encounter for Singles
Robert Cromey
Residential weekend workshop
$75 including room and meals
A workshop for unattached persons. Please state sex and age on application. Limited to 40 persons.

■ S.F. Starting February 22
Open Encounter
Robert Kriegel
Ongoing workshop $50
This is a series of five Tuesday evening workshops from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m., February 22, 29, March 7, 14, 21.

■ S.F. February 25-27
Group Interaction
Marilyn & Robert Kriegel
Weekend workshop $50

● B.S. February 25-27
Entropy*
Michael Butler & Al Drucker
Weekend workshop $85
at South Coast Center
Life and death processes are revealed in the way people think and feel. The focus of this workshop will be to discover the life or death that we are living.

■ S.F. March 10-12
Open Encounter
Art & Janica Fox
Weekend workshop $50

● B.S. March 12-18
Peeling the Ego/Body
Simone Surpin
One-week workshop $175
at South Coast Center
Our bodies are deprived of free energy in proportion to chronic muscular tension: similarly, our essences are bound by layers of fears and desires. This workshop will focus on unwrapping these extrinsics primarily using encounter, gestalt, bioenergetics and structural integration. Essence building, through exercises centering on grounding life energy will be integral to this process.

■ S.F. March 17-19
Divorce: A Creative Experience
Robert Cromey
Weekend workshop $50
A group for the divorced, those contemplating divorce or those whose lives have been touched by divorce.

■ S.F. March 17-19
Toward Intimacy
Art Hough & Dick Marsh
Weekend workshop $50
A series of graduated experiences for achieving smooth transition from structure and games to intimacy and spontaneity.

■ S.F. March 24-26
Expressing Self in Marriage
Barbara & Don Clark
Weekend workshop $105 per couple
For couples who want to develop the creative process that can facilitate expression of evolving individual self and strengthen growth potential in marriage. The group will explore with various creative media including paint, verbal communication, clay, movement, silence and massage. Each couple should bring some favorite music.

■ S.F. March 31 - April 2
Advanced Intensive Encounter
Helen Stephens
Weekend workshop $50

● B.S. April 2-7
Bodymind*
Michael Butler
Five-day workshop $175
at South Coast Center
Based on the model established by William Schutz, this workshop will attempt to integrate the rolf method of body alignment within the framework of open encounter, including fantasy and gestalt methods.

● B.S. April 21-23
Encounter for Couples
William Schutz & Christine King
Weekend workshop $95

Biographical Information

MICHAEL BUTLER is a former Esalen resident fellow. He was trained in gestalt and encounter techniques by John Heider and subsequently became a practitioner of structural integration under the supervision of Dr. Ida Rolf.

BARBARA CLARK is a painter who has worked with various art forms for twenty years. She is also a wife and mother interested in helping people tap their creative processes.

DON CLARK has worked with discussion groups, psychotherapy groups and encounter groups for the past 12 years. Dr. Clark is on leave from the City University of New York and in private practice as a clinical psychologist in the Bay Area. His most recent book is Humanistic Education.

MARGARET CONWAY, former psychiatric nurse, is a drop-out from the field of mental illness and a drop-in to the field of mental health. She leads communication and growth groups in Palo Alto, for the San Mateo County Department of Education drug education program, and at Cal. State, Hayward Extension.

ROBERT CROMEY, a former Esalen resident fellow, is an experienced group leader and teacher of massage and sensory experiences. He has worked as a priest, politician, administrator. He has a private practice in San Francisco.

AL DRUCKER was a resident fellow in the first Esalen Residence Program. He now lives in Big Sur where he leads workshops and practices structural integration.

ARTHUR FOX, a former Esalen resident fellow trained by William Schutz, is presently on the Esalen encounter staff. His background is in psychology, education and religion.

JANICA FOX, together with her husband, was an Esalen resident fellow and is a member of the Esalen encounter staff. Previously she conducted research on groups at Harvard.

BETTY FULLER is a co-director of Esalen's Consulting Services and a former resident fellow. Her background, in addition to encounter group work here and abroad, includes teaching and several years in radio, television and theatre.

ARTHUR HOUGH is Associate Professor of Communication Theory and Mass Media at San Francisco State College. He is an educational television and film producer, author of Stand Up and Speak and interpersonal communication consultant to various agencies.

CHRISTINE KING is completing a doctoral program at the University of Miami; her dissertation is on the relationship between the mind and the body. She has co-led groups with William Schutz.

MARILYN HARRIS KRIEGEL is the assistant director of the Ford-Esalen Project in confluent education. She taught public school in California for eight years and was educational consultant as well as a group leader for Anthos in New York City.

ROBERT KRIEGEL was the director of Anthos, a growth center in New York City, where he led groups, lectured at schools and universities and did consulting for business. He is currently a member of Esalen's administrative and encounter staff.

W. S. DUB LEIGH is a practitioner of the rolf method of structural integration and masseur as well as encounter leader. His background, in addition to the Esalen Residence Program, includes 27 years in business, politics and work with A.A.

RICHARD MARSH is Professor of Creative Arts and Broadcast Communication Arts at San Francisco State College as well as Professor of Semantics and Communication at the California Institute of Asian Studies. He has pioneered in leading encounter groups in an academic setting.

CAROLE ROSENBLATT was in both the Spring and Fall Residence Programs (1970). She is part of both the administrative and teaching staffs at Big Sur.

WILLIAM SCHUTZ, author of Firo, Joy and Here Comes Everybody is presently in residence at Esalen/Big Sur.

HARRY SLOAN, a renegade dentist, worked and trained under William Schutz during the 1969 Esalen Resident Fellow Program. He is a playwright and a member of the Esalen encounter staff. His first play "The Burden" was showcased in New York in 1971.

GERALD SMITH is a family therapist in San Mateo, California. His approach combines family therapy and gestalt theory. Dr. Smith is author of Me And You And Us, a book on communication experiences for couples.

HELEN STEPHENS is a former Esalen resident fellow, trained by William Schutz. At fifty, she is an experienced group leader with special interest in the development of personal self-support systems.

SIMONE SURPIN is a former resident fellow at Esalen. She was trained as a group leader by John Heider and is a practicing rolfer. She has a special interest in psychic healing and the esoteric arts.

Arica Training

Last year several dozen Americans spent ten months in Arica, Chile, studying under an unusual teaching master named Oscar Ichazo. His teachings drew upon a wide range of disciplines, since Ichazo himself had studied under many masters.

Arica Training is a response to life in our highly evolved and structured society. It represents an approach which balances the physical, the emotional and the intellectual elements in Man. Working with all three factors harmoniously and simultaneously, Arica Training seeks to enable Man to face his Reality without contradiction and with an inexhaustible source of well-being, happiness and security. The leaders of the following programs have all studied with Oscar Ichazo in Chile and/or in New York City.

The Human Biocomputer
John Lilly
Two-week workshop $490
As a result of his work with Ichazo, John Lilly has expanded his mind-brain-body biocomputer model of human nature to include the "essence." His new configuration is essence-self-computer-ego programs. Using methods derived from Eastern and Western mystical traditions as well as modern science, this program will work to move participants toward essence. (Recommended reading: The Human Biocomputer).

Massage and Movement
Gabrielle Roth
Five-day workshop $255
As we are, so we move and touch: spontaneous or restricted, flowing or tense, open or inhibited. The combination of massage and movement techniques offers a unique experience for becoming aware of our own movement and how it flows outward into the bodies of others. As we make these physical discoveries, we can begin to allow our naturalness in terms of gesture, feeling, movement and touch to be expressed.

GESTALT

Gestalt is an awareness-centered integrative process concentrating on how and now rather than why and fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own untapped potential. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients", but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

Art of Emotional Nourishment: Self-Induced Loneliness
Jerry Greenwald
Five-day workshop $235
This workshop will focus on enhancing awareness of the nourishing and toxic attitudes and behavior patterns of each participant as these are directed inwardly towards himself and outwardly in his relating to others. Each participant may work on any kind of difficulties he feels hinders his joy and growth in the here-and-now of his existence; e.g., letting go of obsolete relationships, diminishing phobic attitudes and other behavior patterns which hamper fuller realization of potentials. Attention will be particularly focused on self-generated patterns of loneliness.

● B.S. April 16 - May 13
Gestalt and Structural Integration
Richard Price & Esalen Staff
Four-week program $800
at South Coast Center
Structural integration, while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body process in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolf treatments as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.).

Biographical Information

JOHN BARNWELL conducts workshops with welfare rights organizations and teaches a course in "Developing Minority Potential" at U.C.S.B.

ESLY BARRERAS is a psychiatrist, gestalt therapist and student of the way of the Sufi. He was formerly a director and trainer at the Gestalt Institute in San Francisco, and he founded and co-directs the Gestalt Institute of Berkeley.

LOIS BRIEN is a gestalt therapist in private practice, a board member of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco, and a member of the faculty of the California School of Professional Psychology.

GEORGE BROWN is one of the first to combine gestalt and psychosynthesis in workshop and educational contexts. He is director of DRICE, a Ford Foundation center at the University of California at Santa Barbara, where he teaches, and is the author of Human Teaching for Human Learning, an Esalen book.

JUDITH BROWN has an international reputation as a gestalt awareness trainer. In addition to her own groups she has co-led numerous groups with her husband.

Structural Integration

By realigning the body structure, the Rolf method of structural integration attempts to release excessive tensions so that the person may experience greater physical and emotional freedom. The assumption is that a person's body and set are a mirror of his emotional past as well as a result of physical trauma. Structural integration is a process of direct physical manipulation and deep massage; working with a trained practitioner, the process is usually completed within ten individual sessions.

TRAINING in structural integration is offered only through The Guild for Structural Integration, and only upon completion of certain prerequisites. Research in rolfing is encouraged by the Guild. Information about training and research, as well as class announcements, may be obtained by writing the Guild care of Esalen Institute, 1776 Union St., San Francisco, CA 94123.

INDIVIDUAL SESSIONS with practitioners of structural integration are available by appointment only through the following offices:

Esalen Institute, Big Sur — no telephone appointments. Please request appointments in writing. Practitioners include Michael Butler, Al Drucker, Stanley Johnson, Hector Prestera, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Simone Surpin, Sharon Wheeler.

Associates in Structural Integration, Box 5111, Carmel, CA 93921. Peter Melchior, Jim Hrisikos, Gael Smith, Ed Taylor, Chet Wilson.

Esalen Institute, San Francisco — write or telephone for appointments. Chet Wilson, Michael Salveson, Dub Leigh, Larry Swann.

Rolf-Aston Structural Patterning in Stillness and Motion © 1971
Judith Aston
One-day workshop $25
Structural patterning, as developed by Judith Aston, is a system which promotes structural balance and efficiency of movement within the gravitational field. The patterns are arranged in sequences, focusing on breathing and the individual hinges (ankles, knees, pelvis, shoulders and neck) and progressing through positions of increasing gravitational stress. The patterns themselves are not exercises nor are they performed vigorously; the movements are slow, sometimes subtle, and done with awareness to produce change. This workshop will meet from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and is limited to 10 participants.

TRANSPERSONAL

Transpersonal generally refers to transcendence, mystical experience, peak experience and parapsychological phenomena. The following workshops will explore insights and research into the physical and psychological aspects of such experience.

■ S.F. Extending Human Consciousness: The Esoteric Psychologies

A Lecture Series

Seven Wednesday evening lectures, beginning January 19. All lectures will be held 8-10:30 p.m. at First Unitarian Church, Franklin at Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Individual and series tickets are available: series tickets should be purchased in advance through the San Francisco office; individual tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door.

Series tickets (7 lectures): $17 general; $10 student

Individual tickets: $3 general; $2 student

January 19:
The Esoteric Psychologies
Robert Ornstein

In other cultures, those interested in the mind or in the nature of consciousness worked in the traditions of Buddhism, yoga or sufism. These psychologies offer us a radically expanded view of man and techniques for achieving extended consciousness. A lecture with some group exercises.

January 26:
On Zen
Arthur Deikman

Zen training and zen consciousness will be discussed from the point of view of developmental psychology and the psychodynamics of letting go.

February 2:
The Psychology of Psychotic Consciousness
Arthur Deikman

Psychotic states will be discussed as adaptive options and related to the mystical experience.

February 9:
Energy and Aikido
Robert Frager

A discussion of the Japanese concept of vital energy, and the training and development of energy in traditional samurai and zen disciplines. A lecture-demonstration plus experential work in aikido.

February 16:
The Transformation of Energy
Robert Frager

A discussion of various spiritual systems, based on the transformation of energy, including the techniques of taoism, the theory of chakras of tantric yoga, and a more general theory of man as energy.

February 23:
The Psychology of Meditation
Robert Ornstein

Meditation is perhaps the highest technology available to alter and extend consciousness. This session will combine both theory and practice, stressing the communalities of meditation as it is practiced from the bushman to the sufi master.

March 1:
On Sufism
Robert Ornstein

There has been one continuous stream of teaching which underlies yoga and Islam, Christianity, the tarot, Aesop's fables and many others which are familiar. It exists today in a new form, expressly designed for our culture with all its strengths and weaknesses. We will also reflect on some stories,

What Are You Doing With Your Life?
Arthur Deikman
Ongoing series $90

Arthur Deikman is a psychiatrist who has been doing research on meditation for the past ten years. From the perspective of psychotherapy and the psychology of contemplative practice, he will help the participants in this course to explore basic questions about the direction and quality of their lives. Hopefully, this program will help people integrate the kinds of insights and experience which seem most important to them to the rest of their activities.

Ten Monday afternoons, 4:00-6:30 p.m., January 10 to March 13.

■ S.F. Starting January 10
The Psychology of Human Consciousness
Robert Ornstein
Ongoing series $90

A complete conception of man is beginning to emerge within the academic disciplines, a conception which includes man's capacity for self-regulation, his sensitivity to subtle sources of energy, his facility for "paranormal communication." Current thinkers have discovered many older esoteric disciplines for training these human capacities and are developing many new technologies. The present scientific revolution represents for Western man a synthesis of the religious (in the broadest sense) conception of the human potential with the methods and technological sophistication of 20th century science.

This course will be an intellectual and experiential inquiry into human consciousness. Readings and exercises from both ancient and modern disciplines will be included. Emphasis will be on the psychology of meditation and the unity of esoteric and modern psychologies.

Six Monday evenings, 7:30-10:00 p.m., January 10, 24, February 7, 21, March 6, 20. There will also be one weekend workshop, February 18-20.

■ S.F. January 13
Bio-Feedback: Brainwave Training for Creativity
Elmer & Alyce Green

Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
U.C. Medical Center, 3rd Avenue and Parnassus, San Francisco.

● B.S. January 21-23
A Weekend with Ann Armstrong and James Fadiman
$95

A combining of techniques drawn from psychic readings, psychosynthesis and meditation will be used to discover and strengthen natural capacities to know ourselves. There will be no individual psychic readings.

● B.S. January 23-26
Bio-Feedback: Brain-Waves, Psychosomatic Health and Inner Exploration
Elmer & Alyce Green
Three-day workshop $175

With the continued refinement of electronic sensing devices to a high state of perfection, it has been found that if the human system can be made aware of various processes hitherto regarded as involuntary, it can, by making use of this new information feedback, correct itself within the context of a total health and survival goal. This workshop will be devoted to the demonstration of these recent discoveries, with a special emphasis on muscle tension and alpha-theta wave training. There will be sufficient electronic equipment of the latest laboratory quality, so that each participant may, himself, work with the machines over long periods of time.

● B.S. February 4-6
Mystery of the Universe and of Human Existence in the Light of Psychedelic Research
Stanislav Grof & Michael Murphy
Weekend seminar $85
at South Coast Center

In LSD research, subjects report a variety of experiences of philosophical, religious and mystical nature. Are they random products of the chemically altered brain or profound insights into the mysteries of the universe and human existence? The metaphysical system that emerges from this research appears to be surprisingly consistent and comprehensive. The seminar will compare this system with other existing systems, especially Aurobindo's integral yoga. Its implications will be confronted with the findings of 20th century science.

● B.S. February 6-11
Between Heaven and Earth
Laura Huxley
Five-day workshop $215
at South Coast Center

We are all beings between heaven and earth: not fully earthy as animals nor, as yet, heavenly as gods. This workshop will attempt to bring about a happy union of the two through the use of will, imagination and muscles, of eating and fasting and of becoming aware of our Body of Light.

● B.S. March 3-5
Man's "Silent" Half-Brain
David Galin
Weekend seminar $85
at South Coast Center

The left hemisphere of the cortex is specialized for linear, verbal, intellectual functions; the right side, it seems, contains elements of the musician and the dreamer, the unconscious and the mystical. Discussion will center on recent research and the implications of our biological duality for psychology, education and mysticism.

● B.S. March 5-11
Counseling for the Dying
Lawrence LeShan
One-week workshop $220
at South Coast Center

A workshop for physicians, psychologists, social workers and ministers on working with and relating to the terminal patient. This special period of life has profound needs which are rarely met today. The professional can help the patient meet these needs and live fully until his death. Further, this can help the patient to mobilize his organismic resources to aid the medical intervention. The anxieties aroused by the dying patient will also be explored and worked through in detail.

■ S.F. March 8
Transpersonal Exercises
James Fadiman
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
U.C. Medical Center, 3rd Avenue and Parnassus, San Francisco.

An evening of doing. We will begin with sensory awareness, then interpersonal and meditational or centering exercises, and finally work with psychosynthesis and transpersonal experiences. Some exercises may require paper and pencil.

■ S.F. March 13
Psychic Healing
Lawrence LeShan
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

A discussion of psychic healing; what it is, how it's done, when it works, and where it works.

Meditation

● B.S. January 2-7
Gestalt Awareness Training and Meditation
Claudio Naranjo
Five-day workshop $215
at South Coast Center

Claudio Naranjo writes: "I combine the modern techniques of gestalt training with ancient techniques of self-awareness, thus endeavoring to maintain a balance between working in the interpersonal domain and working in isolation from others; between contacting the environment and contacting one's deeper self. Hopefully, a better balance may be established between both."

■ S.F. Starting January 4
Aikido and Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau
Ongoing series

One meeting per week: $15 per month (general and student).

Two meetings per week: $25 per month, general; $20 per month, student.

Three meetings per week: $35 per month, general; $30 per month, student.

A continuous program of instruction in energy awareness as used for centering, movement, healing, concentration and relaxation, and in aikido as a physical expression of that awareness in a self-defense form, with emphasis on harmony and energy in motion. This course will meet each week; participation can be in one, two or three sessions per week, with tuition based on the schedule of participation.

Aikido: Tuesday, 8-9:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10-12 noon.

Energy Awareness: Thursday, 8-9:30 p.m.

● B.S. January 9-14
Meditation*
Deborah Carson & Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $215

An exploration into various forms of meditation: chanting, massage, yoga, movement, music, tai chi chuan.

● B.S. January 23-28
Moving Together: Body and Mind
Al Chung-liang Huang
Five-day workshop $235

In the East, the word body-mind is one. In the centering process of meditation, movement and quiescence become one. This workshop is devoted to the rediscovery of our bodymind entity, the emergence of energy flowing and energy sharing. Tai chi chuan, body movement, chanting, cursive calligraphy are some of the ways we will share during the week.

Biographical Information

ANN ARMSTRONG is a noted psychic who has worked with many leaders in the human potential movement. She has a private practice in Sacramento.

DEBORAH CARSON practices hatha yoga and massage at Big Sur where she is on the teaching staff. She was a member of the Fall 1970 Residence Program.

ELEANOR CRISWELL is an Assistant Professor of Psychology at Sonoma State College, California, where she teaches physiological psychology, educational psychology and yoga psychology and is involved in EEG research.

ARTHUR DEIKMAN, a psychiatrist, has done pioneering research in the field of meditation, as well as theoretical and clinical investigations of hallucinogenic drugs, Zen Buddhism and psychosis. He is presently on leave of absence from the University of Colorado Medical Center and lives in the San Francisco Bay Area.

JAMES FADIMAN is a senior counselor and consultant at Stanford University. He is an editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and the editor of several books, most recently, The Practice of Psychosynthesis. He is a pioneer in the transpersonal field, has lectured and done workshops in psychosynthesis for several years, and has worked with Roberto Assagioli in Italy.

ANITA FEDER trained in massage at Esalen with Molly Day Schackman and in gestalt therapy with Bob Hall. She is a teacher of hatha yoga and meditation.

ROBERT FRAGER teaches psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He was a personal student of Master Morihei Ueshiba, the founder of aikido, and has also practiced various schools of yoga for a number of years.

DAVID GALIN, neuropsychologist at Langley Porter Institute, is interested in the brain and consciousness expansion. His specialties include study of left-right differences in the brain and bio-feedback.

ALYCE GREEN is working on her M.A. in the form of a book called "Creativity, East and West — A Comparative Study" which will deal with brain wave training in the field of creativity. She participated in the design and conduct of The Menninger Foundation's first National Institute of Mental Health grant in Alpha-Theta Brain Wave Feedback, and is the Research Trainer in various feedback techniques.

ELMER GREEN, received his doctorate from the University of Chicago in Bio-Psychology. He has long been interested in meditative procedures and states of consciousness research. He was chairman and organizer of the first Council Grove Conference on the Voluntary Control of Internal States in April, 1969 and was the program chairman for the Transpersonal Psychology section of the Association for Humanistic Psychology annual convention. He is currently head of the Psychophysiology Laboratory Research Department of The Menninger Foundation.

STANISLAV GROF is a research psychiatrist currently on a fellowship at the Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore. During the past decade he has conducted numerous studies with LSD subjects in Prague. He has analyzed records from more than 2,600 sessions of psychiatric patients, scientists, philosophers, artists, theologians and persons facing death with special emphasis placed on experiences and insights related to basic ontological questions.

RICHARD HORAN is an artist, masseur and organic gardener.

AL CHUNG-LIANG HUANG is a teacher, dancer and master of tai chi chuan. He has co-led workshops with Alan Watts and taught at UCLA, University of Hawaii's East-West Center, and Foo-Hsing Opera School, College of Chinese Culture in Taiwan. He holds a bachelor's degree in architecture and an M.A. in dance. He is currently artist-in-residence at Krannert Center for the Performing Arts and Experimental College at University of Illinois.

LAURA HUXLEY is the author of You Are Not the Target and The Timeless Moment. In partnership with her husband, the late Aldous Huxley, she explored ways of opening the mind to new levels of awareness.

LAWRENCE LESHAN worked for fifteen years as the psychologist in a cancer hospital. He has published such papers as "Mobilizing the Life Force" and "Psychotherapy with the Dying Patient" and is the co-author of the book Counseling the Dying.

PEGGY MORRISON is a member of the massage staff at Big Sur.

MICHAEL MURPHY is president and co-founder of Esalen Institute.

ROBERT NADEAU utilizes energy awareness and the concept of "energy dimensions" to approach the transpersonal self. He teaches meditation, energy awareness and aikido in the Bay Area.

CLAUDIO NARANJO is a research psychiatrist, a former associate of the Institute for Personality Assessment and Research (U.C. Berkeley) and a student of religions. He is recently returned from a year in a sufi-oriented school in Chile.

ROBERT ORNSTEIN teaches at University of California Medical Center and does research at Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute. He is author of the books On the Experience of Time and, with Claudio Naranjo, On the Psychology of Meditation.

ANN PARKS, owner of the Berkeley Massage Studio, was trained at Esalen/Big Sur where she was a member of the massage staff. She is a student of meditation and sensory awareness.

Long-Term Programs

The following programs represent ways in which participants can involve themselves with Esalen over an extended period of time. Although Esalen does not have a leadership training program, per se, involvement in these long-term programs will present greater opportunities for learning experiences and exposure to a wide variety of disciplines. (For additional program listings see Workshops for Professionals, page 16.)

■ S.F.
THE ESALEN STUDY GROUPS
A Tutorial Program

Esalen is forming experimen al groups patterned after the tutorial system of Oxford, Cambridge and the teaching model of antiquity. A very few students will meet regularly with their tutors who, as resource experts, will provide direct teaching, assistance, advice and access to the wealth of resources which the community can offer. Weekly sessions of these groups will include study, work and evaluation in an informal and intimate setting.

The Study Groups are expected to create an educational alternative where the exploration and development of consciousness or styles of being can take place, rather than simply the acquisition of skills, techniques or information as such. The overall work of Esalen will be greatly modified as students present us with their needs and discoveries. Wherever possible we will schedule programs which are requested by students. We feel that this is the beginning of a dialogue which will enable Esalen to become more directly responsive to the personal development of its participants.

Tutors for the Winter period will be: Eleanor Criswell, Arthur Deikman, Jan Grand, Michael Murphy, Bob Ornstein and David Sobel. A more complete description of the program, as well as a listing of scheduled tutorial sessions, is available from the Esalen/San Francisco office. Please write or call us for information.

BIG SUR RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS

1. Apprentice Training Program

Persons are selected on the basis of their possible contribution in a given area of work, and admission is possible at any time throughout the year. The program and its duration is according to individual need; the average length of time is four months. The first step in admission is attendance in one of the two-week programs called Open Residence Program. (See Encounter, page 4.) These workshops are designed to give participants a maximum amount of exposure to the staff and the Esalen community. It is hoped that each person will find, during his two weeks, the Esalen staff leader to whom he wishes to apprentice, and that a mutual tutorial program will evolve from the association.

2. Long-Term Residential Program

This program may be initiated by an individual according to his specific interests and needs, chosen from among the continuing workshops available.

Costs for both types of individual programs is $800 per month. Accommodations will be on a shared basis on the main grounds of Esalen. No scholarships are available.

■ S.F. THE EXTENDED GROWTH PROGRAM

The Extended Growth Program is an intensive five-month personal growth program in the San Francisco Bay Area. Combining a schedule of workshops with ongoing small group work under the direction of experienced coordinators, it provides exposure to a number of disciplines, and allows participants to attempt integration of their experience into their customary living and working environments. These programs are scheduled at various times during the year. The program already in session will continue through March. Information on the next program, tentatively scheduled for the Fall, will appear in the Spring catalog.

● B.S. January 2-29

$1800 at South Coast Center.

This will be an intensive experiential and didactic program to prepare for rolf training. It is anticipated that a number of individuals completing this residence program will be selected by the Guild for Structural Integration to go on for further training to become rolf practitioners. Although this program is primarily designed for prospective rolfers, anyone desiring a comprehensive body-oriented workshop is welcome and encouraged to apply. When making application please include some background information on yourself, how you view your body and the nature of your interest in this program. Address all correspondence to Al Drucker. Curriculum will include the following:

massage; gestalt training and encounter group experience; cognitive seminars and lectures including anatomy, physiology, bio-chemistry, kinesiology, nutrition, reflexology, acupuncture; meditative and body exercises including hatha yoga, sufi, tai chi movement/dance, structural patterning, fasting; seven sessions of rolfing per person done in individual and group settings; work projects in kitchen or organic garden (6 hours per week).

For leaders' biographies, see page 7.

● B.S. April 16-May 13
Gestalt and Structural Integration
Richard Price & Esalen Staff
Four-week program $800
at South Coast Center

Psychological dis-ease and physical tension are two aspects of one phenomenon. Gestalt training is an awareness-centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. Structural integration (rolfing) while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body process in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolf treatments as part of this workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.).

For leader's biography, see "Gestalt", pp. 6-7.

DIVERSE
& Unclassifiable

■ S.F. Starting January 4
Self Discovery Through Music
Frederick Wells
Ongoing workshop $50
Using great music, participants will receive training in methods of encountering sound, the self and others. Each listening session will be followed by group encounter. This is a series of five Tuesday evening workshops from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., January 4, 11, 18, 25, February 1.

● B.S. January 7-9
Improvisational Theater
Larry Hankin
Weekend seminar $85
A class in improvisational exercises, games, techniques, forms, plus a seminar on the use of the unicycle as an ecological alternative.

■ S.F. Starting January 12
Alternative World Views
Richard Cowan
Ongoing series $90
Different tools, traditions and environments result in different modes of consciousness. Every great ecological adaptation—hunting and gathering, farming, urban life—implies an alternative world view. We will look at several non-Western life-ways to see how they work, and why the assumptions arising from each life style cause its members to conceive such seeming absolutes as time and space, life and death, verbal and body language in such widely varying ways. Lectures and discussion each session; experiments as the students see fit. Books to read include Gary Snyder's Earth House Hold, Carlos Castaneda's Teachings of Don Juan, Colin Turnbill's The Forest People and Jerome Rothenberg's Technicians of the Sacred. Ten Wednesday evenings, 8:00-10:30 p.m., January 12 - March 15.

● B.S. January 14-16
Human Potentials Within the Frame of American Civilization
Max Lerner
Weekend seminar $85
Max Lerner writes: "My idea is to pull together the various strands of experience we have had and are having in our American civilization—sex and love and the whole human potential movement. One of the things I've noted about Esalen, as others have, is how hospitable it has been to fragments of experience and new movements from every direction. But, like others, I've felt no real thrust towards synthesis. If I have anything to contribute it's likely to be in that direction."

■ S.F. January 14-16
Extending Awareness Through Hypnosis
Lee Pulos
Weekend workshop $50
This workshop will combine the approaches of hypnosis and psychosynthesis for furthering personal exploration. Hypnosis and self-hypnosis will be taught so that participants can focus in on themselves through hypnotically induced dreams, automatic writing and drawings under hypnosis. These self-discoveries will be extended through guided fantasies, symbolic imagery and learning how to tune in to the "inner theater" of one's unconscious.

■ S.F. January 18
Breadmaking: Ancient Art and Craft
Manuel, Master Baker
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
The dynamic principles of physics, chemistry, mathematics, sculpture and philosophy are in action when fingertips perform with dough. Manuel will discuss methods in primitive and natural foods baking as applied through modern technology. Breadmaking workshops with Manuel to be held at later dates, will be set up at the lecture.

■ S.F. January 21-23
A Weekend of Psychodrama
Walt & Maurica Anderson
Weekend workshop $50

■ S.F. January 28-30
The Psychology of Over-Eating: A Food Liberation Workshop
Leonard & Lil Pearson
Weekend workshop $50
Participants will explore their particular way of utilizing food as a response to emotional needs. Workshop experiences will deal with eating fantasies, food and feeding, how hunger is felt and what occasions provoke it. Alternate ways of dealing with hunger and the tyranny of food will be explored with each participant.

■ S.F. February 5-6
Philosophy and Health
Peter Koestenbaum
Weekend workshop $50
This workshop is both theoretical and experiential. Although the approach is neither therapy nor counseling, participants will explore the nature of existential philosophy and phenomenology, and concepts will be integrated experientially with individual problems and conflicts.

■ S.F. February 11
An Evening with Anaïs Nin
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

■ S.F. February 12
Furrawn
Anaïs Nin
A morning seminar $10
"There is a Welsh word for what I want to achieve: furrawn. It means the kind of talk which creates intimacy." Begins at 10:00 a.m. Limited to 20 people.

■ S.F. Starting February 17
Visionary Drug Ceremonies
Michael Aldrich
Ongoing series $50
Participants will explore ancient and modern visionary drug ceremonies relevant to contemporary psychic growth. The course will be participatory insofar as possible; that is, we will chant mantras, practice breathing, and perform ceremonies where appropriate. No drugs will be allowed in class or on Esalen premises. The following topics will be discussed: Vedic & ancient Chinese magic, intoxicant cults from India to Alexandria, Ismaili alchemy and drug dancers, tantric & Moghul India, American Indian psychedelics, 19th Century hashishology, the visionary religion. Suggested readings include: Huard and Wong's Chinese Medicine, Joseph E. Brown's The Sacred Pipe, Arthur Avalon's The Great Liberation (Mahanirvana Tantra), and Baudelaire's Artificial Paradises.
This is a series of seven Thursday evenings, 8-10:30 p.m., February 17, 24, March 2, 9, 16, 23, 30.

■ S.F. February 17
Touchstones of Reality
Maurice Friedman
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
Maurice Friedman will discuss his new book, Touchstones of Reality: Explorations in Meaning and Action, in the context of his own autobiographical journey. This lecture will be a prelude to his weekend workshop, February 26-27. (See below)

● B.S. February 18-20
Ideology and Emotion
Joe K. Adams
Weekend seminar $85
Cognitive-emotional lectures and discussions of present and past ideological conflicts and related topics, with controversial constructive suggestions for action. All participants are requested to read Secrets of the Trade.

■ S.F. February 25-27
Arts Synergy:
Finding New Doors in The Wall
Margaret Dutton
Weekend workshop $45
Group members will work in the arts to develop skills and confidence in their own inherent creativity, and to discover new forms for using fantasy and feeling in learning situations. Sessions will explore ways to correlate the arts, particularly in innovative ways for affective learning.

■ S.F. February 26-27
Touchstones of Reality
Maurice Friedman
Weekend workshop $50
"Touchstones of reality" are defined by Maurice Friedman as the products of the unique situations and events of our lives. The aims in this workshop will be sharing of touchstones and life-stances, demonstration of encounter which emphasizes personal wholeness, and exploration of the relationships between personal authenticity, the interpersonal and the transpersonal. The workshop will meet from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

● B.S. February 27 - March 3
Guild of Hands
Tony Wagner, Craft Director, & Craft Staff
Five-day workshop $215
The "Barn" has traditionally been the artists' center at Esalen and for many years staff members have made it their studio. Recently Esalen's craftsmen began an ongoing program offering such diverse arts as leatherwork, welding, woodcarving and woodcut prints, batiking, macrame, jewelry, ojos de Dios, tie-dying, photography, ceramics and forging. Participants in this workshop will learn various crafts and will have access to the barn's facilities all day, every day, after-dinner hours included.

■ S.F. March 9
Drugs, Sex and Treason
Eugene Schoenfeld, M.D.
Single evening event
$2 general; $1 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
An informal talk with Dr. Hippocrates.

■ S.F. March 11-12
Family Communication
Marion Saltman
Weekend workshop
$40 per adult; $25 per child

● B.S. March 19-24
Herbs for the Five Senses
Jeanne Rose
Five-day workshop $215
at South Coast Center
An exploration of the use of herbs from aphrodisiacs to cosmetics to medicines to witchcraft. We will experiment with many remedies for the release of physical and emotional problems including dream pillows, aroma therapy, pressure point massage and the external and internal use of herbal tisanes to enhance and enliven each of the five senses. Bring a mortar and pestle, and please don't smoke.

■ S.F. March 25
Alternative Views of Schizophrenia
Arthur & Janica Fox & Marion Saltman
One-day seminar $15
Nobody knows what causes schizophrenia. The prevailing negative "you are sick" views will be discussed. However, we will also explore the more recent views of R. D. Laing, the megavitamin people, nutritionalists, Eastern physiology, and Julian Silverman's research at Esalen. We welcome individuals and families who, like the leaders, have had personal experience with mental illness. Concerned professionals and others are also welcome to attend.
Suggested readings: R. D. Laing, The Politics of Experience; Gopi Krishna, Kundalini.

● B.S. March 31 - April 2
From Dream to Reality Revisited
George Leonard, Michael Murphy & James Fadiman
Weekend seminar $85
In 1966, Misters Leonard, Murphy and Fadiman conducted a hopeful and perhaps naive discussion of the human potential movement. They will continue that discussion comparing what has happened these past five years with the visions of 1966, exploring some of the wrong turns that have been taken and some of the right ones and speculating where the exploration of the human potential might go from here.

■ S.F. April 7-9
Human Potentials Within the Frame of American Civilization
Max Lerner & Michael Murphy
Weekend seminar $45
How are people changing in American society? What does American society do for and against human potentials? How can America change in the future so that it will foreclose less on the human spirit?

■ S.F. April 7-9
Experiences in Visual Thinking
Robert McKim
Weekend workshop $50
Experiences and exercises intended to vitalize seeing, imagining, and drawing as vehicles for productive thinking.

Psychosynthesis

Psychosynthesis is an inclusive and positive conception of man that considers him dynamically, as a being in a process of personal growth within an evolving universe. It appears in embryonic form in the doctoral dissertation of its founder, Roberto Assagioli, M.D., as far back as 1910. Since those early days, Assagioli has spent his professional life elaborating it into a generous and comprehensive psychology of man that includes the soul as well as the libido, the imagination as well as the complexes, the will as well as the instinctual drives. More than a theory, it is a way of looking at the mystery of man, his inner life, his psyche; a practical, working method that includes many approaches to personal growth currently entering the mainstreams of psychology and education — meditation, encounter, inner imagery, gestalt and several dozen more. These methods are unified around the notion of a self at the core of each individual that can direct the harmonious development of all aspects of the personality. Beyond that personal harmony lies access to higher realms — creativity, transpersonal experience and spiritual development.

The following Esalen Institute Psychosynthesis Programs are offered in cooperation with the Psychosynthesis Institute (Palo Alto) and are coordinated by Jim and Susan Vargiu, directors of the Psychosynthesis Institute.

Biographical Information

TOM ALLEN is an artis , a former Esalen resident fellow and te: ches art at Cabrillo College. He is in didactic training in Psychosynthesis with Jim and Susan Vargiu at the Psychosynthesis Institute in California. He has developed workshop processes that nurture authentic being and rich interpersonal contact and is presently integrating art into the psychosynthesis process as a means of self-realization.

JOSE AND MIRIAM ARGUELLES are co-authors of the forthcoming book Mandala. Through painting mandalas together, they have developed techniques of personal growth in which the mandala itself is used as a means of fostering a more complete and many-sided unfoldment of inner potentialities. José is currently coordinator of the Man and Arts Program at the new Evergreen State College in Olympia, Washington.

GEORGE BROWN is one of the first to combine gestalt and psychosynthesis in workshop and educational contexts. He is director of DRICE, a Ford Foundation center at the University of California at Santa Barbara where he teaches, and is the author of Human Teaching for Human Learning, an Esalen book.

JUDITH BROWN has an international reputation as a gestalt awareness trainer. In addition to her own groups she has co-led numerous groups with her husband.

BETSIE CARTER, a former Esalen Resident Fellow, has been in didactic training with Roberto Assagioli in Florence, Italy and with Jim and Susan Vargiu at the Psychosynthesis Institute in California. She has given workshops in this country and abroad and works with gifted and creative young people in psychosynthesis, both individually and in groups. She has been associate director of the Ford-Esalen Project in Confluent Education.

JAMES FADIMAN is a senior counselor and consultant at Stanford University. He is an editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and the editor of several books, most recently, The Practice of Psychosynthesis. He is a pioneer in the transpersonal field, has lectured and done workshops in psychosynthesis for several years, and has worked with Roberto Assagioli in Italy.

ROBERT FRAGER teaches psychology at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He was a personal student of Master Morihei Ueshiba, the founder of aikido, and has also practiced various schools of yoga for a number of years.

DONNA GERARD, drama teacher and therapist, for the past twelve years has focused her private practice on the development and release of creative energies. Both she and her husband are interested in providing systematic methods for evoking transcendental awareness.

ROBERT GERARD is a clinical psychologist in private practice and President of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis in Los Angeles. He collaborated with Dr. Assagioli in the writing of the book, Psychosynthesis. After training with Robert Desoille, the French originator of the Guided Daydream, Dr. Gerard further developed this technique over the past fifteen years, and has been designated by the International Society of the Guided Daydream, organized by French psychiatrists, as their official representative and training therapist in the United States.

STEVEN KULL has been in didactic training with Roberto Assagioli in Florence, Italy and with Jim and Susan Vargiu at the Psychosynthesis Institute in California. He has given workshops in this country and abroad and works with gifted and creative young people in psychosynthesis, both individually and in groups.

JIM AND SUSAN VARGIU are the directors of the Psychosynthesis Institute, Redwood City, Calif. They underwent didactic training in Italy with Roberto Assagioli and have worked with him over the past seven years. They have lectured and given workshops in this country and in Europe. Presently they are training people in the helping professions in the use of psychosynthesis, writing and publishing articles on psychosynthesis, and working with creative and gifted adolescents.

WORKSHOPS WITH STANLEY KELEMAN

(Co-sponsored by Esalen Institute and the Institute for Bioenergetic Studies)

Stanley Keleman is an innovative theoretician and practitioner of the approaches to bodily and emotional health characterized by the work of Wilhelm Reich and Alexander Lowen. This winter he will conduct a limited number of workshops in the San Francisco Bay Area for persons selected by application.

Groups to be offered include: open workshops, weekend groups devoted to individual and group bioenergetic work; multiple workshops, a series of three weekends over a three-month period; ongoing series for persons working in the helping professions; five-day intensive workshop.

A complete prospectus and application form may be obtained by calling or writing the Esalen San Francisco office.

For biography, see p. 12.

WORKSHOPS WITH CHARLOTTE SELVER AND CHARLES BROOKS:

Originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany, sensory awareness has been developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration. Her pioneering work in the United States has been the basis for most of the work with sensory awareness and related approaches which are now gaining wide acceptance. Charles Brooks has worked in conjunction with Miss Selver since 1963.

In describing their work in sensory awareness, Mr. Brooks writes: "We can discover in gradual, sensitive work that the doors of our senses will open spontaneously and that we can release and cultivate the living process in ourselves which, by its very nature, responds directly to the offering and demands of life."

The Alexander Technique
Frank Ottiwell
Ongoing workshop $35 per month

The Alexander Technique is a method of facilitating psycho-physical integration by applying sensory awareness, inhibition and re-direction to such everyday activities as sitting, standing, walking and lying, under conditions of continuous feedback. Sessions focus on: experiencing the specific ways in which each individual interferes with the natural flow of his total pattern; learning to inhibit the interference; and allowing and encouraging a response that will strengthen our innate tendency toward a whole use of the self.

Continuous classes, Monday evenings from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. Enrollment is limited to six persons; new persons may join the class as spaces become available.

■ S.F. Starting January 4
Aikido and Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau
Ongoing series

One meeting per week: $15 per month (general and student)

Two meetings per week: $25 per month, general; $20 per month, student

Three meetings per week: $35 per month, general; $30 per month, student

A continuous program of instruction in energy awareness as used for centering, movement, healing, concentration and relaxation, and in Aikido as a physical expression of that awareness in a self-defense form, with emphasis on harmony and energy in motion. This course will meet each week; participation can be in one, two or three sessions per week, with tuition based on the schedule of participation.

Aikido: Tuesday, 8-9:30 p.m., Saturday, 10-12 noon

Energy Awareness: Thursday, 8-9:30 p.m.

■ S.F. Starting January 5
Body Awareness
George Downing
Ongoing series $6 per person, each Wednesday; or $22 per month.

An integrative approach employing a variety of techniques; yoga, massage, movement, sensory awareness and others. 8-10:30 p.m. every Wednesday evening.

■ S.F. Starting January 6
Breath Energy
George Downing
Ongoing series $22 per month

Close work with the breath and the body for muscular realignment, more centeredness, and a heightened sense of well being. 8-9:30 p.m. every Thursday evening.

● B.S. January 9 - February 5
Freeing the Body
Esalen Staff
Four week program $875

This intensive program introduces various body-oriented disciplines such as massage training, the rolf method of structural integration, movement, tai chi chuan, yoga and techniques based on the work of Wilhelm Reich. The aim is to give group members greater awareness of their physical structures and to demonstrate methods for achieving freer movement, more expressiveness and life feeling. There will be weekly sessions in gestalt and encounter to integrate the total experience.

■ S.F. Starting January 10
Developing a Concept of Health
David Sobel, Coordinator
Ongoing series $90

This course will explore methods which build positive health, the energetic, harmonious state of well-being. The emphasis will be on health rather than disease, prevention rather than treatment. Guests will discuss naturopathy, homeopathy, iridology, zone therapy, breathing therapy, autogenic training, structural integration, relaxation. Dr. H. F. Parsons and Miss G. L. Schilb will present a special unit on nutrition. Ten Monday evenings, 8:00-10:30 p.m., January 10 - March 13.

■ S.F. Starting January 11
The Human Body
James Koski
Ongoing series $90

Basic introduction to the structure and function of the human body, aimed at developing a concept of health. Topics to be covered are: fertilization and embryonic development, tissue differentiation and growth, birth, death and aging, organ systems and homeostasis, mind-body interaction and health and disease. The central metaphor will be that the body (microcosm) is a reflection of the world around it (macrocosm). The approach will be eclectic, drawing on information from anatomy, physiology, medicine, psychology, psychocybernetics, alchemy and other systems of thought which reflect on the human organism. The course is designed for the layman who wishes to learn about his body and its relationship to the world. The format will include lecture, group discussion, films, guest instructors.

Ten Tuesday evenings, 7:30-10:30 p.m. January 11 - March 14.

■ S.F. Starting January 11
Massage Training
Gunver Jackson
Extended workshop series $260

Participants will receive instruction in massage techniques and will work to develop receptivity to touch, both giving and receiving. Relaxation, breathing and gestalt awareness exercises will be used to supplement thorough massage training. Gunver Jackson writes: "The goal here is to teach that life is an act, not a thought. Action in life and our basic need for touch will be combined in the teaching of massage."

The course consists of twelve three-hour classes in massage, taught by Gunver Jackson, and ten classes in human anatomy, taught by Ed Jackson, M.D. Separate massage classes are scheduled for two groups, limited to ten participants each.

Two separate anatomy classes are also scheduled. These will be limited to 20 participants each and will be open to the general public.

Massage Group I: 7:00-10:00 p.m., twelve Tuesday evenings, January 11 - March 28.

Massage Group II: 11:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m., twelve Thursday mornings, January 13 - March 30.

Anatomy Class A: 3:00-5:00 p.m., ten Thursday afternoons, January 13 - March 16.

Anatomy Class B: 7:30-9:30 p.m., ten Thursday evenings, January 13 - March 16.

Nonrefundable deposit of $150 is required. Indicate whether Group I or Group II is preferred and whether Class A or Class B is preferred when registering.

■ S.F. Starting January 11 and 13
Ecstatic Athletics
Ethan Gluck
Ongoing series $90

An experiential study of the movements and philosophy of western sport. In this course, sport will be approached from the point of view of physical harmony, not competition; participants will concentrate on integrating innate strength, grace and physical and mental coordination into smooth athletic movement. The concern is to provide a conducive instructional and play environment in which each group member can develop his own physical rhythms and expressions.

Sports to be included are basketball, tennis, track, table tennis, football and others, depending on the availability of facilities. Two sessions will be offered, one for beginning players and one for more advanced athletes.

Series I (Beginners): Ten Tuesday afternoons, 1:00-4:00 p.m., January 11 - March 14.

Series II (Advanced): Ten Thursday afternoons, 1:00-4:00 p.m., January 13 - March 16.

■ S.F. Starting January 13
Human Anatomy
Ed Jackson, M.D.
Ongoing class $90

An anatomy course oriented to therapies and disciplines that require a concern for human structure and function: movement, gestalt, dance, massage. Emphasis will be on the skeletal and muscular systems. The material will be presented both through lecture and direct examination and experience of the living body.

There will be two Thursday sessions, limited to 20 people each session: Ten Thursday afternoons, 3:00 to 5:00 p.m., or ten Thursday evenings, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., January 13 - March 16. Please indicate which session you prefer when registering. ($50 non-refundable deposit required.)

On Developing a Concept of Health
H. F. Parsons & G. L. Schiller
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
Health is not merely the absence of disease but is a vibrant, energetic state of being of the whole organism. This lecture will emphasize the importance of living in harmony with nature and in ecological balance. Some practical guidelines for better health through nutrition will be presented.

■ S.F. March 3-5
Massage
Helen Stephens
Weekend workshop $50

● B.S. March 5-10
Massage and Movement
Gabrielle Roth
Five-day workshop $255
As we are, so we move and touch: spontaneously or restricted, flowing or tense, open or inhibited. The combination of massage and movement techniques offers a unique experience for becoming aware of our own movement and how it flows outward into the bodies of others. As we make these physical discoveries, we can begin to allow our naturalness in terms of gesture, feeling, movement and touch to be expressed.

■ S.F. March 6
On Yoga: A Lecture and Demonstration
Joel Kramer
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;

The Adventure of Incarnation: Bioenergetic and Poetic Approaches to the Bodily Mysteries
Ian Grand & Peter Marin
Weekend workshop $50
In this workshop we assume that incarnation, body, loving and sexuality are sacred expressions of life energy. Implications of this stance for spiritual striving, personal growth and education will be explored through conversation, gestalt and bioenergetics.

● B.S. March 24-26
Fun and Games
James Fadiman & Bob Frager
Weekend workshop $95
For people who have been taking their personal growth too seriously, a weekend of relaxation and enjoyment dedicated to the principle that growth can and should be fun. Participants should be prepared for some active physical games such as yoga tag or geisha sumo, as well as quieter activities.

● B.S. April 2-7
Gestalt, Movement and Massage
Gabrielle Roth & Julian Silverman
Five-day workshop $255
Many persons, in giving and receiving a massage, experience feelings of sadness, anger, hostility or joy, particular areas of muscular holding and blocked energy, and the emergence of past memories of pain and pleasure. Methods of gestalt will be used to deal with such emotional experiences, as they occur, during the course of massage instruction.

● B.S. April 2-7
Bodymind*
Michael Butler
Five-day workshop $175
at South Coast Center
Based on the model established by William Schutz, this workshop will attempt to integrate the rolf method of body alignment within the framework of open encounter, including fantasy and gestalt methods.

BOOKS

THE ESALEN PUBLISHING PROGRAM WITH VIKING PRESS

Far-ranging investigations, divinations and reports from the movement to develop human potentialities, highlighting recent work at Esalen

The Farther Reaches of Human Nature
by Abraham Maslow

This adventurous volume is the last work Dr. Maslow completed before his death. In it he goes beyond his earlier writings to carry the concerns of psychology into the realm of joy, creativity and spiritual experience. In earlier books, he innovated by defining a 'humanistic' psychology; here he sketches a psychology for the highest of which man is capable. It is a look into the future of psychology and man.
$12.50, hardbound.

On the Psychology of Meditation
by Claudio Naranjo and Robert Ornstein

Two psychologists examine the spiritual ground of meditation and the implications of meditation for modern psychology. New insights into the nature of consciousness have resulted from current experimental work with computers and electroencephalograms and from a synthesis of meditative technique derived from Zen, Yoga, the Sufis and Shamanism.
$7.95, hardbound.

Secrets of the Trade
by Joe Kennedy Adams

A psychologist demonstrates that madness was (among other things) a source of creativity and conviction for him. Perspectives on the present and the past are presented with both humor and horror.
$12.50, hardbound.

Hot Springs
by Stuart Miller

A rollicking chronicle of what it means in contemporary America to undergo a spiritual death and a spiritual rebirth. The book is played out against backdrops that range from Orchard Street in New York's Lower East Side, to the Yale Graduate School, and finally to Esalen Institute at Big Sur.
$7.95, hardbound. (See review page 3.)

Psychosynthesis
by Roberto Assagioli

Principles, techniques and applications of a method for discovering the central core of the self, the "I-consciousness" that is distinct from changing biological and emotional states.
$2.75, paper.

Other Books in the Esalen Series:

Human Teaching for Human Learning
by George I. Brown.
$8.50, hardbound.

Anger and the Rocking Chair
by Janet Lederman
$4.95, hardbound.

BIG SUR INFORMATION

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Deposits accompanying the reservations are required as follows: $20 for weekend programs; $70 for one-week and 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $400 for 4-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but ma[illegible]nsferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

PROGRAM COSTS: cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra. Foreign currency: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. Esalen accepts major credit cards, including Master Charge and American Express.

GROUNDS ARE CLOSED EXCEPT BY RESERVATION. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

CHECK-IN / CHECK-OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening; however, guests are welcome to arrive earlier in the afternoon. All programs begin with dinner on Sunday; weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday. The last session of a five-day program is Friday morning; check-out time is 12 noon on Friday. One-week programs usually end Saturday morning. 2-week and 4-week programs usually have final sessions on the last Saturday morning, with some programs ending Friday morning of the last week. Weekend programs end Sunday after the morning session. Check-out time is noon of the final day for all programs.

ACCOMMODATIONS. The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property—in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms — is strictly prohibited.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name.

From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs.

A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute—Reservations Only.

Esalen now has the use of two facilities along the Big Sur Coast — its original home (the Hot Springs) and the South Coast Center, one and a half miles north. Like Esalen itself, the South Coast Center is complete with meeting rooms, sleeping accommodations, dining room, pool and sauna. Persons attending programs at the South Coast are free to use the hot baths, pool and other facilities at Esalen if they wish. Program descriptions indicate whether a program is to be held at South Coast Center or at the Hot Springs.

Persons who are familiar with Esalen programs are invited to stay at South Coast independent of workshops being conducted there, provided space is available. Rooms can be rented on a daily or weekly basis at $35 single or $25 shared per day, all meals included.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE FROM MONTEREY: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $10 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen representative.

WORK COMMITMENT: Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer at Esalen Institute. The work requirement is 6 hours per week at South Coast Center.

ORGANIC FOOD: The organic food garden on the Esalen grounds is flourishing and provides the kitchen with most of its vegetables and herbs. We try to serve only organically-produced meats, poultry and dairy products; most breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

STAFF-LED WORKSHOPS: Some of the four-week, two-week, one-week and five-day programs listed will be led by members of the Esalen Staff from Big Sur and San Francisco.

Big Sur Staff includes: John Argue, Diana Bechetti, Michael Butler, Roberta DeLong, Alberta Donlan, Al Drucker, Betty Fuller, Peggy Morrison, Janet Lederman, Milton Lees, Dub Leigh, Theodora Lyon, Hector Prestera, Richard Price, Carole Rosenblatt, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Julian Silverman, Simone Surpin, Gerald Thatcher and Sharon Wheeler.

On study leave until summer 1972: Jean Butler, Gary Sohns, John and Ann Heider, and Steven Stroud.

RESERVATIONS: should be made at least one week prior to start of program. A non-refundable deposit must accompany registrations as follows: $10 per person for programs costing under $35; $20 for programs costing under $100; $50 for those over $100, unless otherwise noted. Mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Balance is payable at the first session of the program. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. Esalen accepts major credit cards, including Master Charge and American Express.

INFORMATION, LITERATURE AND TICKETS: for lectures may be obtained Monday through Saturday, 10:00 to 5:00, at 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Tickets obtained by mail will indicate the exact location and time of events; when not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Most San Francisco programs are non-residential. Participants in these programs must reserve their own accommodations at local hotels or motels. Unless stated otherwise, meals are not provided at such workshops.

days, unless otherwise indicated in workshop descriptions. Schedules are not rigid, however, and exact meeting times are discussed at the first session.

LOCATION: Participants will be informed of workshop location at time of registration and confirmation. Esalen uses several facilities in the Bay Area for its programs including its own building at 1757 Union Street, San Francisco. Call the San Francisco office for advance information on program location.

SCHOLARSHIPS: and interest-free loans are available for many programs in San Francisco. A scholarship application form will be sent upon request—apply early. Students may attend most workshops for less than the stated fee on a space-available basis; inquire by phone at least one week prior to start of program. Special preference will be given persons who plan to apply their Esalen experience to urban teaching or organized community efforts.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes for men.

RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS: are indicated in individual workshop descriptions. Program cost of residential programs includes tuition, food and lodging. Shared occupancy only, no private accommodations available. Weekend residential programs, unless otherwise indicated, begin at 8 p.m., Friday (no supper served) and conclude following Sunday lunch. Programs are held at a conference center in Marin County or in Sonoma County; exact location will be included with reservation confirmation.

WEEKEND SCHEDULES: Weekend workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sun-

WAITING LISTS: Names are placed on waiting lists in cases of over-subscription or when demanded by workshop requirements. Registrants placed on such a list will be informed immediately and deposit checks held. Checks will be returned if reservation cannot be confirmed or upon request by persons not wishing to be on a waiting list. Notification of reservation status will be sent no later than seven days before workshop begins.

STAFF-LED WORKSHOPS: Some programs listed will be led or assisted by Esalen Staff from San Francisco and Big Sur. San Francisco staff includes: Paul Aiken, Margaret Conway, Bob Cromey, Jacqueline Doyle, Arthur Fox, Betty Fuller, Janica Fox, Bob Kriegel, Pamela Portugal, Harry Sloan, Helen Stephens.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a non-profit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

CONSULTING SERVICE (Robert Kriegel & Betty Fuller, Co-directors): Esalen Institute's techniques and approaches to human growth and development are now available to organizations, schools, hospitals, social agencies and corporations. The Esalen organizational approach is based on the uniqueness of the individual and focuses on the importance of self-awareness in communicating with others.

Esalen Consulting Service has assisted in a number of projects for teachers, hospital workers, students, advertising agency personnel, and social workers.

For information, please contact Robert Kriegel at the Esalen/San Francisco office.

ACCREDITATION* and the USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs. Our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please also see membership form below.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recordings of many past programs are available through a service which maintains archive copies for Esalen. Requests for tapes now come from educational and service institutions, libraries, religious and professional groups, business groups and individuals concerned with the human potential movement. Commercial use of these tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved. For a complete tape catalog write Big Sur Recordings, 117 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, CA 94903. The cost of recordings is $10 per tape-hour, stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA and KQED) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has a dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, as well at KPFT Houston and WBAI New York City broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides.

Esalen Institute RESERVATIONS & TICKET ORDER

This form is for your convenience in preparing attendance at Esalen workshops and lectures. You may use it for Big Sur and San Francisco area programs, although it is suggested that you make reservations independently at each location rather than place a "mixed" order. You will receive a new order form with your tickets or confirmation of reservations. Please make reservations early; some seminars are booked to capacity months in advance.

ESALEN INSTITUTE is a center to explore those trends in the behavioral sciences, religion and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops such as the ones described in this catalog, research and consulting programs, and a residential program exploring new directions in education and the behavioral sciences.

NEWS

STAYING AT HOT SPRINGS

Sometimes there are extra rooms at Big Sur when workshops aren't completely filled and we are now inviting people to stay with us at Esalen even if they don't feel like being in a workshop. All the facilities of the Hot Springs are open to use. Rates are $25 single or $35 shared, per day, all meals included. For reservations, telephone (408) 667-2335, 9 to 5, Monday through Saturday.

SOME VITAL STATISTICS

In 1971 . . . 2,469 people attended 151 seminars and workshops at Esalen/Big Sur. $23,450 were awarded in scholarships. 7,742 people attended single evening events or lectures. San Francisco scholarships to workshops only were granted to 240 people and amounted to $8,076. In addition, 77 people worked off part of their workshop fees by doing volunteer work at the San Francisco Center.

THANKS

We want to extend again our warmest thanks and appreciation to a number of people whose substantial gifts last year helped ease our financial burdens and carry forward our work: Martin J. Farber, Ida Roll, Janet Bickford, Don Flaxman, Drewry Hanes, Kit Tremaine, Bruce Woolpert, The Andrew Norman Foundation, Barbara Lassiter, Lawrence Kroll and Andrew Gagarin.

EXPERIENCE AND INTELLECT

From June 4-July 1 Janet Lederman will coordinate a new program at Big Sur. The program has two aims: first, to provide a setting where participants can intellectually integrate the experiences they may have and, secondly, to provide an opportunity in which participants can survey Esalen's resources and use what may be most appropriate to their personal needs.

During the first week, participants will be exposed to various experiential techniques and spend a good deal of their time talking about the experiences. Experience will be grounded, then, in intellectual discussion. In the next three weeks, participants may choose from the on-going workshops, exclusive of weekends, scheduled in this catalog. These workshops range from gestalt and encounter to Arica training and aikido. So that these experiences achieve coherence, participants in this special program will meet with their original group at least two times a week to continue their dialogue between experience and intellect.

In some respects, this program model parallels that of the "educational park" being discussed in models for future education. We hope to use this as a model for future programming.

ROLE CHANGES

David Baar, founding Director of Esalen/San Francisco in July, 1967, will take a six months leave of absence starting in April of this year. He plans "a Far East trip and lots of time for thinking and resting." When he returns in October, he will undertake expansion of the Esalen Book Service as well as projects designed to further involve Esalen in the Bay Area community.

George Calmenson has been named the new Director of Esalen/San Francisco. He has been Assistant Director for the past two and a half years.

ESALEN'S "PROFITS"

A recent New York Times report carried the following bit of wisdom: "Organizing and leading encounter groups has become fantastically profitable. It could even be regarded as the growth industry of the nineteen seventies." The article then went on to speak of the great heaps of money that Esalen Institute is presumably making because it has more encounter groups than anyone else does. And then there are also the other fabulous business schemes for which we are famed: gestalt, rolfing, psychosynthesis, and that newest of financial bonanzas—lectures!

The actual facts are a bit different. Just to keep the record straight, we are publishing on this page summaries of our essential financial statistics: a condensed income statement and a condensed balance sheet. This is for the record. For those who are not of a financial turn of mind, it may be helpful to point out that far from making a profit of any kind in 1971, the Institute lost money in the amount of $125,822.

The New York Times notwithstanding, this loss was not owing to our paying ourselves exorbitant salaries. In fact, Esalen co-founders Mike Murphy and Dick Price took no salary during the Institute's first five years. Not that it's actually anyone's business, but just to settle matters, it's worth stating that the salary of the President of Esalen is $13,500 per year, and it's downhill from there. One of our Directors has been known to remark that after much professional education, many years' service at Esalen, several children and the approach of middle age, he is now making as much as a rookie cop at age twenty. We have just cut his salary and the salaries of our other Directors by ten percent.

So people ask, "Where does the money go?" After all, they say, your rates are high. They may seem high, we think they are too high, but they are as low as we can get them. Most people aren't aware that our tuition fees are the same as or lower than those charged for parallel seminars and workshops by the Extension Division of the University of California. And, needless to say, they've got some assets we don't. We make a constant effort to keep these fees low.

Accordingly, the salaries of our staff are low, as are the fees of the professionals who lead programs for us. Nevertheless, because we want to employ only the best professional people, they must be paid, and fees to leaders accounted for a substantial share of the income made by San Francisco/Esalen last year. At Esalen/Big Sur there are many expenses that some people don't take into account. Our fees average about $40 per day. Esalen/Big Sur is not a hotel, although it once was, and even if it were $40 per day—including room, three meals, tips, swimming pool, luxurious grounds, staff and hot mineral baths—it is not what one would call out of line. But there is more going on than that. Included in the $40 are the workshops and seminars which, according to reports we get, have been important to the lives of many people. Conducting these seminars and workshops, and making sure that our program is continually fresh and real, costs money.

A hotel could operate on half of what we do. Documenting these costs to you is important. We should also tell you what we are trying to do about them. To make sure they do not rise, we use all our energies to keep every expense low. This includes periodic and painful review of the way we do business, and we are going through one of these periods now. Another bright idea we had was to offer scholarships to people who might not be able to afford the present fees. And, in fact, we gave away $23,450 in scholarships at Big Sur alone in 1971. That partly explains our deficit for 1971, but only partly.

We invite you to study these figures. The sad truth is that Esalen Institute, however different it may be in most ways from other nonprofit institutions, is profoundly similar to many of them—colleges, churches, museums, symphonies, libraries. We are a public service. We need outside support. Like even such financially strong institutions as Harvard, we must ask those for whom Esalen has made a difference for support. Like Harvard, the tuition charged does not pay the costs of your Esalen experience. We are asking for help.

Specifically, we need over $100,000 this year to underwrite the difference between tuition and costs. And, in addition, if Esalen is to flourish and progress, we need help with a number of projects aimed at making Esalen more relevant to a number of social institutions: $42,000 for our project in humanizing medicine, $250,000 to plan an Esalen demonstration school for the elementary grades, $10,000 to design our project to reform prisons, among others. We also need continuing help with maintaining and improving our physical facilities. Last year we spent $40,000 to build an addition to the Lodge at Big Sur which gives needed space for workshops, dining and for people to get together. The cost of this new addition doesn't even appear in the deficit we show in last year's income and expense figures. The same is true of the $3,000 we spent getting a building into shape so we could, at last, have a center in San Francisco. At our San Francisco Center, by the way, we are able to offer less expensive programs starting at $3 a lecture, $2 for students.

Obviously, we cannot give all the details of the financial operation of Esalen in this small space. This is just a summary and a beginning. But if you can help, we hope you will. One way to help is to become a member of Friends of Esalen, the new Esalen membership organization. This costs as little as $25 and carries a number of special benefits in the form of discounts. It also gives us a place to turn for things we need besides money: support, advice, feedback and so on. So, being a member gets us closer together and provides the supportive community Esalen needs. There's a membership blank on page 19. If you can give more than $25, the Institute needs it. And if you can suggest other funding sources, we need to know about them, too. Being nonprofit as we are, contributions to Esalen are tax deductible.

SUMMER PROGRAM IN ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND TRANSPERSONAL PHYCHOLOGY

We are witnessing within this century a change in man's attitude to his existence in the world. As a result, the scientific community is also forming a new conception of man's capacities. In the past academic science has underestimated man—his sensitivity to subtle sources of energy, his capacity for love, intuition and transcendence, his self-control. We are also discovering that many of the older "esoteric" psychologies contain much useful knowledge for exploring the areas that contemporary Western psychology has neglected.

Esalen, in cooperation with researchers and teachers from various universities, is planning a second "Summer Institute on the Psychology of Human Consciousness" with disciplined experiential and intellectual inquiry into human awareness. The institute will be five weeks long in late summer. Topics to be included are: biofeedback training; psychology and physiology of meditation; psychologies of Zen, Yoga and the Sufis; techniques for extending consciousness; body energies and states of consciousness; paranormal phenomena; psychosynthesis; psychological anthropology. This program is primarily intended for graduate students, professors, and those outside the academic community who would like to integrate this study into their lives and environments. There is a possibility for university accreditation for the summer series. The program will be held in the Palo Alto area. Address inquiries to Esalen/San Francisco.

Long-Term Programs

The following programs represent ways in which participants can involve themselves with Esalen over an extended period of time. Although Esalen does not have a leadership training program, per se, involvement in these long term programs will present greater opportunities for learning experiences and exposure to a wide variety of disciplines. (For additional program listings see Workshops for Professionals, page 13.)

■ S.F. THE ESALEN STUDY GROUPS: A Tutorial Program

The Esalen Study Groups are patterned after the tutorial system of Oxford, Cambridge and the teaching model of antiquity. A very few students meet regularly with their tutors who, as resource experts, provide direct teaching, assistance, advice and access to the wealth of resources which the community can offer.

Weekly sessions of tutorial groups include study, work and evaluation in an informal setting. Hours of meetings are flexible depending on participants' needs, and, wherever possible, sessions meet in tutors' and/or students' homes.

Registration for tutorials is on a monthly basis through the Esalen/San Francisco office. Tuition is due in full prior to the first meeting of each month.

Starting April 2
Tutorial with David Sobel

Ongoing group $22 per month

I am just one journeyer trying to stay centered; the tutorial is the opportunity to explore the process of journeying . . . rolfing, yoga, tai chi, encounter groups, psychosynthesis, here and now, psychology of consciousness, neuropsychology, sexual politics, health, medical school, love, traditional medicine, the body, macrobiotics and mucusless nutrition, meditation, dreams, sufism . . . Sunday evenings at 8:00 p.m. Limited to 10 participants.

Starting April 3
Tutorial with Robert Ornstein

Ongoing group $35 per month

There is a kind of learning which takes place among friends. It is not easily categorized and can happen anywhere. For people who are generally interested in sufi work and scientific and personal research into consciousness. Monday afternoons at 5:00 p.m. Limited to 6 participants.

Starting April 4
Tutorial with Eleanor Criswell

Ongoing group $22 per month

A tutorial in physiological psychology from the humanistic/transpersonal orientation. This tutorial will provide basic understanding of the physiological correlates of behavior. We will explore applications to contemporary growth practices: yoga, meditation, and other Sadhanas and somatic techniques, sensory awareness, bio-feedback, altered states of consciousness and others. We will also consider the traditional areas of motivation, emotion and learning. Tuesday evenings at 8:00 p.m. Limited to 10 participants.

Starting April 4
Tutorial with Ian Grand

Ongoing group $22 per month

"Human Being, Human Becoming and Human Energies." The adventure of being explored in a series of studies of the Bodily mysteries—incarnation, transformation, pleasure/growth, and the experience of the sacred. A wide range of authors, systems and conceptions to include: Rilke, Heidegger, Reich, Jonas, Suarès, Keleman, mythic texts. Studies of language, movement, dance and song. Tuesday afternoons at 3:30 p.m. Limited to 10 participants.

Starting April 5
Tutorial with Michael Murphy

Ongoing group $35 per month

Though not strictly bound by the following subjects, the general area of our explorations will be: The unfoldment of human consciousness studied historically and in terms of our personal experience; what an American Sadhana is like; the relationships between the discoveries of modern psychology and traditional contemplative disciplines; Aurobindo, Maslow and Assagioli as links between Western and Eastern experience; where we are going from here, personally and as a culture. Wednesday afternoons at 3:30 p.m. Limited to 6 participants.

CONTINUOUS AND DROP-IN PROGRAMS

The following programs are held regularly at the Esalen Program Center, 1757 Union Street, San Francisco. It is possible to attend these programs on a continuing, weekly basis or to participate one-time-only or occasionally. No advance registration is necessary; simply go to the Program Center at the scheduled time.

Monday Evenings: Open House
FREE

A series of informal evenings to discuss programs, methods and directions with Esalen leaders and staff.

April 3: Michael Salveson
April 10: George Downing and Anne Kent Rush
April 17: Marilyn Harris Kriegel
April 24: Arica Staff
May 1: Betsie Carter and Steven Kull
May 8: Gunver Jackson
May 15: Ian Grand
May 22: Carole Rosenblatt
May 29: Robert Kriegel

Nine Monday evenings, 7:30-10 p.m., April 3 to May 29.

Tuesday Evenings: Body Awareness
George Downing & Anne Kent Rush

$6 per person, each meeting, or $22 per month

Emphasis will be on energy in the body and will use a number of approaches: yoga, movement, sense relaxation, energy exchange techniques, massage, pressure point systems. Eight Tuesday evenings, 8 to 10:30 p.m., April 18 - June 6.

Thursday Mornings: Drop-in Encounter
Robert Cromey and Staff

$6 per person

This encounter program is open to anyone. Persons are encouraged to use this series as a place to deal with immediate personal conflicts and as a follow-up for other workshop programs. 10 a.m. to 12 noon, every Thursday morning, beginning April 13.

Thursday Evenings: Relaxation: Yoga Nidra
Bonita Bradley

$3.50 per person

Gentle, tension-relieving movements and postures and deep relaxation techniques. 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., every Thursday evening, beginning April 13.

BIG SUR RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS

At the present time, there is no formal residential program at Big Sur. Instead, we are offering an ongoing residential program which may be initiated by an individual according to his specific needs and interests, chosen from among the continuing workshops available. Those interested in the program should be aware, first, of a residence requirement of at least two months, and second, of a work obligation of 12-16 hours per week.

The cost of the program is $800 per month exclusive of weekend workshops. There will be a nominal additional charge for participation in workshops commanding a higher tuition fee (those workshops listed in the catalog which are more than $240). Individuals interested in applying for the residential program must first attend a week-long seminar at Big Sur, the cost of which will not be applicable to the residential fee, should they be accepted to the program.

● B.S. April 16-May 13
Gestalt and Structural Integration
Esalen Staff
Four-week program $800
at South Coast Center

Psychological dis-ease and physical tension are two aspects of one phenomenon. Gestalt training is an awareness centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. Structural integration (rolfing), while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body process in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolfings as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.).

● B.S. June 4-July 1
Experiencing Change
Janet Lederman
Four-week workshop $875

Exploring . . . Expanding—values, goals . . . to experience—reflecting, selecting, changing...The theatre: Esalen/Big Sur. The players: you/we, alone/together.

● B.S. July 2-29
Gestalt and Structural Integration
Frank Rubenfeld and Esalen Staff
Four-week program $875
(See above.)

Biographical Information

ELEANOR CRISWELL is an Assistant Professor of Psychology at Sonoma State College, California, where she teaches physiological psychology, educational psychology and yoga psychology and is involved in EEG research.

IAN GRAND is the director of the Center for Educational Alternatives at San Francisco State College and teaches in the Department of Education at S.F. State Extension. He has led training groups for psychiatric residents at Agnews State Hospital and at San Mateo County Hospital. He leads bioenergetic groups and has a private practice in San Francisco.

JANET LEDERMAN, artist, teacher and author is currently leading gestalt groups throughout the United States and Canada.

MICHAEL MURPHY has a B.A. in psychology from Stanford University and has been a student of the contemplative traditions for twenty years. He studied at the Aurobindo Ashram in Pondicherry, India for one and a half years. He co-founded Esalen Institute in 1962 and has served as its president since that time.

ROBERT ORNSTEIN teaches at University of California Medical Center and does research at Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute. He is author of the books On the Experience of Time and, with Claudio Naranjo, On the Psychology of Meditation.

FRANK RUBENFELD is a clinical psychologist and is on the faculty of the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy, in addition to his private practice of individual and group therapy.

DAVID SOBEL is a medical student on leave from the University of Michigan. He is the food and body editor of Big Rock Candy Mountain and is currently working on a book on the ways of health to be published in the Esalen/Viking Series.

The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontations rather than away from them. The focus of encounter is to explore interpersonal relations. Over the past years encounter, as practiced at Esalen, has evolved into a broad approach incorporating several related disciplines to achieve its aims. Techniques and insights gained from gestalt, sensory awareness, bioenergetics, massage, movement and structural integration are all part of Esalen encounter groups today.

● B.S. EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN PROGRAMS

Experience of Esalen programs are designed to join staff members and participants in an experience of each other surrounded by as little or as much structure as a unique mix of people wish to create. The resources of Big Sur are available—baths, scenery and the far-ranging talents of our staff—group leaders, masseurs, artists, craftsmen, musicians and students of arcane lore. These nonprogrammed programs are an opportunity to explore and to interact, or simply to retreat from the world for a week. Come and be with us.

April 28-30 Weekend workshop $65

April 30-May 5 Five-day workshop $150

May 21-26 Five-day workshop $150

June 25-July 1 One-week workshop $175

■ S.F. INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS—SAN FRANCISCO

These programs—evening, one-day and weekend—are specially intended for, but not limited to, persons who have not previously participated in Esalen encounter groups. Workshop leaders will be drawn from Esalen/San Francisco Staff (see Information section, page 18). Esalen/Big Sur Staff, as well as members of San Francisco's Extended Growth Program, may also act as group facilitators.

Evening Introductions to Esalen: Working in small and large group sessions, participants will be introduced to many methods for personal growth being explored at Esalen. Comfortable clothing recommended; bring pillow for easy sitting.

$3 general; $2 student; 7-11 p.m.

April 6; April 26; May 22; June 29: First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Single-day Encounter: An intensive day of group work, along the lines of evening introductory programs, with the additional advantages of more hours and shared mealtimes. Leaders will work with small groups. Programs run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Workshop location to be announced at time of registration. (Bring your own lunch.)

$15 per person.

April 15; May 6; June 3; July 1.

Weekend Introductions to Esalen: Incorporating a wide variety of approaches, group leaders will work with participants in large groups and sub-groups over a full weekend period. $50 per person.

May 19-21; June 16-18.

Encounter & other Interpersonal Groups

● B.S. INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS—BIG SUR

Introduction to Esalen programs are designed for, but not limited to, people who have not previously been to Esalen/Big Sur. The workshops center on encounter and gestalt, although additional opportunities will be available in other experiential areas such as movement, massage and sensory awareness. Rolf treatments will be available at an extra cost.

April 16-22 Robert Cromey One-week workshop $240

April 30-May 6 Esalen Staff One-week workshop $240

July 2-7 Michael Butler Five-day workshop $215

● B.S. OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAMS

The Open Residence Program is intended for those with some experience in encounter and gestalt. The focus of the group will depend on its own interest and leader availability. Among possible offerings are encounter, gestalt, meditation, instruction in yoga, massage, arts and crafts, movement and sensory awareness.

April 2-8 Simone Surpin One-week workshop $240

May 21-June 3 Esalen staff Two-week workshop $450 at South Coast Center

June 25-July 1 Michael Butler One-week workshop $240 at South Coast Center

● B.S. April 2-7
Bodymind
Michael Butler
Five-day workshop $175
at South Coast Center
Based on the model established by William Schutz, this workshop will attempt to integrate the rolf method of body alignment within the framework of open encounter, including fantasy and gestalt methods.

● B.S. April 9-14
Encounter and Psychodrama
Walt Anderson and Fred Moore
Five-day workshop $245
Participants will work with a variety of encounter and awareness approaches, emphasizing psychodrama for the intensive exploration and working through of past and present interpersonal conflicts. The workshop will be structured so as to allow for the emerging needs and interests of individual participants, including those who want instruction in the techniques of psychodrama.

● B.S. April 9-14
After Encountering Self and Others
Helen Stephens and Jon Daemion
Five-day workshop $245
Through encounter, meditation, spontaneous ritual and improvisational chanting, music and movement, we will explore pathways to our innerspace and outer consciousness.

■ S.F. Starting April 13
Drop-in Encounter
Robert Cromey and Staff
Ongoing program $6 per person, each Thursday
This encounter program is open to anyone, on a continuing or an occasional basis. Persons are encouraged to use this series as a place to deal with immediate personal conflicts and as a follow-up for other workshop programs. 10 a.m. to 12 noon, every Thursday morning.
1757 Union St., San Francisco.

● B.S. April 14-16
For Homosexuals
Stanley Freitas and Owen Garner
Weekend workshop $95
We are experiencing the beginning of a homosexual revolution in which the resolution of conflict has become one of the most critical areas for our survival as individuals. This weekend seminar will be geared toward a resolution of that conflict.

■ S.F. April 14-16
Encounter for Singles
Robert Cromey
Weekend workshop $50
A workshop for unattached persons. Please state sex and age on application. Limited to 40 persons.

● B.S. April 21-23
Refocusing Energy
Bob and Marilyn Kriegel
Weekend workshop $95
at South Coast Center
Since many persons spend time dwelling on negative aspects of their personalities and lives, this weekend will be an opportunity to refocus attention on forgotten positive strengths and individually available tools for continued personal growth and expansion of life possibilities.

● B.S. April 21-23
Encounter for Couples
William Schutz and Christine King
Weekend workshop $95 per person.

■ S.F. April 21-23
Communication Games
Art Hough
Weekend workshop $55
A workshop to uncover and work with communication problems through games. These communication games—lasting from one minute to three hours—are used to heighten the communication experience, improve habits of listening, feedback, empathy, spontaneity and awareness, and to loosen the deeper communication blocks that result from hidden dogmatism, rigidity and risk-refusal. This is not encounter; it is for people concerned with improving communication.

● B.S. April 23-29
Workshop for Executives
Frank Rubenfeld and Bob Kriegel
One-week workshop $280
(See program description under Workshops for Professionals, p. 9.)

■ S.F. April 28-30
You Don't Have to Suffer to Feel Good
Harry Sloan and Lenore Lefer
Weekend workshop $50
Frequently participants come to workshops believing the only way to get in touch with themselves is through pain, anguish and break-throughs. This extemporaneous weekend will tap into the absurdity of conflicts and problems, offering you an opportunity to laugh at yourself and the fate you have chosen.

■ S.F. April 29
Working It Through With Mom and/or Dad
Walt and Maurica Anderson
One-day psychodrama workshop $18
Emotional conflicts of the parent-child relationship and ways of dealing with them will be explored by the group, using the spontaneous-dramatization technique of psychodrama to "confront" parents living or dead. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

■ S.F. Starting May 2
Open Encounter
Robert Kriegel
Ongoing workshop $50
A series of five Tuesday evening workshops from 7:30 to 10 p.m., May 2, 9, 23, 30 and June 6.

■ S.F. May 5-7
Couples' Workshop
Bill and Audrey McGaw
Weekend workshop $115 per couple

● B.S. May 5-7
Being a Man
Don Clark
Weekend workshop $95
A small-group experience for the man who wants to appreciate himself as a man and become more aware of his feelings about other men. We will explore individual satisfaction in male roles, sexuality, self acceptance and freedom to change. Emphasis is on relaxed and enjoyable self-search in an atmosphere of brotherhood rather than on competitive encounter. Each participant should bring a picture of himself as a child and a favorite music album.

■ S.F. May 11
Looking-Talking-Touching: For Couples
Gerald Smith
Single evening event
$5 per couple; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
A variety of verbal and nonverbal experiences for couples (not necessarily married).

● B.S. May 12-14
Advanced Training for Group Leaders
William Schutz
Weekend workshop $140
(See program description under Workshops for Professionals, p. 9.)

● B.S. May 14-19
Couples Workshop: Why Good Marriages Fail
Richard Farson
Five-day workshop $450 per couple
Paradoxically, good marriages probably fail more often than bad ones. They fail because they are good enough to have raised expectations for something better. This workshop examines the sources of discontent in marriage, the positive and negative impact of counselling and psychotherapy on relationships, the relation of liberation movements to success and failure in marriage and the politics of the human potential movement. Working in large and small groups, couples and individuals will have an opportunity to discuss the paradoxes in their own marriages and to invent new life styles for themselves to accommodate the paradoxes.

● B.S. May 19-21
Sexual Politics: On Being a Woman
Ani Mander and Cynthia Werthman
Weekend workshop $95
What it means to be a woman today; how this definition affects our sense of identity and our role in society. The philosophical, political and social implications of sex roles; tuning into our sexuality, exploring the power within us and letting it express itself in society; the creative impulse in women.

● B.S. May 19-21
Experiencing the Universe as Sexual
Helen Stephens and Jon Daemion
Weekend workshop $95
From Tantrism to Reich, the synthesis and synergy of East and West. A weekend of appreciation and love.

● B.S. May 21-26
Encounter and Massage
Harry Sloan and Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $240

■ S.F. May 26-28
Couples' Workshop
Gerald Smith
Weekend workshop $115 per couple

■ S.F. May 27-29
Celebration
Betty Fuller and Dub Leigh
3-day residential workshop
$95 including room and meals
There is nothing we can't do when we know what it is and decide to do it. A celebratory journey into body, mind and heart to discover what it is we want. 10 a.m. Saturday through lunch on Monday.

● B.S. May 28-June 2
For Homosexuals
Stanley Freitas and Owen Garner
Five-day workshop $215
(See program description, April 14-16, opposite page.)

■ S.F. May 31
For Women Only
Betty Fuller
One-day workshop $35
A day-long retreat for women to celebrate their unique responsibilities and opportunities, to build on strengths, to learn to balance nurturents with guts, self respect and self-love. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Wednesday, including lunch and dinner. Limited to 20 women.

■ S.F. May 31
New Ways of Meeting New People
Robert Cromey
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
Since many persons attend large group programs to meet other people, this evening's experience will focus explicitly on the acquaintance process. Using methods from encounter and gestalt awareness, group members will explore how they project themselves to others, how others perceive them and discover new ways of moving into friendships and social contact.

■ S.F. June 2-4
The Creative But
Harry Sloan
Weekend workshop $50
This workshop is designed for the person who feels, "I am really creative BUT . . ." Group members will have the opportunity to channel their energy into their creativity rather than into their "buts" which both mask and hinder the creative process. If possible bring something that you are working on.

● B.S. June 2-4
A Weekend Celebration at Big Sur
Betty Fuller
Weekend workshop $95
A weekend to celebrate, to rest, to work, to play, to explore, to discover, to learn, to feel, to sing, to dance, to massage, to care for yourself and others. The resources of both Esalen's Big Sur centers and of the leader and participating staff are available.

■ S.F. June 2-4
Group Interaction
Robert Kriegel
Residential weekend workshop
$75 including room and meals

● B.S. June 4-9
Body/Mind/Spirit
Michael Butler

Gestalt

Gestalt is an awareness-centered integrative process concentrating on how and now rather than why and fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own untapped potential. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients", but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

For April, May and June the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco is holding its workshops in conjunction with Esalen. Consequently, no other brochure describing the Gestalt Institute's programs will be distributed. The ongoing Training Program is exclusively sponsored by the Gestalt Institute.

PROFESSIONAL TRAINING PROGRAM

The Gestalt Institute of San Francisco, founded by the late Fritz Perls in 1967, is primarily a training institution. Programs in gestalt methods and applications are offered by the training faculty to practitioners with appropriate professional training and experience.

Gestalt therapy is a method of psychotherapy and way of living that emphasizes personal responsibility for one's life style. By achieving awareness of present ongoing behavior, the person becomes increasingly capable of self-responsibility and learns to make choices that enhance rather than limit his personal growth.

Program: The trainee begins by participating in experientially-oriented gestalt groups. As he acquires familiarity with both theory and technique, his program is specially designed to meet his needs and desires. Thus, individuals in the specifically therapeutic professions eventually follow a different program from those in the allied professions (educators, ministers, et.al.) As a Senior Trainee, the student co-leads training groups and Institute workshops. Membership in the Institute is then possible.

Eligibility: (1) the psychotherapeutic professions: (a) Qualified psychologists, psychiatrists and social workers, holding degrees in their fields. (b) Individuals engaged in or who have had two years of graduate training in the above disciplines. (2) Allied professions: individuals with training or experience in the arts, education, the ministry or other relevant fields.

Schedule: Training groups of approximately 12 people meet Wednesday afternoons and several Wednesday and Thursday evenings for a total of 46 hours each quarter. The next quarter will begin May 24.

Trainers: The training staff is drawn from the Institute Membership, as indicated in the biographical data below.

Fees: $300 per quarter.

Application Procedure:

1. Submit a letter describing your background and how you intend to use gestalt training to the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco, 1719 Union Street, San Francisco 94123.

2. Attend a special workshop for applicants only, led by the training director at the Gestalt Institute, at 3 p.m., May 15. Fee is $25, due at least one week before workshop date.

3. All inquiries concerning this program should be directed to Art Damond at the Gestalt Institute, (415) 776-4500.

GESTALT PROGRAMS AT BIG SUR

● B.S. April 2-7
Gestalt, Movement and Massage
Gabrielle Roth & Julian Silverman
Five-day workshop $255

Many persons, in giving and receiving a massage, experience feelings of sadness, anger, hostility or joy, particular areas of muscular holding and blocked energy, and the emergence of past memories of pain and pleasure. Methods of gestalt will be used to deal with such emotional experiences, as they may occur, during the course of massage instruction.

● B.S. April 2-8
Gestalt and Sensory Awareness
Richard Price and Seymour Carter
One-week workshop $275

● B.S. April 16-21
The Art of Emotional Nourishment
Jerry Greenwald
Five-day workshop $235

To discover and free trapped and wasted energy through increased awareness and allowing the self to spontaneously evolve is the natural way of human growth. Participants may work on any kind of "problem"—past, present or future—which they experience as toxic to their aliveness. Emphasis will also be on finding more nourishing ways of being and relating.

● B.S. April 16-May 13
Gestalt and Structural Integration
Esalen Staff
Four-week program $800
at South Coast Center

Psychological dis-ease and physical tension are two aspects of one phenomenon. Gestalt training is an awareness centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. Structural integration (rolfing), while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body process in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolfings as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.).

● B.S. April 23-28
Open Gestalt
Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $215

● B.S. April 30-May 5

● B.S. June 4-9
Open Gestalt
Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $215

● B.S. June 11-17
Advanced Gestalt
Robert Martin
One-week workshop $270

The emphasis in this workshop will be on straight gestalt work with individuals who have had prior gestalt experience. This workshop is not open to the novice. When making application, please include a statement of prior gestalt experience and the therapists with whom you have worked.

● B.S. June 18-23
Open Gestalt
Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $215
at South Coast Center.

● B.S. June 25-30
Gestalt Awareness Training
Jack Downing and Carole Rosenblatt
Five-day workshop $280

● B.S. June 25-30
Gestalt Awareness Training and Meditation
Claudio Naranjo
Five-day workshop $245

Claudio Naranjo writes: "I combine the modern techniques of gestalt training with ancient techniques of self-awareness, thus endeavoring to maintain a balance between working in the interpersonal domain and working in isolation from others; between contacting the environment and contacting one's deeper self. Hopefully, a better balance may be established between both."

● B.S. July 2-29
Gestalt and Structural Integration
Frank Rubenfeld and Esalen Staff
Four-week program $875
(See April 16-May 13 program description on this page.)

● B.S. July 2-7
Gestalt Plus
George and Judith Brown
Five-day workshop $245

The approaches of gestalt therapy will be combined with techniques from psychosynthesis. Emphasis will also be placed on what to do after leaving the workshop.

Biographical Information

GEORGE BROWN is one of the first to combine gestalt and psychosynthesis in workshop and educational contexts. He is director of DRICE, a Ford Foundation center at the University of California at Santa Barbara, where he teaches, and is author of Human Teaching for Human Learning, an Esalen book.

JUDITH BROWN has an international reputation as a gestalt awareness trainer. In addition to her own groups, she has co-led numerous groups with her husband.

SEYMOUR CARTER directed the Winter 1970 Residence Program at Big Sur. He has studied with Fritz Perls, Ida Rolf and Charlotte Selver.

* JACK DOWNING is a psychiatrist in private practice in Palo Alto. He is experienced in public health, structural integration, gestalt therapy and the Arica awareness training.

JERRY GREENWALD is a Gestalt therapist in private practice in Santa Monica. He developed the concepts of nourishing ("N" people) and toxic ("T" people) attitudes and behavior patterns which Fritz Perls refers to in his last two books.

ROBERT MARTIN is an artist, pilot, and a gestalt therapist. He is Past President of the Gestalt Therapy Institute of Los Angeles.

RICHARD PRICE, a student of Fritz Perls, is a founder and director of Esalen Institute.

* JACK ROSENBERG is a practicing dentist and gestalt therapist. He is a member of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco. His interest for the past ten years has been giving the experience of gestalt awareness and yoga psychology to the health professions. His doctoral thesis in psychology relates immediate video feedback and facial massage for facilitating psychotherapy.

GABRIELLE ROTH is a specialist in movement and massage is residence at Big Sur. She has studied and taught creative dance forms for the past ten years. She has recently completed Arica awareness training in New York City.

FRANK RUBENFELD is a clinical psychologist and is on the faculty of the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy, in addition to his private practice of individual and group therapy.

JULIAN SILVERMAN is the director of Esalen/Big Sur and a gestalt trainer and therapist.

Fagen and Shepherd, Gestalt Therapy Now $2.95

Psychosynthesis is an inclusive and positive conception of man that considers him dynamically as a being in a process of personal growth within an evolving universe. It includes the superconscious as well as the libido, the imagination as well as the complexes, the will as well as the instinctual drives. More than a theory, it is a way of looking at man; a practical working method which leads to greater unity, which can be used for harmonizing the many often conflicting elements of our inner life. Psychosynthesis is not limited to awareness, expansion or experience—it is also a way of pulling it all together, an approach which fosters the balanced development of body, feelings and mind and their harmonious integration around a unifying center of being and awareness, the Transpersonal Self. Psychosynthesis assists each individual in reaching toward this higher Self, and helps him use its energy and guidance to bring about a more joyful and effective actualization of the unfolding meaning and value of his life. Psychosynthesis chooses among a large number of methods and techniques those that are most appropriate to each existential situation. Some of these can be: guided imagery, movement, self-identification, gestalt, meditation, symbolic art work, ideal models, writing and journal keeping and exploration of the superconscious. The emphasis is not on producing immediate breakthroughs, although this often occurs, but rather on fostering a gradual process of growth that, with continuing application, can gain increasing momentum and ultimately become a life-style.

Psychosynthesis

The following Esalen Institute Psychosynthesis Programs are offered in cooperation with the Psychosynthesis Institute (Redwood City) and are coordinated by Jim and Susan Vargiu, directors of the Psychosynthesis Institute.

■ S.F. Starting March 20
Psychosynthesis in Depth
Jim and Susan Vargiu, Tom Allen, Steve Kull and Betsie Carter
Ongoing series $130
This program is for those who want to explore the richness of psychosynthesis conceptually as well as experientially. Beginning with various exercises, individual experiences will be related to the principles of psychosynthesis, to develop and clarify the ongoing process of growth and integration. Throughout the program, each participant will keep a psychological workbook and there will be assignments, exercises and readings to be completed between meetings. Tuition includes an individual psychosynthesis session with one of the leaders at a time to be mutually arranged. Special attention throughout will be given to self-discovery; subpersonalities; the integration of mind, feelings, imagination and the body; the will; the superconscious; the transpersonal self. Techniques of mental imagery, movement, writing, symbolic artwork, guided daydream, disidentification and meditation will be employed. Preference will be given to those who have attended previously a psychosynthesis workshop.
Six Monday evenings, 7:30-10:30 p.m., March 20-April 24. All day Saturday, April 29, 10 a.m.-10 p.m.

■ S.F. April 1 and April 8
Psychosynthesis
Betsie Carter and Steven Kull
Two one-day workshops $50

The guided daydream is a systematic way of working with inner imagery and imaginative themes to resolve psychological conflicts and expand consciousness.

PROGRAMS USING PSYCHOSYNTHESIS TECHNIQUES

■ S.F. May 19-21
Psychosynthesis Treasure Hunt
Margaret Conway
Weekend workshop $50
Discover and set free that best-self you know is inside you. One of the basic concepts of psychosynthesis will be our starting point: we will examine body, feelings and mind to determine how they are out of harmony with one another. As their integration proceeds there is a gradual release of creative energy and a new dimension of self-awareness comes into being.

■ S.F. June 16-18
Gestalt Plus
George and Judith Brown
Residential Weekend Workshop
$75 including room and meals
The approaches of gestalt therapy will be combined with techniques from psychosynthesis. Emphasis will be placed on what to do after leaving the workshop. Program fee includes lodging and meals at a Bay Area retreat center.

■ S.F. June 16-18
Psychosynthesis and Education
Tom Yeomans
Weekend workshop $50
This workshop will focus on processes that can later be used by participants as independent steps toward a greater unity of being and an extension of one's consciousness toward the transpersonal self.

■ S.F. June 30-July 2
Psychophysical Synthesis
Bernard Gunther
Weekend workshop $50
An integration of psychosynthesis techniques, gestalt relaxation, body awareness, nonverbal communication and meditation.

● B.S. July 2-7
Gestalt Plus
George and Judith Brown
Five-day workshop $245
The approaches of gestalt therapy will be combined with techniques from psychosynthesis. Emphasis will also be placed on what to do after leaving the workshop.

Biographical Information

TOM ALLEN, a senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, is an artist, a former Esalen resident fellow and teaches at Cabrillo College. He underwent didactic training in psychosynthesis with Jim and Susan Vargiu. He has developed workshop processes that nurture authentic being and rich interpersonal contact and is presently integrating art into the psychosynthesis process as a means of self-realization.

GEORGE BROWN is one of the first to combine gestalt and psychosynthesis in workshop and educational contexts. He is director of DRICE, a Ford Foundation center at the University of California, Santa Barbara, where he teaches, and is the author of Human Teaching for Human Learning, an Esalen book.

JUDITH BROWN has an international reputation as a gestalt awareness trainer. In addition to her own groups she has co-led numerous groups with her husband.

BETSIE CARTER, a senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, was associate director of the Ford-Esalen Project in Confluent Education and an Esalen resident fellow. She underwent didactic training with Roberto Assagioli and with Jim and Susan Vargiu. Presently she is working individually and in groups and is especially involved in the psychosynthesis of gifted and creative young people.

MARGARET CONWAY, a senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute and a member of the Esalen staff, is in didactic training with Jim and Susan Vargiu. Trained as a psychiatric nurse, she has led groups for several years for various organizations, including Esalen Institute, the San Mateo County School District and others.

JAMES FADIMAN is an educational and management consultant. He is a lecturer in design engineering and a psychological counselor at Stanford University and associate editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and of the Journal of Humanistic Psychology. He is a pioneer in the transpersonal field, has lectured and done workshops in psychosynthesis for several years and has worked with Roberto Assagioli.

DONNA GERARD, drama teacher and therapist, for the past twelve years has focused her private practice on the development and release of creative energies. Both she and her husband are interested in providing systematic methods for evoking transcendental awareness.

ROBERT GERARD is a clinical psychologist in private practice and President of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis in Los Angeles. He collaborated with Dr. Assagioli in the writing of the book, Psychosynthesis. After training with Robert Desoille, the French originator of the guided daydream, Dr. Gerard further developed this technique over the past fifteen years and has been designated by the International Society of the Guided Daydream as their official representative in the United States.

BERNARD GUNTHER, an associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, has worked with Roberto Assagioli in Italy and is in didactic training with Jim and Susan Vargiu. He is author of a number of books, including Sense Relaxation and What To Do Till the Messiah Comes, and the director of the feature film, "Come to Your Senses". His latest book How the West is One will be released this spring by Macmillan.

STEVEN KULL is a senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute. He underwent didactic training with Roberto Assagioli and with Jim and Susan Vargiu. Presently he is working both individually and in groups with people interested in using psychosynthesis for their own development. He is especially involved in the psychosynthesis of gifted and creative young people.

JIM and SUSAN VARGIU are the directors of the Psychosynthesis Institute, Redwood City, California. They underwent didactic training with Roberto Assagioli in Florence, Italy, and have worked with him over the past seven years. Presently they are training people in the helping professions in the use of psychosynthesis, working both individually and in groups, and writing and publishing articles on psychosynthesis.

TOM YEOMANS, an associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, is a teacher and poet, and associate director of DRICE, Development and Research in Confluent Education, a Ford Foundation center at the Graduate School of Education, University of California at Santa Barbara. He is in didactic training with Jim and Susan Vargiu.

■ S.F. June 3
Life Without Therapy
Peter Marin
One-day seminar $18
Though they have their uses, therapeutic approaches to reality or experience are universally narrow and limited. Techniques have a place in experience, but they are peripheral and not central to it. Beyond therapy there is always the low-humming reality of day-to-day existence, so much more real, so much more sustaining—if one can only learn to stick with it. Therapy is, ideally, one way of getting to it, but to make use of therapy one must know enough to get past the intrinsic limits of therapy and the endless and constrictive games and roles therapists enjoy playing.
Too many people lose themselves in trying to discover what they are, and this workshop, for therapists or their clients, is about avoiding that.

■ S.F. June 30-July 2
A Workshop for Change Agents
Stewart Shapiro
Weekend workshop $55
In today's increasingly complex and independent world more and more of our time is spent in organizational life. It is through the humanistic viability of our organizations and institutions that our society will succeed or fail in the crucial tests that lie ahead. This workshop will be oriented toward tasks, goals and personal growth of those who wish to be active in organizational change. There will be discussions and demonstrations of strategies and models for change in various systems including individuals, small groups, organizations and communities. Change agents for this workshop can be individuals or teams in business management, colleges, public schools, government, social agencies, volunteer organizations, churches or other community organizations.

Transpersonal

Transpersonal generally refers to transcendence, mystical experience, peak experience and parapsychological phenomena. The following workshops will explore insights and research into the physical and psychological aspects of such experience.

■ S.F. CHALLENGE OF PARAPSYCHOLOGY: Is There a Ghost in the Machine?
A Lecture Series

Six Monday evening lectures, beginning April 10. All lectures will be held 8-10 p.m. at First Unitarian Church, Franklin at Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Individual and series tickets are available; series tickets should be purchased in advance through the San Francisco office; individual tickets may be purchased in advance or at the door.

Series Tickets (6 lectures): $14.50 general; $8 student

Individual tickets: $3 general; $2 student

■ April 10:
Do You Believe? If So, In What?
Charles Tart

An overview of rational and irrational approaches to "psychic" or "supernatural" phenomena. We will look at the way our belief systems distort our approach to psychic phenomena and then review what has been scientifically established as basic fact in this area. What is our basic knowledge about telepathy, clairvoyance, precognition and psychokinesis?

■ April 17:
Parapsychology and Physics: An Experimental Overview
Russell Targ

Recent ESP experiments will be described and contrasted with earlier approaches. A Soviet film showing the apparent psychokinesis of Nelya Kulagina will also be discussed. Emphasis will be on physical aspects of ESP research and its new directions.

■ April 24:
The Philosophical Implications of Parapsychology
Michael Scriven

Parapsychology has been hailed—by J. B. Rhine and others—as disproof of materialism. But the Russian government is subsidizing parapsychological research. Psychic knowing is supposed to be an alternative to scientific knowing, and yet most of what we know about extrasensory phenomena comes from scientific study of them by the societies for psychical research. Parapsychology is fascinating, and its implications more fascinating, at first sight. In this lecture we will try for second sights.

■ May 1:
ESP and the Self
Arthur Hastings

The hopes, fears, problems and potentials of ESP as it affects people and their relationships with others. The topics include telepathy as communication, ESP and problems of privacy, conscious and unconscious use of psi, ESP and sexual energy, and the projected uses of psi which appear in science fiction and speculative literature.

■ May 8:
ESP, Psychedelic Drugs and Madness
James Fadiman

An examination of the interrelationships between paranormal phenomenon, effects of psychedelics, shamanistic training and the paranormal aspects of psychosis. Is it necessary to modify our world view?

■ May 15:
Science and the Soul
Charles Tart

The philosophical assumptions most strongly linked to modern science tell us that we are an accidental collection of chemicals in a skin bag that meaninglessly processes information and generates illusion. This meaningless structure will even fall apart with a half-life of about 40 years. Don't kid yourself about the power of this view; you may have an atomic bomb dropped on you if you disagree. But, little known facts about psychic phenomena scientifically undermine this view. We will consider these, with particular emphasis on out-of-the-body experiences or "astral projection", to see if we can give the idea of a soul possible validity within the scientific framework.

● B.S. April 7-9
The Human Biocomputer
John Lilly

Weekend seminar $95

As a result of his work with Oscar Ichazo, John Lilly has expanded his mind-brain-body biocomputer model of human to include the "essence". Using methods derived from Eastern and Western mystical traditions as well as modern science, this program will work to move participants toward essence. (Recommended reading: The Human Biocomputer.)

■ S.F. April 14-16
The Human Biocomputer
John Lilly

Weekend Workshop $50

See April 7-9 description above.

● B.S. April 16-22
The Human Biocomputer
John Lilly

One-week workshop $280

As a result of his work with Oscar Ichazo, John Lilly has expanded his mind-brain-body computer model of human nature to include the "essence." His new configuration is essence-self-computer-ego programs. Using methods derived from Eastern and Western mystical traditions as well as modern science, this program will work to move participants toward essence. (Recommended reading: The Center of the Cyclone.)

■ April 20
How To Be Oneself
Douglas Harding
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
"As 3rd-person I am a mere thing in the world; as 1st-person the world is a lot of things in me—I am at once no-thing and all things." In this lecture-demonstration Harding shows how this proposition can be immediately realized, how one can regain the child's ability to be himself (himself as he is to himself) and actually start living that way.

■ S.F. April 22
Living the First-Person Life
Douglas Harding
One-day seminar $18
Douglas Harding has recently developed a repertoire of largely nonverbal techniques for seeing Who or What we really are—simple but very effective devices for waking us up to life as we are actually living it now from our own unique center. The first aim of this workshop is to remove the delusion that one is only or primarily 3rd person; the second to begin the serious practice of 1st-personhood, i.e., life without putting on acts of any sort.

● B.S. April 28-30
Meditation
Pier Vilayat Khan
Weekend seminar $95
In this seminar, Pier Vilayat Khan will be teaching the methods of jnana yoga, Advaita Vedanta, Buddhism, Ars Regia of the Alchemists with reference to the Greek mysteries of Eleusis, the Christian Hesychast Hermits and the Sufi mystics. In addition, he will be training participants in breathing techniques, the use of sound, visualization of light and the contemplation of archetypes.

■ S.F. May 6-7 and May 13-14
Sharing Food on Which I Have Grown
Claudio Naranjo
Two weekend workshops
$100 per person for both workshops
Reading and commentary from a meditation journal.
This is a two-weekend series; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, May 6-7 and May 13-14.

● B.S. May 12-14
Modern Approaches to Hypnotherapy
Emmett Miller, M.D.
Weekend seminar $95
This workshop will deal with altered states of consciousness and their production through self-hypnosis. There will be an overview of the use of hypnosis in medical, psychological, social and self-improvement programs, instruction in auto-hypnosis and its applications, including numerous group and individual instructions.

● B.S. May 19-21
Wrapping It Up
Arthur Deikman
Weekend seminar $95
at South Coast Center
A weekend for those who want to understand everything, led by someone similarly possessed. Please bring energy, some answers of your own and a thick cushion.

■ S.F. May 20
Modern Approaches to Hypnotherapy
Peter Mutke and Emmett Miller
One-day workshop $25
This workshop is designed to familiarize participants with the latest approaches to hypnotherapy, utilizing the increased state of receptivities towards programming and the control of automatic nervous system functions through the state of hypnosis. All participants will experience the phenomena of hypnosis and some individuals may learn self-hypnosis by the end of the session. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday.

■ S.F. May 20-21 and May 27-28
Sharing Guidance Received
Claudio Naranjo
Two weekend workshops
$100 per person for both workshops
Reading and commentary from a meditation journal. This is a two-weekend series; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, May 20-21 and May 27-28.

■ S.F. June 9-11
Extending Awareness Through Hypnosis
Lee Pulos
Weekend workshop $50
This workshop will combine the approaches of hypnosis and psychosynthesis for furthering personal exploration. Hypnosis and self-hypnosis will be taught so that participants can focus in on themselves through hypnotically induced dreams, automatic writing and drawings under hypnosis. These self-discoveries will be extended through guided fantasies, symbolic imagery and learning how to tune in to the "inner theater" of one's unconscious.

● B.S. June 16-18
Meditation on Sufi Word-Pictures and Stories
Robert Ornstein
Weekend seminar $95
In man's history, some stories, tales and poems have been written which contain symbols and situations carefully designed to make an end-run around our intellectual filter. This weekend will consist of meditation and reflection on stories of the dervish tradition, their word-pictures and the mind experience which they can create. Suggested reading: The Sufis and Tales of the Dervishes by Idries Shah.

● B.S. June 23-25
An Experiment in Surrender
Claudio Naranjo
Weekend seminar $95
Claudio Naranjo writes: "This is the contract: 1. Neither you nor I know what we shall be doing. 2. To the best of my ability I shall endeavor to help you go where we all are going. 3. You agree to do exactly as I tell you for 40 hours. The experience is likely to take you into avenues other than those your initiative has made you acquainted with and will specifically be an opportunity to explore issues of trust vs. need to manipulate self and environment."

● B.S. June 25-30
Gestalt Awareness Training and Meditation
Claudio Naranjo
Five-day workshop $245
Claudio Naranjo writes: "I combine the modern techniques of gestalt training with ancient techniques of self-awareness, thus endeavoring to maintain a balance between working in the interpersonal domain and working in isolation from others; between contacting the environment and contacting one's deeper self. Hopefully, a better balance may be established between both."

● B.S. June 30-July 2
ESP Training Using Bio-Feedback and Brain Wave Conditioning
Russell Targ and David Hurt
Weekend seminar $95
ESP teaching machines and brain wave analyzers will be used to attempt enhancement of clairvoyant and precognitive perception. Participants will become aware of their mental states at those times when they are most successfully using their ESP facilities, allowing learning to take place. Limited to 20 persons.

■ S.F. June 30-July 2
The Human Biocomputer
John Lilly
Weekend Workshop $50
(See April 7-9 workshop description above.)

Biographical Information

ARTHUR DEIKMAN, a psychiatrist, has done pioneering research in the field of meditation, as well as theoretical and clinical investigations of hallucinogenic drugs, Zen Buddhism and psychosis. He is presently on leave of absence from the University of Colorado Medical Center and lives in the San Francisco Bay Area.

JAMES FADIMAN is a senior counselor and consultant at Stanford University. He is an editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and the editor of several books, most recently, The Practice of Psychosynthesis. He is a pioneer in the transpersonal field, has lectured and done workshops in psychosynthesis for several years, and has worked with Roberto Assagioli in Italy.

DOUGLAS HARDING is a 62-year-old British generalist who has written on architecture, philosophy, religion and psychology. He and his "faceless" technique are the subject of these verses from "Douglas Traherne Harding" by the Incredible String Band: "When I was born I had no head. My eye was single and my body was filled with light, One light though the lamps be many . . ."

ARTHUR HASTINGS is a lecturer in speech-communication at San Jose State College. He is interested in interpersonal communication, argumentation, parapsychology and science fiction. He was formerly director of the Institute for Science Fiction and Fantasy at Stanford University.

DAVID HURT has been working in the field of ESP electronics for over fifteen years. Included in his work has been the use of negative ion generators, white nose earphones, alpha wave analyzers, photic stimulators and ESP teaching machines.

PIER VILAYAT KHAN is a new age teacher of meditation. He is director of the International School of Meditation in Paris and the School of Esoteric Studies in London. He is also the head of the Sufi order in Europe and the United States which originated in Ajmeer, India.

JOHN LILLY has primary research interest in the relation of the mind to the brain. He is trained in psychoanalysis, computer theory, biophysics, neurophysiology and interspecies communication.

EMMETT MILLER, in addition to the practice of general medicine, is utilizing hypnosis for psychotherapy, personality restructuring and self-improvement.

PETER MUTKE is a medical doctor presently in private practice in Carmel, California, specializing in hypnotherapy. A graduate of the University of Heidelberg School of Medicine, he is a Fellow of the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis and of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine. He teaches at University of California, Berkeley, Extension.

CLAUDIO NARANJO is a research psychiatrist, a former associate of the Institute for Personality Assessment and Research (U.C. Berkeley) and a student of religions. He is recently returned from a year in a sufi-oriented school in Chile.

ROBERT ORNSTEIN teaches at University of California Medical Center and does research at Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute. He is author of the books On the Experience of Time and, with Claudio Naranjo, On the Psychology of Meditation.

LEE PULOS is a clinical psychologist in private practice and clinical assistant professor, Department of Psychiatry, University of British Columbia. His principal interests are in leading training workshops for professionals and in researching the effects of hypnosis upon athletic performance.

MICHAEL SCRIVEN, a professor of philosophy at the University of California at Berkeley, founded the first society for psychical research in the southern hemisphere, thinks that most literature courses should be about science fiction, collects knives, persian rugs and the scalps of experts.

RUSSELL TARG is a physicist working with lasers and optics at GTE Sylvania. He is a member of the Parapsychology Association, the professional association of ESP researchers, and president of Parapsychology Research Group Inc. He, together with David Hurt, developed an ESP teaching machine using feedback and reinforcement techniques to teach and enhance ESP ability.

CHARLES T. TART is Associate Professor of Psychology at University of California, Davis. He has conducted extensive research into sleeping and dreaming, hypnosis, ESP and drugs. Dr. Tart is editor of Altered States of Consciousness: A Book of Readings and On Being Stoned.

Structural Integration

STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION

By realigning the body structure, the Rolf method of structural integration attempts to release excessive tensions so that the person may experience greater physical and emotional freedom. The assumption is that a person's body and set are a mirror of his emotional past as well as a result of physical trauma. Structural integration is a process of direct physical manipulation and deep massage; working with a trained practitioner, the process is usually completed within ten individual sessions.

TRAINING in structural integration is offered only through The Guild for Structural Integration, and only upon completion of certain prerequisites. Research in rolfing is encouraged by the Guild. Information about training and research, as well as class announcements, may be obtained by writing the Guild care of Esalen Institute, 1776 Union St., San Francisco, CA 94123.

BULLETIN OF STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION

A Journal dedicated to understanding man as a whole—now in its third year of publication. The bulletin provides a vehicle for theoretical and applied research in mind-body phenomena of interest to persons in the health sciences, physical sciences, arts and education. Past issues have included articles concerning structural integration, childbirth, movement behavior and movement therapy, articles by M. Feldenkrais, J. G. Bennett, Mathais Alexander. For a one year subscription, send $10 with NAME, ADDRESS AND ZIP CODE to: Bulletin of Structural Integration, 16756 Marquez Avenue, Pacific Palisades, CA 90272.

INDIVIDUAL SESSIONS with practitioners of structural integration are available by appointment only through the following offices:

Esalen Institute, Big Sur—no telephone appointments. Please request appointments in writing. Practitioners include Michael Butler, Al Drucker, Stanley Johnson, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Simone Surpin, Ed Taylor.

Esalen Institute, San Francisco—write or telephone for appointments. Dub Leigh, Michael Salveson, Larry Swann, Ed Taylor.

STRUCTURAL PATTERNING is a body system which promotes structural balance and efficiency and economy of movement within the gravitational field. Patterns which block energy in the body are exchanged for those which allow energy to flow. It is particularly effective during or after rolfing, for those who want to develop the use and awareness of their reorganized bodies, to produce further structural change along the same lines, and to rebalance themselves in situations of physical or emotional stress.

A course of private work in structural patterning usually consists of three to five supervised sessions, perhaps with a follow-up session after a few months.

Practitioners available for individual sessions are: Esalen/Big Sur—Marya Melchior; Esalen/San Francisco—Faith Hornbacher.

● B.S. April 16-May 13
Gestalt and Structural Integration
Esalen Staff
Four-week program $800
at South Coast Center

Psychological dis-ease and physical tension are two aspects of one phenomenon. Gestalt training is an awareness centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. Structural integration (rolfing), while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body process in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolfings as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.).

Rolf-Aston Structural Patterning in Stillness and Motion ©1971
Judith Aston
Five-day workshop $275
at South Coast Center

Structural patterning, as developed by Judith Aston, is a system which promotes structural balance and efficiency of movement within the gravitational field. The patterns are arranged in sequences, focusing on breathing and the individual hinges (ankles, knees, pelvis, shoulders and neck) and progressing through positions of increasing gravitational stress. The patterns themselves are not exercises nor are they performed vigorously; the movements are slow, sometimes subtle, and done with awareness to produce change. Limited to 12 participants.

■ S.F. WORKSHOPS WITH STANLEY KELEMAN
(Co-sponsored by Esalen Institute and the Institute for Bioenergetic Studies)

Stanley Keleman is an innovative theoretician and practitioner of the approaches to bodily and emotional health characterized by the work of Wilhelm Reich and Alexander Lowen. This spring he will conduct a limited number of workshops in the San Francisco Bay Area for persons selected by application.

Groups to be offered include: open workshops, weekend groups devoted to individual and group bioenergetic work; multiple workshops, a series of three weekends over a three-month period; ongoing series for persons working in the helping professions; five-day intensive workshop.

A complete prospectus and application form may be obtained by calling or writing the Esalen/San Francisco office.

● B.S. FREEING THE BODY PROGRAMS

This intensive program introduces various body-oriented disciplines such as massage training, the rolf method of structural integration, movement, tai chi chuan, yoga, and techniques based on the work of Wilhelm Reich. The aim is to give group members greater awareness of their physical structures and to demonstrate methods for achieving freer movement, more expressiveness and life feeling.

Frank Ottiwell
Ongoing workshop $35 per month

The Alexander Technique is a method of facilitating psycho-physical integration by applying sensory awareness, inhibition and redirection to such everyday activities as sitting, standing, walking and lying, under conditions of continuous feedback. Sessions focus on: experiencing the specific ways in which each individual interferes with the natural flow of his total pattern; learning to inhibit the interference; and allowing and encouraging a response that will strengthen our innate tendency toward a whole use of the self.

Continuous classes, Monday evening from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. Enrollment is limited to six persons; new persons may join the class as spaces become available.

■ S.F. Starting April 4
Aikido and Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau
Ongoing series
One meeting per week:
$15 per month
(general and student)
Two meetings per week:
$25 per month, general;
$20 per month, student

A continuous program of instruction in energy awareness as used for centering, movement, healing, concentration and relaxation, and in Aikido as a physical expression of that awareness in a self-defense form, with emphasis on harmony and energy in motion. This course will meet each week; participation can be in one or two sessions per week, with tuition based on the schedule of participation.

Tuesday, 8-9:30 p.m., Saturday, 10-12 noon.

■ S.F. Starting April 11 and 13
Tai Chi Chuan
Ch'u-fang Chu
Ongoing series $22.50 per month

Tai Chi Chuan is a centuries-old movement meditation derived from ancient Chinese forms of self-defense. It promotes gracefulness, relaxation, centering and experience of energy flow.

Two separate classes are scheduled, 8 to 9 p.m., Tuesday evenings and Thursday evenings. Indicate which evening you prefer when registering.

■ S.F. Starting April 13
Relaxation: Yoga Nidra
Bonita Bradley
Ongoing series $3.50 per person, each Thursday.

Gentle, tension-relieving movements and postures and deep relaxation techniques. 5:30-6:30 p.m., every Thursday evening.

1757 Union St., San Francisco.

■ S.F. April 14-16
The Delight of Immediacy
Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks
Weekend workshop $50

In describing their work in sensory awareness, Mr. Brooks writes: "We can discover in gradual, sensitive work that the doors of our senses will open spontaneously and that we can release and cultivate the living process in ourselves which, by its very nature, responds directly to the offering and demands of life."

● B.S. April 16-21
Who Are You Now?
Seymour Carter
Five-day workshop $215
at South Coast Center

Learning is awareness. Through increased awareness in the routine activities of daily life can come the discovery of how life energy is restricted and how, when released, it can be used to greater potential and advantage. Methods of gestalt, structural integration and meditation will be combined with the techniques of sensory awareness to further the possibility of personal growth.

■ S.F. Starting April 18
Body Awareness
George Downing and Anne Kent Rush
Ongoing series $6 per person, each Tuesday; $22 per month.

Emphasis will be upon the flow of energy within the body: learning how to feel it, to heighten and to balance it, and to use it as a source of grounding and support in relations with others. To this end, the program series will use an integrative method combining a number of different approaches, including yoga, movement, sense relaxation, energy exchange techniques, massage, pressure point systems and others. Eight Tuesday evenings, 8 to 10:30 p.m., April 18-June 6.

1757 Union St., San Francisco.

■ S.F. Starting April 20
In-Depth Breath Workshop
George Downing
Ongoing series $22 per month
The breath is a microcosm of the personality. Getting more in contact with the breath can lead to increased energy, a richer emotional life, realignment of physical posture and a greater grasp of one's personal rhythm of existence. The work includes methods first introduced in Europe and later developed by Magda Proskauer. Opportunities for continued work with the instructor will also be made available. Eight Thursday evenings, 8 to 9:30 p.m., April 20-June 8.

● B.S. April 21-23
Centering
Robert Nadeau
Weekend workshop $95
This workshop will start with centering practices in the physical dimension, move to centering as mental awareness, and culminate in meditation with centering as a focus for spiritual unfolding. The weekend will emphasize the relationship between all three levels.

■ S.F. April 22
Massage Workshop
George Downing and Anne Kent Rush
One-day workshop $18
An introduction to Esalen and Swedish massage as a means of communication and exchange of energy. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

● B.S. April 23-29
Body Being
Simone Surpin
One-week workshop $240
at South Coast Center
This workshop will revolve around the concept that our body is our only real home. Experiences will include centering and grounding exercises, chanting, sitting meditation in nature, music meditation, massage and healing.

■ S.F. April 24
On Yoga: A Lecture and Demonstration
Joel Kramer
Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
An evening designed to acquaint the interested non-practitioner, as well as the practitioner, with yoga. Mr. Kramer will demonstrate hatha yoga and discuss yoga both in classical structure and as an evolutionary approach to living in the modern world.

■ S.F. Starting April 26
Advanced Massage Training
Gunver Jackson
Ongoing series $90
Emphasis will be on the development of each individual's approach to massage, rather than on specific techniques. To learn to release tensions efficiently and with economy, participants will practice "reading" various body structures and muscular groups and patternings. Further attention will be given to concepts of healing and to the relationship between massage and breathing. Limited to 14 persons.
Nancy Richards will assist Mrs. Jackson. Include statement of previous massage training and background with registration fee. Six Wednesday evenings, 7 to 10 p.m., April 26-May 31.

● B.S. April 28-30
Massage and Breath Energy
George Downing
Weekend workshop $95
Using techniques of yoga breathing and Proskauer breath-centering, we will first attain a heightened awareness of the energy within ourselves. Through massage, we will then focus this energy on caring for and communicating with others. Members will learn how to give and receive a complete body massage.

● B.S. April 30-May 5
Rolf-Aston Structural Patterning in Stillness and Motion ©1971
Judith Aston
Five-day workshop $275
at South Coast Center
Structural patterning, as developed by Judith Aston, is a system which promotes structural balance and efficiency of movement within the gravitational field. The patterns are arranged in sequences, focusing on breathing and the individual hinges (ankles, knees, pelvis, shoulders and neck) and progressing through positions of increased gravitational stress. The patterns themselves are not exercises nor are they performed vigorously; the movements are slow, sometimes subtle, and done with awareness to produce change. Limited to 12 participants.

● B.S. April 30-May 5
Gestalt and Massage
Jack Rosenberg and Robert Martin
Five-day workshop $280

■ S.F. Starting May 4
Massage Workshop
Robert Cromey
Ongoing series $45
Series of four Thursday evenings, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., May 4-25.

■ S.F. May 5-7
Advanced Massage
George Downing
Weekend workshop $50
This workshop will include a review of basic methods and an exploration of a variety of different techniques, such as shiatsu, Reichian massage, Proskauer massage and polarity therapy.

● B.S. May 5-7
Resolving Inner Tension
Ben and Judyth Weaver
Weekend workshop $95
Chronic tension is frequently the product of inner conflicts: part of us wants to stay; part of us wants to grow, part of us wants to remain a child. Over time, such existential conflicts become part of our structure, finding expression in deep muscular contractions and characteristic attitudes. This workshop will work to bring such deep conflicts to awareness, re-"owning" them, inviting the organism to come up to the present and be One.

● B.S. May 7-12
Rolf-Aston Structural Patterning in Stillness and Motion ©1971
Judith Aston
Five-day workshop $275
(See program description under Structural Integration, p. 13.)

● B.S. May 7-12
Life Energy
Robert Nadeau
Five-day workshop $245
This workshop will consist of a wide variety of energy-freeing and energy-producing exercises. The intent of these exercises is to make each participant familiar with life energy so that he may use it as a tool for higher awareness. Some of the basic ideas and disciplines to be covered are energy flow and energy awareness, energy and its use in spiritual growth and in healing, and centering and the development of center. Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude and mental concentration, centering and moving from center, direct perception of energy and transferring energy to others.

● B.S. May 7-13
Acupuncture for Professionals
Dr. Jack Worsley
Seven-day workshop $375
(See program description under Workshops for Professionals, p. 9.)

■ S.F. Starting May 9
Flowmotion
Suellen Primost
Ongoing workshop $50
Suellen Primost writes: "All things come into balance when we learn how to breathe and be breathed. Through breath revitalization and fine tuning of the senses, we will discover how to use our abundant natural energies and to express ourselves through movement." 8 to 10:30 p.m., six Tuesday evenings, May 9 - June 13.

■ S.F. May 10

Weekend workshop $140
(See program description under Workshops for Professionals, p. 9.)

● B.S. May 28-June 2
Toward the Experience of Wholeness
Ben and Judyth Weaver
Five-day workshop $215
Much in our culture operates to deny us a fundamental birthright: the experience of feeling together, whole, a single organism invested with consciousness. By the time most of us have reached adulthood, our consciousness has become so thoroughly fragmented that the experience of wholeness remains but a sweet childhood memory, reinforced by occasional "highs" such as orgasm, transcendent religious (drug) experiences, adrenalin highs in sports or war. This workshop experiential sessions in disciplines which work to integrate consciousness: sensory awareness experiments, meditation, movement and tai chi chuan.

● B.S. June 4-9
Body/Mind/Spirit
Michael Butler
Five-day workshop $215
This workshop will use encounter, gestalt and body techniques.

● B.S. June 4-9
Movement and Massage
Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $240

■ S.F. June 9-11
Sensing
Ben and Judyth Weaver
Weekend workshop $50
Unless our consciousness is well grounded throughout our organism and we are open for the myriad sensations—smell, hearing, touch, taste, sight, inner awareness — which define our being, we loosen our grasp on reality and diminish our pleasure in being. Much of the current appeal of the drug experience is that it offers the thrill of sensation to millions of partly dead people who have cut themselves off from the potentially rich gratifications of everyday, direct, moment-to-moment sense experience. This workshop will offer an exploration in ways to reconnect parts of our disused sensing apparatus.

● B.S. June 16-18
Massage Workshop
Peggy Morrison
Weekend workshop $95

● B.S. June 18-23
Centering
Robert Nadeau
Five-day workshop $245
(See April 21-23 description across page.)

■ S.F. June 24
Massage Workshop
Anne Kent Rush
One-day workshop $18
Massage as a means of freeing blocked energy and communicating with others. Members will learn to give a complete massage. 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

● B.S. June 25-30
Yoga and Self Knowledge
Joel Kramer
Five-day workshop $245
at South Coast Center
This workshop will enable the novice as well as the advanced student to utilize yoga for physical, psychological and spiritual growth. Through the doing of yoga and the discussion of the nature of yoga, the student will experience a new way of meeting the challenges of living in the present.

■ S.F. June 30-July 2
Psychophysical Synthesis
Bernard Gunther
Weekend workshop $50
An integration of psychosynthesis techniques, gestalt relaxation, body awareness, nonverbal communication and meditation.

From Dream to Reality Revisited
George Leonard, Michael Murphy & James Fadiman
Weekend seminar $85
In 1966, Misters Leonard, Murphy and Fadiman conducted a hopeful and perhaps naive discussion of the human potential movement. They will continue that discussion, comparing what has happened these past five years with the visions of 1966, exploring some of the wrong turns that have been taken and some of the right ones and speculating where the exploration of the human potential might go from here.

● B.S. March 31-April 2
Myth and Dream
Joseph Campbell and Richard Price
Weekend seminar $85
Myths have, in the past, served to direct and focus energy in ways appropriate to given cultures. In America, myth is usually either denied or ignored. The nature of our society and its rate of change seem antithetical to myth utilization. One value of gestalt work may be in catalyzing the 'mythologizing function' of man—as expressed in dreaming—in such a way as to regain something of the guiding and fulfilling force formerly provided by myth.

Career Changes in Mid-Life
Richard Grossman
One-day seminar $20
Middle-aged people are often dissatisfied with the work they find themselves doing. Sometimes they want a melodramatic change; in other instances they simply want to add to their activities and sense of fulfillment. Yet few people over 35, or, for that matter, few people of any age who have become established in a clear-cut career or a rooted style of life make the change. In this seminar Mr. Grossman will explore the effects of a part-time second career and the impact of adult education and cultural pursuits on the person who is trying to make big changes, the underlying reasons why people fear to make vocational changes and ways to facilitate such changes. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

■ S.F. April 29
This Train Don't Stop at Satori
Peter Marin
One-day seminar $18
Peter Marin writes: "It is usually more important to inhabit and receive our experience than to transcend it. The most difficult task for most of us is to live in the physical world with all its human complexities of passion, morality and imagination, and to make of all that a creaturely breathing sense of things. The dream of transcendence and salvation (whether of theraputic 'cure' or religious purity) is more often than not a symptom of one's problems rather than a solution to them."

■ S.F. June 2-4
Getting High on a Mountain
Walt Anderson and Dan Holland
Three-day outdoor workshop $50
During this short but intensive Sierra outing, we will: (a) do some meditation, yoga and sensory awakening exercises outdoors, (b) encounter around a campfire, (c) climb a mountain. Mountaineering experience not required, but participants should be in good physical condition. Details supplied on request; limited to 12 participants. Group meets Thursday evening at an appointed location in the Sierras.

Arica Training

Several dozen Americans, ranging in age from 20 to 60, spent ten months in Arica, Chile last year studying under an unusual teaching master named Oscar Ichazo. His teachings drew upon a wide range of disciplines that he had studied under many masters throughout the world. The Americans found their experience so important that they elected to remain together and have begun teaching communities in New York and San Francisco.

The Arica Training is a precise system of exercises and other techniques designed to reawaken man to his natural states of awareness. It has been synthesized from the most effective techniques of a multitude of cultures and disciplines. The techniques have been stripped of religious and cultural ornaments and combined in such a way as to enhance and reinforce the effect of each. The Training considers that man is born essential and that through the process of becoming "civilized" and acquiring the social knowledge necessary to survive and function in modern society this essential being is gradually covered by fixed patterns of behavior and perception called personality. The Arica Training is designed to break through the structure of this conditioning and develop a state of harmonious integration of the physical, emotional, and intellectual aspects of being while still retaining the tools necessary for living and working within society.

Esalen is offering the complete Arica training program in a series of graded workshops in which students may move at their own speed through nine progressively more advanced levels. At each level, exercises are learned in the areas of: Mantrum, Meditation, Reasoning, Gym and Dance, Audition, Rhythm and Movement, Development of the Chakras, Kinerhythm, and Energy Centers and Systems in man. Also included is the study of Protoanalysis, a detailed model of the internal mechanism of the human psyche.

At present, the teaching staff of the Arica Institute includes: John Bleibtreu, Linda Cross, Jack Downing, Leonne Downing, Irene Hall, Roland Hall, Hector Prestera, Gabrielle Roth, Jeanette Stobie, Steven Stroud, and others.

Workshops and Lecture-Demonstrations: There are nine levels of Arica Training, which are sequential starting with Level 1. Workshop listings indicate which levels will be covered. There is no limit to the number of times any level may be taken. If there are enough people wanting to progress at a faster pace than the present schedule permits, additional workshops covering more advanced levels will be scheduled.

Single evening Lecture-Demonstrations will be held at the First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco, 8-10:30 p.m. $3 general; $2 student.

San Francisco weekend workshops meet 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturdays, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sundays.

THE ARICA INSTITUTE

The Arica Training is offered in 3 month intensive programs through the Arica Institute. The next programs will begin in New York City on May 1 and in San Francisco on May 15.

For information contact the Arica Institute: in New York, 160 Central Park South, N.Y., N.Y. 10019, (212) 489-7430, and in San Francisco, 580 Market Street, San Francisco, CA 94104, (415) 986-8800.

ALBION

Albion: A residential community for gestalt awareness, personal integration and existential life style, is being offered by Richard Louis Miller, Larry Bloomberg and Linda Burke of the Gestalt Institute for Multiple Psychotherapy in San Francisco. Albion is a full-time program, conducted in San Francisco and a nearby rural setting and planned for a minimum stay of six weeks.

Albion participants may also choose to reside in the Albion community and participate in evening and weekend programs while maintaining their employment during the day.

Albion is of special interest to those in a crisis or transitional situation, such as divorce, who wish to gather their energy and explore alternative life styles.

Albion provides professionals with an opportunity for additional training. The cost of the program is $185 per week or $125 per week if employed during the day. Tuition, room and board are included. A $250 deposit is required. For further information contact Dr. Linda Burke, 3627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco 94118. (415) 567-7969.

BOOKS

THE ESALEN PUBLISHING PROGRAM With VIKING PRESS

Far-ranging investigations, divinations and reports from the movement to develop human potentialities, highlighting recent work at Esalen.

The Farther Reaches of Human Nature
by Abraham Maslow
$12.50, hardbound

This adventurous volume is the last work Dr. Maslow completed before his death. In it he goes beyond his earlier writings to carry the concerns of psychology into the realm of joy, creativity and spiritual experience. In earlier books, he innovated by defining a 'humanistic' psychology; here he sketches a psychology for the highest of which man is capable. It is a look into the future of psychology and man.

Psychosynthesis
by Roberto Assagioli
$2.75, paper

Principles and applications of a method of personal growth which includes the superconsciousness as well as the libido, the imagination as well as the complexes, the will as well as the instinctual drives; a practical, working method which can be used for harmonizing and integrating the often conflicting elements of our inner life around a higher unifying center of being and awareness, the Transpersonal Self. Includes over fifty techniques and exercises.

Hot Springs
by Stuart Miller

$7.95, hardbound

A rollicking chronicle of what it means in contemporary America to undergo a spiritual death and a spiritual rebirth. The book is played out against backdrops that range from Orchard Street in New York's Lower East Side, to the Yale Graduate School, and finally to Esalen Institute at Big Sur.

On the Psychology of Meditation
by Claudio Naranjo and Robert Ornstein

$7.95, hardbound

Two psychologists examine the spiritual ground of meditation and the implications of meditation for modern psychology. New insights into the nature of consciousness have resulted from current experimental work with computers and electroencephalograms and from a synthesis of meditative technique derived from zen, yoga, the sufis and shamanism.

Human Teaching for Human Learning
by George I. Brown

$8.50, hardbound; $2.45, paper

A report on the Ford-Esalen Project concerning research in confluent education; the first attempt to apply Esalen's techniques to education in public schools.

Golf in the Kingdom
by Michael Murphy

$6.95, hardbound

On the fog-shrouded golf course called Burningbush, Michael Murphy is swept into a magical world where untold potentials can be unleashed in a backswing governed by true gravity. A bagful of knowledge about the Higher Self is revealed through the metaphor of the game as the Scottish golf pro Shivas Irons leads Michael around an exotic green.

Other books in the Esalen-Viking Series

Secrets of the Trade
by Joe Kennedy Adams

$12.50, hardbound

Anger and the Rocking Chair
by Janet Lederman

$4.95, hardbound
(published by McGraw Hill)

A varied selection of titles, including the Esalen-Viking Series, is available through the Esalen Bookshop. The store is open Monday through Saturday, 10 to 5, at 1776 Union Street, San Francisco. A complete mail order catalogue is available upon request (see coupon above). Among books in stock are:

The Massage Book
by George Downing illustrated by Anne Kent Rush

$3.95, paper

A thorough introduction to Esalen massage, including instructions with 200 drawings for a complete massage, shorter variations, exercises for developing your own massage style, the relation of massage to meditation and tai chi, and much more.

Sexuality, Self and Survival
by Stanley Keleman

$2.50, paper

Developed from bioenergetics workshops and seminars led by Stanley Keleman, this book is about experiencing each of our lives and all of culture as expressions of our inevitable, immediate biological reality.

The following books are scheduled for publication in the near future. A discounted prepublication price on these and other titles is available through Friends of Esalen membership. (See page 19.) By using the coupon above, you may order these books now and be billed by us just prior to publication when prices are established.

The One Quest
by Claudio Naranjo

Getting There Without Drugs
by Buryl Payne

Also available:
16" x 20" poster of Anaïs Nin, $1.50

All books listed elsewhere in the brochure may be ordered using the coupon above.

Big Sur Information

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Deposits accompanying the reservations are required as follows: $20 for weekend programs; $70 for one-week and 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $400 for 4-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

PROGRAM COSTS: cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra. Foreign currency: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. Esalen accepts major credit cards, including Master Charge and American Express.

GROUNDS ARE CLOSED EXCEPT BY RESERVATION. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

CHECK-IN / CHECK-OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening; however, guests are welcome to arrive earlier in the afternoon. All programs begin with dinner on Sunday; weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday. The last session of a five-day program is Friday morning; check-out time is 12 noon on Friday. One-week programs usually end Saturday morning. 2-week and 4-week programs usually have final sessions on the last Saturday morning, with some programs ending Friday morning of the last week. Weekend programs end Sunday after the morning session. Check-out time is noon of the final day for all programs.

ACCOMMODATIONS. The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property—in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms — is strictly prohibited.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name.

From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs.

A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute—Reservations Only.

Esalen now has the use of two facilities along the Big Sur Coast — its original home (the Hot Springs) and the South Coast Center, one and a half miles north. Like Esalen itself, the South Coast Center is complete with meeting rooms, sleeping accommodations, dining room, pool and sauna. Persons attending programs at the South Coast are free to use the hot baths, pool and other facilities at Esalen if they wish. Program descriptions indicate whether a program is to be held at South Coast Center or at the Hot Springs.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE FROM MONTEREY: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $10 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen representative.

WORK COMMITMENT: Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer at Esalen Institute. The work requirement is 6 hours per week at South Coast Center.

ORGANIC FOOD: The organic food garden on the Esalen grounds is flourishing and provides the kitchen with most of its vegetables and herbs. We try to serve only organically-produced meats, poultry and dairy products; most breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

STAFF-LED WORKSHOPS: Some of the four-week, two-week, one-week and five-day programs listed will be led by members of the Esalen Staff from Big Sur and San Francisco.

Big Sur Staff includes: Diana Bechetti, Michael Butler, Alberta Donlan, Al Drucker, Betty Fuller, Peggy Morrison, Janet Lederman, Milton Lees, Dub Leigh, Theodora Lyon, Hector Prestera, Richard Price, Carole Rosenblatt, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Julian Silverman, Simone Surpin, Gerald Thatcher and Sharon Wheeler.

San Francisco Information

RESERVATIONS: should be made at least one week prior to start of program. A non-refundable deposit must accompany registrations as follows: $10 per person for programs costing under $35; $20 for programs costing under $100; $50 for those over $100, unless otherwise noted. Mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Balance is payable at the first session of the program. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. Esalen accepts major credit cards, including Master Charge and American Express.

INFORMATION, LITERATURE AND TICKETS: for lectures may be obtained Monday through Saturday, 10:00 to 5:00, at 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Tickets obtained by mail will indicate the exact location and time of events; when not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Most San Francisco programs are non-residential. Participants in these programs must reserve their own accommodations at local hotels or motels. Unless stated otherwise, meals are not provided at such workshops.

RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS: are indicated in individual workshop descriptions. Program cost of residential programs includes tuition, food and lodging. Shared occupancy only, no private accommodations available. Weekend residential programs, unless otherwise indicated, begin at 8 p.m., Friday (no supper served) and conclude following Sunday lunch. Programs are held at a conference center in Marin County or in Sonoma County; exact location will be included with reservation confirmation.

WEEKEND SCHEDULES: Weekend workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sundays, unless otherwise indicated in workshop descriptions. Schedules are not rigid, however, and exact meeting times are discussed at the first session.

LOCATION: Participants will be informed of workshop location at time of registration and confirmation. Esalen uses several facilities in the Bay Area for its programs including its own building at 1757 Union Street, San Francisco. Call the San Francisco office for advance information on program location.

SCHOLARSHIPS: and interest-free loans are available for many programs in San Francisco. A scholarship application form will be sent upon request—apply early. Students may attend most workshops for less than the stated fee on a space-available basis; inquire by phone at least one week prior to start of program. Special preference will be given persons who plan to apply their Esalen experience to urban teaching or organized community efforts.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes for men.

WAITING LISTS: Names are placed on waiting lists in cases of over-subscription or when demanded by workshop requirements. Registrants placed on such a list will be informed immediately and deposit checks held. Checks will be returned if reservation cannot be confirmed or upon request by persons not wishing to be on a waiting list.

STAFF-LED WORKSHOPS: Some programs listed will be led or assisted by Esalen Staff from San Francisco and Big Sur. San Francisco staff includes: Paul Aiken, Margaret Conway, Bob Cromey, Arthur Fox, Betty Fuller, Janica Fox, Bob Kriegel, Pamela Portugal, Harry Sloan, Helen Stephens.

Special Information

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a non-profit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

CONSULTING SERVICE & SPEAKERS BUREAU:
Esalen Institute's resources and personnel are available to organizations, schools, hospitals, social agencies and corporations for speeches, lecture-demonstrations and special programs. The Esalen Consulting Service has designed and assisted with such varied projects as the training of teachers in confluent education (the Ford-Esalen Project), an early learning project involving mothers and children, an attitudinal communications program for a major corporation, training staffs at drug treatment centers and at a state hospital. For information contact Robert Kriegel at the Esalen/San Francisco office.

ACCREDITATION* and the USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs. Our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please also see membership form below.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recordings of many past programs are available through a service which maintains archive copies for Esalen. Requests for tapes now come from educational and service institutions, libraries, religious and professional groups, business groups and individuals concerned with the human potential movement. Commercial use of these tapes is prohibited; all rights are reserved. For a complete tape catalog write Big Sur Recordings, 117 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, CA 94903. The cost of recordings is $10 per tape-hour, stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA and KQED) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has a dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, as well at KPFT Houston and WBAI New York City broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides.

Esalen Institute RESERVATIONS & TICKET ORDER

This form is for your convenience in preparing attendance at Esalen workshops and lectures. You may use it for Big Sur and San Francisco area programs, although it is suggested that you make reservations independently at each location rather than place a "mixed" order. You will receive a new order form with your tickets or confirmation of reservations. Please make reservations early; some seminars are booked to capacity months in advance.

SPECIAL SUMMER

INSTITUTES FOR EDUCATORS

Esalen Institute is primarily interested in the education of the whole person and, with the support of Ford Foundation grants, is continuing to research the application of approaches used at Esalen to learning experience and learning communities. The Summer Institutes offered here are our third annual series of education workshops and teacher training programs derived from this investigation into the processes by which learning, growth and change take place.

[S.F.] July 24-28
Change Agents in Higher Education
Stewart Shapiro

Five-day workshop $120

A workshop intended to support and deepen the efforts of professors, students, administrators and concerned others in facilitating positive change toward humanizing our colleges and universities. Various obstacles and resistances to relevant learning and change in higher education and strategies for change will be examined and demonstrated. "Agents of change" in higher education will have an opportunity to improve their skills in verbal and nonverbal communication and significant personal contact. The workshop is especially designed for teachers and teaching assistants. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

[S.F.] July 24-28
On Developing Self-Esteem
Stanley Coopersmith

Five-day workshop $120

This program will consider and employ a variety of methods for developing and raising self-esteem. Among these methods are self-exploration of favorable capacities and bases of esteem, role-taking, modeling, desensitization, challenge and defense. There will be occasions for examining and expanding personal limits by risk-taking, decision-making, and long-term commitments. The goal throughout will be on increasing feelings of personal worthiness which eventuate in more effective performance and attainment of personal goals and satisfactions. There will be consideration of both theory and practices involved in establishing self-esteem and the implications of esteem in the school, home and personal relationships.

Several specialists in particular aspects of developing self-esteem will give demonstrations and discuss their work in the school and group setting. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

[S.F.] Wednesday, July 26
An Introduction to Confluent Education
Sara Miller, Marilyn Kriegel & the Ford-Esalen Staff

Single evening event

[FREE]; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

An introduction to the education that links thinking to feeling, the affective to the cognitive, the student to the curriculum. For teachers, parents, students and anyone interested in education for the whole person.

[S.F.] July 29-30
Gestalt Learning Theory for the Classroom
Diana Kelly

Weekend workshop $50

In this introductory workshop for classroom teachers, participants will experience techniques and approaches based on principles of gestalt awareness training and will explore ways to use them in a classroom setting. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

[B.S.] July 30-August 4
The School Curriculum & the Affective Domain
Sara Miller & Marilyn Kriegel

5-day workshop $215

This workshop, designed for classroom teachers at all levels and school administrators, will deal with the application of experiential approaches to classroom education and the integration of these approaches with traditional cognitive curriculum. We will use methods of gestalt awareness, encounter, psychosynthesis and sensory awakening.

[S.F.] July 31
Working with the "Mentally Retarded"
Ann Padover & the Ford/Esalen Staff

One-day workshop $20

This workshop will focus on increasing awareness of those children we have traditionally regarded as being retarded. Using techniques from confluent education, participants will have the opportunity to develop skills and techniques to work more effectively and affectively with the special children they teach. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday.

[S.F.] August 1-3
Educating the Whole Person
Paul & Anne Nash

3-day workshop $70

A variety of techniques, such as psychosynthesis, value clarification, life planning, role playing, synectics, art and sensory awareness will be used to understand and release our own and others' creative energies; to explore new avenues as learners and teachers; and to increase our effectiveness in changing the institutions where we live and work. Emphasis will be on integrating feeling, thought and action; and on relating immediate experience to back-home situations and future plans. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Tues., Wed., Thurs.

[S.F.] August 4
Humanistic Education: Beyond Technique
William Bridges

One-day workshop $20

At the heart of the human endeavor is the longing to know – not the neurotic need to accumulate information, but the authentic need to be in a knowingful relation to our own worlds. Humanistic education begins with and seeks to provide for this need, but recently it has shown signs of degenerating into a grab-bag of techniques and a cure-all. This workshop will move beyond the fascinations of technique so as to provide each participant the chance to begin with his own longings to know, and from there to sketch out the shape of the learning and teaching that would be most meaningful to him. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday.

[S.F.] August 7-9
Drugs & the Young
Peter Marin

3-day workshop $70

For better or worse, drugs play a crucial or potentially crucial role in the lives of many children. Unless educators as well as parents understand why the young use drugs, they will be unable to deal with the true lives of children. This workshop will investigate the culture of the young in general as well as the reasons behind and effects of the use of different drugs. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Mon., Tues., Wed.

[S.F.] August 10
For Teachers of Religion
Marilyn Kriegel

One-day workshop $20

This one day introductory workshop in confluent education will enable the religious educator to explore his personal and professional awareness and the possibilities of a humanistic and creative religious education. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursday.

[S.F.] August 11
Reading
Sara Miller & the Ford/Esalen Staff

One day workshop $20

Reading tastes, reading smells, reading words, reading sounds, reading colors, reading feelings. Reading.

A workshop for people interested in the teaching of reading. Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] August 13-18

Fellowship of the Ring
Aaron & Rosemary Hillman

5-day workshop $245

Students and teachers form a fellowship of persons merging the emotions and the intellect in a group process. This workshop is designed for teachers of any level, subject or style, as well as those interested in learning to work with others. We will learn and experience and work toward making ourselves and education a growth towards life. Explanations and applications of confluent education and gestalt awareness training will be an integral part of the program.

[S.F.] August 14-17

Gestalt, Psychosynthesis & Education
George Brown

4-day workshop $105

An experiential workshop combining the approaches of gestalt therapy with techniques from psychosynthesis. There will be discussion on the application of the work to classroom situations. Participants will be encouraged to develop their own approaches with the assistance of the leader and the other members of the group. Recommended readings: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, by F. Perls; Anger and the Rocking Chair, by J. Lederman; Psychosynthesis, by R. Assagioli; Human Teaching for Human Learning, by G. Brown. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Mon. through Thurs.

[S.F.] August 15-16

Psychology of Play for Parents & Teachers: The Freedom to Play
Marian Saltman

2-day workshop $50

Following a brief discussion on the concept of play and how it relates to the living and learning process, the group will engage in an actual play experience using various media such as rhythm instruments, dress-up clothes, blocks and other toys. In subsequent sessions group members may talk about what they did, felt and observed during the experience. To be in touch with the child within gives a deeper understanding of oneself and the children with whom we relate. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Tues. and Wed.

[S.F.] August 18

The Behavior of Children
Sara Miller & the Ford/Esalen Staff

One-day workshop $20

This workshop is for interested parents, teachers and school administrators. It will introduce participants to a range of techniques – including fantasy, behavior modification and psychosynthesis – for helping children with "behavioral problems." Using examples from the experiences of group members, we will explore alternatives for helping the child, parent and school personnel. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday.

[S.F.] August 19-20

Psychosynthesis & Education
Tom Yeomans

Weekend workshop $50

For too long education has confined itself to the development of the intellectual function in man, often at the expense of other functions, such as the somatic, emotional, imaginative and intuitive. Some educators are beginning to reconceive education in much broader terms to include these neglected aspects. Psychosynthesis is central to this work, since it deals with the balanced development of body, feelings and mind, and their harmonious integration around a unifying center of being and awareness. It thus leads to a true education of the whole man. This workshop will combine personal experience in psychosynthesis with consideration of its use in the classroom and with specific subject matter. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

GENERAL INFORMATION

San Francisco programs are nonresidential and no meals are provided. On request, the San Francisco office will assist program participants in obtaining nearby inexpensive lodging.

Big Sur programs will be held at Esalen's Big Sur facility. Room and meals are included in program tuition. See Big Sur Information, page 18.

Persons may register for the entire series, or for one or more programs in the series. To apply, please send the following: (1) Title of each workshop you wish to attend; (2) a deposit covering each program – 5-day and 4-day programs, $35 (at Big Sur, $70); 3-day and 2-day programs, $20; 1-day programs, $10.

Quarter units of post-graduate professional credit may be available from University of California Santa Barbara Extension. Interested persons may enroll for credit and pay the credit fee at the first meeting of the workshop in which they are registered.

AARON HILLMAN is a teacher, poet and author who specializes in enjoying learning with students, whoever and wherever they are. He has had intensive training and practice in the domain of affective teaching.

DIANA KELLY is an elementary school counselor and a former teacher, staff member of DRICE and leader of gestalt groups.

MARILYN KRIEGEL is the assistant director of the Ford/Esalen Project in confluent education. She taught public school in California for eight years and was educational consultant and a group leader for Anthos in New York.

PETER MARIN is the former director of Pacific High School, a radically experimental high school. He has worked as a counselor and has taught at various colleges. He is author of The Free People and (with Alan Cohen) Understanding Drug Use.

SARA MILLER is Esalen's director of education. She has trained teachers of retarded, brain injured, "deprived", gifted and "regular" children. She holds a masters degree in special education, is an encounter group leader and a student of psychosynthesis.

ANNE NASH, former Fellow of Boston University Human Relations Center, has worked as consultant to schools and community groups. She is experienced as an elementary school teacher, counselor and play therapist.

PAUL NASH, Ph.D., Professor of Education at Boston University, is author of Authority and Freedom in Education and other works. He is widely experienced as a teacher, from elementary school through graduate school, as a consultant, and as a leader of encounter groups, and community groups.

INSTITUTES & LONG-TERM PROGRAMS

Big Sur
RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS

At the present time, there is no formal residential program at Big Sur. Instead, resuming in October, we are offering an ongoing residential program which may be initiated by an individual according to his specific needs and interests, chosen from among the continuing workshops available. Those interested in the program should be aware, first, of a residence requirement of at least two months, and second, of a work obligation of 12-16 hours per week.

The cost of the program is $800 per month exclusive of weekend workshops. There will be a nominal additional charge for participation in workshops commanding a higher tuition fee (those workshops listed in the catalog which are more than $240). Individuals interested in applying for the residential program must first attend a week-long seminar at Big Sur, the cost of which will not be applicable to the residential fee, should they be accepted to the program.

BIG SUR MONTH-LONG PROGRAMS

There are 3 forthcoming month-long programs currently planned at Esalen/Big Sur. These are:

July [illegible]: Gestalt & Structural Integration, Frank Rubenfeld (See p. 12)

October [illegible]: Africa Awareness Training, Africa Staff (See p. 9)

November 5-December 1: Gestalt & Structural Integration, Staff (See p. 13).

EXTENDED GROWTH PROGRAM

(Ian Grand, Program Director)
October 23-March 30, 1973

The Extended Growth Program is an in-depth, continuing 5-month program for personal growth held in the San Francisco Bay Area. It is a nonresidential program which combines a selected schedule of workshops with ongoing small group work under the direction of Ian Grand. This Fall's program will focus on the "life of the body" and modes of body expression; in addition to continuing work with Ian Grand, it includes study with Stanley Keleman, Peter Marin and other selected workshops. Complete program description and information is available through the San Francisco office.

WORKSHOP FOR COUNSELORS

(Paul Aikin, Coordinator)
July 31 through August 11, 1972

A two-week workshop for college and high school counselors, psychologists, social workers, ministers and peer counselors. Working as a training group, participants will gain experience in a variety of affective techniques which are being developed into useful and innovative counseling methods. There will be theoretical and overview meetings throughout the program to help integrate and apply experiences to individual situations.

This is a full-time, live-in program beginning Monday, July 31 and continuing through Friday, August 11, 1972, at a conference center near San Francisco. Tuition is $420 per person and includes dormitory lodging and meals.

To apply, send a letter with information about your counseling background to the Esalen/San Francisco office. A nonrefundable deposit of $150 is required with registration.

Three quarter-units of post graduate professional credit may be available through University of California at Santa Barbara Extension. Interested persons may apply for credit and pay credit fee of $10 per unit at program's first session, July 31.

Faculty

Paul Aikin, Ph.D. (Program Coordinator), clinical psychologist, Counseling Center, U.C., Davis, consultant on the use of affective techniques in college and secondary school counseling programs.

James Fadiman, Ph.D., senior counselor and consultant at Stanford University, an editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and editor of the recent book, The Practice of Psychosynthesis.

Stanley Keleman, director of the Institute for Energetic Studies and in private practice in Berkeley, California.

Stuart Loomis, M.A., Professor of Counseling, San Francisco State College and chief psychologist, Haight-Ashbury Medical Clinic Heroin program.

Stewart Shapiro, Ph.D., director of Counseling and Guidance and coordinator of the Office of Human Relations, Department of Education, U.C., Santa Barbara; a member of the N.T.L. staff.

GESTALT TRAINING PROGRAM

A three-month gestalt training program for professionals and those in related fields will take place in Big Sur and San Francisco, January through March, 1973. For further information please write to Carole Rosenblatt, Program Director, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Please state credentials.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

WILLIAM BRIDGES, Ph.D., teaches literature at Mills College. He is Education Coordinator for the Association for Humanistic Psychology and a lay counselor at Interlogue in Palo Alto.

GEORGE I. BROWN, Ph.D., Professor of Education, teaches awareness and sensitivity training at U.C., Santa Barbara. He is a nationally known researcher in the affective domain and creativity.

STANLEY COOPERSMITH, Ph.D., a member of the Psychology Department at U.C., Davis, previously taught at Wesleyan and at the University of Copenhagen. His major work has been in the field of self-esteem.

ROSEMARY HILLMAN is a counselor in Santa Barbara, teacher and author.

ANN PADOVER, Ph.D., is a member of the Ford/Esalen staff in Confluent Education. She is director of the Special Education programs at Dominican College, San Rafael.

MARIAN SALTMAN is a play therapist who has worked with children, adolescents and adults, and as a consultant. She teaches at Sonoma State College and at the California School for Professional Psychology.

STEWART SHAPIRO, Ph.D., is Professor of Education at U.C., Santa Barbara. In addition to his workshops in higher education, conflict resolution, positive experience and change agentry, he is a consultant to the Ford Foundation's program in confluent education at U.C.S.B.

TOM YEOMANS is an associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute. He is a teacher, musician and poet, and associate director of DRICE (Development and Research in Confluent Education) at U.C., Santa Barbara.

NEWS

THE ARMY IN BIG SUR

Helicopters landing on the lawn, bathing suits in the baths, reveille at 6:00 a.m., M.P.'s in the guard shack, S.O.S. for dinner. Rumors ran amuck, fantasies flying everywhere as Esalen's Big Sur community prepared for an "invasion" by the Sixth Army's Drug and Alcoholic Abuse Control Program for a seven day symposium in March. There were seventy-three conferees ranging from colonels to civilian staff members coming from Fort Lewis in Washington state to Fort Carson in Colorado.

As the week began there seemed to be some tension and a gap between "us" and "them." On the first day representatives of the different Army facilities attending presented the work being done in their programs. Throughout the day there was still a little uneasiness among the "troops" – both ours and theirs – but that night William Schutz led a microlab in which everyone participated, both the conferees and the Esalen community. The energy was as high or higher than it has ever been at Hot Springs. The "we" and "they" melted into a big "us," and the tone was set for the whole week.

The days began with breakfast at 7:00 a.m. (reveille at 6:00 wasn't such a far off rumor; there was no bugle, however, only a flute sounding melodiously in the distance.) The symposium schedule, designed jointly by Army and Esalen staff personnel, combined didactic and experiential lectures, demonstrations and group experiences. The speakers included: David Deitch, a founder of Daytop Village, a New York drug rehabilitation center; Steve Lewis from the Yale University Drug Abuse Program; Jeff Donfeld of the National Drug Abuse Program; Steve Pittell from the Haight-Ashbury Clinic; and Allen Cohen, a consulting psychiatrist from the University of California at Hayward.

The experiential part of the program consisted of lecture-demonstrations in gestalt with Julian Silverman, Richard Price, Janet Lederman and James Simkin; psychosynthesis with James Fadiman; sensory awareness with Robert Nadeau; meditation with Robert Ornstein; massage with Peggy Morrison and Brita Ostrom; tai chi with Judyth Weaver; yoga with Deborah Carson; and a rolfing demonstration with Michael Butler.

In between sessions were talks by Generals Gard, Leahy and Tolson discussing the Army's role in dealing with social problems.

At the end of each day there were encounter groups led by Janet Lederman, Bob Kriegel, Seymour Carter, Michael Butler, Harry Sloan, Linda Quackenbush, Betty Fuller, Bob Cromey, Carole Rosenblatt and Beverly Silverman. These groups were comprised of a melange of all the people and positions represented at the conference. For most of the conferees they were the high point of the day, following up a kind of mental basic training for the previous fourteen hours. It was moving to see and experience feelings of trust and compassion built up between as diverse a population as high-ranking Army officers, chaplains, Army and civilian psychiatrists and psychologists, enlisted men, M.P.'s, newly returned Vietnam veterans, and civilian staff members.

The night before the conference ended there was a gala dinner and party, complete with a band. The symposium ended with farewell speeches, hugs on all sides, and plans by the Esalen Consulting Service for similar in-service staff training programs at many of the different Army bases.

SCIENCE AND PSI:

A Project in Global Education

For years people in the West have known that unusual work was being done in the Soviet Union and other Eastern countries aimed at opening the secrets of psychic powers.

In Russia and other countries efforts are aimed at adapting the methods of physical science to the investigation of such phenomena as telepathy, extrasensory perception, clairvoyance and psychokinesis, among others. It is by no means clear that this activity has yet reached the point where it has borne massive scientific fruit, and perhaps this is a fortunate circumstance. But it is clear, to take one example, that scientists are currently working in Russia to teach control of mind over matter to ordinary people.

This kind of activity is not restricted only to Eastern European countries. A number of scientists in the West are engaged in trying to duplicate Russian research on the fields of force which seem to surround animate and inanimate objects, and which may be thought of as a measure of some vital energy that could be transformed, amplified and used.

On a recent visit to the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, where we met with a number of the prominent scientists involved in this work, we were struck by the apparent naivete which these scientists and some of their Western colleagues bring to their investigations. Oppenheimer's thought about the scientists who developed the atomic bomb, "We have known guilt," seems to have reached too few of the men involved in this new scientific effort. Though we have been warned of the dangers of psychic powers by Aurobindo, Tolkein, C. S. Lewis, Aldous Huxley and many other writers and philosophers, there is insufficient awareness of these dangers in the scientific community.

It is easy to imagine many good results should psychic powers, telepathy, clairvoyance and psychokinesis really be understood, measured and replicable. But, it is also as easy to imagine the potential disasters. Imagine casual groups of people playing with these powers for their amusement, and think of these powers used for criminal purposes, espionage, business competitions.

It would be immensely tonic to our sense of man to know that he is possessed of an infinity of potential talents, and that he carries as his birthright capacities beyond imagining. It would be enriching and inspiring to human beings were they able to communicate more directly and fully – on new wavelengths, so to speak. It would be of great importance to medicine were the clairvoyants' skill of "seeing" a disease able to be taught to doctors and nurses.

We are concerned that something positive be done to prevent the disasters and enhance the constructive possibilities of psychical research currently going on in the world. A first step would be to bring together the scientists in this area from both sides of the Iron Curtain, to focus on the moral, social and political implications of their work. This would be a bold step toward helping to curb the competition that could easily result in aggressive programs for the development of military applications of psychic powers. Clearly, what is essential is to open the lines of communication internationally, and to resolve to keep them open. We propose to help establish this communication.

The first step will be to form a steering committee of people well acquainted with parapsychological research in the East and the West, with the social and moral problems it poses, and having few or no axes to grind. This committee will discuss the agenda for the actual meeting of scientists, determine key issues and decide on who is to be invited.

We hope to bring to the United States approximately twenty of the Soviet and other European scientists involved in new kinds of parapsychological research and arrange intensive speaking tours for many of them throughout the U.S.

Finally, we would convene a conference of Eastern and Western scientists and the steering committee at Esalen Institute in Big Sur.

A detailed budget for this project is available. We hope that most of the money can be raised from the sale of TV, movie and book rights to the conference.

PSYCHOLOGY OF HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS: Summer Program

July 21-August 27

In the past, academic science has underestimated man and his capabilities. A more complete conception of man is beginning to emerge within the academic disciplines, a conception which includes man's capacity for self-regulation of internal states, his sensitivity to subtle sources of energy, his facility for "paranormal" awareness, and his integration of intuitive and rational faculties. We are also discovering that many of the older "esoteric" psychologies (such as Yoga, Zen and Sufism) contain much useful knowledge for exploring the areas that contemporary Western psychology has neglected. A new synthesis of the esoteric traditions and the methods and technology of modern science is beginning to emerge.

Esalen Institute is committed to exploring and advancing this synthesis. Esalen, in cooperation with the Transpersonal Association, is planning its second Summer Institute in the Psychology of Human Consciousness, with a faculty of leading researchers, teachers and practitioners. Participants will have the opportunity to explore both intellectually and experientially many techniques and disciplines concerned with extending human consciousness. The program is designed to provide brief, intensive exposures to such areas as: biofeedback training, psychology of meditation, psychologies of Zen, Yoga and Sufism, hypnosis, psychedelic research, psychosynthesis, psychology of religious experience and various systems dealing with the effects of body states on consciousness.

CORE SEMINARS

The core seminars (3-4 days each) will be led by the following people:

ROBERT E. ORNSTEIN, Ph.D., will develop a general paradigm combining the various techniques and disciplines of the Eastern esoteric traditions with Western scientific research; he will explore specifically meditation, bio-feedback and Sufism.

Dr. Ornstein teaches at the University of California Medical Center and does research at Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute on bio-feedback and the specialized functions of the two sides of the brain. He is author of several books, including the forthcoming The Psychology of Consciousness.

JAMES FADIMAN, Ph.D., will include psychosynthesis, guided fantasy, self-concept modification and discussion of various techniques for extending human consciousness. In addition, he will lead a seminar which will serve as an attempt to integrate various aspects of the summer program.

Dr. Fadiman is a psychologist on the staff of the Counseling Service at Stanford University and is a lecturer in the Department of Design Engineering at Stanford. He is Associate Editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and is editor of the forthcoming Exploring Madness: Experience, Understanding and Research.

ARTHUR J. DEIKMAN, M.D., will talk about his research in meditation, theories and models of human consciousness and mystical perception.

Dr. Deikman was trained at Harvard in psychoanalytically-oriented psychiatry. For more than ten years he has been doing research on meditation, mystical experience, psychedelics and consciousness. He has become increasingly involved in group therapy and process, and at the University of Colorado Medical Center he developed a non-drug intensive treatment unit for psychosis, worked on a theory of consciousness and began the study of Zen Buddhism. He is now in private practice in San Francisco.

ROBERT K. HALL, M.D., will combine awareness training, gestalt therapy, concentration exercises, energy-releasing postures and manipulative work for physical restructuring as well as discussion of diet therapy.

Dr. Hall is a medical doctor, psychiatrist and gestalt therapist who is trained in structural integration. He takes a total approach towards health and the psychophysical integration of the individual.

GAY LUCE will explore hypnosis, trance states and biological rhythms.

She is a scientific writer who has done extensive research in psychic medicine, hypnosis, biological rhythms and sensory deprivation. She is the author of a book on biological rhythms, Body Time.

CHARLES T. TART, Ph.D., will offer a general overview, with emphasis on theoretical structure, of various altered states of consciousness, including hypnosis and self-hypnosis, drug-induced states, extra-sensory perception, dreams and borderline states.

He is Associate Professor of Psychology at the University of California at Davis. He has conducted extensive research into sleeping and dreaming, hypnosis, ESP and drugs. Dr. Tart is editor of Altered States of Consciousness: A Book of Readings.

CLAUDIO NARANJO, M.D., is a research psychiatrist known primarily in this country for his publications in the field of psychopharmacology. He is co-author with Robert Ornstein of On the Psychology of Meditation and author of the forthcoming book The One Quest. He is presently renouncing all activity other than working with groups in a way unknown even to himself. "To grow is to outgrow. True progress must defeat our conditionings and that is not pleasant. TRUE WORK IS HARD WORK. We will have three days of it."

IN ADDITION, there will be a series of seminars including: The Development of Consciousness (Dane Rudhyar); The Transformation of Man (George Leonard and Michael Murphy); The Biological Roots of Experience (Stanley Keleman).

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Summer Institute will be held from July 21 to August 27, 1972, at Stanford University in Palo Alto, approximately 30 miles south of San Francisco. This program is intended primarily for teachers, students and researchers in psychology, psychiatry, philosophy and the social sciences, as well as those outside the academic community who would like to integrate this study into their lives and environment.

The program must be taken in its entirety; no part-time participation will be possible. Program tuition is $550. The program is residential and there will be an additional $75 room charge for the 5 weeks. Dinners will be communal; the cost will probably be about $5.00 per week. A nonrefundable deposit of $100 is required at the time of acceptance. PARTIAL SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AVAILABLE; an application for scholarship funds will be sent upon request.

The program will involve approximately six days of intensive study per week for the full five-week period.

There is a possibility of obtaining university credit (5 to 9 units) from the University of California Extension and Stanford University; students should also inquire about obtaining credit from their own departments for the program.

To apply, send a letter to Summer Program, Esalen/San Francisco. Tell us who you are, what you are doing, teaching, practicing, or studying and the reasons why you would like to participate in the Esalen Summer Institute.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS

Psychosynthesis is an inclusive and positive conception of man that considers him dynamically as a being in a process of personal growth within an evolving universe. It includes the superconscious as well as the libido, the imagination as well as the complexes, the will as well as the instinctual drives. More than a theory, it is a way of looking at man; a practical working method which leads to greater unity, which can be used for harmonizing the many often conflicting elements of our inner life. Psychosynthesis is not limited to awareness, expansion or experience — it is also a way of pulling it all together, an approach which fosters the balanced development of body, feelings and mind and their harmonious integration around a unifying center of being and awareness, the Transpersonal Self. Psychosynthesis assists each individual in reaching toward this higher Self, and helps him use its energy and guidance to bring about a more joyful and effective actualization of the unfolding meaning and value of his life. Psychosynthesis chooses among a large number of methods and techniques those that are most appropriate to each existential situation. Some of these can be: guided imagery, movement, self-identification, gestalt, meditation, symbolic art work, ideal models, writing and journal keeping and exploration of the superconscious. The emphasis is not on producing immediate breakthroughs, although this often occurs, but rather on fostering a gradual process of growth that, with continuing application, can gain increasing momentum and ultimately become a life-style.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS TRAINING

[S.F.] Starting October 10

Psychosynthesis Training Series for Professionals

Jim & Susan Vargiu

Six Tuesday evenings plus a weekend $180

A program designed for psychotherapists, educators, counselors, and others involved in the helping professions. The group will explore the fundamentals of psychosynthesis, theoretically and experientially, in a coordinated program designed to give each participant both the understanding and the personal experience needed to begin to utilize and apply psychosynthesis within his own field. We will work together so that each can see the process of psychosynthesis at work, both in himself and in others. There will be assignments and exercises to complete between meetings. Further individual work during the six week period can be arranged.

Six Tuesday evenings, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., October 10 through November 14. Weekend workshop, November 18-19. For application form, contact Esalen/San Francisco.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS PROGRAMS

[S.F.] Wednesday, July 12

Introduction to Psychosynthesis

James Fadiman

Single evening event [FREE]
8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

[S.F.] July 21-23

Psychosynthesis

Steven Kull & Betsie Carter

Weekend workshop $50

This will be a comprehensive introduction to the major principles of psychosynthesis. Utilizing such techniques as guided imagery, movement, symbolic artwork, writing and meditation, we will work towards developing an ongoing process of growth and integration around our higher unifying center, the Transpersonal Self.

[S.F.] July 28-30

Psychosynthesis: A Workshop for those under 25

Steven Kull & Betsie Carter

Weekend workshop $30

(See workshop description, July 21-23, above.)

[B.S.] August 4-6

Psychosynthesis Workshop

Tom Yeomans

Weekend workshop $85

Psychosynthesis is a way of growing and a way of learning to direct one's growth. It seeks to develop a personal center from which to live, as well as deep connections with Self, Other, and the Universe. Through the use of directed fantasy, meditation, body movement, and dialogue, it encourages new and more productive and harmonious relations between the many aspects of the personality. Its theory and practice offer a means toward greater integration of one's energies, which leads to a richer experience on all levels of being.

Tom Yeomans

Weekend workshop $50

For too long education has confined itself to the development of intellectual function in men, often at the expense of other functions, such as the somatic, emotional, imaginative and intuitive. It is clear now that we have paid a high price for this imbalance, and some educators, recognizing this, are beginning to reconceive education in much broader terms to include these neglected aspects. Psychosynthesis is central to this work and leads toward a true education of the whole man. This workshop will combine personal experience in psychosynthesis with consideration of its use in the classroom and with specific subject matter. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

[B.S.] September 1-3

Psychosynthesis Treasure Hunt

Margaret Conway

Weekend workshop $85

Discover and set free that best self you secretly know is inside you. We will examine body, feelings and mind and determine how they are out of harmony with one another. Then we will work toward achieving each member's individual harmonization and balance, using guided imagery, gestalt, movement and other techniques. Most of the 'tools' we use will be easily applied to home.

[S.F.] September 1-3

Psychosynthesis Advanced Workshop

Steven Kull & Betsie Carter

Weekend workshop $50

For those who have already attended one psychosynthesis workshop.

[S.F.] September 15-17

Psychosynthesis

Tom Allen & Margaret Conway

Weekend workshop $50

In this workshop the focus will be on processes that can later be used by participants as independent steps toward a greater unity of being and an extension of one's consciousness toward the Transpersonal Self.

[B.S.] September 29-October 1

Psychosynthesis & Art

Weekend workshop $50

(See B.S. workshop description, July 21-23, above.)

The following Esalen Institute Psychosynthesis program is offered in cooperation with the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis (Los Angeles) and is coordinated by Dr. Robert Gerard, President of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis. It is part of a series of professional workshops exploring the techniques of psychosynthesis in depth.

[S.F.] October 6-8
Professional Training in Psychosynthesis: Intuitive Awareness
Robert & Donna Gerard
Weekend workshop $75

Focus will be on techniques designed to actualize intuitive potentials. Intuition cuts through emotional distortions and intellectual rationalizations to reveal the essence behind appearances. Intuition is the power to perceive directly "What is" and "What can be," serving as an inner guide in human relationships and life situations. We will explore systematic ways of maximizing our intuitive skills and practical methods of helping others to develop their intuition.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

TOM ALLEN is a senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute and a former Esalen resident fellow. He underwent didactic training at the Psychosynthesis Institute with Jim and Susan Vargiu, and has worked with Roberto Assagioli in Italy. He has led workshops for several years at growth centers and institutions throughout the country. He is an artist and has worked to integrate art into the psychosynthesis process as a means of self-realization.

GEORGE BROWN, an associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, is one of the first to combine gestalt and psychosynthesis in workshop and educational contexts. He is director of DRICE, the Ford Foundation Center in confluent education at the University of California at Santa Barbara and is the author of Human Teaching for Human Learning.

JUDITH BROWN has an international reputation as a gestalt awareness trainer and has been interested in the use of symbols as an expression of the creative unconscious. In addition to her own groups, she has co-led numerous groups with her husband.

BETSIE CARTER, a senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, was associate director of the Ford-Esalen Project in Confluent Education, and an Esalen resident fellow. She underwent didactic training in Italy with Roberto Assagioli, and at the Psychosynthesis Institute with Jim and Susan Vargiu. She has given workshops in this country and abroad. Presently she is working, both individually and in groups, with people interested in using psychosynthesis for their own development. She is especially involved in the psychosynthesis of gifted and creative young people.

MARGARET CONWAY, a senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, and a member of the Esalen staff, is in didactic training at the Psychosynthesis Institute with Jim and Susan Vargiu, and has worked with Roberto Assagioli in Italy. Trained as a psychiatric nurse, she has led groups for several years for various organizations, including Esalen Institute, the San Mateo County School District, California State Hayward Extension Division, Glide Memorial Church, and others.

JAMES FADIMAN is an educational and management consultant. He is a lecturer in design engineering and a psychological counselor at Stanford University, and associate editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology. He is a pioneer in the transpersonal field, has lectured and led workshops in psychosynthesis, and has worked with Roberto Assagioli in Italy.

DONNA GERARD, drama teacher and therapist, for the past fourteen years has focused her private practice on the development and release of creative energies. Both she and her husband are interested in providing systematic methods for evoking transcendental awareness.

ROBERT GERARD is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Los Angeles. He has been a principal innovator in the field of psychosynthesis for over fifteen years. He collaborated with Dr. Assagioli on the writing of the book, Psychosynthesis, and has developed new therapeutic techniques, including the use of depth imagery, symbolic visualization, intuitive awareness and creative meditation. As president of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis, Dr. Gerard is especially interested in the integration of American, European and Eastern approaches to psychological growth.

BERNARD GUNTHER, an associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, has worked with Roberto Assagioli in Italy and is in didactic training at the Psychosynthesis Institute with Jim and Susan Vargiu. He is author of a number of books, including Sense Relaxation and What To Do Till the Messiah Comes, and the director of the feature film, "Come to Your Senses." His latest book, How the West is One will be released this spring by Macmillan.

MARILYN HARRIS KRIEGEL is the assistant director of the Ford-Esalen Project in Confluent Education. She taught school in California for eight years and was educational consultant and group leader for Anthos in New York City. She is presently in training at the Psychosynthesis Institute in Redwood City.

BOB KRIEGEL is the director of Friends of Esalen and of the Esalen consulting service. He was the founder and director of Anthos in New York City, has led groups at schools and growth centers around the country, and has served as consultant to business and management. He is presently in training at the Psychosynthesis Institute in Redwood City.

STEVEN KULL is a senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute. He underwent didactic training in Italy with Roberto Assagioli, and at the Psychosynthesis Institute with Jim and Susan Vargiu. He has given workshops in this country and abroad. Presently he is working both individually and in groups with people interested in using psychosynthesis for their own development. He is especially involved in the psychosynthesis of gifted and creative young people.

JIM and SUSAN VARGIU are the directors of the Psychosynthesis Institute. They underwent didactic training in Italy with Roberto Assagioli and have worked with him over the past eight years. They have lectured and given workshops in this country and in Europe. Presently they are training people in the helping professions in the use of psychosynthesis, working both individually and in groups with those interested in using psychosynthesis for their own development, and writing and publishing articles on psychosynthesis.

TOM YEOMANS is an associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute and is in didactic training with its directors, Jim and Susan Vargiu. He is a teacher, musician and poet, and presently associate director of DRICE (Development and Research in Confluent Education) at the Graduate School of Education, University of California, Santa Barbara. He has conducted workshops for educational institutes and growth centers throughout the country.

INTERPERSONAL
& ENCOUNTER GROUPS

The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontations rather than away from them. The focus of encounter is to explore interpersonal relations. Over the past years encounter, as practiced at Esalen, has evolved into a broad approach incorporating several related disciplines to achieve its aims. Techniques and insights gained from gestalt, sensory awareness, bioenergetics, massage, movement and structural integration are all part of Esalen encounter groups today.

SAN FRANCISCO INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS

These programs – evening, one-day and weekend – are specially intended for, but not limited to, persons who have not previously participated in Esalen encounter groups. Workshop leaders will be drawn from Esalen/San Francisco Staff (see Information section, page 18). Esalen/Big Sur Staff as well as members of San Francisco's Extended Growth Program, may also act as group facilitators.

New Ways of Meeting New People — Robert Cromey
Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Since many persons attend large group programs to meet other people, this evening's experience will focus explicitly on the acquaintance process. Using methods from encounter and gestalt awareness, group members will explore how they project themselves to others, how others perceive them and discover new ways of moving into friendships and social contact.

BIG SUR INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS

Introduction to Esalen programs are designed for, but not limited to, people who have not previously been to Esalen/Big Sur. The workshops center on encounter and gestalt, although additional opportunities will be available in other experiential areas such as movement, massage and sensory awareness. Rolf treatments will be available at an extra cost.

You Don't Have to Suffer to Feel Good — Harry Sloan & Lenore Lefer
Weekend workshop $85

Frequently participants come to workshops believing the only way to get in touch with themselves is through pain, anguish and earth-shaking breakthroughs. Growing becomes humorless and heavy and so does life. This weekend will tap into the absurdity of conflicts and problems, offering the participant an opportunity to laugh at himself and the seemingly tragic fate he has chosen. Lenore and Harry are fun to be with and have promised to dance with each and every one of the participants.

[S.F.] July 7-9
Couples' Workshop — Bob & Marilyn Kriegel
Weekend workshop $100 per couple

[S.F.] July 8
Play, Touch & Talk: Aboard the S.S. Vallejo — Marion Saltman
One day workshop $20

A day to get in touch with our spontaneity and playfulness, as well as time for talk and sharing of experiences. The workshop will take place on the S.S. Vallejo, a houseboat in Sausalito. Bring one item for a potluck picnic lunch; drinks will be provided. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] Starting July 13
Drop-in Encounter — Robert Cromey & Staff
Ongoing program
$6 per person, each Thursday

This encounter program is open to anyone, on a continuing or an occasional basis. Persons are encouraged to use this series as a place to deal with immediate personal conflicts and as a follow-up for other workshop programs. 10 a.m. to 12 noon, every Thursday morning. 1757 Union Street, San Francisco.

BIG SUR OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAMS

The Open Residence Program is intended for those with some experience in encounter and gestalt. The focus of the group will depend on its own interest and leader availability. Among possible offerings are encounter, gestalt, meditation, instruction in yoga, Arica awareness training, massage, arts and crafts, movement and sensory awareness.

Saying Yes to Life
Joseph Fabry
Weekend workshop $50

Using group techniques and creative activities developed from Viktor Frankl's logotherapy, this workshop aims to establish an atmosphere of trust in which each participant can: clarify his life goals and take positive steps toward achieving them; break the stranglehold of failure; take command of his life; honestly explore his feelings and talk about what is most important to him; establish solid relationships with others.

[S.F.] July 14-16
Encounter for Singles
Robert Cromey
Weekend workshop $50

A workshop for unattached persons. Please state sex and age on application. Limited to 40 persons.

[S.F.] July 15
Psychodrama
Lew & Donna Yablonsky
One day workshop $18

Psychodrama, involving the spontaneous acting-out of real personal and social situations, is one of the most effective and versatile of group interaction techniques. In this intensive session, the group as a whole will be introduced to the basic roles of psychodrama – "protagonist", "auxiliary", and others. Each participant will be given the opportunity to become involved as actively and creatively as his own needs and preferences demand. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] July 21-23
Refocusing Energy
Bob & Marilyn Kriegel
Weekend workshop $85

This workshop will combine the interpersonal aspects of the encounter group with the individual awareness focus achieved through gestalt and psychosynthesis techniques. Methods will also be used for integrating insights gained in the workshop into the participants' outside lives.

[S.F.] July 21-23
Encounter Toward Vitality
Harry Sloan
Weekend workshop $50

The direction of this encounter group workshop will be toward eliciting and expressing the latent vitality that is in all of us. A broad range of techniques will be utilized including massage, gestalt, psychosynthesis and meditation. Emphasis will be placed on using the group in a supportive way so that each member can better contact the life within and around himself.

[B.S.] July 21-23
For Homosexuals
Stanley Freitas & Owen Garner
Weekend workshop $85

We are experiencing the beginning of a homosexual revolution in which the resolution of conflict has become one of the most critical areas for our survival as individuals. This weekend workshop will be geared toward a resolution of that conflict.

[B.S.] July 23-28
Renascence
Michael Butler
Five-day workshop $215

Each of us carries within him, buried beneath layers of psychic and physical tension, the fertile seed of a new self. This workshop will use many of the Esalen body-oriented and psychological techniques to allow participants to experience that seed center of self and nourish it.

[S.F.] Thursday, July 27
Looking-Talking-Touching: For Couples
Gerald Smith
Single evening event
$5 per couple; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

A variety of verbal and nonverbal experiences for couples (not necessarily married).

[B.S.] July 28-30
Divorce: A Creative Experience
Robert Cromey & Esalen Staff

A group for the divorced, those contemplating divorce or those whose lives have been touched by divorce.

[S.F.] July 28-30
Couples' Workshop
Michael Butler & Simone Surpin
Weekend workshop $110 per couple

Many couples have a lingering suspicion that there is more to be had from a relationship than what they are getting. How do our games limit us? How can we better grow together? We will explore the thesis that a couple is not an institution; it is two unique individuals who are free to be close to each other.

[S.F.] July 28-30
Open Encounter
Art & Janica Fox
Weekend workshop $50

To encounter, talk and play. Bring a favorite thing, i.e. musical instrument, rug, food, etc.

[B.S.] July 30-August 4

8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

[B.S.] August 4-6
Encounter for Singles
Robert Cromey & Esalen Staff
Weekend workshop $95

This workshop is for single people who want to find new ways to form new friendships. The group will explore feelings and emotions arising from being single. Encounter, gestalt and fantasy techniques will be used to help members of the group to enjoy themselves and other people more fully.

[S.F.] August 4-6
The Boundaries of Liberation: For Men & Women
Jacqueline Doyle Larcombe
Weekend workshop $50

Through encounter, gestalt and psychodrama techniques we will examine the issues which underlie our choice of mode (from traditional to liberated) for relating to our friends and mates. The boundaries of our concept of self and sex role will be explored.

BIG SUR EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN PROGRAMS

Experience of Esalen programs are designed to join staff members and participants in an experience of each other surrounded by as little or as much structure as a unique mix of people wish to create. The resources of Big Sur are available — baths, scenery and the far-ranging talents of our staff — group leaders, masseurs, artists, craftsmen, musicians and students of arcane lore. These nonprogrammed programs are an opportunity to explore and to interact or simply to retreat from the world for a week. Come and be with us.

July 2-7 Five-day workshop $150
July 14-16 Weekend workshop $65
August 6-11 Five-day workshop $150
August 18-20 Weekend workshop $65

[S.F.] August 5
Teenagers & Parents: Two World Views – Two Patterns of Living
Gunver Jackson assisted by Daniel Jackson

One day workshop
$20 for one parent and one teenager; $8 for each additional family member.

Can we complement each other to live a reality of co-existing consciousness? We are all confined to the same space, but perception is distinctly different for each of us. A day for teenagers and parents to enter a place where we see the gap as a change in thought patterns and consciousness. Rather than narrowing the gap, we will build bridges with deep relaxation and gestalt awareness. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] Monday, August 7
New Ways of Meeting New People
Robert Cromey

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

A workshop for couples, using videotape feedback.

[S.F.] August 19-26
Encountering in the High Sierras
Walt & Maurica Anderson, Brad Foster

Seven-day outdoor workshop $105

Outdoors in the High Sierras, we will work with yoga, meditation, psychodrama and encounter. The group will meet at a designated roadhead point Saturday, hike to the campsite on Sunday and return the following Saturday. Mountaineering experience is not required, but applicants should be in good condition and capable of hiking. Details will be supplied on application.

[B.S.] August 20-25
Encounter Toward Vitality
Harry Sloan

Five-day workshop $215

(See S.F. workshop description, July 21-23, above.)

[S.F.] August 25-27
Exploring Self Acceptance
David Schiffman

Weekend workshop $50

Our focus will be the creation of a more positive and open-ended self concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role playing, fantasy and encounter techniques, the participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis will be on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities and latent powers as a means of achieving productive, creative functioning.

[B.S.] August 27-September 1
More
Michael Butler

Five-day workshop $215

Each of us is capable of more... emotional creativity, aliveness, sensuality. The methods of this workshop will be body disciplines, encounter and gestalt tools, and the life positive forces in the Esalen environment. Its goal: to experience "more", not just for a week at Esalen, but wherever we happen to be.

[S.F.] Wednesday, August 30
Re-Evaluation Counseling: An Introduction
William Pennell Rock

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Re-evaluation counseling is a new method of psychotherapy for what might be called the normal American neurotic. It is based upon the healing power of discharging painful emotion in a situation of total affirmation. Its method is called co-counseling and consists in structured, but nonauthoritative meetings between two individuals, each acting as counselor (or listener) and client in turn. The evening will consist of an elementary description of the theory and demonstrations of some techniques.

[B.S.] September 1-3
A Weekend Workshop in Self-Awareness
David Schiffman

Weekend workshop $85

This workshop is based on the awareness that personal growth is often blocked because we don't see ourselves clearly, as others see us, or act as we really feel. The object of this seminar is to create a supportive atmosphere whereby the participant can experience himself at a deeper, more meaningful level than daily life provides. Techniques of psychodrama, encounter and gestalt will be used.

[S.F.] September 2-4
Celebration: A Holiday Weekend
Betty Fuller & Dub Leigh

Extended Residential workshop $95 including room and meals

(See workshop description above, June 30-July 2.) Begins 10:00 a.m. Saturday and ends after lunch on Monday.

[B.S.] September 3-8
Peeling the Ego Body
Simone Surpin

Five-day workshop $215

Our bodies are deprived of free energy in proportion to chronic muscular tension; similarly our essences are bound by layers of fear and desire. This workshop will focus on unwrapping these extrinsics, primarily using encounter, gestalt and structural integration. Essence building, through exercises centering on grounding life energy, will be integral to this process.

[B.S.] September 3-8
Divorce: A Creative Experience
Robert Cromey

Five-day workshop $215

See workshop description, July 28-30.

[S.F.] Starting September 6
Sexual Politics
Lois Brien, Ani Mander & Cyndy Werthman

Ongoing workshop $50

What it means to be a woman today; how this definition affects our sense of identity and our role in society. The philosophical, political and social implications of sex roles; tuning into our sexuality, exploring the power within us and letting it express itself in society; the creative impulse in women. Gestalt awareness techniques will be used to facilitate group discussion and interaction. 5 Wednesday evenings, September 6 through October 4. For women only.

[S.F.] September 8-10
Refocusing Energy
Bob & Marilyn Kriegel

Weekend workshop $50

(See description, July 21-23, above.)

[S.F.] September 9
Encounter for Singles
Robert Cromey

A workshop for unattached persons. Please state sex and age on application. Limited to 40 persons. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] September 14-17
Getting High on Mountains
Walt & Maurica Anderson

Three day outdoor workshop $65

During this short but intensive outing we will (a) do some hiking and some resting, (b) work with yoga, meditation and sensory awakening exercises, and (c) encounter around a campfire. Mountaineering experience not required, but applicants should be in good physical condition. Group meets Thursday night at a designated roadhead point in the mountains. Details supplied on request.

[S.F.] September 15-17
Creative Process for Couples
Don & Barbara Clark

Weekend workshop $115 per couple

The creative process can be used to express the ever-changing self and strengthen growth potential in a loving relationship. We will use various creative media including paint, words, clay, movement, silence and massage. Each couple should bring some favorite music.

[B.S.] September 17-22
For Homosexuals
Stan Freitas & Owen Garner

Five-day workshop $215

See B.S. workshop description, July 21-23.

[B.S.] September 17-22
Breaking Out
Michael Butler

Five-day workshop $215

Our bodies are imprisoned by armoring and tension. Our life styles and life affirming emotions are strangled by inhibitions and "shoulds". This workshop will use the body concepts developed by Ida Rolf in conjunction with encounter and gestalt techniques to contact the vital core in each of us and to let it breathe.

[S.F.] Wednesday, September 20
Coming Out of Divorce
Gerald Smith

$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

There are emotional stages to working through divorce. To snag at any of these stages can prevent moving on to a fuller life. This will be a lecture and an opportunity to ask questions. It will not be a small group discussion.

[B.S.] September 22-24
More Joy
William Schutz & Esalen Staff

Weekend workshop $100

This weekend workshop, focused on encounter, will be divided into groups led by Esalen staff leaders. William Schutz will lead the opening and closing sessions and rotate as co-leader.

[S.F.] September 22-24
Encounter for Singles over Thirty
Robert Cromey

Weekend workshop $50

A workshop for unattached persons over 30. Please state sex and age on application. Limited to 40 persons.

[S.F.] September 22-24
Communication Games
Art Hough

Weekend workshop $50

A workshop to uncover and work with communication problems through games. These communication games – lasting from one minute to three hours – are used to heighten the communication experience, improve habits of listening, feedback, empathy, spontaneity and awareness, and to loosen the deeper communication blocks that result from hidden dogmatism rigidity and risk-refusal. This is not encounter; it is for people concerned with improving their communication.

[B.S.] September 29-October 1
Couples' Workshop
Michael Butler & Simone Surpin

Weekend workshop $150

[S.F.] September 30
Psychodrama
Lew & Donna Yablonsky

One day workshop $18

(See workshop description, July 15, above.)

[S.F.] October 6-8
The Psychology of Over-Eating: A Food Liberation Workshop
Leonard & Lil Pearson

Weekend workshop $65

Participants will explore their particular way of utilizing food as a response to emotional needs. Workshop experiences will deal with eating fantasies, food and feeding, how hunger is felt and what occasions provoke it. Alternate ways of dealing with hunger and the tyranny of food will be explored with each participant.

WORKSHOPS FOR PROFESSIONALS

Related Programs for Professionals

Summer Institutes for Educators: As part of its continuing interest in developing new approaches to learning and the education of the whole person, Esalen is offering its third annual series of programs for educators, parents and students. This series consists of 16 workshops, at Big Sur and San Francisco, between July 24 and August 20. See page 2 for complete information.

Summer Institute in the Psychology of Human Consciousness: This five-week program, to be held July 21-August 27, will focus on techniques and disciplines concerned with extending consciousness as taught by a faculty of leading researchers and teachers in the fields of psychology, religion and philosophy. See page 2 for complete information.

Workshop for Counselors: A special training program in a variety of affective techniques and innovative counseling methods for counselors, psychologists, social workers and ministers. The program will be held July 31-August 11 near San Francisco. See page 3.

[S.F.] June 30-July 2

A Workshop for Change Agents

Stewart Shapiro

Weekend workshop $55

In today's increasingly complex and independent world more and more of our time is spent in organizational life. It is through the humanistic viability of our organizations and institutions that our society will succeed or fail in the crucial tests that lie ahead. This workshop will be oriented toward tasks, goals and personal growth of those who wish to be active in organizational change. There will be discussions and demonstrations of strategies and models for change in various systems including individuals, small groups, organizations and communities. Change agents for this workshop can be individuals or teams in business management, colleges, public schools, government, social agencies, volunteer organizations, churches or other community organizations.

[B.S.] August 20-25

Skills Workshop for Group Leaders

Jacqueline Doyle Larcombe

Five-day workshop $215

The focus of this workshop will be on providing an intensive group experience, introducing group techniques and enhancing the transfer of these skills for persons already leading groups in various settings. Techniques used will be drawn from psychodrama, encounter, gestalt, bioenergetics, psychomotor and fantasy.

[S.F.] August 21-25

Theme-Centered Interactional Group Leading: A Training Workshop

Frank Rubenfeld, Paul Hirschfield

Five-day residential workshop $180 including room and board

This workshop will enable participants to experience and learn the theme-centered interactional method of group leading, a unique approach encompassing gestalt, encounter, sensitivity and task-oriented group techniques. The focus of this process is on the individual, the group as a whole, and a particular theme to which the group addresses itself. It is most relevant in settings where facilitation of both group feelings and problem solving are important. This will be a training workshop for professionals involved in group leading in the community and organizational development. Begins 10 a.m., Monday.

[S.F.] Wednesday, August 30

Re-Evaluation Counseling: An Introduction

William Pennell Rock

Single evening event $3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitatian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Re-evaluation counseling is a new method of psychotherapy for what might be called the normal American neurotic. It is based upon the healing power of discharging painful emotion in a situation of total affirmation. Its method is called co-counseling and consists in structured, but nonauthoritative meetings between two individuals, each acting as counselor (or listener) and client in turn. The evening will consist of an elementary description of the theory and demonstrations of some techniques.

[S.F.] September 16

Dying & Death as a Psychedelic Experience

Dr. Stanislav Grof

One-day workshop $18

We will discuss an experimental program exploring the potential of LSD-assisted psychotherapy for relieving depression, physical pain and fear of death in patients with terminal cancer. Observations collected during 15 years of LSD research will be used to demonstrate the similarity, if not identity, between the experiences in psychedelic sessions and the altered states of consciousness accompanying and following clinical death. A hypothetical picture of the experiences accompanying death will be drawn; some of the existing "maps" – the ancient books of the dead and manuals for mystery religions – will be discussed in this connection. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] September 28-October 1

Sexuality & Self: For Professionals & Student Professionals

Don Clark

Extended residential weekend $120 including room and meals

This experiential study group investigates sexual conformity and integrity as they influence energy level and self-concept. Cultural prohibitions and professionals' responses to "deviant" sexuality are examined. Fantasy, massage and other techniques will be used to alert participants to their own attitudes, behavior and feelings. When applying, please state professional background and reasons for wishing to attend. Begins 8:00 p.m. Thursday and ends Sunday afternoon.

[S.F.] October 6-8

Professional Training in Psychosynthesis: Intuitive Awareness

Robert & Donna Gerard

Weekend workshop $75

Focus will be on techniques designed to actualize intuitive potentials. Intuition cuts through emotional distortions and intellectual rationalizations to reveal the essence behind appearances. Intuition is the power to perceive directly "What is" and "What can be," serving as an inner guide in human relationships and life situations. We will explore systematic ways of maximizing our intuitive skills and practical methods of helping others to develop their intuition. (For a complete definition of psychosynthesis, see page 4.)

[S.F.] Starting October 10

Psychosynthesis Training Series for Professionals

Jim & Susan Vargiu

Six Tuesday evenings plus a weekend $180

A program designed for psychotherapists, educators, counselors, and others involved in the helping professions. The group will explore the fundamentals of psychosynthesis, theoretically and experientially, in a coordinated program designed to give each participant both the understanding and the personal experience needed to begin to utilize and apply psychosynthesis within his own field. We will work together so that each can see the process of psychosynthesis at work, both in himself and in the others. There will be assignments and exercises to complete between meetings. Further individual work during the six week period can be arranged. (For a complete definition of psychosynthesis, see page 4.)

Six Tuesday evenings, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., October 10 through November 14. Weekend workshop, November 18-19. For application form, contact Esalen/San Francisco.

[B.S.] October 22-27

Gestalt Awareness Training for Health Professionals

Jack Rosenberg, D.D.S.

Five-day workshop $275

This workshop is designed for people in the health professions – dental, medical and allied fields, including nurses, technicians, and assistant; spouses are particularly encouraged to attend.

A factor in health care, often forgotten, is the health of those who provide care for others, much as the cobbler is the last to get shoes. The purpose of this workshop is to allow the health professional to take time to explore and take stock of his direction in both aspects of his life – his practice and inner life – in hope of developing a deeper significance, awareness and pleasure in both. Gestalt and body awareness will be used. Emphasis will be placed on ways to apply gestalt awareness techniques to the participants' practice. Sessions in hatha yoga and movement will be included.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

DON CLARK has worked with discussion groups, psychotherapy groups and encounter groups for the past 12 years. Dr. Clark is in private practice as a clinical psychologist in the Bay Area. His most recent book is Humanistic Teaching.

DONNA GERARD, drama teacher and therapist, for the past fourteen years has focused her private practice on the development and release of creative energies. Both she and her husband are interested in providing systematic methods for evoking transcendental awareness.

ROBERT GERARD is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Los Angeles. He has been principal innovator in the field of psychosynthesis for over fifteen years. He collaborated with Dr. Assagioli on the writing of the book, Psychosynthesis, and has developed new therapeutic techniques, including the use of depth imagery, symbolic visualization, intuitive awareness and creative meditation. As president of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis, Dr. Gerard is especially interested in the integration of American, European and Eastern approaches to psychological growth.

STANISLAV GROF is a research psychiatrist currently on a fellowship at the Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore. During the past decade he has conducted numerous studies with LSD subjects in Prague. He has analyzed records from more than 2,600 sessions of psychiatric patients, scientists, philosophers, artists, theologians and persons facing death with special emphasis placed on experiences and insights related to basic ontological questions.

PAUL HIRSCHFIELD is in the private practice of clinical and consulting psychology. He has a combination practice of group, individual, couples and family therapy. He is also intensively involved in organization and agency consultation and development. Currently, he is the Director of the Workshop Institute for Living-Learning in Atlanta, Georgia.

JACQUELINE DOYLE LARCOMBE is a psychologist and former Esalen resident fellow, trained by William Schutz. Her background includes teaching and clinical work. An Esalen staff member, she has done encounter work here and abroad. For the past year she has served as director of group training and a member of the Board of Greenhouse, a new Boston growth center.

WILLIAM PENNELL ROCK has taught at several universities including Banaras Hindu University in India and the University of California at Santa Barbara. He has done extensive research on Heidegger and on the Upanishad, and is presently affiliated with the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

JACK ROSENBERG is a practicing dentist and gestalt therapist. His interest for the past ten years has been giving the experience of gestalt awareness and yoga psychology to the health professions. His doctoral thesis in psychology relates immediate video feedback and facial massage for facilitating psychotherapy.

FRANK RUBENFELD is a clinical psychologist, and is on the faculty of the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy. In addition to his private practice of individual and group therapy, he has led gestalt training workshops at Anthos in New York City.

STEWART SHAPIRO is Professor of Education at Santa Barbara. In addition to his workshops in higher education, conflict resolution, positive experience and change agentry, he is a consultant to the Ford Foundation's program in confluent education at UCSB.

JIM and SUSAN VARGIU are the directors of the Psychosynthesis Institute. They underwent didactic training at the Instituto di Psicosintesi, Florence, Italy with Roberto Assagioli, and have worked with him over the past eight years. They have lectured and given workshops in this country and in Europe. Presently they are training people in the helping professions in the use of psychosynthesis, working both individually and in groups with people interested in using psychosynthesis for their own development, and writing and publishing articles on psychosynthesis.

TRANSPERSONAL

Transpersonal generally refers to transcendence, mystical experience, peak experience and parapsychological phenomena. The following workshops will explore insights and research into the physical and psychological aspects of such experience.

[S.F.] June 30-July 2
The Human Biocomputer
John Lilly

Weekend workshop $50

As a result of his work with Oscar Ichazo, John Lilly has expanded his mind-brain-body biocomputer model of human to include the "essence". Using methods derived from Eastern and Western mystical traditions as well as modern science, this program will work to move participants toward essence. (Recommended reading: The Human Biocomputer.)

[B.S.] July 7-9
Bio-Feedback Training
Joe Kamiya

Weekend workshop $85

This workshop will discuss the relationship of brainwave bio-feedback to meditation. Emphasis will be placed on differences among individuals, and specific altered states of consciousness will be explored.

[S.F.] July 8
Centering
Robert Nadeau

One day workshop $15

We will start with centering practices in the physical dimension, move to centering as mental awareness, and culminate in meditation with centering as a focus for spiritual unfolding. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] Starting July 11
Aikido & Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau

Ongoing series
One meeting per week:
$15 per month (general and student)
Two meetings per week:
$25 per month (general),
$20 per month (student)

A continuous program of instruction in energy awareness as used for centering, movement, healing, concentration and relaxation, and in aikido as a physical expression of that awareness in a self-defense form, with emphasis on harmony and energy in motion. This course will meet each week; participation can be in one or two sessions per week, with tuition based on the schedule of participation. Tuesday, 8-9:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10-12 noon.

[B.S.] July 14-16
Gnosis: Divine Wisdom
Huston Smith

Weekend workshop $85

"Blessed is the man who has found wisdom" (Proverbs 3). Head trips we have had enough of, but can there be a knowledge that saves because it enlists all that we are; knowledge that is a way, that works and transforms and wounds our nature as the plow wounds the soil? Films in the evening – Tibetan, Sufi, Krishnamurti.

[B.S.] July 16-21
Personal Exploration of Self or "Trust in God, but Tie Your Camel First"
James & Dorothy Fadiman, Robert Ornstein, Faith Hornbacher & David Sobel

Five-day workshop $245

The design of this workshop is to expose participants to several personal growth techniques and to share with them practical tools and exercises which they can take home and use in their daily lives. The workshop will include: sitting meditation, bio-feedback, guided meditation on Sufi stories, psychosynthesis and self-concept modification, channeling energy through form, light energy, self-concept expression in art (bring simple art materials), "structural patterning in stillness and motion," alternative medicine, nutrition, health and care of the body.

[S.F.] Monday, July 17
The Two Meanings of Sufism
Huston Smith

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Sufism as the esoteric core of all spirituality (a la Idries Shah) and Sufism as the mystical dimension of Islam. The evening will focus primarily on the latter with special attention to the contemporary school of Frithjof Schuon, Titus Burckhardt, Hossein Nasr. Huston Smith's new film, "The Sufi Way", sequel to his earlier documentary on Tibetan Buddhism, will be shown.

[S.F.] July 21-23
A Workshop in Fantasy Therapy
Bernard S. Aaronson

Weekend workshop $60

Fantasy is one of the more powerful techniques for meeting, confronting, and working through problems. This workshop will focus on working with fantasy images derived from classical fantasy situations as well as spontaneous images arising from each participant. The fantasies and their implications will be worked out.

[B.S.] July 23-27
The Way of Wisdom & The Way of Powers
Alan Watts

Four-day workshop $220

By various disciplines, spiritual, psychological and physical, we can expand consciousness and increase control of ourselves and of the world, and, in general, go higher on the scale of evolution. This is a development of powers which is different from and does not necessarily involve the flowering of wisdom or liberation from the vicious circle of birth-and-death. The two ways are so often confused that we shall study the views of Mahayana Buddhism and Vedanta on the point, and see how they apply to our current spiritual quests. The workshop will combine both discussion and meditation sessions.

[B.S.] July 28-30
A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

Weekend workshop $85

"My work is living and teaching a way of life which gradually develops the capacity to live in the here and now and to be all there for whatever life brings. Working with the traditional methods of meditation and aikido, and the contemporary methods of gestalt and sensory awareness, this workshop will introduce participants to a Western approach to centering."

[S.F.] July 29-30
The Art of Madness & The Madness of Art
Roland Fischer, John Perry & Loren Mosher

Residential weekend workshop $70
including room and meals

This workshop will center on the Art of Madness and be a celebration of the Madness of Art. It will reassert the spirit of fiesta, which allows us to be released from time. John Perry will focus on cultural re-synthesis, visionary experience, and the messianism of the schizophrenic process. Loren Mosher will explore the role of experience and schizophrenia in creativity. Roland Fischer will impose on the workshop a surrealistic experience structured with 200 color slides and synchronized with the silence of loudness (which is founded on rock).

Begins 10 a.m., Saturday and ends after lunch on Sunday. (A more detailed prospectus will be supplied on request.)

[B.S.] August 6-11
Five Days with Claudio Naranjo
$245

There will be times for pushing beyond the ordinary limits of courage and authenticity in communication. Times for various sorts of meditation and times for letting go in many ways. Gestalt episodes may occur in the course of group meetings, but participants are not invited to expect an individual therapeutic session. Please bring notebook and pencil for the keeping of a journal throughout the experience. Rosalyn Landman Shaffer will be working with Claudio during the week.

[B.S.] August 11-13
Tuning Your Energy Body
Robert Nadeau

Weekend workshop $85

All of us have moments when we are balanced: when we are centered in ourselves yet open and at one with the richness of life around us. Those moments do not have to be rare accidents. We exist in a vast reservoir of energy that we can learn to tune into and use to enrich our lives on every level. This workshop is an experience in the application of this life energy to relaxation, concentration, healing and life in general.

[S.F.] August 12
Modern Approaches to Hypnotherapy
Emmett Miller

One day workshop $20

This workshop is designed to familiarize participants with the latest approaches to hypnotherapy, utilizing the increased state of receptivities towards programming and the control of automatic nervous system functions through the state of hypnosis. All participants will experience the phenomena of hypnosis, and some individuals may learn self-hypnosis by the end of the session. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] August 17
Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau

One day workshop $15

Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude, mental concentration, centering and moving from center. Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] August 20-25
A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

Five-day workshop $215

(See workshop description, July 28-30, above.)

[B.S.] August 20-25
The New Psychology of Consciousness
Robert Ornstein

Five-day workshop $215

There is a new concept of man arising from a synthesis of the esoteric traditions and modern science. It includes possibilities of self-mastery beyond the usual limits, capacities for self-regulation of brain and body, for contacting subtle signals within ourselves, in others and on earth. Participants will be offered a combination of intellectual and experiential inquiry into meditation, autogenic training, bio-feedback, biological rhythms and into subtle forces such as "paranormal" communication and subtle energies such as Prana and the ionization of the air.

[S.F.] Wednesday, August 23
Transpersonal Exercises
James Fadiman

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

An evening of doing. We will begin with sensory awareness, then interpersonal and meditational or centering exercises, and finally work with psychosynthesis and transpersonal experiences. Some exercises may require paper and pencil.

[S.F.] Monday, August 28
Biological Rhythms & Expanded Consciousness
Gay Luce

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

Our physical and psychic states depend on our time structure as well as our physical structure. We are linked to the cycles of the earth and the planetary systems beyond by invisible and subtle biological rhythms. We exist in this continual flux, in a sea of the rhythms of gravity, electromagnetic fields, light waves, all which have a direct effect on our health and well being. Gay Luce will discuss these biological rhythms and our relationship to them and our environment.

[S.F.] September 2-3
Working with Sufi Materials
Claudio Naranjo

Weekend workshop $50

Sufi stories and other writings are tools designed for uses and effect far beyond either entertainment or intellectual understanding. The purpose of this weekend will be to introduce participants to the stories' less obvious possibilities. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

[S.F.] Starting September 7
Art & Meditation: El Topo
William Pennell Rock

Ongoing series $45

This course will be an attempt to bring about a greater involvement in contemporary art, emphasizing new modes of aesthetic participation. It will have as its focus the film El Topo, a contemporary way of the hero, the emerging identity of the new man. The course is intended for men and women to discover each his own "way" and contemporary reality through meditation and group work on the film's mythological imagery.

Recommended reading: The Hero With a Thousand Faces by Joseph Campbell. Four Wednesday evenings, 8-10:30 p.m., September 7-28. Limited to 10 participants.

[S.F.] September 8-10
Energy Awareness & Meditation
Robert Nadeau

Residential weekend workshop $75 including room and meals

Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude, mental concentration, centering and moving from center. We will experience life energy and its use in spiritual growth and healing and as a tool for higher awareness.

[B.S.] September 8-10
The Human Biocomputer
John Lilly

Weekend seminar $95

As a result of his work with Oscar Ichazo, John Lilly has expanded his mind-brain-body biocomputer model of human to include the "essence". Using methods derived from Eastern and Western mystical traditions as well as modern science, this program will work to move participants toward essence. (Recommended reading: The Human Biocomputer; The Center of the Cyclone.)

[S.F.] Thursday, September 14
LSD & the Cosmic Game
Dr. Stanislav Grof

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

During the last 15 years, Dr. Grof has conducted over 2,000 LSD sessions with psychiatric patients, terminal cancer patients and "normal" volunteers. He has reviewed and summarized those parts of the sessions where the subjects experienced insights into basic ontological problems, such as: "Who are we?", "What is the nature of the universe?" Dr. Grof will discuss a surprisingly consistent metaphysical system emerging from this psychedelic work and compare it with existing mystical and religious frameworks and revolutionary discoveries of 20th Century science.

[S.F.] September 16
Dying & Death as a Psychedelic Experience
Dr. Stanislav Grof

One day workshop $18

We will discuss an experimental program exploring the potential of LSD-assisted psychotherapy for relieving depression, physical pain and fear of death in patients with terminal cancer. Observations collected during 15 years of LSD research will be used to demonstrate the similarity, if not identity, between the experiences of psychedelic sessions and the altered states of consciousness accompanying and following clinical death. A hypothetical picture of the experiences accompanying death will be drawn; some of the existing "maps" – the ancient books of the dead and manuals for mystery religions – will be discussed in this connection. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] September 17-29
The Human Biocomputer

Introduction to Transpersonal

Robert Frager

Weekend workshop $85

A weekend of meditation, contemplation and relaxation. We will do light exercises, meditation and chanting in the mornings and evenings, and transpersonal games such as yoga tag in the afternoons. Also included will be exposure to psychosynthesis techniques and aikido.

[S.F.] October 6-8

Extending Awareness through Hypnosis

Lee Pulos

Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will combine the approaches of hypnosis and psychosynthesis. Hypnosis and self-hypnosis will be taught so that participants can focus in on themselves through hypnotically induced dreams, automatic writing and drawings under hypnosis. These self-discoveries will be extended through guided fantasies, symbolic imagery and learning how to tune in to the "inner theater" of one's unconsious.

ARICA TRAINING

The Arica Training offers a system of human development carefully structured to produce a total integration of mind, emotion and body. It is possible to learn how to reach and maintain a place of peace, joy and harmony – the natural condition of man – his heritage.

Workshops are designed as an introduction to the total process and are experiences within themselves. The work is done in groups, insuring the support and high energy of a number of people working together. Arica exercises have been gathered from ancient and modern systems, refined and simplified. They include physical movement, chanting, music, meditation – all with a foundation of natural rhythm.

The Arica staff consists of a group of people who have completed the basic process, plus additional training, allowing them to pass it to others. Workshop leaders will be drawn from that staff.

Evening Introductions to Arica Training:
Thursday, August 3
Wednesday, September 13
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

GESTALT

Gestalt is an awareness-centered integrative process concentrating on how and not, rather than why and fantasies of past and future. The aim is to produce awareness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own untapped potential. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients", but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

Gestalt Programs in the Bay Area

For July, August and September the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco is continuing to hold its workshops in conjunction with Esalen. Consequently, no other brochure describing the Gestalt Institute's programs will be distributed. The ongoing Training Program is exclusively sponsored by the Gestalt Institute.

[S.F.] July 7-9
Larry Bloomberg, Richard Miller, et. al. Weekend workshop FREE

This meeting may become a playground-workshop polarity for those of you who want to risk for pleasure, for what pleases you at the moment. You are welcome who have a light heart, a simple soul, and nothing left to lose. Payment accepted in kindness. This workshop is planned for the country, so bring what you need like sleeping bags, food, flashlight. Workshop location will be sent with confirmation of reservation.

[S.F.] July 14-15
Open Gestalt
Lois Brien & Hal Gurish
Weekend workshop $60

Friday, 7 p.m. to 12 Midnight (10-12, leaderless small groups); Saturday, 10 a.m to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] July 14-16
Gestalt Plus
George & Judith Brown
Weekend workshop $50

A workshop for individuals and couples where the approaches of gestalt therapy are combined with techniques from psychosynthesis. The focus will be on re-owning energy and discovering new and alternative ways to be as individuals and in primal relationships. Emphasis will also be placed on what to do after leaving the workshop.

(Sponsored by Esalen Institute only.)

[S.F.] July 29
Gestalt in the Woods
Jack Downing & Cyndy Werthman
One-day workshop $35

Saturday, 10 a.m. through picnic dinner. (Bring food appropriate for barbecuing.)

[S.F.] August 5-6
New Aspects of Awareness: Tuning Up for Turning On Elaine Kepner & Bill & Ricky Woodson
Weekend workshop $60

Elaine, Bill and Ricky have recently completed the Arica awareness training in San Francisco and will share some of these integrative exercises with you. We will use gestalt and other awareness techniques to get in tune with our bodies, our emotions and our spirit. Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

[S.F.] August 11-13
Larry Bloomberg, Richard Miller, et. al. Weekend workshop FREE

(See workshop description, July 7-9, above.)

[S.F.] August 26
Body Awareness & Gestalt
Cyndy Werthman & George Downing
One day workshop $20

By combining the verbal techniques of gestalt with a number of nonverbal techniques of body awareness, we will explore new possibilities of deeper and increased self-expression. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

[S.F.] September 1-3
Larry Bloomberg, Richard Miller, et. al. weekend workshop FREE

(See workshop description, July 7-9, above.)

[S.F.] September 9-10
Poetry, Music & Gestalt Self-Awareness
Steve Schoen
Weekend workshop $50

Poetry and music formalize feeling, and give it structure in words and sound. Gestalt work, analagously, formalizes self-awareness increasingly to define the person's own inner structure. This workshop is designed for those who desire further self-unfolding, especially those sensitive to the unfolding which occurs in poetry and music. We shall focus on tone, pace, rhythm, balance, contrasts, dissonance and resolution as these apply both in the arts and the inner life. Bring your own poetry or music, if you wish, either to spark work on problems, or as a model of personal fulfillment. Saturday and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

[S.F.] September 15-16
Gestalt & Theatre Arts Workshop
Stella Resnick & Paul Rebillot
Weekend workshop $65

This workshop will be a gestalt and theatre art experience. We will develop our weekend experience through gestalt awareness, movement, music, rhythm and dance, within a theatre-game framework, in order to explore and enjoy our awareness, spontaneity, creativity and excitement. Friday, 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] September 15-16
Gestalt-Bioenergetics
Cyndy Werthman & Michael Conant
Weekend workshop $65

We'll use group bioenergetics and gestalt work to further deepen contact with ourselves and each other. Friday, 7:30 p.m. to 11 p.m.; Saturday, 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] Monday, September 18
The Practice of Awareness: Gestalt Exercises for Daily Use
John Enright
Single-evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

An introduction to gestalt awareness, with emphasis on techniques of awareness expansion that can be used ad. lib. in life situations. (No admission charge for people participating in Dr. Enright's September 23rd workshop.)

[S.F.] September 23
Open Gestalt
John Enright & Hal Gurish
One-day workshop $30

Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Fee includes admission to Monday evening (Sept. 18), The Practice of Awareness. See above.

[S.F.] Starting September 26
Gestalt Awareness as a Form of Meditation
John Enright & Ron Browning
Ongoing series $55 for the series

Most forms of meditation were developed in and for cultures quite different from ours. Though not intended as such originally, gestalt techniques turn out to be essentially meditation styles particularly suited to Western man here and now. In these meetings we will develop this potential, working out individualized programs of gestalt meditations to be done on a regular basis. Six consecutive Tuesday mornings, 10 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

[S.F.] September 30-October 1

Here & Now and Other Realities

Jack Rosenberg, Cyndy Werthman & Ann Armstrong

Weekend workshop $65

Gestalt and psychic experiences will be intertwined, and we'll discover what realities emerge. Saturday and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] September 30-October 1

Open Gestalt

Bob Hall

Weekend workshop $65

Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

[S.F.] Thursday, October 5

Gestalt Therapy Lecture-Demonstration

Stella Resnick

Single-evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

People often have their greatest difficulties as a result of negative process, i.e., leaving the here and now experience and using up their energy with unpleasant memories of the past, catastrophic anticipation of the future, and negative interpretations of the present. Dr. Resnick will address her talk and demonstration to how she works with Gestalt therapy to facilitate awareness of these unpleasant processes and to learn to replace the pain process with pleasurable and creative process.

PROFESSIONAL TRAINING PROGRAM

The Gestalt Institute of San Francisco, founded by the late Fritz Perls in 1967, is primarily a training institution. Programs in gestalt methods and applications are offered by the training faculty to practitioners with appropriate professional training and experience.

Gestalt therapy is a method of psychotherapy and way of living that emphasizes personal responsibility for one's life style. By achieving awareness of present ongoing behavior, the person becomes increasingly capable of self-responsibility and learns to make choices that enhance rather than limit his personal growth.

Program: The trainee begins by participating in experientially-oriented gestalt groups. As he acquires familiarity with both theory and practice, his program is specially designed to meet his needs and desires. Thus, individuals in the specifically therapeutic professions eventually follow a different program from those in the allied professions (educators, ministers, et. al.) As a Senior Trainee, the student co-leads training groups and Institute workshops. Membership in the Institute is then possible.

Eligibility: (1) the psychotherapeutic professions: (a) Qualified psychologists, psychiatrists and social workers, holding degrees in their fields. (b) Individuals engaged in or who have had two years of graduate training in the above disciplines. (2) Allied professions: individuals with training or experience in the arts, education, the ministry or other relevant fields.

Schedule: Training groups of approximately 12 people meet Wednesday afternoons and several Wednesday and Thursday evenings for a total of 46 hours each quarter. The next quarter will begin September 13.

Trainers: The training staff is drawn from the Institute Membership, as indicated in the biographical data below.

Fees: $300 per quarter.

Application Procedure:

1. Submit a letter describing your background and how you intend to use gestalt training to the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco, 1719 Union Street, San Francisco 94123.

2. Attend a special workshop for applicants only, led by the training director at the Gestalt Institute, at 3 p.m. September 5. Fee is $25, due at least one week before workshop date.

3. All inquiries concerning this program should be directed to Art Damond at the Gestalt Institute, (415) 776-4500.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

ANN ARMSTRONG, a clairvoyant from Sacramento, uses her abilities for deep level analysis of personal problems and for guidance in the growth of the inner life.

*LARRY BLOOMBERG has been a gestalt therapist for twenty years. He is currently a training therapist and director at the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco and the Gestalt Institute for Multiple Psychotherapy. Dr. Bloomberg is a recognized authority on the novels of Rex Stout and Anthony Powell and currently resides at Wilbur Hot Springs, Williams, California.

*LOIS BRIEN is a gestalt therapist, an organization consultant in the Bay Area and a member of the faculty of the California School of Professional Psychology.

GEORGE BROWN, an associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, is one of the first to combine gestalt and psychosynthesis in workshop and educational contexts. He is director of DRICE, the Ford Foundation Center in confluent education at the University of California at Santa Barbara and is the author of Human Teaching for Human Learning.

JUDITH BROWN has an international reputation as a gestalt awareness trainer and has been interested in the use of symbols as an expression of the creative unconscious. In addition to her own groups, she has co-led numerous groups with her husband.

RON BROWNING is a long-time Zen meditator, and trainee at the Gestalt Institute.

MICHAEL CONANT is a psychologist in private practice in Berkeley, where he does bioenergetic work and also draws on his past experience in gestalt therapy, hypnosis and behavior therapy. His particular interest is in helping individuals to become more assertive, more themselves.

ARTHUR DAMOND is an administrator, editor, and lover of fine wines.

GEORGE DOWNING, author of The Massage Book, uses an integral approach to body awareness combining massage, yoga and other disciplines.

*JACK DOWNING is a psychiatrist in private practice in Palo Alto. He is experienced in public health, structural integration, gestalt therapy and the Arica awareness training.

*JOHN ENRIGHT, Diplomate in Clinical Psychology, has been a gestalt trainer for ten years, and is developing new fields of application for the basic principles of gestalt.

HAL GURISH is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker in private and clinic practice in San Rafael and San Francisco.

*ROBERT HALL is a psychiatrist in private practice in Mill Valley who is also trained in the Rolf method of structural integration.

*ELAINE KEPNER is a clinical psychologist and gestalt therapist in private practice in San Francisco and Marin County.

ROBERT MARTIN, is an artist, pilot and gestalt therapist. He is a training therapist for and Past President of the Gestalt Therapy Institute of Los Angeles.

*RICHARD LOUIS MILLER: "Workshops, like individual therapy, are obsolete. Being together for specified hours in a workshop is as obsessive as growing from 3:00 to 3:50 on Wednesdays. We learn from each other by living with each other in community. Have you seen your guru making love?"

PAUL REBILLOT, formerly an assistant professor at San Francisco State College and Stanford University, founder of the Gestalt Fool Theatre, is presently resident Fool at Esalen/Big Sur.

ELAINE RAPP is a stone carver and innovative art therapist who has developed her own approach to unblocking the creative process in people who have never before thought of themselves as creative. She is an Associate Member of the N.Y. Institute of Gestalt Therapy and a member of the faculty at G.R.O.W. Training Institute in New York.

*STELLA RESNICK, a clinical psychologist and gestalt therapist, currently maintains a private practice in San Francisco employing individual therapy and innovative group work. She serves on the Board of Directors for the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco and is a faculty member of both the Marin Family Therapy Institute and the California School of Professional Psychology. Currently, her energy is directed toward developing methods by which to utilize theater techniques with gestalt to further self-discovery and creativity.

*JACK ROSENBERG is a practicing dentist and gestalt therapist. His interest for the past ten years has been giving the experience of gestalt awareness and yoga psychology to the health professions. His doctoral thesis in psychology relates immediate video feedback and facial massage for facilitating psychotherapy.

CAROLE ROSENBLATT was in the Spring Esalen Residence Program, 1970. She is part of both the administrative and teaching staffs at Big Sur.

FRANK RUBENFELD is a clinical psychologist and is on the faculty of the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy. He is now living in Berkeley where he has a private practice.

ILANA RUBENFELD is a pioneer psychotherapist who has integrated the Alexander Technique with gestalt therapy. She is an associate member of the N.Y. Institute of Gestalt Therapy. Besides her private practice, she has trained and led workshops at centers and colleges in New York and California.

*STEPHEN SCHOEN is a psychiatrist in private practice with individuals, families and groups in San Francisco and San Rafael; he is a member of the faculty of the California School of Professional Psychology, a classical pianist and creative writer.

BEVERLY SILVERMAN is a practitioner of structural integration and a co-leader, with her husband, of gestalt training groups.

*CYNTHIA WERTHMAN is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker in private practice in San Francisco and at the Marin Family Therapy Institute.

BILL WOODSON is a clinical psychologist and school consultant practicing in the Bay Area.

RICKY WOODSON is a social worker who has trained at the Gestalt Institute.

A Member of the Gestalt Institute.*

Gestalt Plus
George & Judith Brown
Five-day workshop $245
(See S.F. description, July 14-16, above.)

[B.S.] July 2-29
Gestalt & Structural Integration
Frank Rubenfeld
Four-week workshop $875
Structural Integration, while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body processes in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolf treatments as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.)

[B.S.] July 9-14
Integrating Alexander Technique & Gestalt
Ilana Rubenfeld & Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $265
Emotions and memories are expressed through bodily tension and postures. Alexander techniques, gestalt, sensory awareness and deep muscle work will be combined toward understanding and releasing these tensions.

[B.S.] July 16-21
Liberating Body & Stone: Stone Carving, the Alexander Technique & Gestalt Therapy
Ilana Rubenfeld & Elaine Rapp
Five-day workshop $275
Working in a totally unfamiliar medium, participants will have an opportunity to see how the creative part of themselves is locked into muscle tensions stored over a lifetime of emotional conditioning. At the same time, they will become aware of body attitudes which hold back the flow of creative energy. Over the course of the workshop, the Alexander technique, gestalt therapy and deep muscle work will be utilized as a way of contacting and expressing feelings about your work and yourself.

All materials and tools will be provided.

[B.S.] July 30-August 4
Gestalt Plus
George & Judith Brown
Five-day workshop $245
(See S.F. description, July 14-16, above.)

(See S.F. description, July 14-16, above.)

[B.S.] September 3-8
Another Aspect of Gestalt Training
Jack Downing
Five-day workshop $275
Utilizing familiar gestalt methods, combined with additional techniques from the Arica School of Oscar Ichazo, participants will work to increase their awareness of the concrete, actual world.

[B.S.] September 10-15
Advanced Gestalt Workshop
Robert Martin
Five-day workshop $215
The emphasis in this workshop will be on straight gestalt work with individuals who have prior gestalt experience. This workshop is not open to the novice. When making application, please include a statement of prior gestalt experience and the therapists with whom you have worked.

[B.S.] September 15-17
Another Aspect of Gestalt Training
Jack Downing
Weekend workshop $95
See description for workshop September 3-8

[B.S.] September 24-29
Gestalt Theater Workshop
Stella Resnick & Paul Rebillot
Five-day workshop $245
Through a combination of gestalt awareness methods, improvisational drama, Grotowski methods and theater games, participants will focus both on self-awareness and contacting their creative energies. We will work toward being and "doing" ourselves with awareness and deliberateness rather than by default, and toward using our uniqueness to enhance rather than to detract from our experience.

[B.S.] October 22-27
Gestalt Awareness Training for Health Professionals
Jack Rosenberg, D.D.S.
Five-day workshop $275
This workshop is designed for people in the health professions – dental, medical and allied fields, including nurses, technicians, and assistants; spouses are particularly encouraged to attend.

A factor in health care, often forgotten, is the health of those who provide care for others, much as the cobbler is the last to get shoes. The purpose of this workshop is to allow the health professional to take time to explore and take stock of his direction in both aspects of his life – his practice and inner life – in hope of developing a deeper significance, awareness and pleasure in both. Gestalt and body awareness will be used. Emphasis will be placed on ways to apply gestalt awareness techniques to the participants' practice. Sessions in hatha yoga and movement will be included.

[B.S.] November 5-December 1
Gestalt & Structural Integration
Esalen Staff
Four-week workshop $950
(See workshop description, July 2-29, above.)

THE HUMAN BODY

Body Awareness: An Introduction
George Downing & Anne Kent Rush
Single evening event [FREE]
8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

[S.F.] July 7-9
Yoga and Somatology
Eleanor Criswell & Thomas Hanna
Weekend workshop $50

We will explore the relationship between somatology, the new science of the soma (mind/body), and the ancient practices of raja yoga, the yoga of consciousness. Bio-feedback (EEG), optokinetic training, and other somatic training techniques will be used to enable you to re-experience your primordial unified state. A theoretical framework of body knowledge will be provided. Wear comfortable clothes.

[S.F.] July 8
Centering Robert Nadeau
One day workshop $15

We will start with centering practices in the physical dimension, move to centering as mental awareness, and culminate in meditation with centering as a focus for spiritual unfolding. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] July 9
The Being Bodies Ian Grand
One day workshop $18

A day to explore the mystery of our being bodies and how we use ourselves to discover (or hide) the meaning of our incarnation. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] July 9-14
Integrating Alexander Technique & Gestalt Ilana Rubenfeld & Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $265

Emotions and memories are expressed through bodily tension and postures. Alexander Technique, gestalt, sensory awareness and deep muscle work will be combined toward understanding and releasing these tensions.

[B.S.] July 9-14
Washing the Body
Simone Surpin
Five-day workshop $215

This workshop will center on washing and waking the body-mind. Cleansing tools will include placing music into the body, aikido techniques, chanting, Arica gym, gestalt and guided fantasy. With the body as the experiential teacher, we will explore parallels within the dynamics of the psyche.

[S.F.] Starting July 10
The Alexander Technique
Frank Ottiwell
Ongoing workshop $35 per month

The Alexander Technique is a method of facilitating psycho-physical integration by applying sensory awareness, inhibition and redirection to such everyday activities as sitting, standing, walking and lying, under conditions of continuous feedback. Sessions focus on: experiencing the specific ways in which each individual interferes with the natural flow of his total pattern; learning to inhibit the interference; and allowing and encouraging a response that will strengthen our innate tendency toward a whole use of the self.

Continuous classes, Monday evening from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. Enrollment is limited to six persons; new persons may join the class as spaces become available.

[S.F.] July 11-August 29
Body Awareness
George Downing & Anne Kent Rushh
Ongoing series $6 per person, each Tuesday; $22 per month.

Emphasis will be upon the flow of energy within the body; learning how to feel it, to heighten it and balance it, and to use it as a source of support in relations with others. To this end, the program series will use an integrative approach combining a number of different methods, including yoga, movement, body fantasy, energy exchange, massage, polarity pressure point techniques, and others.

Eight Tuesday evenings, 8-10:00 p.m., July 11 through August 29. 1757 Union Street, San Francisco.

[S.F.] Starting July 11
Aikido & Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau
Ongoing series
One meeting per week: $15 per month (general and student)
Two meetings per week: $25 per month (general); $20 per month (student)

A continuous program of instruction in energy awareness as used for centering, movement, healing, concentration and relaxation, and in aikido as a physical expression of that awareness in a self-defense form, with emphasis on harmony and energy in motion. This course will meet each week; participation can be in one or two sessions per week, with tuition based on the schedule of participation. Tuesday, 8-9:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10-12 noon.

[S.F.] July 13-August 31
Breath Energy George Downing
Ongoing series $22 per month

The breath is a microcosm of the personality. Learning to find and to release the breath can lead to more richness and certainty of emotion, increased energy, realignment of physical posture, and a deeper grasp of one's personal rhythm of existence. In this series of eight sessions we will progressively explore these possibilities. Opportunities for continued work with the instructor will be made available.

Eight Thursday evenings, 8-10:00 p.m., July 13 through August 31.

[S.F.] Starting July 13
Relaxation: Yoga Nidra
Bonita Bradley
Ongoing series $3.50 per person, each Thurs.

Gentle, tension-relieving movements and postures and deep relaxation techniques. 6:00 to 7:00 p.m., every Thursday evening.

1757 Union Street, San Francisco.

[B.S.] July 14-16
Structural Patterning in Stillness & Motion Judith Aston
Weekend workshop $125

Structural Patterning is a system designed to achieve structural balance and movement efficiency of the human body, working by reinforcing the body in its relationship to the gravitational field. The sessions presented here will deal with an analysis of the body's structure in terms of the Rolf lines, the use of Structural Patterning as a daily meditation and the use of movement in other daily activity.

[S.F.] July 15
Massage George Downing
One day workshop $18

An introduction to Esalen massage as a means of communication and exchange of energy. Members will learn a simple, complete massage. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] July 16-21
Liberating Body & Stone: Stone Carving, the Alexander Technique & Gestalt Therapy
Ilana Rubenfeld & Elaine Rapp
Five-day workshop $275

Working in a totally unfamiliar medium, participants will have an opportunity to see how the creative part of themselves is locked into muscle tensions stored over a lifetime of emotional conditioning. At the same time, which hold back the flow of body attitudes which hold back the flow of creative energy. Over the course of the workshop, the Alexander technique, gestalt therapy and deep muscle work will be utilized as a way of contacting and expressing feelings about your work and yourself. All materials and tools will be provided.

THE HUMAN BODY

[B.S.] July 16-21
Personal Exploration of Self or "Trust in God, but Tie Your Camel First"
James & Dorothy Fadiman, Robert Ornstein, Faith Hornbacher & David Sobel

Five-day workshop $245

The design of this workshop is to expose participants to several personal growth techniques and to share with them practical tools and exercises which they can take home and use in their daily lives. The workshop will include: sitting meditation, bio-feedback, guided meditation on Sufi stories, psychosynthesis and self-concept modification, channeling energy through form, light energy, self-concept expression in art (bring simple art materials). "Structural Patterning in Stillness and Motion," alternative medicine, nutrition, health and care of the body.

[S.F.] Thursday, July 20
Massage for the Shy
Gunver Jackson

One day workshop $18

We are living in a culture where taking off our clothes is difficult and for many people an insurmountable obstacle. This workshop is for the person who would like to experience and learn massage without taking off his or her clothes. A hand, foot and head massage will be taught. We will do deep relaxation and body awareness to expand the experience to include the whole body. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] July 21-23
Body Awareness
George Downing

Weekend workshop $85

Learning to feel ourselves as a psycho-physical whole can lead to more richness and certainty in our emotions, increased openess towards others, and an unlocking of creative potential. During the weekend we will draw on a number of approaches from both East and West, including breath centering, movement, body fantasy, yoga, energy transfer, massage, polarity, pressure-point techniques, and others, in order to celebrate the body as a source and center of our being.

[S.F.] July 22
Polarity Therapy
Anne Kent Rush

One day workshop $18

Polarity therapy is an intensive pressure-point massage system similar in both theory and practice to Chinese acupuncture. Developed and synthesized by Dr. Randolph Stone from Oriental traditions many centuries old, its purpose is to realign posture and to release blocked energy throughout the body. Although advanced work in polarity therapy requires extensive training, a number of its more basic techniques are accessible to the interested layman. This workshop will include experiential learning of selected basic techniques, individual physical exercises designed by Dr. Stone to facilitate energy balance and circulation, and some discussion of the theoretical principles of polarity therapy. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] Sunday, July 23
Introduction to the Alexander Technique
Ilana Rubenfeld

Single evening event
$5 general, $3 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Ilana Rubenfeld will use the Alexander Technique, gestalt exercises and sensory awareness as a gateway to contacting, expressing and working through deep feelings. Participants will explore changes in postural alignment through kinesthetic experiences. There will be demonstrations on models selected from among group members. (For a definition of the Alexander Technique, see workshop description, starting July 10, above.)

Bring a beach towel and a one-inch-thick book for headrest; wear leotards or loose slacks. Limited to 100 participants.

WORKSHOPS WITH STANLEY KELEMAN

Stanley Keleman is an innovative theoretician and practitioner of the approaches to bodily and emotional health characterized by the work of Wilhelm Reich and Alexander Lowen. This summer he will conduct a limited number of workshops in the San Francisco Bay Area. For information and details contact the Esalen/San Francisco office.

[B.S.] July 23-28
Renascence
Michael Butler

Five-day workshop $215

Each of us carries within him, buried beneath layers of psychic and physical tension, the fertile seed of a new self. This workshop will use many of the Esalen body-oriented and psychological techniques to allow participants to experience that seed center of self and nourish it.

[B.S.] July 28-30
A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

Weekend workshop $85

"My work is living and teaching a way of life which gradually develops the capacity to live in the here and now and to be all there for whatever life brings. Working with the traditional methods of meditation and aikido, and the contemporary methods of gestalt and sensory awareness, this workshop will introduce participants to a Western approach to centering."

[B.S.] July 28-30
The Alexander Technique
Frank Ottiwell

Weekend workshop $95

(For a description of the Alexander Technique, see workshop above starting July 10.)

[S.F.] July 29
Massage & Meditation
Peggy Morrison & Richard Horan

One day workshop $20

A day to explore the joys of massage and meditation. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] July 30-August 4
Massage & Breath Energy
George Downing

Five-day workshop $215

Using the breath we will first learn how we can bring about a heightened awareness of the energy within ourselves. Then, through massage, we will explore how we can focus this energy in order to care for and communicate with others. Our guiding principle: that the experience of giving a massage can be as pleasing and as full as the experience of receiving one.

[S.F.] Wednesday, August 2
On Yoga: A Lecture & Demonstration
Joel Kramer

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

An evening designed to acquaint the interested non-practitioner, as well as the practitioner, with yoga. Mr. Kramer will demonstrate hatha yoga and discuss yoga both in classical structure and as an evolutionary approach to living in the modern world.

[B.S.] August 27-September 1
Toward the Truly Natural
Ben & Judyth Weaver

Five-day workshop $215

There is an important distinction between "adopting a life style" and truly living; between the rash of fads for the "natural" and that in us which is truly natural because it is of Nature, growing out of that which makes up our unique human organism. This workshop will explore possibilities of reaching into the vicinity of our true nature, discovering and celebrating that in us which is truly natural, through sessions in sensory awareness, movement, meditation, and experience of tai chi chuan, improvisational music and dance.

[B.S.] August 27-September 1
More
Michael Butler

Five-day workshop $215

Each of us is capable of more... emotional creativity, aliveness, sensuality. The methods of this workshop will be body disciplines, encounter and gestalt tools, and the life-positive forces in the Esalen environment. Its goal: to experience "more", not just for a week at Esalen, but wherever we happen to be.

[S.F.] August 4-6
Introduction Into the Internal Movement Center
Gabrielle Roth

Weekend workshop $50

We will experience breathing, chanting, meditating, moving, dancing – alone, together, discovering our uniqueness and our oneness.

[S.F.] August 6
Bodies' Energies
Ian Grand

One day workshop $18

Bioenergetic and other-style approaches to how we allow, or inhibit, our bodily feeling, expression, flow and wonder. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] August 6-11
Education in Feeling & Purpose: A Neo-Reichian Bioenergetic Week
Charles & Erica Kelley

Five-day workshop $275

Powerful non-verbal techniques derived from Wilhelm Reich open deep involuntary expressions of pain, fear, rage and grief that have been blocked by the muscular armor. By working through these, participants can discover a new capacity for pleasure, for trust, love and joy. The freeing of feeling is then used to lead into a re-evaluation of the style and objectives of one's life.

[B.S.] August 11-13
Tuning Your Energy Body
Robert Nadeau

Weekend workshop $85

All of us have moments when we are balanced: when we are centered in ourselves, yet open and at one with the richness of life around us. Such moments do not have to be rare accidents. We exist in a vast reservoir of energy that we can learn to tune into and use to enrich our lives on every level. This workshop is an experience in the application of this life energy to relaxation, concentration, healing and life in general.

[B.S.] August 11-13
Freeing the Body
Esalen Staff

Weekend workshop $85

This intensive program introduces various body-oriented disciplines such as massage, movement, the rolf method of structural integration, yoga and techniques based on the work of Wilhelm Reich. The aim is to give group members greater awareness of their physical structures and to demonstrate methods for achieving freer movement, more expressiveness and life feeling.

[S.F.] August 12-13
Advanced Massage
George Downing & Anne Kent Rush

Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will include a review of basic methods and an exploration of a variety of different techniques and approaches, including shiatsu, Reichian massage, Proskauer massage, zone therapy, polarity therapy, how to "read" bodies, the role of breathing in massage, and the relation of massage to other means of personal growth. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

[B.S.] August 13-18
Body Music
Peggy Morrison & Brita Ostrom

Five-day workshop $215

A week of exploring the music of the body through massage, meditation, self-relaxation and dance.

[S.F.] Thursday, August 17
Unorthodox Medicine
David Sobel

Single evening event
$3 general; $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

This lecture will deal with alternative medical approaches with emphasis on positive health, preventive medicine, and the medicine of the whole man. Areas to be drawn from include: ancient medicine, Chinese medicine and acupuncture, yogic therapy, American Indian medicine, naturopathy, homeopathy, zone therapy, chiropractics, structural integration, autogenic training and bio-feedback.

[S.F.] August 17
Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau

One day workshop $15

Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude, mental concentration, centering and moving from center. Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] August 18-20
Yoga & Meditation
Deborah Anne Medow

Weekend workshop $85

Hatha yoga, chanting, music, movement and massage... heightening consciousness and awareness of ourselves as individuals and together.

[S.F.] August 18-20
Bodymind
Michael Butler & Simone Surpin

Weekend workshop $55

This workshop will attempt to integrate the rolf method of body alignment within the framework of open encounter, including fantasy and gestalt methods, massage and movement. A demonstration of a first hour of structural integration will be given.

[S.F.] August 19
Sensory Awareness
Ben & Judyth Weaver

One day workshop $15

This workshop will consist of experiments in sensory awareness, a nonverbal, nonconceptual way of developing more integrated consciousness, heightened sensitivity and fuller, more natural function. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] August 19-20
The Physical, Psychological & Spiritual Dimensions of Yoga
Joel Kramer

Weekend workshop $50

A workshop designed to give the interested novice as well as the experienced practitioner insights into the meaningfulness of yoga and meditation for modern living. Yogic techniques, the nature of meditation and psychological frameworks pertaining to yoga will be explored. The focus is to be able to carry on with yoga on one's own. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

[B.S.] August 20-25
A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

Five-day workshop $215

See description for workshop July 28-30.

[S.F.] August 22
Massage
George Downing

One day workshop $18

(See workshop description, July 15, above.)

[S.F.] August 26
Body Awareness & Gestalt
George Downing & Cynthia Werthm

One day workshop $20

By combining the verbal techniques of gestalt with a number of nonverbal techniques of body awareness, we will explore new possibilities of deeper and increased self-expression. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

[B.S.] August 27-September 1
Tuning Your Energy Body
Robert Nadeau

Five-day workshop $215

See description for workshop August 11-13.

[B.S.] September 1-3
Totems: A Self Portrait Dance
Ann Halprin & Dancers' Workshop Staff

Weekend workshop $85

We begin by evoking the kinesthethic sense. Then we move directly into releasing parts of the body and bringing the parts into a whole. Throughout the movement experience, each workshop member will be making a life size self-portrait, our totems which ritualize the feelings and the unattended, often deeply buried, consciousness of ourselves. We complete the workshop by dancing our portraits.

[S.F.] September 2
Massage
Anne Kent Rush

One day workshop $18

(See workshop description, July 15, above.)

[S.F.] September 2
Movement
Gabrielle Roth

One day workshop $15

A day of music, chanting, moving and dancing. Live music. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] September 3-8
Peeling the Ego Body
Simone Surpin

Five-day workshop $215

Our bodies are deprived of free energy in proportion to chronic muscular tension; similarly our essences are bound by layers of fear and desire. This workshop will focus on unwrapping these extrinsics, primarily using encounter, gestalt and structural integration. Essence building, through exercises centering on grounding life energy, will be integral to this process.

[B.S.] September 3-8
Centering Through Massage & Movement
Gabrielle Roth

Five-day workshop $245

If we can accept our bodies as they are, we can discover the natural life source in each one of us. An introduction into internal movement using the following tools – breathing, meditation, movement, massage and music.

[S.F.] September 8-10
Energy Awareness & Meditation
Robert Nadeau

Residential weekend workshop $75 including room and meals

Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude, mental concentration, centering and moving from center. We will experience life energy and its use in spiritual growth and healing and as a tool for higher awareness.

[B.S.] September 8-10
Getting it Together: A Workshop in Sensory Awareness
Ben & Judyth Weaver

Weekend workshop $85

Sad fact: we like to feel whole but we tend to feel split. Sensory awareness is a nonverbal, nonintellectual way of working that can lead gradually to a more integrated consciousness, heightened sensitivity and fuller, more natural function.

[B.S.] September 10-15
Body Awareness & The Sense of Being
Ed Maupin

Five-day workshop $245

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as bodies. Even relating to other people requires that we be someone in this sense. In this workshop, a variety of approaches – sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method, several yoga traditions, and the Arica training are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of imagination. Bring sweat pants or leotards.

[B.S.] September 15-17
Massage & Sensory Awareness
Peggy Morrison

Weekend workshop $85

A weekend of self-exploration combining techniques of sensory awareness and massage.

[S.F.] September 15-17
Getting it Together: A Workshop in Sensory Awareness
Ben & Judyth Weaver

Weekend workshop $50

(See B.S. workshop description, September 8-10, above.)

[B.S.] September 17-22
Breaking Out
Michael Butler

Five-day workshop $215

Our bodies are imprisoned by armoring and tension. Our life styles and life affirming emotions are strangled by inhibitions and "shoulds." This workshop will use the body concepts developed by Ida Rolf in conjunction with encounter and gestalt techniques to contact the vital core in each of us and to let it breathe.

[B.S.] September 17-22
Freeing the Body
Esalen Staff

Five-day workshop $215

(See workshop description, August 11-13, above.)

[S.F.] September 22-24
Massage & Meditation
Peggy Morrison & Richard Horan

Weekend workshop $50

A weekend of exploring the joys of massage and meditation.

[S.F.] September 23
Alexander Technique, Movement & Meditation
Frank Ottiwell & Bonita Bradley

One day workshop $20

We will use the Alexander Technique, movement and meditation to facilitate psychophysical integration, to experiment with the way we use ourselves in everyday activities, as well as the specialized activities of simple meditation and gentle stretching postures. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[B.S.] September 24-29
The Body Never Lies
Simone Surpin

Five-day workshop $215

This workshop will focus on experimenting with the body as the reflector of truth. Drawing from an eclectic pool of gestalt, encounter, music and bioenergetic vibration exercises, we will approach union of thought, emotion and action from the base of energetic awareness.

[S.F.] September 29-30
Women & Their Bodies
Weekend workshop for women only

$15 general; $10 students and unemployed

Films, poetry, speakers, workshops, time to meet and share with other women. Three workshops will run simultaneously throughout the weekend (everyone will be able to attend each one):

1) Women's Health (Berkeley Womens' Health Collective): anatomy, gynecology, childbirth, abortion, contraception, et al. An informal exchange. Present medical practices will be discussed and alternatives explored.

2) Sexuality (Ani Mander): A personal, political and technical exploration. Focus: the personal experience; Perspective: myths, legends, "facts," propaganda; Fulcrum: the power within us.

3) Body Awareness (Anne Kent Rush): tuning into our bodies through nonverbal techniques – massage, yoga, breathing, energy.

Begins 7 p.m. Friday.

[B.S.] October 1-6
Centering Through Massage & Movement
Gabrielle Roth

Five-day workshop $245

(See workshop description, September 3-8, above.)

[S.F.] October 7
Massage
Ann Parks & Anita Feder

One day workshop $18

A one day workshop to explore massage as a meditation. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION

By realigning the body structure, the Rolf method of structural integration attempts to release excessive tensions so that the person may experience greater physical and emotional freedom. The assumption is that a person's body and set are a mirror of his emotional past as well as a result of physical trauma. Structural integration is a process of direct physical manipulation and deep massage; working with a trained practitioner, the process is usually completed within ten individual sessions.

TRAINING in structural integration is offered only through The Guild for Structural Integration, and only upon completion of certain prerequisites. Research in rolfing is encouraged by the Guild. Information about training and research, as well as class announcements, may be obtained by writing the Guild care of Esalen Institute, 1776 Union St., San Francisco, CA 94123.

INDIVIDUAL SESSIONS with practitioners of structural integration are available by appointment only through the following offices:

Esalen Institute, Big Sur – no telephone appointments. Please request appointments in writing. Practitioners include Michael Butler, Al Drucker, Stanley Johnson, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Simone Surpin, Ed Taylor.

Esalen Institute, San Francisco – write or telephone for appointments. Keith Gilchrist, Dub Leigh, Michael Salveson, Larry Swann, Ed Taylor, Jim Hrisikos.

STRUCTURAL PATTERNING is a body system which promotes structural balance and efficiency and economy of movement within the gravitational field. Patterns which block energy in the body are exchanged for those which allow energy to flow. It is particularly effective during or after rolfing, for those who want to develop the use and awareness of their reorganized bodies, to produce further structural change along the same lines, and to rebalance themselves in situations of physical or emotional stress.

A course of private work in structural patterning usually consists of three to five supervised sessions, perhaps with a follow-up session after a few months.

Practitioners available for individual sessions are: Esalen/Big Sur – Marya Melchior; Esalen/San Francisco – Faith Hornbacher.

[B.S.] July 2-29
Gestalt & Structural Integration
Frank Rubenfeld
Four-week workshop $875

Structural Integration, while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body processes in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolf treatments as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.)

[B.S.] July 14-16
Structural Patterning in Stillness & Motion
Judith Aston
Weekend workshop $125

Structural Patterning is a system designed to achieve structural balance and movement efficiency of the human body, working by reinforcing the body in its relationship to the gravitational field. These sessions will deal with an analysis of the body's structure in terms of the Rolf lines, use of Structural Patterning as a daily meditation and use of movement in other daily activity.

[S.F.] Wednesday, July 19
Structural Integration: An Introduction
Larry Swann & Ed Taylor
Single evening event
[FREE]; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Structural Patterning
Faith Hornbacher
One day workshop $25

(See description above for a definition of structural patterning.) This workshop is limited to six participants who have been or are being rolfed. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] August 18-20
Bodymind
Michael Butler & Simone Surpin
Weekend workshop $55

This workshop will attempt to integrate the Rolf method of body alignment within the framework of open encounter, including fantasy and gestalt methods, massage and movement. A demonstration of a first hour of structural integration will be given.

[S.F.] October 7-December 3
Structural Integration: Body & Expanded Awareness
Keith Gilchrist & Mary Stratman
Two month program $675

A program designed to synthesize a number of disciplines and to integrate these varied experiences and processes with each other and into participants' daily lives. Each person in the program will work on:

- a released, integrated body... receiving ten hours of rolf processing.
- a way to maintain a balanced and flexible body... structural patterning training.
- increased awareness of emotional processes... intensive work in gestalt awareness.
- giving to and receiving from others... training in Esalen massage.
- ways of relaxation and relief from tension... breathing and meditation exercises.
- exploration of undeveloped areas of personality... expressive graphics, fantasy trips, consciousness expanding exercises.

Each person will be encouraged to develop tools appropriate to his personal rhythm of continuing growth. The program involves a commitment to five weekend and seven evening workshops over a two month period. Limited to 15 persons. Begins the weekend of October 7-8.

The Planetary Horizons of Man
William I. Thompson

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; Frist Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

William Thompson will discuss his forthcoming book, The Planetary Horizons of Man. This lecture will serve as a preface to his seminar, Saturday, July 22 (see copy below).

[S.F.] July 22
Planetary Vistas
William I. Thompson

One day seminar $18

We will focus on our consciousness of the past and the future as it affects our existence in the deep present. Now that we are at the edge of traditional, historical cultures both mechanists and mystics alike are searching for a new cultural vehicle that will take us into new dimensions of human possibilities. The outlooks are both angelic and satanic, but in trying to find a way together we will focus on the best lights we have in contemporary thought and cultural expression. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

[S.F.] August 18-19; September 22-23
Golf and Energy Awareness
Michael Murphy, Robert Nadeau & Buddie Johnson

Two weekend workshops $110

Centering and energy awareness will be applied to the game of golf. These principles of mind-body harmony are derived from meditation and aikido, an oriental martial art. There will be sessions for the practice of energy awareness and sessions working with the golf swing on a local driving range. It is our hope that these lessons will carry over to other activities in the participants' lives.

For golfers with a 20-handicap, or better. Attendance at both weekends is required. Price includes tuition for both weekends and costs for driving range facilities. 8-10:30 p.m., Friday evenings; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturdays.

[S.F.] August 19
Alternative Views of Schizophrenia
Arthur & Janica Fox & Marion Saltman

One day seminar $18

Nobody knows what causes schizophrenia. The prevailing negative "you are sick" views will be discussed. We will also explore the more recent views of R. D. Laing, the megavitamin people, nutritionalists, Eastern physiology, and Julian Silverman's research at Esalen. We welcome individuals and families who, like the leaders, have had personal experience with mental illness. Concerned professionals and others are also welcome to attend. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Suggested readings: R. D. Laing, The Politics of Experience; Gopi Krishna, Kundalini.

[S.F.] Starting September 7
Art & Meditation: El Topo
William Pennell Rock

Ongoing series $45

This course will be an attenpt to bring about a greater involvement in contemporary art, emphasizing new modes of aesthetic participation. It will have as its focus the film El Topo, a contemporary masterpiece which is based upon the archtypal way of the hero, the emerging identity of the new man. The course is intended for men and women each to discover his own "way" and contemporary reality through meditation and group work on the film's mythological imagery.

Recommended reading: The Hero With a Thousand Faces by Joseph Campbell. Four Wednesday evenings, 8-10:30 p.m., September 7-28. Limited to 10 participants.

[S.F.] September 16
The Psychic Dimensions of Sport
Buddie Johnson, David Meggyesy, Michael Murphy, Robert Nadeau & William Schutz

One day workshop $15 general; $10 student

Athletic ability has emotional, mental, even spiritual components, though these may be covered over and distorted by modern attitudes toward sport such as heavy emphasis on competition, mechanical training and standardization. This workshop will explore the neglected dimensions of sport. Movies of various games and sporting events will be discussed with an eye toward such aspects of athletic performance as centering, energy awareness, balance and inspiration. Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

[S.F.] October 6-8
The Dream
Theodora Lyon, Anais Nin, Magda Proskauer

Residential weekend workshop $85 including room and meals

A weekend devoted to the exploration of the dream from the various perspectives of the leaders. The dream will be looked at as a living part of the psychological, spiritual and emotional life and as a tool for discovering new directions and self-understanding. This will be an experiential weekend, and participants are encouraged to bring dream journals. (Anais Nin will take part in the Saturday sessions of the workshop only.) Limited to 35 persons.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

ARTHUR FOX, a former Esalen resident fellow trained by William Schutz, is presently on the Esalen encounter staff. For the past year he and his wife have been leading groups in Europe as well as introducing humanistic education at the Leysin, Switzerland, school.

JANICA FOX, together with her husband, was an Esalen resident fellow and is a member of the Esalen encounter staff. Previously she conducted research on groups at Harvard. She is presently a counselor at the Leysin, Switzerland, school.

BUDDIE JOHNSON is the West Coast representative of the National Golf Foundation and a 3-handicap golfer.

THEODORA LYON is a gestalt group leader trained by Fritz Perls. She has been on the staff at Esalen/Big Sur and was formerly assistant to Fritz Perls at the Gestalt Institute of Canada. She has recently completed the Arica awareness training in San Francisco.

DAVID MEGGYESY for seven years was a linebacker for the St. Louis Cardinals. He is author of the recently published and controversial book Out of Their League.

MICHAEL MURPHY is the co-founder and president of Esalen Institute. He is the author of Golf in the Kingdom, a book in which he explores the sometimes mysterious dimensions of the game of golf, including the secrets of "true gravity."

ROBERT NADEAU utilizes energy awareness and the concept of "energy dimensions" to approach the transpersonal self. He also teaches meditation, energy awareness and aikido in the Bay Area.

ANAIS NIN, well-known for her Diary, now in four volumes, is also the author of House of Incest, several novels (The Four-Chambered Heart, A Spy in the House of Love, Collages, and others), novelettes, short stories and literary criticism.

MAGDA PROSKAUER is a graduate of the University of Munich, Germany, and received a degree in physiotherapy from the University of Munich Medical School. While working in Europe, she was influenced by various new schools of psycho-physical therapy. She has a private practice in body awareness and breathing therapy in San Francisco.

WILLIAM PENNEL ROCK has taught at several universities including Banaras Hindu University in India and the University of California at Santa Barbara. He has done extensive research on Heidegger and on the Upanishad, and is presently affiliated with the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

MARION SALTMAN is a play therapist who has worked with young children, adolescents and adults. She teaches The Psychology of Play at Sonoma State College, and she ran the Wilderness Family Camp at Tahoe Institute, summer 1971.

WILLIAM SCHUTZ, author of Firo, Joy and Here Comes Everybody is presently in residence at Esalen, Big Sur.

WILLIAM I. THOMPSON is the author of The Imagination of an Insurrection and At the Edge of History. He is presently teaching at York University and is working on a new book, The Planetary Horizons of Man. His articles have been published in many magazines, most recently Harper's and the New York Times Book Review.

Mail orders are handled promptly. Both books and tape recordings are listed in a comprehensive catalog, available upon request.

All books listed elsewhere in the brochure may be ordered by using the coupon.

THE ESALEN PUBLISHING PROGRAM WITH VIKING PRESS

Far-ranging investigations, divinations and reports from the movement to develop human potentialities, highlighting recent work at Esalen.

Golf in the Kingdom
by Michael Murphy
$7.95, hardbound

On the fog-shrouded golf course called Burningbush, Michael Murphy is swept into a magical world where untold potentials can be unleashed in a backswing governed by true gravity. A bagful of knowledge about the Higher Self is revealed through the metaphor of the game as Shivas Irons, the Scottish golf pro, leads Michael around a most exotic green.

The Farther Reaches of Human Nature
by Abraham Maslow
$12.50, hardbound

This adventurous volume is the last work Dr. Maslow completed before his death. In it he goes beyond earlier writings to carry the concerns of psychology into the realm of joy, creativity and spiritual experience, sketching a psychology for the highest of which man is capable.

Psychosynthesis
by Roberto Assagioli
$7.50, hardbound; $2.75, paper

A practical, working method which can be used for harmonizing and integrating the often conflicting elements of our inner life around a higher unifying center of being and awareness, the Transpersonal Self. Includes over fifty techniques and exercises.

Hot Springs
by Stuart Miller
$7.95, hardbound

A rollicking chronicle of what it means in contemporary America to undergo a spiritual death and rebirth, played out against backdrops ranging from Orchard Street in New York's Lower East Side, to Yale Graduate School, and finally to Esalen at Big Sur.

Human Teaching for Human Learning
by George I. Brown
$8.50, hardbound; $2.45, paper.

A report on the Ford-Esalen Project concerning research in confluent education; the first attempt to apply Esalen's techniques to education in public schools.

On the Psychology of Meditation
by Claudio Naranjo and Robert Ornstein
$7.95, hardbound

Two psychologists examine the spiritual ground of meditation and the implications of meditation for modern psychology, incorporating insights from new experimental work in the nature of consciousness.

Anger and the Rocking Chair
by Janet Lederman
$4.95, hardbound (pub. by McGraw-Hill)

A poetic account of using gestalt with "difficult" elementary school children.

Secrets of the Trade
Notes on Madness, Creativity and Ideology
by Joe Kennedy Adams
$12.50, hardbound

An expose of the tyranny of psychological and religious "experts", written in a clear and fair voice.

New titles of special interest:

The Massage Book
by George Downing,
Illustrated by Anne Kent Rush
$3.95, paper

A thorough introduction to Esalen massage, including instructions with 200 drawings. Covered are: a complete massage, shorter variations, exercises for developing your own style, the relation of massage to meditation and tai chi, and much more.

Peoplemaking
by Virginia Satir
$7.95, hardbound

Mrs. Satir takes the concept of people-making and explains how a parent can create a nurturing, positive family environment. Included are communications games which examine family roles and interaction.

Sexuality, Self and Survival
by Stanley Keleman
$2.50, paper

Developed from bioenergetics workshops and seminars, this book is about experiencing our lives and all of culture as expressions of our inevitable, immediate biological reality.

Also available:

Fritz Perls poster, 24"x36", B&W $1.50

Anais Nin poster, 16"x20", B&W $1.50

Poster reproductions of Tibetan religious art are on display at the Bookshop in San Francisco.

INFORMATION

SAN FRANCISCO

For reservations, literature, tickets and information, write or call:

ESALEN INSTITUTE
1776 Union Street,
San Francisco, CA 94123
Phone: (415) 771-1710
10 to 5, Monday through Sunday

RESERVATIONS: should be made at least one week prior to start of program. A non-refundable deposit must accompany registrations as follows: $10 per person for programs costing under $35; $20 for programs costing under $100; $50 for those over $100, unless otherwise noted. Mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Balance is payable at the first session of the program. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. Esalen accepts major credit cards, including Master Charge and American Express.

INFORMATION, LITERATURE AND TICKETS: for lectures may be obtained Monday through Saturday, 10:00 to 5:00, at 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Tickets obtained by mail will indicate the exact location and time of events; when not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Most San Francisco programs are non-residential. Participants in these programs must reserve their own accommodations at local hotels or motels. Unless stated otherwise, meals are not provided at such workshops.

RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS: are indicated in individual workshop descriptions. Program cost of residential programs includes tuition, food and lodging. Shared occupancy only, no private accommodations available. Weekend residential programs, unless otherwise indicated, begin at 8 p.m. Friday (no supper served) and conclude following Sunday lunch. Programs are held at a conference center in Marin County or in Sonoma County; exact location will be included with reservation confirmation.

WEEKEND SCHEDULES: Weekend workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sundays, unless otherwise indicated in workshop descriptions. Schedules are not rigid, however, and exact meeting times are discussed at the first session.

LOCATION: Participants will be informed of workshop location prior to the workshop date. Esalen uses several facilities in the Bay Area for its programs including its own building at 1757 Union Street, San Francisco. Call the San Francisco office for advance information on program location.

SCHOLARSHIPS and interest-free loans are available for many programs in San Francisco. A scholarship application form will be sent upon request – apply early. The application does not constitute a reservation; to hold a place in a workshop, an advance deposit must be made. Special preference will be given to students and to persons who plan to apply their Esalen experience to urban teaching or organized community efforts.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes for men.

WAITING LISTS: Names are placed on waiting lists in cases of over-subscription or when demanded by workshop requirements. Registrants placed on such a list will be informed immediately and deposit checks held. Checks will be refunded if reservation cannot be confirmed or upon request by persons not wanting to be on a waiting list.

STAFF-LED WORKSHOPS: Some programs listed will be led or assisted by Esalen staff from San Francisco and Big Sur. San Francisco staff includes: Paul Aikin, Margaret Conway, Bob Cromey, Arthur Fox, Janica Fox, Betty Fuller, Bob Kriegel, Pamela Portugal, Harry Sloan, Helen Stephens.

BIG SUR

For reservations and information, write or call:

ESALEN INSTITUTE
Big Sur, CA 93920
Phone: (408) 667-2335
10 to 5, Monday through Saturday
10 to 9, Sunday

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Deposits accompanying the reservations are required as follows: $20 for weekend programs; $70 for one-week and 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $400 for 4-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

PROGRAM COSTS: cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra. Foreign currency: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. Esalen accepts major credit cards, including Master Charge and American Express.

GROUNDS ARE CLOSED EXCEPT BY RESERVATION. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

CHECK-IN/CHECK-OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening; however, guests are welcome to arrive earlier in the afternoon. All programs begin with dinner on Sunday; weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday. The last session of a five-day program is Friday morning; check-out time is 12 noon on Friday. One-week programs usually end Saturday morning. 2-week and 4-week programs usually have final sessions on the last Saturday morning, with some programs ending Friday morning of the last week. Weekend programs end Sunday after the morning session. Check-out time is noon of the final day of all programs.

ACCOMMODATIONS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property—in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms—is strictly prohibited.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at ong time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name.

From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute—Reservations Only.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE FROM MONTEREY: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $10 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days adavance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen representative.

WORK COMMITMENT: Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer at Esalen Institute. The work requirement is 6 hours per week at South Coast Center.

ORGANIC FOOD: The organic food garden on the Esalen grounds is flourishing and provides the kitchen with most of its vegetables and herbs. We try to serve only organically-produced meats, poultry and dairy products; most breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

STAFF-LED WORKSHOPS: Some of the four-week, two-week and five-day programs listed will be led by members of the Esalen Staff from Big Sur and San Francisco.

Big Sur Staff includes: Diana Bechetti, Michael Butler, Seymour Carter, Alberta Donlan, Al Drucker, Brita Fluck, Betty Fuller, Janet Lederman, Milton Lees, Dub Leigh, Theodora Lyon, Peggy Morrison, Richard Price, Paul Rebillot, Carole Rosenblatt, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Julian Silverman, Simone Surpin, Gerald Thatcher.

SPECIAL

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published quarterly. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco office. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

CONSULTING SERVICE & SPEAKERS BUREAU: Esalen Institute's resources and personnel are available to organizations, schools, hospitals, social agencies and corporations for speeches, lecture-demonstrations and special programs. The Esalen Consulting Service has designed and assisted with such varied projects as the training of teachers in confluent education (the Ford-Esalen Project), an early learning project involving mothers and children, an attitudinal communications program for a major corporation, training staffs at drug treatment centers and at a state hospital. For information contact Robert Kriegel at the Esalen/San Francisco office.

ACCREDITATION and the USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs. Our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductable. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please see membership form below.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recordings of many past programs are available through a service which maintains archive copies for Esalen. Requests for tapes now come from educational and service institutions, libraries, religious and professional groups, business groups and individuals concerned with the human potential movement. Commercial use of these tapes is prohibited; all rights reserved. For a complete tape catalog, write Big Sur Recordings, 117 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, CA 94903. The cost of recordings is $10 per tape-hour, stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette.

FILMS of the work of Frederick S. Perls in gestalt therapy and Alexander Lowen in bioenergetic analysis, as well as films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow, Virginia Satir and others, are available from Psychological Films, 205 West Twentieth Street, Santa Ana, California 92706. Sources of more films, including work of Alan Watts and Huston Smith, are available from Association For Humanistic Psychology, 416 Hoffman Street, San Francisco, California 94114.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA, KQED, KSAN, KSFX, and KMPX) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has a dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KLOS, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, and KPFT Houston, WBAI New York and WOMB New Hampshire, broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides.

FORD/ESALEN READING PROJECT IN REVIEW
(excerpted from an article by Jayne May)

A tiny kindergartner says to a classmate nearly twice her size, "I resent it when you do that."

A shy first grade girl speaks in the group circle, "I appreciated it, Mike, when you shared the ball at recess."

A blond boy, wearing a HAPPY sign around his neck, yells in anger. "Hey, Paul," a classmate calls, "'better change your sign or your face. You don't match."

A batch of little bodies bend to form letter-shapes and ask classmates, "read me!" "You're a little 'd'." "No, I'm a little 'b'." "Then you better turn around, your bump's going the wrong way."

A circle of children concentrate on getting centered and settled. Their teacher tries, unsuccessfully, to lift each five-year old body. "You're really centered today," she says. "You're all heavy!"

A boy sits on a couch in an area marked DAY DREAMING and looks contentedly into space.

An intent child writes in a book she's compiling, "I get mad when my sister gets in my space. When I'm mad I tear my hair apart."

A tall dark-haired six-year old says, "Today I'm serene. I want a quiet place." Her teacher prints SERENE on a card and hangs it around her neck. The child creates her own quiet place.

A boy in a special corner angrily pounds a heavy pillow with all his might and mutters a satisfying word.

What do they have in common, these children in a half dozen schools in several different districts?

One thing: their teachers are part of the same project.

It started on a foggy November night in 1971 when a handful of teachers from Marin County and the Peninsula met in Stuart and Sara Miller's San Francisco home to officially activate the Ford-Esalen Confluent Education Reading Project.

Two dozen weekend workshops, a multitude of meetings, reams of pages written in many logs, external changes in personnel, internal changes in people and two unusual year-end reports have since taken place. And the time is now ripe to answer the questions: What is the Ford-Esalen Project: Who are the Ford-Esalen teachers? and Why?

The Ford-Esalen Reading Project, a sub-group of a Ford grant for confluent education given George Brown at U.C. Santa Barbara, is being administered in San Francisco through Esalen Institute with Sara Miller as director.

The purpose of the project, as set forth that evening, was to expose this group of elementary classroom teachers to a wide range of human potential experiences to see what effect the expected changes in each individual would have in the classrooms, to see what experiences could be transplanted and adapted to the classroom situation, to see what impact this would have on teaching techniques and content, and, in addition, to develop a complete curriculum in reading with these attributes built in. In brief, to train teachers to be confluent and to teach confluently.

In the first year, which ended in June 1971, the emphasis was on experiential weekend workshops in personal growth. It was the "Year of the Feelings" with experiences in encounter, gestalt, psychosynthesis and sensory awareness. Each group member kept an extensive log chronicling meetings, classroom experiences, personal awareness, and appreciations and resentments. Each member wound up the year writing an individual evaluation of the project plus a curriculum on concentration which had been developed and used in the classroom during the spring.

The second year, just ending, was the "Year of the Body" with programs in bioenergetics, biofeedback, energy awareness, aikido and psychosynthesis. Much was done with identifying and working on sub-selves. Polarities in personalities were investigated, particularly the fact that opposites both exist within a person, along with all gradations between the two poles. So the polarity to that angry, hating child in the classroom is a happy, loving child, and both already exist within him along with all the variations in between.

This spring, the group formed three task forces which had the additional responsibility of developing a confluent curriculum in beginning reading to be included in the second End-of-the-Year Report along with, once again, individual reports from each member on the impact of the year's work upon themselves and their classrooms.

Next year, the third and final year of the current project, is not only the "Year of the Mind" but anticipates working on the Will, using Roberto Assagioli's new book as a basis. It is also the year of the product. And the product is to be a complete and confluent reading curriculum.

There are nine teachers in the project, half of whom have been in the project since the beginning, the others since the start of the second year. Ask any of them what confluent means. They'll tell you: "Flowing together of thoughts and feelings." "Interwoven strands of affect and intellect." "Feeling what you're learning." And that's what the children mentioned in the beginning have in common. That's why they're familiar with expressing appreciations and resentments, using their bodies as letters, talking of how it must feel to be an 'a' or a 'z', and calling each other on incongruence between face and feelings. That's why they're comfortable wearing cards to proclaim how they feel, able to concentrate, to settle, to move from center, daydream when necessary, seek quiet places, write their feelings in books, take responsibility for their actions, get in touch with their polarities, find appropriate ways to express their emotions and read expressions, faces and voices.

They, too, are part of the Ford-Esalen Confluent Education Reading Project.

They are what it's all about.

They are the 'Why'.

ESALEN PROGRAM IN HUMANISTIC MEDICINE

Complaints about the dehumanization of medicine rise on every hand, not only from patients but from doctors and nurses as well. About a year and a half ago, Sara Miller (Esalen's Director of Education) and Stuart Miller (Director of Development) began to think through what Esalen could do to help with the problem. The result was a proposal for an on-going training seminar in humanistic medicine. This program was to be deliberately exploratory, trying to determine which of the hundreds of Esalen disciplines might be useful to medicine, how they might be combined, what research questions they led to, what philosophical implications they elicited, and so forth.

The feeling was widely shared that various Esalen techniques had fruitful applications in many medically related fields such as psychosomatic medicine, preventive medicine and nutrition. Indeed, a number of medical practitioners, inspired by Esalen or similar centers, had gone off on various such paths, applying rolfing in their practice, or hypnotism, or gestalt. A good next step might be to do a systematic and long range investigation of how all the major Esalen approaches might be interwoven into medicine. The Millers drew up a proposal and began showing it to doctors and to foundations.

To many it seemed an obviously good idea, and endorsements and constructive suggestions for the project came in from those who had had Esalen experience. With those who hadn't, it was slow going at first. But it was felt that if the project was to have an impact on the medical establishment, then the establishment must be reached. Surprisingly, a number of doctors rather high in the medical profession were quite sympathetic and gradually some important medical names went so far as to lend themselves to supporting the project. A much greater openness and need for this kind of experimentation was discovered than medical people themselves generally realized. It was not all easy, of course, and the business of beginning to raise the $50,000 for the first two years of the Project was often discouraging and wearing, but it is clear that the time for this kind of idea has come.

Donors have been generous and the project has attracted extensive foundation support, including grants from the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation. There were the crucial private donations from Marty Farber, Don Flaxman, Janet Bickford and an anonymous donor of $20,000.

Extended Programs

The following programs represent ways in which participants can involve themselves with Esalen over an extended period of time. These long term programs present greater opportunities for professional development, learning experiences, and exposure to a wide variety of disciplines.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE/WEST UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAM AT ESALEN

Advanced undergraduate students (anyone who has completed some undergraduate work at any college or university) may now enroll at Antioch College/West in San Francisco and work for their B.A. degree at Esalen. Course work will be accredited through Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio; the B.A. degree will be from Antioch College/West and the Union for Experimenting Colleges and Universities.

Students will develop their own educational programs incorporating regularly scheduled Esalen workshops and courses and individual work created in conjunction with the Esalen staff. Esalen leaders and staff will act as faculty and counselors for students in the program.

Tuition for the 1972-73 academic year is $2700. Students may begin their programs anytime after October 1, 1972. Financial aid is available. (This program also qualifies for Veterans and Social Security benefits.)

Inquiries for admission should be directed to: Ms. Cristy Willer, Antioch College/West, 149 Ninth Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94103. Information about program content and design should be addressed to: The Antioch West Program, Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94123.

ON-GOING RESIDENTIAL PROGRAM IN BIG SUR

Beginning in October, Esalen/Big Sur will offer an ongoing residential program which may be initiated by an individual according to his specific needs and interests, chosen from among the continuing workshops available. Those interested in the program should be aware of a residence requirement of at least two months.

The cost of the program is $980 per month exclusive of weekend workshops. Individuals interested in applying must first attend a week-long workshop at Big Sur, the cost of which will not be applicable to the residential fee, should they be accepted to the program.

RESIDENTIAL PROGRAM WITH EMPHASIS ON GESTALT TRAINING

A three-month residential program, coordinated by Janet Lederman, will take place in Big Sur and San Francisco January 28-April 20, 1973. This is an advanced training program for qualified therapists in psychotherapy, counseling and related fields. The program will be tailored to the individual interests of each participant. In addition to Ms. Lederman the training staff includes: George Brown, Jack Downing, Betty Fuller, Robert Martin, Julian Silverman, Stella Resnick, Frank Rubenfeld and Richard Price. The cost of the program is $3500.

Ms. Lederman describes the program:

The Focus - Gestalt Theory and Practice as a moving and constantly changing process of learning.

The individual alone,
as a member of a group,
and within the community structure.

The background:
Esalen/Big Sur

the extended background:

Extended Growth Program
Ian Grand

Five-month program $600

The Extended Growth Program is an in-depth, continuing five-month program in the San Francisco Bay Area; it combines a selected schedule of workshops with ongoing small group work under the direction of the program coordinator, Ian Grand. As a non-resident program in an urban area, it provides a way for persons to experience directed and focused work in several disciplines while living and working in their own environment.

Ian Grand describes as follows the Extended Growth Program beginning this fall: "The program will explore what it means to lead a life of the body in the world. It is for persons who seek approaches to the Bodily Mysteries that at once unfold and allow our meaning, our feeling, our sexuality and our sacredness. The intent is to work toward a sense of individual uniqueness and the mystery of community; a sense of adventure and rhythmicity, unfolding and becoming; a sense of the numinous in everyday life.

"To achieve this end, the group will experience many modes of body expression – theoretical and intellectual, dance, song, language, dreams, feelings. We will use bioenergetics, gestalt training, movement and other workshop-ritual modes and methodologies."

The program consists of the following, all in the San Francisco area: two five-day workshops with Ian Grand (October 23-27 and March 26-30), two special weekend workshops for program members only with Stanley Keleman and with Peter Marin, and three weekend programs to be selected by participants according to individual interest from regularly scheduled Esalen/San Francisco workshops during the November through March period. The group will work continuously with Ian Grand during the five month period, specifically three evening meetings and a day-long meeting per month.

Limited to 14 persons; selection will be made by interview with Ian Grand between September 1 and October 15. For further information, call or write the Esalen/San Francisco office.

The Esalen Project will be officially connected with a project partly modeled after it at the University of Utah Medical School and will serve as a resource to that Medical School. Major foundations are showing great interest and doctors at the highest level of the profession are beginning to ask to be enrolled as members of the Project.

The Medical Project will be modeled on Esalen's successful Ford Foundation Education Project. A group of approximately twenty medical professioals will meet over a period of three years or more to systematically explore Esalen techniques and their relevance to medicine. Selection of the medical professioals is going on now, but there is still room for applications. It is hoped that the group will consist of a variety of different medical specialists, nurses, administrators, medical professors, and their spouses. During the first year the group will explore the usefulness of encounter, sensory awareness, gestalt, massage and psychosynthesis to their personal growth, to their particular medical practices and to medicine in general. It is expected that a pilot curriculum for medical schools will be drafted. The second year will continue with this exploration in such fields as rolfing, hatha yoga, tai chi chuan, meditation and so forth, gradually bringing in alternate medical approaches such as Chinese medicine, yogic medicine, reflexology and herbal medicine. The emphasis is on a calm and cooperative consideration of the medical opportunities inherent in the new humanistic culture. The program is deliberately eclectic and non-evangelical, aiming at a sympathetic but critical look at these opportunities. Eight weekend workshops, eight evening seminars, some special weekend retreats and an extensive log make up the outline of the project's work, each year for three years.

It is possible that what is being started here is a process that will lead to a much altered sense of medicine, perhaps over a period of years, to the creation of a "Mayo Clinic for the New Age," as one enthusiastic doctor put it in a letter. Such fantasies are pleasant to all concerned, but for now the emphasis is on small-scale and hard work. Doctors, nurses and administrators must be found who together form a cross-section of the medical community and who are willing to give large amounts of time to this project without pay. Simultaneously, the Project must be explained to medical people who are likely to be sympathetic and are in a position to do something about implementing any positive results: deans of medical schools, hospital administrators, editors of journals, and the like. A full description of the Esalen Project in Humanistic Medicine is available by writing: "Medical Project", Esalen Institute, 1776 Union, San Francisco.

THE PEOPLE'S KITCHEN

The Esalen kitchen is an experiment in self-government. The kitchen staff makes all decisions, including hiring, firing, salaries, the ordering of food and menu planning. Consensus vote determines all aspects of policy, organization and objectives. The staff meets twice weekly, one meeting being devoted to the specific demands of managing kitchen business, the other in an encounter format where interpersonal problems among kitchen personnel are discussed.

The kitchen serves organically produced meats, poultry and dairy products. The organic food garden on the grounds provides most of our vegetables and herbs; most breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

ABOUT ESALEN: FROM ALAN WATTS

The following is an excerpt from Alan Watt's recent autobiography In My Own Way (Pantheon 1972):

Esalen represents education for its own sake, beyond school, without diplomas, and concerning matters which are fundamental to life but not ordinarily studied in academies. There are matters of what is vulgarly called "nitty-gritty," the utterly basic questions of our relationships to others, to ourselves, and to cosmic existence. Talk it out; feel it out; get down to the roots of what is really happening. This naturally involves religion, philosophy, psychotherapy, and as yet unclassified disciplines which have to do with direct experience of mental and physical reality. But whereas most nonsectarian groups are, in fact, sectarian, Esalen manages to remain open to astonishingly diverse points of view, despite the fact that its faculty has included such strong and persuasive personalities as Fritz Perls, Abraham Maslow, Carl Rogers, Virginia Satir, and Ida Rolf, to mention but a few. It has been copied all over North America as well as in Europe. Its methods have been studied by government agencies and great business corporations, and its techniques are beginning to be found in churches and universities.

Professional Development Program
Frank Rubenfeld, Coordinator and Leader

Fourteen Wednesday evenings (plus 3 one-day workshops) $325

This program is designed to increase the self-awareness and options available to therapists and others in the helping professions who regard themselves as more than followers. Participants will be encouraged to synthesize their ongoing approaches to therapy with the experientially-didactically presented program.

The program has three major components:

1. Development of skills derived from gestalt therapy. Meeting every Wednesday evening for fourteen weeks beginning November 1, participants will learn by being in the "hot-seat", working with Dr. Rubenfeld and by working with other participants with the opportunity for immediate feedback.
2. Theme-centered interactional groups. Some of the weekly meetings will deal with themes related to therapists' roles and image; the type of conditioning therapists undergo in this society; and other topics which can be subsumed under "therapist consciousness-raising". There will be use of art, dance and drama during these sessions.
3. Three Saturday workshops (Nov. 18, Dec. 16, Jan. 13) with innovators in the spiritual, body-related and artistic-expressive modes of developing human potential; Stanley Keleman, and two other persons to be announced, are responsible for these one-day programs. Integration of these approaches with gestalt and other models will be discussed.

The program is open to psychotherapists, psychologists, clinical social workers, ministers, counselors and others in the helping professions. To apply, send a brief description of your professional background and interests to Esalen/San Francisco. Limited to 16 professionals.

Gestalt & Structural Integration
Richard Price, Hector Prestera & Esalen Staff

Four-week program $950

Structural Integration, while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body processes in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolfings as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.)

Being & Dis-Covery

Julian Silverman, Coordinator

Tom Allen, Betsie Carter, Margaret Conway, Steven Kull, Janet Lederman, Selig Morgenrath, Peggy Morrison, Robert Nadeau, Beverly Silverman.

Four-week workshop $975

The program will begin with a week of encounter/gestalt conducted by Janet Lederman. A weekend seminar concerned with centering and energy awareness techniques, led by Robert Nadeau, will follow. The second week emphasizes massage, meditation and gestalt awareness training. The week will be co-led by Peggy Morrison, head of Esalen's massage staff, and Julian and Beverly Silverman. In the third week, Robert Nadeau, concentrating on energy awareness, develops the theme "you are more than you think you are." In the last week the techniques of psychosynthesis are used to facilitate discovery of how each individual interferes with the expression of his capabilities and how much more he is than what he ordinarily expresses. This week will be led by Tom Allen, Betsie Carter, Margaret Conway and Steven Kull. The last weekend of the program involves all the leaders in integrative sessions. Participants will meet periodically with the program coordinator.

The group, limited to eighteen seminarians, meets in morning and evening sessions. During midday they will participate in the daily creative workings of Esalen/Big Sur under the direction of Selig Morgenrath, designer of the facility. The aim of this aspect of the program is to facilitate each individual "getting in touch with" and being touched by nature. The body toning techniques of the Arica Training school are a daily part of the workshop. Our overall emphasis is upon dis-covering how growth and real maturity involve change of orientation from environmental support to self-support. No one person, no one method provides the key; each individual unfetters himself with his own key which is a uniquely personal synthesis of his life experiences and insights.

Bridging the Gap:
An Ongoing Personal Development Program
Bob & Marilyn Harris Kriegel

Six-month program $825

This extended program will attempt to bridge the gap between the workshop and the outside world. The basic idea is to combine the intensity of the residential workshop with the continuity of the ongoing group in an effort to make the workshop more relevant in terms of the participant's ongoing life process. Specifically the program will consist of:

Three intensive week-long residential workshops spaced approximately three months apart. The purpose of these groups is to create a supportive environment in which the participants can gain new insights and experience themselves and others in new and different ways. Out of this experience will evolve goals which each individual sets and specific assignments for the period between workshops. The basic format of the group will be encounter, gestalt and psychosynthesis, though other disciplines will also be used depending on the group's needs and interests.

Assigned homework and readings will be given to each participant based on the goals he has set. Response and applicability of the readings to everyday life will be followed through in a log.

Program participants will keep a daily log or journal. This format has been found to be one of the most useful instruments in terms of providing new and greater clarity to thoughts, feelings and observations. The leaders will review the logs once a month by mail and make suggestions, comments and give new assignments. The leaders will also be available by telephone, mail and, in some cases, by appointment for individual counseling. Contact between the group members, whenever geographically possible, will be encouraged.

A limited amount of scholarship funds is available. The first workshop in the series will take place February 18-23, 1973.

Harry Sloan & Lenore Lefer

Weekend workshop $50

Frequently participants come to workshops believing the only way to get in touch with themselves is through pain, anguish and earthshaking breakthroughs. Growing becomes humorless and heavy and so does life. This weekend will tap into the absurdity of conflicts and problems, offering the participant an opportunity to laugh at himself and the seemingly tragic fate he has chosen. Lenore and Harry are fun to be with and have promised to dance with each and every one of the participants.

A variety of verbal and nonverbal experiences for couples (not necessarily married).

■ S.F. November 2-December 14

Changing Sex Roles
Walt Anderson, Ani Mander, Jerry Mander, Lauree Moss

Six Thursday evenings $55

What it means to be a woman and what it means to be a man today. We will explore male-female conditioning as well as our assumptions and expectations concerning our roles in society. The women and men will meet separately to gain strength from one's own sex group and then together to pool our combined energies and break through conventions. Gestalt, encounter and psychodrama techniques will be used, and there will be time for talking and sharing of experiences. Participants will also meet with George Downing and Anne Kent Rush for a session in body awareness.

Six Thursday evenings, 7:30-10:30 p.m., Nov. 2, 9, 16, 30, Dec. 7, 14. This group is open to single women and men as well as to couples.

● B.S. November 3-5

A group for the divorced, those contemplating divorce or those whose lives have been touched by divorce.

■ S.F. November 3-5

The Psychology of Over-Eating: A Food Liberation Workshop
Leonard & Lil Pearson

Weekend workshop $65

Participants will explore their particular ways of utilizing food as response to emotional needs. Workshop experiences will deal with eating fantasies, food and feeding, how hunger is felt and what occasions provoke it. Alternate ways of dealing with hunger and the tyranny of food will be explored with each participant.

■ S.F. November 4

Invitations to Openness
Walt Anderson

One-day workshop $20

Basic propositions: (1) An increased capacity for personal openness and honesty makes life easier and a lot more interesting. (2) The need for privacy is to be respected. (3) Openness is best achieved in response to an invitation, not a demand. We will all explore our own boundaries of privacy/openness, and work with some techniques for being open – and inviting openness – in everyday life. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

● B.S. November 5-10

Beyond Encounter
Robert Kriegel & Marilyn Harris Kriegel

Five-day workshop $215

Residential weekend workshop $85 including room and meals

A workshop for people grappling with major changes – familial, professional, spiritual, other.

■ S.F. November 10-12

Communication Games
Art Hough

Weekend workshop $50

A workshop to uncover and work with communication problems through games. These communication games – lasting from one minute to three hours – are used to heighten the communication experience, improve habits of listening, feedback, empathy, spontaneity and awareness and to loosen the deeper communication blocks that result from hidden dogmatism, rigidity and risk-refusal. This is not encounter; it is for people concerned with improving their communication.

• B.S. November 17-19

Fathers & Sons
Laurence Weisman

Weekend workshop $85

In the belief that the "generation gap" is really a "communication gap", this workshop will utilize techniques to improve the ways in which fathers and sons talk to one another. Fathers and sons are invited to come alone or together.

■ S.F. November 17-19

Singles' Workshop
Robert Cromey

Weekend workshop $50

Encounter for Singles
Robert Cromey

Five-day workshop $215

This workshop is for single people who want to find new ways to form new friendships. The group will explore feelings and emotions arising from being single. Encounter, gestalt and fantasy techniques will be used to help members of the group to enjoy themselves and other people more fully.

■ S.F. November 19

Parents & Teenagers: Harmony Without Giving In or Giving Up
Gunver Jackson assisted by Daniel Jackson

One-day workshop $20 for one parent & one teenager; $8 for each additional family member; $10 for single parents & single teenagers

The difference between generations need not be a discouraging gap. In fact, it is the quality of the difference which we wish to explore. A day for parents and teenagers to enter a place where we see the gap as a change in thought patterns and consciousness. Rather than narrowing the gap, we will build bridges with deep relaxation and gestalt awareness. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday.

• B.S. November 24-26

Divorce: A Creative Experience

Play, Touch & Talk: Aboard the S.S. Vallejo
Marion Saltman

One-day workshop $20

A day to get in touch with our spontaneity and playfulness, as well as time for talk and sharing of experiences. The workshop will take place on the S.S. Vallejo, a houseboat in Sausalito. Bring one item for a potluck Thanksgiving picnic; drinks will be provided. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

■ S.F. December 1-3

Living Women's Liberation: A Workshop for Couples
Walt & Maurica Anderson, Betty Reveley, Alan Wendt

Weekend workshop $100 per couple

The women's liberation movement is a challenge to women, a challenge to men, and, in ways we are just beginning to understand, a challenge to couples. We will explore this in encounter, share experiences and consider some humanistic guidelines for working through the changes.

• B.S. December 1-3

Come Out, Come Out, Whoever You Are Don Clark & Al Haimson

Weekend workshop $85

An individual liberation group that invites you to open your closet and explore hidden feelings and wants – the better to know yourself and show yourself, whoever you are.

■ S.F. December 2

Meditation & Encounter
John & Anne Heider

One-day workshop $20

Encounter groups gain in both safety and intensity when meditations are used to teach centering and grounding. This workshop will illustrate the creative alternation of these traditionally opposite approaches to growth and awareness. For both professionals and beginners. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

• B.S. December 3-8

Eclectic Encounter
John Heider

Five-day workshop $245

The richness of contemporary encounter stems from the variety of healing and growth techniques included. This workshop will integrate encounter, gestalt, meditation and body work according to the best knowledge and wisdom of group leader and participants.

Five-day workshop $215

This workshop offers the participant an opportunity to explore the nature and purpose of personal boundaries, whether as illusion or as tools of self-survival working toward greater personal expansion and openness with others.

• B.S. December 10-15

Eclectic Encounter for Professionals
John Heider

Five-day workshop $245

John Heider writes: "My intent is to make clear the art of integrating various human potential techniques into a meaningful, harmonious whole. While primary emphasis will be on the group experience, intellectual discussion will focus on the leader's rationale and behavior. Especially suited for those in the people-helping professions."

• B.S. December 15-17

Psychodrama & Encounter
Walt & Maurica Anderson

Weekend workshop $85

We will use a wide variety of techniques for encountering everybody who's here this weekend, and psychodrama for encountering everybody who isn't.

Working It Through With Mom and/or Dad
Walt & Maurica Anderson

One-day psychodrama workshop $20

Emotional conflicts of the parent-child relationship and ways of dealing with them will be explored by the group, using the spontaneous-dramatization technique of psychodrama to "confront" parents living or dead. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

TRAINING in structural integration is offered only through the Ida P. Rolf Foundation for Structural Integration, and only upon completion of certain prerequisites. Research in rolfing is encouraged by the Guild. Information about training and research, as well as class announcements, may be obtained by writing the Foundation, P.O. Box 1868, Boulder, Colo. 80302.

INDIVIDUAL SESSIONS with practitioners of structural integration are available by appointment only through the following offices:

Esalen Institute, Big Sur — no telephone appointments. Please request appointments in writing. Practitioners include Michael Butler, Al Drucker, Stanley Johnson, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Simone Surpin, Ed Taylor.

Esalen Institute, San Francisco — Telephone for appointments. Keith Gilchrist, Megan Gilchrist, Dub Leigh, Michael Salveson, Larry Swann.

STRUCTURAL PATTERNING is a body system which promotes structural balance and efficiency and economy of movement within the gravitational field. Patterns which block energy in the body are exhanged for those which allow energy to flow. It is particularly effective during or after rolfing, for those who want to develop the use and awareness of their reorganized bodies, to produce further structural change along the same lines, and to rebalance themselves in situations of physical or emotional stress.

A course of private work in structural patterning usually consists of three to five supervised sessions, perhaps with a follow-up session after a few months.

Practitioners available for individual sessions are: Esalen/Big Sur — Marya Melchior; Esalen/San Francisco — Faith Hornbacher.

■ S.F. October 28

Structural Patterning in Stillness & Motion
Faith Hornbacher & Annie McComb

Seminars

■ S.F. THE ESALEN STUDY GROUPS: A Tutorial Program

The Esalen Study Groups provide an educational alternative where the exploration and development of consciousness or styles of being can take place, rather than the acquisition of skills, techniques or information as such. Weekly sessions of these groups include study, dialogue, conversation and opportunity for intellectual inquiry into specific areas of thought in an informal setting. Tutors are also available to help individuals develop independent study programs outside of the weekly meetings (and to act as guides to the wealth of resources within the community).

Study Groups, in most cases, are limited to ten persons. Registration is possible for the first four weeks only or for the entire eight weeks. With tutor and group consent, the Study Groups may continue after 8 weeks.

■ October 4-January 10

Tutorial with Stanley Keleman

Eight Alternate Wednesday evenings

See page 12 for program description.

■ October 17-December 5

Tutorial with William Pennell Rock
Phenomenology, Heidegger and the Upanishads

Eight Tuesday evenings $30 per month

Martin Heidegger, through his development of the principle of phenomenology, has devised a mode of "foundational thought" which is remarkably akin to the sophisticated form of yoga found in the Upanishads. The group will explore this oldest and newest form of yoga by means of some selected reading, but the emphasis will be placed upon discovering together the technique of fundamental thought through practical exercises in phenomenological seeing and ever more refined forms of description. No academic background in these areas is necessary. 8-10:30 p.m.

■ October 18-December 6

Tutorial with Arthur Hastings
Language, Consciousness & Reality

Eight Wednesday evenings $30 per month

Learning how language, consciousness and reality are all causes and effects of each other. We will include how we can talk about internal states, how we select, process and communicate reality through language, and ways of getting outside language controlled reality or of creating new languages. Hastings will provide direct teaching, information and experiences for learning in verbal and nonverbal ways. 8-10:30 p.m.

■ October 19-December 14

Tutorial with Michael Aldrich
Drugs, Myths and Rituals

Eight Thursday evenings $30 per month

An exploration of ancient and modern visionary drug ceremonies relevant to contemporary psychic growth. The following topics will be discussed: Vedic and ancient Chinese magic, intoxicant cults from India to Alexandria, Ismaili alchemy and drug dancers, tantric and Moghul India, American Indian psychedelics and other topics. Suggested readings include: Huard and Wong's Chinese Medicine; Joseph E. Brown's The Sacred Pipe; Arthur Avalon's The Great Liberation; and Baudelaire's Artificial Paradises. 8-10:30 p.m.

■ October 23-December 11

Tutorial with David Sobel
On Health

Eight Monday evenings $30 per month

Health is much more than the absence of disease. It is a vibrant, energetic state of well-being of harmonious psychophysiological integration. This tutorial will explore various techniques for cultivating a positive concept of health and will include: meditation, relaxation training, self-concept modification, dream control, yogic therapy, diet and nutrition, structural integration, reflexology and foot massage, Bate's eye exercises and various other forms of unorthodox medicine. The emphasis will be on practical techniques to increase psychological and physical well-being. 8-10:30 p.m.

THE JUNGIAN PERSPECTIVE

The following seminars, with members of the C. G. Jung Institute of San Francisco, are opportunities to discuss informally various aspects of Jungian thought. These are not lectures – seminar titles suggest an initial focus for conversation and dialogue and indicate the particular area of interest of the various discussants. Each leader is scheduled for two successive evenings to allow for continuing discussion; since seminars are not repetitive, individual registration is possible for any evening.

Seminars are limited to 35 persons and will meet in San Francisco, 8-10:30 p.m. Advance registration necessary. $5 per session, or $35 for the series of eight sessions.

October 24 and 31 (Tuesday evenings): Donald Sandner, "Jung's Early Confrontations with God"

November 6 and 13 (Monday evenings): William Alex, "Dreams and the Unconscious"

November 20 and 27 (Monday evenings): John Perry, "Culture and Myth-Making"

December 4 and 11 (Monday evenings): Crittenden Brookes, "The Actualization of Jungian Thought"

● B.S. October 6-8

Feeling Therapy
Joe Hart, Dominic Cirincione & Richard Corriere

A weekend with some of its founders. Feeling Therapy grew from the experiences of eight therapists all formerly affiliated with the Primal Institute, who had backgrounds in various therapeutic approaches; gestalt, bioenergetics, client-centered, encounter and dream-work. They will discuss their philosophy of feeling, pain, cure and neurosis as well as the research on physiological changes related to intensive abreactive releases. Feeling Therapy is an integrative approach that aims to transform the patient from a non-feeling and symbolic existence to a life of feeling and meaningful expressions.

■ S.F. October 18-December 13

Dante and Capuccino
Stuart Miller & Michael Murphy

Five Wednesday evenings $25

A serious look at Dante's Divine Comedy and the literary and spiritual qualities that have made it a Western masterpiece. Focus will be on the historical background and the significance of the Comedy in the light of Eastern religions and Western psychology. There will be time for coffee (at a convenient cafe) and for experiential exercises will supplement conversation. Limited to 4 participants. Alternate Wednesday evenings, 8-10:30 p.m., Oct. 18, Nov. 1, 15, 29, Dec. 13.

• B.S. October 20-22

Soma, the Sacred Mushroom
Kurt von Meier

Weekend seminar $85

A workshop in identifying, gathering and curing the amanita muscaria, with an introduction to some traditional methods of its preparation and use. We will discuss its chemistry, pharmacology, history and lore and hunt for fresh specimens if the time, weather conditions and gods are willing. The amanita muscaria mushroom is well-known as a catalyst in reaching ecstatic states of consciousness since archaic times. Its recent discovery by poets, scholars and archaeologists brings forth startling evidence of its significance in the history of the world's great religions, literature, art and mythology.

■ S.F. October 30

Dreams, Creativity & Altered States of Consciousness
Stanley Krippner

Morning seminar $7 general; $5 student

(See seminar description under Transpersonal, p. 9.)

• B.S. November 3-5

Design Implications of Contemporary Liberation Movements
Richard Farson & Michael Murphy

Weekend seminar $85

Through consciousness-raising discussions and analytic sessions, participants will examine the causes and goals of a number of liberation movements – women, black, Chicano, Indian, gay, children, those incarcerated against their will in mental hospitals, military service, nursing homes, prisons, etc. – drawing out the implications for the redesign of social institutions, cities, housing, communications, transportation, education, consumer products, recreation. Special consideration will be given to the relationship between the politics of human rights movements and the politics of the human potential movement and the consciousness revolution.

• B.S. November 17-19

Life Without Therapy
Peter Marin

Weekend seminar $85

Though they have their uses, therapeutic approaches to reality or experience are universally narrow and limited. Techniques have a place in experience but they are peripheral and not central to it. Beyond therapy there is always the low-humming reality of day-to-day existence, so much more real, so much more sustaining – if one can only learn to stick with it. Therapy is, ideally, one way of getting to it, but to make use of therapy one must know enough to get past the intrinsic limits of therapy and the endless and constrictive games and roles therapists enjoy playing. Too many people lose themselves in trying to discover what they are, and this workshop (for therapists or their clients) is about avoiding that.

■ S.F. November 18

Experience of Structural Integration: A Rolfing Conference
Michael Salveson, Keith Gilchrist & Faith Hornbacher

One-day seminar $5

An opportunity for persons interested in rolfing to explore the possibilities and implications of this technique. The program will include: a film of Dr. Ida Rolf at work; an introductory talk on rolfing basics; the experience and analysis of each person's structural patterns; a demonstration of the first session of rolf processing; a demonstration of the structural patterning system; a panel of lay and medical people who have been rolfed; and small group discussions with rolf practitioners on the Esalen Staff. 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

■ S.F. Wednesday, December 6

Human Transformation as a National Goal
George Leonard

Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Our present national goals are difficult to attain, perhaps unattainable, precisely because we have set them too low. They would be easier to reach if they thrilled us and stretched us and pushed us all up against the edge of adventure. Perhaps the real adventure of this age lies in the creation of what amounts to a new human species. Mr. Leonard will discuss the promise and peril, the pain and joy, of this momentous undertaking. His talk will be a prelude to his Big Sur workshop, Dec. 8-10.

• B.S. December 8-10

The Inevitable Transformation of Humankind
George Leonard

Weekend seminar $85

(See S.F. program description Dec. 6, above.)

■ S.F. December 9

Herbs & Things: A Massage Oil Workshop
Jeanne Rose

One-day workshop $20

An exploration into the uses of herbs and plants for body and massage oil. We will make herbal oils and teas for the release of physical and emotional tensions. We will also discuss aromatherapy, sensory awareness through plants, herbal medicine, and the general uses and abuses of herbs. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

• B.S. December 17-22

The Esoteric Psychologies: Magic, the Occult and "Supernatural Phenomena"
Robert Ornstein

Five-day workshop $245

What is the difference between a "paranormal" event and a "non-ordinary" event? What is the evidence for these unusual occurrences? What stops us from seeing them? How can we change ourselves and the larger community around us? Some personal discussion, facts and exercises.

• B.S. December 22-26

Christmas Celebration — Alan Watts

Four-day workshop $220

An informal seminar on the life and teaching of Jesus of Nazareth in the light of our knowledge of comparative religions and the psychology of mystical experience. At midnight on Christmas eve there will be a celebration of the midnight mass according to the rite of the "missa glossolalia" (contemplative literature).

■ S.F. January 13

Unorthodox Medicine
David Sobel

One-day seminar $20

A discussion of unorthodox medical approaches with an emphasis on positive health, preventive medicine and the medicine of the whole person. Areas to be drawn from include: primitive, ancient and Hippocratic medicine. Chinese medicine and acupuncture, yogic therapy, American Indian medicine, naturopathy, homeopathy, zone therapy, nutritional therapy, chiropractics, structural integration, relaxation therapy, and biofeedback training. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

Gestalt

Gestalt Awareness Training is a theory and approach to personality integration first developed by Fritz and Laura Perls, though new styles and methods are being developed by other leaders. The goal of the training is to assist the participant to utilize excitement and awareness and to develop responsibility.

Excitement*—to have life energy freely available and flowing, not blocked. Awareness—to be conscious of my energy as and where it flows; to have action accessible to consciousness, not happening mechanically. Responsibility—to know and act on the principle that I am the one who acts, thinks and feels whatever it may be that I act, think or feel. No one else or no event influences me except with my consent.

At times, everyone in the workshop may work simultaneously with some awareness exercise, or in interaction with each other. More traditionally, a fair amount of time will be spent with participants working individually with the leader. The starting point for such individual work is whatever is here and now of most involving concern for the organism; a fantasy or dream, an interaction with another person, a memory, or a physical posture. "Problems" are welcome as starting points, if they are truly present and not merely verbally presented. In keeping with the gestalt emphasis on personal responsibility, the leader usually leaves the initiative for such work with the participant. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients", but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

Gestalt & Structural Integration
Richard Price, Hector Prestera & Esalen Staff
Four-week program $950

Structural Integration, while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body processes in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolfings as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.)

• B.S. November 10-12
Open Gestalt
Jack Downing

The Art of Emotional Nourishment: Self-Induced Nourishment & Toxicity
Jerry Greenwald
Five-day workshop $215

Allowing the self to spontaneously evolve is the natural way of growth. Toxic patterns include anything a person does which hampers this natural process. Participants may work on any "problem" which disrupts their aliveness, excitement and joy. Emphasis will also be on discovering more nourishing ways of being and relating.

• B.S. December 3-8
Improvisational Gestalt Workshop
Stella Resnick
Five-day workshop $245

Together we will focus on developing the different parts the participants bring to the workshop and the polarities (opposites) which are always present. Using gestalt therapy and techniques of the actor, participants will perform their life's scripts for and with each other in order to better recognize and enjoy their cast of characters. Bring costumes and props, your usual or fantastic fantasy.

GESTALT PROGRAMS IN THE BAY AREA

For October, November and December the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco is continuing to hold its workshops in co-operation with Esalen. Consequently, no other brochure describing the Gestalt Institute's workshops will be distributed.

■ S.F. Thursday, October 5
Gestalt Therapy Lecture-Demonstration
Stella Resnick
Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m., First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

People often have their greatest difficulties as a result of negative process, i.e., leaving the here and now experience and using up their energy with unpleasant memories of the past, catastrophic anticipation of the future, and negative interpretations of the present. Dr. Resnick will address her talk and demonstration to how she works with Gestalt therapy to facilitate awareness of these unpleasant processes and to learn to replace the pain process with pleasurable and creative process.

■ S.F. October 5-19; November 2-16
Lunch with John Enright
[FREE]; Bring your lunch; First three Thursdays in October & November; 12:15 to 1:30 p.m.; 1776 Union Street, San Francisco.

Lunchtime discussions; bring a topic you're interested in.

■ S.F. October 11 & 22
Taking Responsibility
John Enright
Single evening & one-day workshop $25

"Taking responsibility" sounds like brushing your teeth or "being mature" – a drag. In fact, to know gut-level that I am fully responsible for everything I do or that "happens to" me is one of the straightest paths to liberation. We will meet Wednesday evening to get acquainted and start some exercises. The exercises will be continued in writing for the next few days and brought to completion in Sunday's all-day workshop. Responsibility for past and future as well as "here and now" will be considered. Wednesday, 8:30-10:30 p.m.; Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

■ S.F. October 13-15 and October 14-15

Gestalt Workplayshop at Wilbur Hot Springs
Richard Louis Miller & Friends

October 13-15: Part One. $65 per person.

Three-day gestalt training workplayshop.

Initial training session will be held Friday. Trainees will then lead a gestalt workplayshop Satruday and Sunday. Training and supervision will be conducted by Richard Louis Miller and staff. Friday noon through Sunday before dinner.

October 14-15: Part Two. $35 per person.

Two-day gestalt workplayshop.

Saturday noon through Sunday before dinner. The leaders will be trainees who completed Part One above, supervised by Richard Louis Miller and staff.

Both groups will live in the community at Dr. Miller's country home in "Wilbur Hot Springs", about two hours northeast of San Francisco.

■ S.F. October 28-29

THE LOMI SCHOOL

The Lomi School, recently located in a new home and working center in the Santa Cruz Mountains, is under the direction of Robert Hall, Alyssa Hall, Richard Heckler, Catherine Heckler, Vincent Regalbuto, and Zelita Regalbuto. At its residential facility, the Lomi School is offering intensive programs of awareness development, integrating mental and body disciplines in a daily living situation. The five-week sessions include: individual and group gestalt therapy, a full series of structural integration and polarity therapy, hatha yoga and energy releasing movement, a special health and vitality producing diet, and emphasis on health, clear thinking, personal attention and an encouragement toward meditation. Weekend programs are briefer exposures to work in these same areas.

The Lomi School schedule for this fall is:

Evening Session:

An evening with the Lomi School to talk about their approach, philosophy and activities.

Monday, December 11. 8-10:30 p.m.

$3 general; $2 student. First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Sts., S.F.

Weekend Sessions:

October 13-15, December 8-10
$70 tuition, including room and meals. $20 deposit required.

Five-week Sessions:

Sept. 4-Oct. 8, Oct. 23-Nov. 26
$1250 tuition, including room and meals. $250 deposit required.

Register through Esalen/San Francisco.

(More gestalt programs on following page)

Transpersonal

Transpersonal generally refers to transcendence, mystical experience, peak experience and parapsychological phenomena. The following programs will explore insights and research into the physical and psychological aspects of such experience.

■ S.F. Tuesday evenings & Saturday mornings

Aikido and Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau

Continuing Program

One meeting per week: $15 per month (general & student); Two meetings per week: $25 per month (general), $20 per month (student).

A continuous program of instruction in energy awareness and in aikido as a physical expression of that awareness. This course meets each week; participants can be in one or two sessions per week, with tuition based on the schedule of participation. Tuesday, 8-9:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10-12 noon. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

● B.S. October 6-8

Introduction to Transpersonal
Robert Frager

Weekend workshop $85

A weekend of meditation, contemplation and relaxation. We will do light exercises, meditation and chanting in the mornings and evenings, and transpersonal games such as yoga tag in the afternoon. Also included will be exposure to psychosynthesis techniques and aikido.

■ S.F. October 6-8

Extending Awareness Through Hypnosis
Lee Pulos

Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will combine the approaches of hypnosis and psychosynthesis. Hypnosis and self-hypnosis will be taught so that participants can focus in on themselves through hypnotically induced dreams, automatic writing and drawings. These self-discoveries will be extended through guided fantasies, symbolic imagery and learning how to tune into the "inner theater" of one's unconscious.

■ S.F. October 7-8

Meditation and Other Psychological Exercises
Claudio Naranjo

Weekend workshop $60

Meditation, self-insight practices and communication procedures. An experiential weekend. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■ S.F. Thursday, October 12

Intellectual Yoga — Alan Watts

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

"In spiritual circles the intellectual faculty is often put down, but there is such a thing as jnana yoga, the way of intelligence, which needs to be more widely known."

● B.S. October 15-20

A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

Five-day workshop $215

"My work is living and teaching a way of life which gradually develops the capacity to live in the here and now and to be all there for whatever life brings. Working with the traditional methods of meditation and aikido, and the contemporary methods of gestalt and sensory awareness, this workshop will introduce participants to a Western approach to centering."

■ S.F. October 19-December 14

Altered States of Consciousness Applied: Bio-Feedback Yoga
Eleanor Criswell

Eight Thursday evenings $35 general; $25 student

(See description under The Human Body, p. 12).

● B.S. October 20-22

Magicland of Esalen
Michael Kerber & Jackie Clare

Weekend workshop $85

A weekend for the creation of music and tuning your body in perfect harmony with nature's rhythms. Massage, Arica Training exercises, hatha yoga, singing, chanting, meditation, dance and field trips into Big Sur. Bring musical instruments.

● B.S. October 20-22

Soma, the Sacred Mushroom
Kurt von Meier

Weekend seminar $85

(See description under Seminars, p. 6).

● B.S. October 20-22

Meditation: Six Forms — Robert Ornstein

Weekend workshop $85

There are many modes and uses of meditation. We will try six and attempt to taste all the different experiences which they can bring. Stories, music, breathing, guided thought, mantra, and self-observation, each with an integrative session.

■ S.F. October 21-22

Energy Awareness — Robert Nadeau

Weekend workshop $50

We are energy beings! Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude and centering. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■ S.F. October 28

Finding Your Own Sound
Bernard Aaronson

One-day workshop $20

We will focus on a variety of approaches to chanting derived from Eastern and Western mystical traditions. Back chanting and/or vocal massage will be demonstrated. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Workshops with Stanley Krippner

Dreams, Creativity
& Altered States of Consciousness

Dr. Stanley Krippner, Director of the Maimonides Dream Laboratory, is involved in ongoing research on dreams and altered states of consciousness. He is particularly interested in dreams, hypnosis, reverie, psychedelic experiences, fantasy, ESP and meditation as means to enter deeper regions of the psyche and as approaches to creative development.

• B.S. Oct. 27-29 Weekend Workshop (with Dan Brown) $85

This workshop will utilize dream recall, guided imagery, group hypnosis, sensory bombardment, massage and body movement experiences to enter altered states of consciousness. In these states, participants will be trained to gain access to the personal and universal symbols, archetypes and thematic concepts which encourage creative development.

■ S.F. Sunday, October 29 Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

An evening with Dr. Krippner to discuss his work.

■ S.F. October 30 Morning seminar; $7 general, $5 student

An informal presentation of anecdotal, clinical and experimental data demonstrating the close link between altered states of consciousness and creativity. A number of colored slides will be used as examples. 9:30-12:30 a.m. Limited to 35 participants.

■ S.F. October 28-29

Weekend Workshop with Claudio Naranjo

Weekend workshop $60

10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

• B.S. October 29-November 3

Workshop for Religious Professionals
Robert Nadeau

Five-day workshop $245

We are spiritual beings already one with the source of all things. Through meditation and other awareness techniques, we will help clear the misunderstandings which cloud one's personal experience as a spiritual being. For religious professionals who wish to experience deeper spiritual realms.

■ S.F. November 3-5

A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

Weekend workshop $50

(See B.S. workshop description, Oct. 15-20, above.)

• B.S. November 3-5

Centering — Robert Nadeau

Weekend workshop $85

Participants will start with centering practices in the physical dimension, move to centering as mental awareness, and culminate in meditation with centering as a focus for spiritual unfolding.

■ S.F. Thursday, November 9

The New Consciousness — Richard Roberts

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

An examination of discoveries in science and psychology related to ancient Gnostic and occult wisdom, including the Tarot Major Arcana and its relation to the Jungian archetypes. New theories explaining ESP, PK and precognition, plus a unique concept of time. Are we getting help in our evolution from other planes of consciousness? A dynamic exchange is invited from the audience.

• B.S. November 10-12

Altered States of Consciousness: Applied
Eleanor Criswell

Weekend workshop $85

(See S.F. description, Oct. 19-Dec. 14, under The Human Body, p. 12).

■ S.F. November 10-12

Psychoenergetics — Buryl Payne

Weekend workshop $60

Psychoenergetics refers to ways of transforming the energies of the organism into higher form. Methods and techniques for affecting this transformation will be presented, based upon the work of Reich, Korzybski, Gurdjieff, biofeedback and kundalini yoga.

• B.S. November 12-17

Psychoenergetics — Buryl Payne

Five-day workshop $215

(See S.F. workshop description, Nov. 10-12, above.)

■ S.F. Monday, November 13

The Symbolic life & the Astrological Approach to its Fulfillment — Dane Rudhyar

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

At no time has symbolism and the meaning and use of symbols attracted so much attention. Rudhyar will discuss the relationship between facts and symbols, between existential and archetypal knowing and experiencing. The use of the birth-chart as a mandala symbol of operative wholeness and as a guidance system throughout life will be discussed and examples given.

■ S.F. Wednesday, November 15

A Modern I-Ching: A New Interpretation of the 360 Sabian Symbols — Dane Rudhyar

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

The discussion will cover the way these symbols were obtained, their remarkable internal structure when they are interpreted as interrelated phases of any cyclic process, and their application to the interpretation of astrological charts. Simple techniques will be given which make it possible to use the symbols as an oracle to throw a light on baffling problems and situations.

• B.S. November 19-24

Tuning Your Energy Body — Robert Nadeau

Five-day workshop $245

All of us have moments when we are balanced: when we are centered in ourselves, yet open and at one with the richness of life around us. Such moments do not have to be rare accidents. We exist in a vast reservoir of energy that we can learn to tune into and use to enrich our lives on every level. This workshop is an experience in the application of this life energy to relaxation, concentration, healing and life in general.

• B.S. November 24-26

Working with Sufi Stories — Robert Ornstein

Weekend seminar $85

Stories can be used in several ways; they can be humorous and allow us to laugh at parts of ourselves usually obscured, they can entertain and create movies within our heads, or function as drama with others. And they can create a special working consciousness enabled by no other means. A weekend of listening, dreaming, reflecting, meditating and laughing about stories. Bring your favorites.

■ S.F. Wednesday, November 29

The Human Biocomputer — John Lilly

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

John Lilly has expanded his mind-brain-body biocomputer model of human to include the "essence". This will be a discussion of his ideas which will serve as an introduction to his weekend workshop, December 8-10. (See description below.)

• B.S. December 1-3

Maps of Consciousness — Ralph Metzner

Weekend workshop $85

A weekend in which a variety of perspectives on "the path" will be presented, discussed and experienced. Participants will learn some basic techniques of the yoga of light-fire (agni yoga) as taught in the School of Actualism. These are Western yoga methods for expanding and enlightening awareness and perception. We will also explore aspects of astrology and the Tarot, viewed as symbolic teachings and guides to initiation.

■ S.F. December 8-10

The Human Biocomputer — John Lilly

Weekend workshop $50

Using methods derived from Eastern and Western mystical traditions as well as modern science, this program will work to move participants toward "essence". (Recommended readings: The Human Biocomputer; Center of the Cyclone)

• B.S. January 28-February 2

Workshop for Potential Psychics
Robert Nadeau & Ron Jones

Five-day workshop $245

A workshop for those who think they might be sensitive or psychic and wish to explore, understand and be more comfortable with it. There will be discussion, awareness practices to clarify your ability, and techniques to be at ease with it.

ARICA TRAINING

The Arica Training offers a system of human development carefully structured to produce a total integration of mind, emotion and body. It is possible to learn how to reach and maintain a place of peace, joy and harmony — the natural condition of man — his heritage.

Workshops are designed as an introduction to the total process and are experiences within themselves. The work is done in groups, insuring the support and high energy of a number of people working together. Arica exercises have been gathered from ancient and modern systems, refined and simplified. They include physical movement, chanting, music, meditation — all with a foundation of natural rhythm.

The Arica staff consists of a group of people who have completed the basic process, plus additional training, allowing them to pass it to others. Workshop leaders will be drawn from that staff.

Wednesday, December 13

Evening Introduction to Arica Training

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

San Francisco Workshops:

October 14-15

December 3-8	Five-day workshop	$215
December 8-10	Weekend workshop	$95

SELECTIVE AWARENESS

Usually the energy of one's mind/body complex is distributed throughout the five senses. Using exercises and relaxing techniques, a degree of focus can be realized which allows one to put this energy to various uses. Participants will be shown how to organize their concentration and energy on selected goals to develop such things as speed reading, photographic memory, increased self-confidence or improved abilities in sports, music, etc. We will discuss how this method is also used in medical and psychiatric contexts and to induce non-drug altered states of consciousness, meditational states and hypnosis.

The Human Body

AIKIDO is a Japanese art of self defense with the emphasis placed on centering, harmony and blending. It is presented as a physical manifestation of energy and spiritual Laws of the Universe.

THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE is concerned with the integration of posture and movement.
Alexander discovered that a basic correction of balance, and an accompanying reduction in stress, occurs when that particular relationship of the head to the neck which permits "the greatest possible lengthening of the spine in each and every act" is freely maintained.
This re-education is not accomplished by physical exercises or self-manipulative positioning, but by means of a conditioning procedure which alters the body image and through it the capacity for postural stability.

BIOENERGETIC ANALYSIS attempts to understand the life of the body through its expression of vitality, gesture, emotion, feeling and relationship. The body is viewed as an energetic process that participates as the world in the world of instinctual, social, imaginative and creative realms. Bioenergetics seeks to develop an individual's range of expression by working through this energetic process.

MASSAGE at Esalen is seen and taught as a caring relationship between two people. Consideration is given first to the feelings and the sensory experience of both partners, and after that to technique. Workshops are attended by both couples and singles.

POLARITY THERAPY is an intensive pressure-point massage system similar in both theory and practice to Chinese acupuncture. Developed and synthesized by Dr. Randolph Stone from Oriental traditions many centuries old, its purpose is to realign posture and to release blocked energy throughout the body. Although advanced work in polarity therapy requires extensive training, a number of its more basic techniques are accessible to the interested layman.

SENSORY AWARENESS is Charlotte Selver's name for the work she studied with Elsa Gindler in Berlin and brought to the United States in 1938. Workshops in Sensory Awareness aim at a state of intellectual quiet in which each activity can be fully felt and allowed to find its natural way, free of inhibitions, techniques and images. When ideas are stilled, sense perceptions coming from the entire organism enable the person to function authentically, according to his nature, in all situations. Closely akin, in its pure form, to the practice of zen, Sensory Awareness brings the essential character of meditation to every aspect of daily living.

TAI-CHI CHUAN is an ancient Chinese exercise discipline practiced for health, meditation, energy flow and self-defense. The slow, flowing movements of this "shadow boxing" comprise the oldest and "softest" of the Asian martial arts. Developed from the Chinese practice of nei kung, or inner exercise, it is part of the system of Taoist yoga. The term tai chi can be translated as "grand ultimate" and is expressed by the familiar symbol of yang and yin. It is thus rooted in the Chinese philosophy of change as expressed in the I Ching.

WORKSHOPS WITH STANLEY KELEMAN – SAN FRANCISCO

During the fall, workshops with Stanley Keleman will focus on an exploration of ways in which the life of the body influences the emotions, the intellect and the culture. These will be primarily teaching groups in which participants will be encouraged to contribute from their own life experiences.

Thursday, October 19 – An Evening with Stanley Keleman
Single evening event: $3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.: First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, S.F.

October 4-January 10 – Open Tutorial
Eight alternate Wednesday evenings $120
The purpose of this group is to explore the energetic perspective as it relates to energy, movement and expression. Experiential and conceptual work will be combined. The emphasis will be on education rooted in personal, embodied experience. 8-10 p.m., every other Wednesday evening.

October 8-January 21 – Professionals' Tutorial
Four one-day workshops $170
Therapeutic and creative process seen from an energetic perspective, with special attention to the biological continuum of experience and the relationship between physical structure and behavior. Open to people in the helping professions, the arts, and science. Please describe your background in a brief letter of application. One Sunday each month, October through January, beginning October 8.

October 21-22 – Open Weekend Workshop – $70
10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday

November 17-19 – The Vitality of Death
Extended Weekend Workshop (with Peter Koestenbaum) $80
The fear of dying is one of the central blocks to being fully alive. In working with participants individually and as a group, bioenergetic and phenomenological principles will be applied to living situations. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

December 16 – Open One Day Workshop – $40
10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday

● B.S. October 1-6

Centering Through Massage & Movement
Gabrielle Roth

Five-day workshop $245

If we can accept our bodies as they are, we can discover the natural life source in each one of us. An introduction into internal movement using the following tools – breathing, meditation, movement, massage and music.

● B.S. October 1-6

Psycho-Physical-Synthesis: A Way to Stay in the Flow — Bernard Gunther

Five-day workshop $245

A workshop that will move to the experiencing of a deeper mind body being integration and the practical application of these methods and their use in every day life, relationships and situations. In this group, you will experience and come into contact with core aspects of yourself, nature and others through the amalgamation of sensory awakening and psychosynthesis processes along with other methods both eastern and western; physical, mental and spiritual.

■ S.F. October 4-December 6

Human Anatomy — Ed Jackson, M.D.

Ten Wednesday evenings $90

An anatomy course oriented to therapies and disciplines that require a concern for human structure and function: movement, gestalt, dance, massage. Emphasis will be on the skeletal and muscular systems. The material will be presented both through lecture and direct examination and experience of the living body. Ten Wednesday evenings, 7:30-9:30 p.m. Limited to 24 participants. A non-refundable deposit of $50 is required.

■ S.F. October 4-December 21

Massage Training — Gunver Jackson

Twelve week class $260

Participants will receive instruction in massage techniques and will work to develop receptivity to touch, both giving and receiving. Relaxation, breathing and gestalt awareness exercises will be used to supplement thorough massage training. Gunver Jackson writes: "The goal here is to teach that life is an act, not a thought. Action in life and our basic need for touch will be combined in the teaching of massage."

The course consists of twelve three-hour classes in massage scheduled for two separate groups. There are also ten classes in human anatomy, taught by Ed Jackson, M.D. The anatomy course is limited to 24 participants and is open to the general public.

Massage Group I: 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., twelve Wednesday mornings, October 4-December 20; limited to eight participants.

Massage Group II: 7 to 10 p.m., twelve Thursday evenings, October 5-December 21; limited to ten participants.

Anatomy Class: 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., ten Wednesday evenings, October 4-December 6.

A non-refundable deposit of $150 is required. Indicate whether Group I or Group II is preferred when registering.

$4 per session, $10 for the series; 8-10:30 p.m.;

Washington Elementary School, 2300 Grove St., Berkeley.

Oct. 10: Centering

Oct. 17: The Breath as Key

Oct. 24: Self and Other

Using a variety of approaches from both East and West, we will explore what it means to accept our human existence as incarnate in the body. Sessions will be experiential, with some opportunity for questions and discussion. Wear comfortable clothing and bring a blanket. Available as a series or as individual sessions.

■ S.F. October 14

Polarity Therapy — Anne Kent Rush

One-day workshop $20

This workshop will include experiential learning of selected basic techniques, individual physical exercises to facilitate energy balance and circulation, and some discussion of the theoretical principles of polarity therapy. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday. Limited to those working with the body or in people-helping professions.

● B.S. October 15-20

Encounter & Massage — Harry Sloan

Five-day workshop $230

● B.S. October 15-20

A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

Five-day workshop $215

"My work is living and teaching a way of life which gradually develops the capacity to live in the here and now and to be all there for whatever life brings. Working with the traditional methods of meditation and aikido, and the contemporary methods of gestalt and sensory awareness, this workshop will introduce participants to a Western approach to centering."

■ S.F. October 18-December 6

Belly Dancing — Barbara Clemans

Eight Wednesday evenings $3.50 per session or $25 for eight sessions

"I have studied many ethnic dance forms and have found belly dancing to be the most female of the arts; perhaps because it originated as a dance of empathy for women during childbirth. I have also discovered methods of freeing the movement range and energy flow in the lower half of the body. I would like to share these discoveries with you using breath awareness, psychomotor techniques, and belly dancing. The emphasis is not on performance but on enjoyment of movement." For women only, eight Wednesday evenings, 7:30-9:30 p.m., Oct. 18, 25, Nov. 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, Dec. 6. Wear loose, comfortable clothing, and do not eat heavily before the class.

■ S.F. October 19-December 14

Altered States of Consciousness Applied: Bio-Feedback Yoga — Eleanor Criswell

Eight Thursday evenings $35 general; $25 student

A workshop of gently meeting your divine self, beginning with a contemporary Sadhana which is based on Raja (Ashtanga) yoga, the yoga of consciousness, psychophysiology and bio-feedback. The eight limbs of Patanjali's yoga and diet will be intertwined with insights from altered states of consciousness research. Application of yogic practices and meditation in educational settings, personal growth and transpersonal experiences will be discussed. Participants will be encouraged to keep a yoga journal, experience bio-feedback and share their responses to yogic literature. Wear loose and comfortable clothing. Eight Thursday evenings, 8-10:30 p.m., Oct. 19, 26, Nov. 2, 9, 16, 30, Dec. 7, 14.

INDIVIDUAL MASSAGE APPOINTMENTS are available in both Big Sur and San Francisco to program registrants and Friends of Esalen. In Big Sur, contact the office during your stay at Esalen. In San Francisco, call 771-1710 for appointments.

Tai Chi & Massage
Peggy Morrison & Judyth Weaver
Five-day workshop $245

● B.S. October 27-29
Releasing Fixed Patterns — Christie King
Weekend workshop $85
The process of living builds defenses and rigid patterns into our bodies. From childhood our nervous systems learn to react with certain selected fixed patterns This conditioning greatly restricts body awareness and prohibits alternative ways of body movement. Dr. Moishe Feldenkrais has developed sequences of profound, simple exercises and through these our awareness will be directed to releasing fixed patterns in the body and the corresponding opening of the whole body's energies.

● B.S. October 29-November 3
Freeing the Body — Esalen Staff
Five-day workshop $215
This program introduces various body-oriented disciplines such as massage, movement, the Rolf method of structural integration, and yoga. The aim is to give group members greater awareness of their physical structures and to demonstrate methods for achieving freer movement, more expressiveness and life feeling.

■ S.F. October 31-December 5
Intensive Breath Workshop
George Downing
Six Tuesday evenings $40
The breath is a microcosm of the personality. Learning to find and unlock the breath can lead to more richness and certainty of emotion, increased energy, realignment of physical posture and a deeper grasp of one's personal rhythm of existence. We will progressively explore these possibilities. Some gestalt will be used to clarify nonverbal body messages. Limited to 12 persons. Six Tuesday evenings, 7:30-10:30 p.m., Oct. 31, Nov. 7, 14, 21, 28, Dec. 5.

■ S.F. November 3-5

Tuning Your Energy Body — Robert Nadeau

Five-day workshop $245

All of us have moments when we are balanced: when we are centered in ourselves yet open and at one with the richness of life around us. Such moments do not have to be rare accidents. We exist in a vast reservoir of energy that we can learn to tune into and use to enrich our lives on every level. This workshop is an experience in the application of this life energy to relaxation, concentration, healing and life in general.

■ S.F. Monday, November 20

On Yoga: A Lecture & Demonstration
Joel Kramer

Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.;
Washington Elementary School, 2300 Grove, Berkeley.

An evening designed to acquaint the interested non-practitioner, as well as the practitioner, with yoga. Mr. Kramer will demonstrate hatha yoga and discuss yoga both in classical structure and as an evolutionary approach to living in the modern world.

• B.S. November 24-26

Advanced Massage
George Downing & Anne Kent Rush

Weekend workshop $85

This workshop will include a review of basic methods and an exploration of a variety of different techniques and approaches including shiatsu, Reichian massage, Proskauer massage, zone and polarity therapies, how to "read" bodies, the role of breathing in massage and the relation of massage to other means of growth.

• B.S. November 26-December 1

Bodies' Mysteries: A Bioenergetic Workshop
Ian Grand

Five-day workshop $245

We will explore the mystery and adventure, problems and possibilities in being earthly bodies. We will employ bioenergetic work, thought, dance and movement to share how we think about and enact our loving and our purpose, our sacredness and our sexuality.

• B.S. November 26-December 1

Tai Chi Massage — Judy Unell

Weekend workshop $85

■ S.F. December 2

Body Awareness — George Downing

One-day workshop $20

Our emphasis will be on the flow of energy in the body: learning how to feel it, to heighten it and balance it, and to use it as a source of support in relations with others. We will use a number of methods, both verbal and nonverbal, including body fantasy, gestalt, movement, breath awareness, Feldenkrais techniques, and energy exchange exercises. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

■ S.F. December 2-3

Jnana Yoga: The Yoga of Self Knowledge
Joel Kramer

Weekend workshop $50

Different yogas are doors or routes of exploration into the nature of existence. Jnana yoga opens the door to the eternal via the use of the mind. Through jnana one learns to see the nature, function and limitations of the intellect. Jnana yoga will be introduced as a vehicle for self inquiry and as a way of examining the nature of psychological and spiritual structure and clarifying the meaning and importance of meditation. No previous experience in yoga necessary. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Knots Are from Nots — Gabrielle Roth

Five-day workshop $245

(See B.S. workshop description Dec. 10-15, above.)

Psychosynthesis

Psychosynthesis is an inclusive and positive conception of man that considers him dynamically as a being in a process of personal growth within an evolving universe. It includes the superconscious as well as the libido, the imagination as well as the complexes, the will as well as the instinctual drives. More than a theory, it is a way of looking at man; a practical working method which leads to greater unity, which can be used for harmonizing the many often conflicting elements of our inner life. Psychosynthesis is not limited to awareness, expansion or experience—it is also a way of pulling it all together, an approach which fosters the balanced development of body, feelings and mind and their harmonious integration around a unifying center of being and awareness, the Transpersonal Self. Psychosynthesis assists each individual in reaching toward this higher Self, and helps him use its energy and guidance to bring about a more joyful and effective actualization of the unfolding meaning and value of his life. Psychosynthesis chooses among a large number of methods and techniques those that are most appropriate to each existential situation.

Some of these can be: guided imagery, movement, self-identification, gestalt, meditation, symbolic art work, ideal models, writing and journal keeping and exploration of the superconscious. The emphasis is not on producing immediate breakthroughs, although this often occurs, but rather on fostering a gradual process of growth that, with continuing application, can gain increasing momentum and ultimately become a life-style.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS TRAINING

The following Esalen Institute psychosynthesis program is offered in cooperation with the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis (Los Angeles) and is coordinated by its president, Dr. Robert Gerard. It is part of a series of professional workshops exploring the techniques of psychosynthesis in depth.

■ S.F. October 6-8

Professional Training in Psychosynthesis: Intuitive Awareness
Robert & Donna Gerard

Weekend workshop $75

Focus will be on techniques designed to actualize intuitive potentials. Intuition cuts through emotional distortions and intellectual rationalizations to reveal the essence behind appearances. Intuition is the power to perceive directly "What is" and "What can be," serving as an inner guide in human relationships and life situations. We will explore systematic ways of maximizing our intuitive skills and practical methods of helping others to develop their intuition.

The following training program, as well as all the following Esalen Institute psychosynthesis programs, are offered in cooperation with the Psychosynthesis Institute, Redwood City, and are coordinated by its directors, Jim and Susan Vargiu.

■ S.F. October 10-November 19

Psychosynthesis Training Series for Professionals
Jim & Susan Vargiu

Six Tuesday evenings plus a weekend $180

A program designed for psychotherapists, educators, counselors, and others involved in the helping professions. The group will explore the fundamentals of psychosynthesis, theoretically and experientially, in a coordinated program designed to give each participant both the understanding and the personal experience needed to begin to utilize and apply psychosynthesis within his own field. We will work together so that each can see the process of psychosynthesis at work, both in himself and in others. There will be assignments and exercises to complete between meetings. Further individual work during the six week period can be arranged.

Six Tuesday evenings, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., October 10 through November 14. Weekend workshop November 18-19. For application form, contact Esalen/San Francisco.

Feeling Therapy
Joe Hart, Dominic Cirincione & Richard Corriere

Weekend seminar $95

A weekend with some of its founders. Feeling Therapy grew from the experiences of eight therapists, all formerly affiliated with the Primal Institute, who had backgrounds in various therapeutic approaches; gestalt, bioenergetics, client-centered, encounter and dream-work. They will discuss their philosophy of feeling, pain, cure and neurosis as well as the research on physiological changes related to intensive abreactive releases. Feeling Therapy is an integrative approach that aims to transform the patient from a non-feeling and symbolic existence to a life of feeling and meaningful expressions.

■ S.F. October 21
A Unified Field Theory of Group Work
John Enright

One-day workshop $22

John Enright writes: "Nothing works for everybody; practically anything works for somebody sometime. From my experience with a wide range of clients in many settings using different approaches, I have developed a system for defining what needs to be known to answer any question that can be asked about what to do in a group. The morning will be devoted to outlining the system; the afternoon to applying it to problems brought in by participants." 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Saturday.

• B.S. October 22-27
Gestalt Awareness Training for Health Professionals
Jack Rosenberg

Five-day workshop $275

This workshop is designed for people in the health professions — dental, medical and allied fields, including nurses, technicians and assistants; spouses are particularly encouraged to attend. A factor in health care, often forgotten, is the health of those who provide care for others. The emphasis in this workshop will be on ways to apply gestalt and body awareness techniques to both the participants' practice and inner life. Sessions in hatha yoga and movement will be included.

• B.S. October 29-November 3

Workshop for Religious Professionals

Big Sur Information

For reservations and information, write or call:

Esalen Institute
Big Sur, Ca. 93920
Phone: (408) 667-2335
10 to 5, Monday through Saturday
10 to 9, Sunday

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Deposits accompanying the reservations are required as follows: $20 for weekend programs; $70 for 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $400 for 4-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

PROGRAM COSTS: cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra. Foreign currency: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. Esalen accepts Master Charge and American Express.

GROUNDS ARE CLOSED EXCEPT BY RESERVATION. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

CHECK-IN/CHECK-OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening; however, guests are welcome to arrive earlier in the afternoon. All programs begin with dinner on Sunday evening; weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday evening. The last session of a five-day program is Friday morning. Two-week and four-week programs usually have final sessions on the last Friday morning. Weekend programs end on Sunday after the morning session. Check-out time is noon of the final day of all programs.

ACCOMMODATIONS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property – in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms – is strictly prohibited.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name.

From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon. It is identified on some road maps as States Hot Springs or Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – Reservations Only.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE FROM MONTEREY: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is available between 11:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. on Fridays and Sundays at $10 per person from Monterey Airport or Greyhound Terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen Representative.

All books listed elsewhere in the brochure may be ordered by using the coupon.

THE ESALEN PUBLISHING PROGRAM WITH VIKING PRESS

Far-ranging investigations, divinations and reports from the movement to develop human potentialities, highlighting recent work at Esalen.

Golf in the Kingdom
by Michael Murphy
$7.95, hardbound

On the fog-shrouded golf course called Burningbush, Michael Murphy is swept into a magical world where untold potentials can be unleashed in a backswing governed by true gravity. A bagful of knowledge about the Higher Self is revealed through the metaphor of the game as Shivas Irons, the Scottish golf pro, leads Michael around the Links of Burningbush and into a place where the monster spirits are opening up the world.

The Farther Reaches of Human Nature
by Abraham Maslow
$12.50, hardbound; $2.95, paper.

This adventurous volume is the last work Dr. Maslow completed before his death. In it he goes beyond earlier writings to carry the concerns of psychology into the realm of joy, creativity and spiritual experience, sketching a psychology for the highest of which man is capable.

Psychosynthesis
by Roberto Assagioli
$7.50, hardbound; $2.75, paper

A practical, working method which can be used for harmonizing and integrating the often conflicting elements of our inner life around a higher unifying center of being and awareness, the Transpersonal Self. Includes over fifty techniques and exercises.

Hot Springs
by Stuart Miller
$7.95, hardbound

A rollicking chronicle of what it means in contemporary America to undergo a spiritual death and rebirth, played out against backdrops ranging from Orchard Street in New York's Lower East Side, to Yale Graduate School, and finally to Esalen at Big Sur.

Human Teaching for Human Learning
by George I. Brown
$8.50, hardbound; $2.45, paper.

A report on the Ford-Esalen Project concerning research in confluent education; the first attempt to apply Esalen's techniques to education in public schools.

On the Psychology of Meditation
by Claudio Naranjo and Robert Ornstein
$7.95, hardbound; $2.95, paper.

Two psychologists examine the spiritual ground of meditation and the implications of meditation for modern psychology, incorporating insights from new experimental work in the nature of consciousness.

Anger and the Rocking Chair
by Janet Lederman
$4.95, hardbound (pub. by McGraw-Hill)

A poetic account of using gestalt with "difficult" elementary school children.

Secrets of the Trade
Notes on Madness, Creativity and Ideology
by Joe Kennedy Adams
$12.50, hardbound

An expose of the tyranny of psychological and religious "experts", written in a clear and fair voice.

OTHER TITLES OF SPECIAL INTEREST:

Depression and the Body
by Alexander Lowen
$7.95, hardbound

Dr. Lowen discusses the causes and manifestations of depression and offers a practical plan for activating life forces made dormant by the deadening experience of depression.

The Massage Book
by George Downing,
Illustrated by Anne Kent Rush
$3.95, paper

A thorough introduction to Esalen massage, including instructions with 200 drawings. Covered are: a complete massage, shorter variations, exercises for developing your own style, the relation of massage to meditation and tai chi, and much more.

Sexuality, Self and Survival
by Stanley Keleman
$2.50, paper

Developed from bioenergetics workshops and seminars, this book is about experiencing our lives and all of culture as expressions of our inevitable, immediate biological reality.

Also available:

Fritz Perls poster, 24"x36", B&W $1.50

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published quarterly. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco office. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

ESALEN CONSULTING SERVICE AND SPEAKERS BUREAU: Esalen is devoted to making life more human at all levels. Our work has reached thousands of individuals and hundreds of institutions. Until recently most of this work was being done at our own facilities, either in Big Sur or San Francisco. There is now, however, an ever-expanding part of Esalen's universe that is moving toward helping to effect changes in the world outside the workshop. Through the Esalen Consulting Service, Esalen staff and leaders have designed and participated in projects for the U.S. Army, Ford Foundation, the Lockheed Corp., Model Cities, inservice training programs for hospitals, drug treatment centers, social agencies, colleges, universities and public school districts. Esalen courses are now being given at the University of California and at New York University. Many organizations have also used Esalen personnel as communications and human relations facilitators. If you are interested in learning more about the Consulting Service or Speakers Bureau, contact Bob Kriegel at the Esalen/San Francisco office.

ACCREDITATION and the USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs. Our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please see membership form below.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recordings of many past programs are available through a service which maintains archive copies for Esalen. Requests for tapes now come from educational and service institutions, libraries, religious and professional groups, business groups and individuals concerned with the human potential movement. Commercial use of these tapes is prohibited; all rights reserved. For a complete tape catalog, write Big Sur Recordings, 117 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, CA 94903. The cost of recordings is $8 per tape-hour (pre-paid) and $10 per tape-hour (with purchase orders), stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette.

FILMS of the work of Frederick S. Perls in gestalt therapy and Alexander Lowen in bioenergetic analysis, as well as films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow, Virginia Satir and others are available from Psychological Films, 205 West Twentieth Street, Santa Ana, California 92706. Sources of more films, including work of Alan Watts and Huston Smith, are available from Association For Humanistic Psychology, 416 Hoffman Street, San Francisco, California 94114.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA, KQED, KSAN, KSFX, and KMPX) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has a dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KLOS, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, and KPFT Houston, WBAI New York and WOMB New Hampshire, broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides.

THE SYSTEM OF MOSHE FELDENKRAIS

Moshe Feldenkrais is the originator of a system of body awareness, movement and functional coordination. For 5 weeks this past summer at South Coast Center, he taught his work to an invited group of professionals with backgrounds in a variety of body techniques and therapies. Dr. Feldenkrais will be in residence at Esalen/San Francisco during Spring '73 where we will offer group and private lessons.

Since it is not easy to explain his system in a few words, we have excerpted the selection which follows from a much longer article about his work which appeared in the CIBA-GEIGY Journal, No. 1, 1971:

Gravitation is a key factor in what Feldenkrais calls his working picture of a human being. That picture consists of our nervous system (the "core"); our skeleton, viscera and muscles (the "envelope"); and our environment – space, the social milieu and gravitation. No conception of a human being can be complete, he insists, which ignores any of these constituents and their dynamic interdependence.

Very soon after we are born we begin sorting out the distinction between our self and the outside world. This is growth, and as our consciousness develops we learn to differentiate between the "I" and the "not-I", which implies among other things the ability to fix the position of the body in relation to its surroundings. This is both a particularly vital matter in man with his vertical posture and quite impossible without some motor background.

Apart from keeping the body temperature and chemical balance, which is automatic and beyond conscious control, the greatest part of our nervous and muscular expenditure goes towards maintaining equilibrium and motility in the gravitational field – a survival function of the highest importance.

Here is where man proves specially vulnerable. The growth of his brain after birth gives him a greater opportunity than any other animal to build up a wealth of learned responses to stimuli, but by the same token he can go wrong more easily than any other creature. Worse, often we are not even aware that the bad habits learned during our formative years have imprinted us for life, cutting down our potential drastically. "The fact that the end can, most of the time, be achieved equally well, irrespective of the amount of effort involved in achieving it, is very fortunate," Feldenkrais concedes, "as it makes life possible for a large number of imperfect doers."

The whole point, however, is that such waste is not only unnecessary but may lead to an impairment of our ability to function in the form of disease, or what Feldenkrais prefers to speak of as "deviations." Nor does it suffice to say that an action "feels right." If our kinesthetic sense has become warped along the way the statement is meaningless, since we lack objective norms to test it against.

Feeling and motor pattern are inextricable. If one can act to the detriment of the other, it also follows that they can, indeed should, be mutually enhancing. Feelings are difficult of access, hard to correct. The motor patterns, on the other hand – the "body English" which is part and parcel of the quality of our emotions and thoughts – can be got at and corrected. On the premise that the unity of mind and body is an objective reality, the technique devised by Feldenkrais acts upon the soma (body) to influence the psyche (mind) at the same time.

The approach aims to transfer the objective working picture of a human being described above to the individual subject in such a way that he gains a more accurate image, hence greater control of himself. The source of that image is the head; here are located the teleceptors, the double organ senses that enable us to take bearings from the two ends of a base in order to define and relate to a point, as when we register a sound and then turn in response to it. Beyond the limited range of touch, our ears, eyes and nostrils link us with the outside world and "steer" us in relation to it.

Dr. Feldenkrais teaches both individually and in groups. Group lessons, which last about 45 minutes, are designed to lead to "awareness in action." The object of the lessons is not to compete against one's own limitations but rather to develop a more and more precise insight into what one is doing. Thus at each state the subject is told how to monitor the flexion of the muscles being brought into play, his breathing, the difference in fluency or range of movement between one side and the other, etc. He is in simultaneous rapport with his skeleton, his muscles, and the environment, and this schooling in the somatic aspects of his consciousness gradually heightens his self-understanding.

OUTSIDE THE WORKSHOP WORLD

For the past ten years Esalen has been the forum for much of the pioneering work involving the creation of a new vision of man. This work has focused on man's becoming more aware of his enormous potential and has led to change in many institutions of our society. Esalen's contributions can be seen in education religion, medicine, business and social welfare organizations.

The spread of this work is largely due to the efforts of individuals willing to take responsibility for bringing what they have experienced at Esalen into their everyday lives. Sometimes in the face of enormous resistance, these individuals have been willing to be pioneers.

Esalen has actively participated in this enterprise of dissemination and application. In recent years, however, our efforts have increased to translate our activities in a realistic and relevant manner by bringing them to the world, reaching people where they live and work. Our efforts have taken two basic directions: one is through long-term projects in specific areas. Many of these have been made possible by foundation and private funding. The other, and more recent, means has been through the Esalen Consulting Service.

Long-Term Projects

Theology and Transpersonal Psychology. Discussions have begun with a number of parties, including members of the Catholic Diocese of San Francisco and Hebrew Union College of Los Angeles, which may lead to an ecumenical project for teachers of religion.

Confluent Education. This three year project works with elementary school teachers in the Bay Area. It is part of a larger program funded by the Ford Foundation at the University of California, Santa Barbara. The goal of the Esalen project is the development of elementary school reading curriculum using the "confluent" education approach developed by Professor George Brown in an earlier Ford-Esalen project. Confluent education seeks to unify and enrich learning by combining intellectual and emotional concerns. The Reading Project, now in its third year, is also developing a corps of educational consultants.

Humanistic Medicine. This three year project with practitioners from different fields within the medical profession is devoted to the purpose of helping to make medicine more human. It started in October and will focus on the integration of many new approaches to healing, the body, diet, among other concerns. Funding comes from a variety of sources including the Babcock Foundation.

Schizophrenia. Collaborating with Agnews State Hospital and the California

Department of Mental Hygiene, Esalen helped to catalyze a unique experiment in the field of psychosis. Dr. Julian Silverman and Richard Price, co-founder of Esalen, were involved in initiating this program. It explored the hypothesis that some mental patients would benefit if their psychotic episode was not interrupted by medication. Preliminary results still being analyzed are encouraging and a report will be ready by mid-1973.

Sports and Athletics. There is a plan to obtain foundation money to work with instructors and coaches for teaching athletics. In this country sports are taught in an almost totally mechanical way. "How to" books legislate rights and wrongs for almost every motion in every sport. As a consequence the uniqueness of each individual is ignored. This program will attempt to broaden our understanding of sports. It will focus on developing the individual's particular unity with body, mind and emotions and then integrating this with Western athletics. The hope is that this will make sports a richer experience. Yoga, aikido, energy and body awareness, movement, centering, meditation and concentration exercises will be practiced and applied to athletics. New views of competition and transcendence will be explored. This summer a Summer Institute for Sport will be held for coaches, physical education instructors and other interested parties, including children.

Consulting Service

Since the Esalen Consulting was formed in 1971, significant work has been done with many kinds of organizations. At schools and universities Esalen consultants have lectured and helped design new courses. The staffs of other organizations have been trained to use Esalen techniques in their work with clients. Human relations workshops, for the purpose of increasing communication and awareness within organizations have been conducted.

The approach used with organizations can be seen as almost the opposite of the personal growth workshop, which moves through individual awareness to contact with the environment. The organizational consultation usually begins with a theme or goal relating to the specific needs of the organization. Both ultimately have the same larger purpose: to help make life more human and rich.

Here are some specific examples of what the Consulting Service has been doing in recent months:

Extensive work has been done with the U.S. 6th Army Drug and Alcohol Rehabilitation Program. At Big Sur, the Presidio, Fort Ord, Letterman General Hospital, and at Fort Lewis in Washington, Army counselors were trained to use "Esalen" techniques in working with their patients. Esalen consultants to the Model Cities Program in Pittsburg, Calif., work with the staffs of various projects for the purpose of increasing communication and dialogue. A specific communications program was developed for the American Marketing Association. Other communication and human relations workshops have been conducted for the staff of a Bay Area O.E.O. office, Lockheed Corporation, Clemson University School of Nursing, North Carolina Drug Council and many drop in centers and alcohol abuse programs, hospital staffs and training centers. Esalen guest lecturers have given speeches for the American Camping Association, Mission Coalition Reading Program, San Francisco General Hospital, to name a few.

Many schools and universities are showing an increased interest in the Esalen style learning. One of the purposes of Esalen is to create an environment in which an individual can learn more about himself. Part of this learning environment is making available many different types of experiences from which an individual can choose his own path. Esalen "overview" courses are currently being given at University of California at Davis, Extension Division and New York University's School of Continuing Education. These courses present the diversity that makes up Esalen. The student has an opportunity to experience a wide variety of approaches, in order to determine which of these is best suited to his own needs for self-actualization.

Esalen Program in Humanistic Approaches to the Organization. A one week program will be conducted from April 8-13 in Big Sur for people who work within an organizational structure to help make their personal and professional lives richer and more rewarding. The workshop will be oriented to tasks, goals and personal growth. Specifically, work will be done on the following themes: to communicate better with peer groups, superiors and subordinates; to better cope with organizational stress; how to create an environment which stimulates responsibility and creativity on the job; to develop workable individual and organizational goals and strategies. Emphasis will be placed on the integration of the workshop experiences into the participants' daily lives.

For more information on Esalen's Consulting Service or the April 8-13th program in Humanistic Approaches to the Organization, contact Bob Kriegel, Director of Esalen's Consulting Service, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123.

ESALEN INSTITUTE AS EDUCATOR

The cooperative program between Esalen and Antioch College/West, now in its first year, is a benchmark in the development of an educational forum that incorporates the full range of Esalen's activities.

News

For the past several years, through extended programs, we have combined selections of the ideas and experiences that comprise the Esalen program into coherent and intensive situations for personal learning – learning experiences in which the subjective element has been an essential part. The task of making effective combinations of study continues to be challenging, since it is based on the assumption that there are themes, lines of continuity, that somehow unify our diversity.

The beginning of the Antioch College/West program marks two significant events. First, it formalizes the place of the learner in the design of his or her own experience; from the start of each program, a personal curriculum evolves, responsive to a specific life situation. As advisors and resource faculty, we enter into dialogue with students to develop a coherent and useful movement into the multiplicity of ways the programs approach the human condition.

Secondly, the Antioch College/West program at Esalen marks a degree of recognition of the Esalen program as a legitimate approach to education. We are very pleased to establish this point of contact with the movement that includes open universities, experimental colleges and alternative schools – all forms of education that respect and encourage the dignity and sense of worth of the learner.

A CHANGE IN CATALOG FORMAT

The form and the yearly schedule of the Esalen Catalog have been changed with this issue as one more experiment in making it easier to read and to handle. During 1973 each catalog will anounce two months of programs, with the exception of the summer issue, which will list programs for May through August. A removable calendar of Big Sur and San Francisco programs will be the center section of each catalog.

Writing, designing and producing the catalog is a principal piece of work for us; we'd very much like to know your reaction to these changes.

Extended Programs

The following programs represent ways in which participants can involve themselves with Esalen over an extended period of time. These long term programs present greater opportunities for professional development, learning experiences, and exposure to a wide variety of disciplines.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE/WEST UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAM AT ESALEN

Advanced undergraduate students (anyone who has completed some undergraduate work at any college or university) may enroll at Antioch College/West in San Francisco and work for their B.A. degree at Esalen. Course work is accredited through Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio; the B.A. degree is from Antioch College/West and the Union for Experimenting Colleges and Universities.

Students develop their own educational programs incorporating regularly scheduled Esalen workshops and courses and individual work created in conjunction with the Esalen staff. Esalen leaders and staff act as faculty and counselors for students in the program.

Tuition for an academic year (generally nine months) is $2700; students may begin their programs at any time. Financial aid is available. This program also qualifies for Veterans and Social Security benefits.

Inquiries for admission should be directed to: Ms. Cristy Willer, Antioch College/West, 149 Ninth Street, San Francisco, CA 94103. Information about program content and design should be addressed to: The Antioch West Program, Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco, CA 94123.

ON-GOING RESIDENTIAL PROGRAM IN BIG SUR

Esalen/Big Sur offers an ongoing residential program which may be initiated by an individual according to his specific needs and interests, chosen from among the continuing workshops available. Those interested in the program should be aware of a residence requirement of at least two months.

The cost of the program is $875 per month exclusive of weekend workshops. Individuals interested in applying must first attend a week-long workshop at Big Sur, the cost of which will not be applicable to the residential fee, should they be accepted to the program.

Cycles of Movement-Feeling-Mind Mind-Feeling- Movement:

Rituals & Art

Ann Halprin

Ann Halprin will give a series of workshops through Esalen designed as cumulative experiences throughout the year. The workshops are dedicated to exploring and developing a common language of creativity through movement and environmental arts. The essence of the experience will be movement in time/space, its feeling equivalents, and the mental perception of them both. The process is individual and group oriented. It is universal, not specialized.

Ann Halprin's approach:

–proceeds from the elements of body, movement, and feelings that are common to people, and which they can use to spark communal creativity.

–is not based on specific styles or approaches such as ballet, modern, jazz, primitive, yoga, tai chi, etc., although some similar elements from these might be included because of their universality.

–is an approach that proceeds from the broader life-style potential in a multi-racial, multi-cultural society where myriad diversities can create a vibrant societal and environmental collage.

–is an approach that – like the growth of any living matter – is an ongoing, changing, growing life study through the experience of art, performance, movement, feeling, and perception.

–is based on the concepts of the RSVP Cycles of human creativity developed by Ann and Lawrence Halprin (see The RSVP Cycles: Creative Processes in the Human Environment).

An Introduction to the Movement-Ritual Series

Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Participants will create a collective ritual as an initiation to the workshop series.

■S.F. February 24

Movement-Ritual Series

One-day workshop $20

We will evoke individual self-symbols of totems from concentration and movement of one part of the body. The process will become a way to discover an entranceway to begin our body journey. The group will discover and ritualize ways of making one complete body or group self-symbol out of all the individual parts; each part finding its place within the group persona. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

For reservation information, see page 27. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 28-31.

Extended Programs

•B.S. January 7-February 4

Being and Dis-Covery
Julian Silverman, Coordinator
Tom Allen, Betsie Carter, Margaret Conway, Steven Kull, Janet Lederman, Selig Morgenrath, Peggy Morrison, Robert Nadeau, Beverly Silverman

Four-week workshop $975

The program will begin with a week of encounter/gestalt conducted by Janet Lederman. A weekend seminar concerned with centering and energy awareness techniques, led by Robert Nadeau will follow. The second week emphasizes massage, meditation and gestalt awareness training. The week will be co-led by Peggy Morrison, head of Esalen's massage staff, and Julian and Beverly Silverman. In the third week, Robert Nadeau, concentrating on energy awareness, develops the theme "you are more than you think you are." In the last week the techniques of psychosynthesis are used to facilitate discovery of how each individual interferes with the expression of his capabilities and how much more he is than what he ordinarily expresses. This week will be led by Tom Allen, Betsie Carter, Margaret Conway and Steven Kull. The last weekend of the program involves all the leaders in integrative sessions. Participants will meet periodically with the program coordinator. The group, limited to eighteen seminarians, meets in morning and evening sessions. During midday they will participate in the daily creative workings of Esalen/Big Sur under the direction of Selig Morgenrath, designer of the facility. The aim of this aspect of the program is to facilitate each individual "getting in touch with" and being touched by nature. The body toning techniques of the Arica Training school are a daily part of the workshop. Our overall emphasis is upon discovering how growth and real maturity involve change of orientation from environmental support to self-support. No one person, no one method provides the key; each individual unfetters himself with his own key which is a uniquely personal synthesis of his life experiences and insights. Limited scholarship funds are available.

Residential Program With Emphasis on Gestalt Training

A three-month residential program, coordinated by Janet Lederman, will take place in Big Sur and San Francisco January 28-April 20. This is an advanced training program for qualified therapists in psychotherapy, counseling and related fields. The program will be tailored to the individual interests of each participant. In addition to Ms. Lederman the training staff includes: George Brown, Jack Downing, Betty Fuller, Robert Martin, Julian Silverman, Stella Resnick, Frank Rubenfeld and Richard Price. The cost of the program is $3500. Limited scholarship funds are available.

Write to Carole Rosenblatt, Program Coordinator, Esalen/Big Sur, for further information. Briefly describe your professional background.

Arica Awareness Training
Arica Staff

Four-week program $985

(For a description of Arica Training, see page 13).

■S.F. February 9-April 8

Expression and Being
George Downing

Two-month program $200

An in-depth program providing a wider opportunity to explore and to integrate a number of different pathways toward personal growth. Our focus will be on the body as the source and center of our being; and on our individual styles of making contact, both with ourselves and with other persons. We will make extensive use of gestalt, and meditation, as well as a variety of methods of working directly with the body, including breath awareness, Feldenkrais techniques, movement, Esalen massage, polarity therapy and others. An intellectual as well as an emotional understanding of what we together have experienced will be encouraged. Two weekends (February 9-11; April 6-8) and one evening meeting per week (dates to be announced).

•B.S. Starts February 18

Bridging the Gap: An Ongoing Personal Development Program
Robert & Marilyn Kriegel

Six-month program $825

This extended program will attempt to bridge the gap between the workshop and the outside world. The basic idea is to combine the intensity of the residential workshop with the continuity of the ongoing group in an effort to make the workshop more relevant in terms of the participant's ongoing life process. Specifically, the program will consist of:

Three intensive week-long residential workshops spaced approximately three months apart. The purpose of these groups is to create a supportive environment in which the participants can gain new insights and experience themselves and others in new and different ways. Out of this experience will evolve goals which each individual sets and specific assignments for the period between workshops. The basic format of the group will be encounter, gestalt and psychosynthesis, though other disciplines will also be used depending on the group's needs and interests.

Assigned homework and readings will be given to each participant based on the goals he has set. Response and applicability of the readings to everyday life will be followed in a log.

Program participants will keep a daily log or journal. This format has been found to be one of the most useful instruments in terms of providing new and greater clarity to thoughts, feelings and observations. The leaders will review the logs once a month by mail and make suggestions, comments and give new assignments. The leaders will also be available by telephone, mail and in some cases, by appointment for individual counselling. Contact between the group members, whenever geographically possible, will be encouraged.

A limited amount of scholarship funds is available. The first workshop in the series will take place February 18-23.

•B.S. March 4-April 6

Structural Integration & Gestalt
Al Drucker, Beverly Silverman, Ama Torrance

Five-week program

This is an intensive program designed for those wishing to be rolfed. The rolfing sessions are given by advanced practitioners in a setting that is conducive to maximum body release and emotional growth. The total series of ten hours can be completed in 5 weeks, however individuals may register for each week separately instead. On a weekly basis, the cost of the workshop includes two hours of rolfing and one hour of structural patterning. During the week there will be a daily morning exercise period including hatha yoga, Arica gym, and zazen meditation done in accordance with rolfing principles. In the evenings there will be a gestalt session. Additional sessions will be scheduled during the week. These may include massage, tai chi, movement, Feldenkrais exercises, anatomy/physiology/nutrition lectures, and discussions on various related subjects such as acupuncture and energetics. One day per week will be designed as an optional day of fasting supervised by the staff.

For information regarding costs, write to Carole Rosenblatt, Program Coordinator, Esalen/Big Sur.

■S.F. April 24-June 17

Psychosynthesis Training Series for Professionals
Jim & Susan Vargiu and Associates of the Psychosynthesis Institute

Eight Tuesday Evenings & a weekend $240

A program designed for psychotherapists, educators, counselors and others involved in the helping professions. The group will explore the fundamentals of psychosynthesis, theoretically and experientially, in a coordinated program designed to give each participant both the understanding and the personal experience needed to begin to utilize and apply psychosynthesis within his own field. We will work together so that each can recognize the process of psychosynthesis at work, both in himself and in the others. There will be assignments and exercises to complete between meetings. Further individual work during the eight week period can be arranged. Eight Tuesday evenings, 7:30-11 p.m., April 24-June 12. Weekend workshop is June 16 and 17. For application form, contact Esalen/San Francisco.

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Interpersonal

The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontations rather than away from them. The focus of encounter is to explore interpersonal relations. Over the past years encounter, as practiced at Esalen, has evolved into a broad approach incorporating several related disciplines to achieve its aims. Techniques and insights gained from gestalt, sensory awareness, bioenergetics, massage, movement and structural integration are all part of Esalen's encounter groups today.

SAN FRANCISCO INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS

These evening and one-day programs are specially intended for, but not limited to, persons who have not previously participated in Esalen encounter groups.

EVENING INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN: Working in small and large group sessions, participants will be introduced to many methods for personal growth being explored at Esalen. Comfortable clothing recommended; bring a pillow for easy sitting.

$3 general, $2 student; 7-11 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Wednesday, January 10 – Bob Kriegel

Monday, February 12 – Robert Cromey – FREE

ONE-DAY INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN: An intensive day of group work, along the lines of evening introductory programs, with the additional advantages of more hours and shared mealtimes.

$15 per person; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; locations to be announced with confirmation of reservations; bring your own lunch.

Saturday, January 27 – Art & Janica Fox

Saturday, February 24 – Margaret Conway

BIG SUR INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS

Introduction to Esalen Programs are designed for, but not limited to, people who have not previously been to Esalen/Big Sur. The workshops center on encounter and gestalt, although additional opportunities will be available in other experiential areas such as movement, massage and sensory awareness. Rolf treatments will be available at an extra cost.

Gay and Glad
Don Clark & Betty Berzon

Residential weekend workshop $85
including room and meals

A group for women and men who want to join together in search of greater understanding and appreciation of themselves as humans whose lives are richer because of the ability to accept and express gay feelings. Half of the time will be in a women's group and a men's group and half of the time together. We will use talk, touch, silence and fantasy to aid the sharing.

BIG SUR EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN PROGRAMS

Experience of Esalen Programs are designed to join staff members and participants in an experience of each other surrounded by as little or as much structure as a unique mix of people wish to create. The resources of Big Sur are available – baths, scenery and the far-ranging talents of our staff (group leaders, masseurs, artists, craftsmen and musicians). These non-programmed programs are an opportunity to explore and to interact or simply to retreat from the world for a week. Come and be with us.

●B.S. January 7-12

Renascence
Michael Butler

Five-day workshop $215

Each of us carries within him, buried beneath layers of psychic and physical tensions, the fertile seed of a new self. This workshop will use many of the Esalen body-oriented and psychological techniques to allow participants to experience that seed center of self and nourish it.

■S.F. Thursday, January 11

Looking-Talking-Touching: For Couples
Gerald Smith

Single evening event

$5 per couple; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

A variety of verbal and nonverbal experiences for couples (not necessarily married).

●B.S. January 12-14

More
Michael Butler

Weekend workshop $85

Each of us is capable of more... emotional creativity, aliveness, sensuality. The methods of this workshop will be body disciplines, encounter and gestalt tools, and the life positive forces in the Esalen environment. Its goal: to experience "more", not just for a weekend at Esalen, but wherever we happen to be.

For reservation information, see page 27. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 28-31.

Inter-personal

■S.F. January 12-14
You Don't Have to Eat – To Feel Full
Janet Zuckerman & Lenore Lefer
Weekend workshop $50

The functioning mind creates alternatives. We will use encounter, gestalt and sensory awareness to put you in touch with alternatives to eating.

■S.F. January 13
Working It Through With Mom and/or Dad
Walt & Maurica Anderson
One-day psychodrama workshop $20

Emotional conflicts of the parent-child relationship and ways of dealing with them will be explored by the group, using the spontaneous-dramatization technique of psychodrama to "confront" parents living or dead. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

●B.S. January 14-19
Exploring Self Acceptance
David Schiffman
Five-day workshop $215

Our focus will be the creation of a more positive and open-ended self concept. Through the use of structured risk-taking situations, gestalt, role-playing, fantasy and encounter techniques, the participants can accept or transcend the self-imposed boundaries from which they approach the world. Emphasis will be on searching out unique personality strengths, individual capacities and latent powers as a means of achieving productive, creative functioning.

■S.F. January 19-21
Couples' Workshop
Art & Janica Fox
Weekend workshop $90 per couple

A weekend for couples who would like to encounter a bit, massage, play, dance, care for, learn new ways to enhance their love, and in general celebrate their commitment to each other.

●B.S. January 19-21
Bodymind
William Schutz
Weekend workshop $95

The workshop will attempt to integrate the Feldenkrais exercises (a body method) with fantasy and encounter. Everyone will be given an opportunity to experience several exercises followed by a fantasy, then in an encounter group to deal with the material generated. The aim is for a more complete integration of each person's organism.

●B.S. January 19-21
Changing Sex Roles
Shelly Dunnegan & Anica Vesel Mander
Weekend seminar $95

Men and women have been conditioned to fulfill particular roles in society. How does this conditioning limit our growth? What choices do we have? The men and women in the group will meet separately and together in order to re-examine and re-define what it means to be a woman and what it means to be a man. This group is open to individual women and men as well as couples.

●B.S. January 19-21
Psychodrama & Encounter
Walt & Maurica Anderson
Weekend workshop $85

We will use a wide variety of techniques for encountering everybody who's here this weekend, and psychodrama for encountering everybody who isn't.

■S.F. January 19-21
Body/Mind/Spirit
Michael Butler
Weekend workshop $50

With a base of encounter and gestalt techniques, this workshop will integrate the balance concepts of structural integration with the centering and grounding practices of aikido and energy awareness. The goal will be to tap the sources of power and well-being within us.

■S.F. January 20

Five Monday evenings $90 per couple

Focus: verbal and nonverbal experiences to enhance your relationship. Videotape playback will be used. 8-10:30 p.m.

■S.F. January 25
For Women Only
Betty Fuller
One-day workshop $35 including meals

A day-long retreat for women to dump the "victim game" and celebrate their unique responsibilities and opportunities, to build on strengths, to learn to balance nurturence with guts, self-respect and self-love. The focus is entirely on individual responsibility for one's own liberation. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday, including lunch and dinner.

■S.F. January 26-28
Beyond Games
Richard Marsh
Marathon workshop $80 including meals

This marathon encounter group will alternate between periods of unstructured spontaneity and periods of structured sensory, self and social games. Purpose of the games: to lead beyond themselves to the ecstasy of unselfconscious communication. Begins 8 p.m. January 26 and continues for 45 hours or longer. Bring a sleeping bag for two sleep breaks during the weekend. Includes a follow-up meeting approximately one month later.

● Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

New Ways of Meeting New People
Robert Cromey
Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
Since many persons attend large group programs to meet other people, this evening's experience will focus explicitly on the acquaintance process. Using methods from encounter and gestalt awareness, group members will explore how they project themselves to others, how others perceive them and discover new ways of moving into friendships and social contact.

■S.F. February 2-4
You Don't Have to Suffer to Feel Good
Harry Sloan
Weekend workshop $50
Frequently participants come to workshops believing the only way to get in touch with themselves is through pain, anguish and earth-shaking breakthroughs. Growing becomes humorless and heavy and so does life. This weekend will tap into the absurdity of conflicts and problems, offering the participants an opportunity to laugh at themselves and the seemingly tragic fates they have chosen.

■S.F. February 2-4
Saying Yes to Life
Joseph Fabry
Weekend workshop $50
Using group techniques and creative activities developed from Viktor Frankl's logotherapy, this workshop aims to establish an atmosphere of trust in which each participant can: clarify his life goals and take positive steps toward achieving them; break the stranglehold of failure; take command of his life; honestly explore his feelings and talk about what is most important to him; establish solid relationships with others.

For Homosexuals
Stanley Freitas
Five-day workshop $215
We are experiencing the beginning of a homosexual revolution in which the resolution of conflict has become one of the most critical areas for our survival as individuals. This workshop will be geared toward a resolution of that conflict.

■S.F. February 9-11
Communication Games
Art Hough
Weekend workshop $50
A workshop to uncover and work with communication problems through games. These communication games – lasting from one minute to three hours – are used to heighten the communication experience, improve habits of listening, feedback, empathy, spontaneity and awareness and to loosen the deeper communication blocks that result from hidden dogmatism, rigidity and risk-refusal. This is not encounter; it is for people concerned with improving their communication.

■S.F. February 24-25
Conscious Mind, Conscious Body: A Weekend for Women
Anica Vesel Mander & Anne Kent Rush
Weekend workshop $35
Women have been conditioned to be passive, dependent and mistrustful of their own feelings. In this workshop we will deal with ways of changing this conditioning by sharing our experiences and liberating specific body blocks. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

For reservation information, see page 27. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 28-31.

Gestalt

Gestalt Awareness Training is a theory and approach to personality integration first developed by Fritz and Laura Perls, though new styles and methods are being developed by other leaders. The goal of the training is to assist the participants to utilize excitement and awareness and to develop responsibility.

Excitement – to have life energy freely available and flowing, not blocked. Awareness – to be conscious of my energy as and where it flows; to have action accessible to consciousness, not happening mechanically. Responsibility – to know and act on the principle that I am the one who acts, thinks and feels whatever it may be that I act, think or feel. No one else or no event influences me except with my consent.

At times, everyone in the workshop may work simultaneously with some awareness exercise, or in interaction with each other. More traditionally, a fair amount of time will be spent with participants working individually with the leader. The starting point for such individual work is whatever is here and now of most involving concern for the organism; a fantasy or dream, an interaction with another person, a memory, or a physical posture. "Problems" are welcome as starting points, if they are truly present and not merely verbally presented. In keeping with the gestalt emphasis on personal responsibility, the leader usually leaves the initiative for such work with the participant. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients", but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

GESTALT PROGRAMS IN BIG SUR

•B.S. January 7-12
Gestalt With Body English
John & Sandy Enright
Five-day workshop $245

Mind: "I want to be free!"

Body: "No way! I want to go on just as I am, up-tight and holding in, but safe and familiar."

The body's part of this familiar dialogue is expressed in physical symptoms and chronic muscle tension. We will use gestalt and a variety of body approaches drawn from bioenergetics, dance and psychomotor training to work on the resolution of this eternal internal argument.

•B.S. January 12-14
Open Gestalt
Esalen Staff
Weekend workshop $85

•B.S. January 14-19
Open Gestalt
Richard Price
Five-day workshop $215

•B.S. February 4-9
Open Gestalt
Stella Resnick
Five-day workshop $245

•B.S. February 9-11
A Weekend with Judith Brown
Weekend workshop $95

Emphasis will be placed on awareness and self-expression based on gestalt approaches. This workshop is appropriate for couples as well as individuals.

•B.S. February 11-16
The Art of Emotional Nourishment – Self-Induced Nourishment & Toxicity
Jerry Greenwald
Five-day workshop $215

Allowing the self to spontaneously evolve is the natural way of growth. Toxic patterns include anything a person does which hampers this natural process. Participants may work on any "problem" which disrupts their aliveness, excitement and joy. Emphasis will also be on discovering more nourishing ways of being and relating.

•B.S. February 16-18
Gestalt & Body Awareness
George Downing
Weekend workshop $85

We will work intensively with both the verbal methods of gestalt and a number of nonverbal techniques of body awareness, including fantasy, movement, breath awareness, Feldenkrais dynamics, energy exchange and others.

•B.S. February 18-23
Gestalt Training Workshop
Robert Martin & Jack Rosenberg
Five-day workshop $275

We recognize man as a unique being who, all too often, splits himself into parts. One of these basic divisions in our culture is the mind/body split. Our orientation is towards lessening this division and working toward the integration of man.

•B.S. February 25-March 2
Open Gestalt
Richard Price
Five-day workshop $215

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Gestalt

GESTALT PROGRAMS IN THE BAY AREA

For January and February, the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco is continuing to hold its workshops in co-operation with Esalen. Workshops sponsored or blessed by the Gestalt Institute are listed below, and no other brochure describing the Institute's workshops will be distributed.

■S.F. January 6-7
Gestalt and Gurdjieff
Joe Camhi
Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will combine gestalt methods of awareness with methods developed by Gurdjieff for releasing and regulating various types of human energies. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■S.F. Monday, January 8
Esalen Open House: An Evening with Cynthia (Werthman) Sheldon
Single evening event

[FREE]; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

An evening to discuss programs, methods, and directions with an Esalen leader, gestalt therapist, and director and trainer at the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco.

■S.F. January 12-14
Gestalt and Psychosynthesis
George & Judith Brown
Weekend workshop $50

A combined experiential and didactic workshop focusing on basic experiences in gestalt and psychosynthesis and, where possible, the experiential combining of the two. Plus discussions of theory and practice as related to education and other contexts.

■S.F. January 12-14
Gestalt at Wilbur Hot Springs
Richard Louis Miller and Gestalt Community
Two-day Gestalt Workplayshop Weekend
January 13-14 $35 including room & meals

Participants will live with the Gestalt Community at their country home, Wilbur Hot Springs, and share their balanced diet (prepared with care), 240 beautiful acres, hot mineral baths, etc. Teams of Gestalt Agents, supervised by Dr. Miller and Gestalt Community members, will lead groups of 10-12 demonstrating and applying principles of gestalt and existential life style. Saturday noon to Sunday at 5 p.m.

Three-day Gestalt Training Weekend
January 12-14 $65 including room & meals

This weekend is designed to offer those in the helping professions (people helpers) an opportunity to experience residential training in the study and application of gestalt principles and existential life style. This in-community training weekend is a mini-internship including a full day of training with Dr. Miller and Gestalt Community members, and two days supervised practicum working in teams with participants in the open gestalt workshop. Trainee group supervision and open evaluation sessions including the entire community are also included in the experience. Various approaches to working with the body, energy releasing exercises (Miller Energy Arm), sensory experiences, as well as hot mineral baths and a balanced diet will be integrated into the program. Friday noon to Sunday at 5 p.m.

■S.F. January 20-21
Gestalt and the Creative Process
Larry Bloomberg
Weekend workshop $50

Especially recommended for scientists and those in the arts. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■S.F. Monday, January 22
From the Primal Laugh to the Cosmic Giggle: Developing Positive Awareness
Stella Resnick
Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

People often imagine or behave as though self-awareness and growth depended upon developing a critical attitude toward self, focusing only on painful areas, and becoming more disciplined. The abundance and popularity of self-improvement courses and therapies attests to the prevalence of this attitude. While Dr. Resnick's philosophy and therapy deal with pain also, her work stresses developing an openness and sense of humor toward self and existence. This talk will focus on the development of self-nourishing behaviors, the elimination of self-defeating behaviors, and the fun, joy, laughter, spontaneity and creativity that comes from taking a good look at yourself rather than a bad one.

■S.F. January 27-28
Finishing Unfinished Business
Stella Resnick & Frank Rubenfeld
Weekend workshop $60

Whether the business be recent, e.g. divorce, or primal, i.e. early childhood experiences, unresolved business blocks energy and prevents optimal functioning. Using the gestalt approach we will concentrate on achieving closure or becoming aware of the ways in which participants are unwilling to do so. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■S.F. February 2-4
The World of the Working Mother – Alone
Lois Brien & Abe Levitsky
Weekend workshop $65

Millions of women have the burdensome task of both working and raising children without the help of a man. The problems they face are uniquely difficult. This is an opportunity to share these experiences, explore the feelings involved and learn from each other. Friday evening to Sunday noon.

■S.F. February 3
What Happened to My New Year's Resolutions, or How to Stop Trying and Start Succeeding
Elaine Kepner & Sid Gershenson
One-day gestalt workshop $19.73

10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

■S.F. February 3-4
Gestalt & Massage
Frank Rubenfeld & Mari Krieger
Weekend workshop $50

10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■S.F. February 9-11
Gestalt at Wilbur Hot Springs
Richard Louis Miller and Gestalt Community
(See workshop descriptions, January 12-14, above.)

■S.F. February 10
Gestalt and Meditation
Jerry Kogan & Joan Zweben
One-day workshop $25

In this workshop we will integrate these two powerful techniques for heightening personal awareness. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday.

For reservation information, see page 27. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 28-31.

■S.F. February 13-March 13

Gestalt Headtripping
Stella Resnick

Five Tuesday afternoons FREE

Headtripping can lead to self-awareness and growth. Let's meet together for five weeks and see what can be accomplished through discussion, exploring our own wisdom and what we can learn about ourselves through the arts, i.e. literature, poetry, etc. We may recommend readings to each other and do gestalt work. 12 noon to 1:30 p.m. 1776 Union St., San Francisco.

■S.F. Wednesday, February 14
Wednesday, February 21

Theory and Practice of Aliveness
John Enright

Single evening events

General admission: $3 per session, $5 for both evenings; Student admission: $2 per session, $3.50 for both evenings; 8-10:30 p.m.

First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

A discussion of what it means to be aware or awake as opposed to automatic or asleep, including gestalt exercises to help stay in the state of awareness for longer periods. The two evenings will supplement and reinforce each other, but each is organized to be meaningful and complete by itself.

■S.F. February 17-18;
February 20-March 20

Women Who Work with Women
Stella Resnick, Cyndy (Werthman) Sheldon, Lois Brien, Paula Bottome, Elaine Kepner

Ongoing workshop $150

Using the gestalt approach we will work together to enhance our effectiveness in our work as well as in our personal growth. Weekend workshop, February 17-18, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday. Five Tuesdays, February 20-March 20, 4-7 p.m.

10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■S.F. February 24-25

Blessed Are the Meek: For They Shall Inherit the Earth
Larry Bloomberg

Weekend gestalt workshop $45

A polarity encompasses within extremes a range of many choices. Meek-bold defines one such range of choices and describes the focus of this workshop. Join us in gestalt energy releasing and awareness exercises designed to guide us in adventures within this polarity. We also will explore the way from shyness to meekness, from brazenness to boldness, taking the natural path – the path of least resistance.

"The wind blows over the lake and stirs the surface of the water. Thus visible effects of the invisible manifest themselves."

I Ching, 61

■S.F. February 24-25

A Gestalt Workshop for the Divorced or Separated
Sid Gershenson & Joan Krueger

Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will focus on finishing unfinished business and experiencing life from a new perspective. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Transpersonal

Transpersonal generally refers to transcendence, mystical experience, peak experience and parapsychological phenomena. The following programs will explore insights and research into the physical and psychological aspects of such experience.

■S.F. Tuesday evenings & Saturday mornings

Aikido & Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau

Continuing program

One meeting per week; $15 per month (general & student); Two meetings per week: $25 per month (general), $20 per month (student).

A continuous program of instruction in energy awareness and in aikido as a physical expression of that awareness. This course meets each week; participants can be in one or two sessions per week, with tuition based on the schedule of participation. Tuesday, 8-9:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10-12 noon. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

■S.F. January 6

The Naturalness of Psychic Experience: Learning to Listen
Gunver Jackson

One-day workshop $20

Through deep relaxation and awareness, we will seek what is beyond our usual perceptions. Specific exercises will be practiced to expand our natural senses. We will investigate the art of healing, auras and telepathy. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

■S.F. January 12-14

Extending Awareness Through Hypnosis
Lee Pulos

Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will combine the approaches of hypnosis and psychosynthesis. Hypnosis and self-hypnosis will be taught so that participants can focus in on themselves through hypnotically induced dreams, automatic writing and drawings. These self-discoveries will be extended through guided fantasies, symbolic imagery and learning how to tune into the "inner theater" of one's unconscious.

■S.F. Monday, January 15

Readings from Personal Journals: An Evening with Claudio Naranjo

Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

■S.F. January 22-February 26

Sufi Stories
Josephine Leo

Six Monday evenings FREE

A series of Monday evenings where we can eat a few dates and share some sufi stories collected by Idries Shah. These "parables in action" of the Eastern dervish tradition claim the power to increase perception. 8-10 p.m., 1776 Union St., San Francisco.

■S.F. Wednesday, January 24

Can of Foot Powder Elected Mayor in Philippine Town
Robert Ornstein

Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

We are indeed fortunate to have a continuing source of daily sufi literature in the Bay Area – the San Francisco Chronicle. Ignore the front page always; turn to page 4 or 5 every day for the real stuff, and you may find short pieces which show us that the ordinary version of what is going on is simply not so. For instance, the other day in Central Europe a woman tried to commit suicide when her husband left her. She jumped out of the window and landed on her unfortunate husband, killing him. Bring your own favorites to read.

●B.S. January 26-28

Dreams, Creativity & Altered States of Consciousness
Stanley Krippner

Weekend seminar $85

This workshop will utilize dream recall, guided imagery, group hypnosis, sensory bombardment, massage and body movement experiences to enter altered states of consciousness. In these states, participants will be trained to gain access to the personal and universal symbols, archetypes and thematic concepts which encourage creative development.

●B.S. January 26-28

Working with Sufi Stories
Robert Ornstein

Weekend seminar $85

Stories can be used in several ways; they can be humorous and allow us to laugh at parts of ourselves usually obscured, they can entertain and create movies within our heads, or function as drama with others. And they can create a special working consciousness enabled by no other means. A weekend of listening, dreaming, reflecting, meditating and laughing about stories. Bring your favorites.

■S.F. January 27-28

Teachings From My Teachers: Sharing Food on Which I Have Grown
Claudio Naranjo

Weekend workshop $60

Reading and commentary from a meditation journal. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

For reservation information, see page 27. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 28-31.

Trans-personal

•B.S. January 28-February 2
Workshop for Potential Psychics
Robert Nadeau & Ron Jones
Five-day workshop $245

A workshop for those who think they might be sensitive or psychic and wish to explore, understand and be more comfortable with it. There will be discussion, awareness practices to clarify your ability, and techniques to be at ease with it.

■S.F. February 2-4
Ways of Altering Consciousness: Bio-Feedback
Eleanor Criswell
Weekend workshop $50

This workshop begins with an understanding of consciousness and various ways of altering it. Bio-feedback (technological and natural) will be explored along with optokinetic training, approaches to meditation, and other ways of altering consciousness. Understanding the theoretical base of bio-feedback, experiencing it, and learning how to utilize it for enriched living are the primary goals.

•B.S. February 9-11
Bio-Feedback & Beyond
Eleanor Criswell
Weekend workshop $85

This workshop will focus on bio-feedback as it relates to self-exploration, self-development, and altering consciousness. Bio-feedback refers to the use of amplified physiological signals to let you know where you are and gradually shape you toward a desired state. An understanding of bio-feedback, how to experience it, and how to use your own body signals as feedback will be included.

SAT AT ESALEN/BIG SUR

SAT is a non-profit corporation operating in the form of a school for spiritual development and psychological transformation. The SAT process is about 50% derived from sufi influences and teachings and 50% other traditions and ingredients, most importantly Vajrayana Buddhism and contemporary psychology and psychotherapy.

The SAT approach to human growth is that of constant work of the individual on himself with the help of resources indicated as part of a sustained guidance situation.

Among the SAT faculty for 1972 has been Chu Fang Chu, an integrator of the esoteric taoist tradition, Oscar Ichazo, Claudio Naranjo, Roslyn Shaffer, Kathleen Riordan Speeth and Llama Tarthang Tulku, Rinpoche.

SAT Programs:
The scheduled days of SAT will not be described beyond a title and subtitle – Workshop I: SAT-at-Esalen, an occasion for smelling and tasting conducted by SAT staff under the direction and representation of Claudio Naranjo. Bring pencil and paper. Please read Techniques of Gestalt Therapy by Claudio Naranjo.

January 12-14 Weekend workshop $85
January 14-19 Five-day workshop $215

■S.F. February 10-11
Energy Awareness & Meditation
Robert Nadeau
Weekend workshop $50

Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude, mental concentration, centering and moving from center. We will experience life energy and its use in spiritual growth and healing and as a tool for higher awareness. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■S.F. February 17-18
Teachings From My Teachers: Sharing Guidance Received
Claudio Naranjo
Weekend workshop $60

Reading and commentary from a meditation journal. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

•B.S. February 18-23
Meditation: Six Forms
Robert Ornstein
Five-day workshop $215

There are many modes and uses of meditation. We will try six and attempt to taste all the different experiences which they can bring. Stories, music, breathing, guided thought, mantra and self-observation, each with an integrative session.

•B.S. February 23-25
Centering
Robert Nadeau
Weekend workshop $85

Participants will start with centering practices in the physical dimension, move to centering as mental awareness, and culminate in meditation with centering as a focus for spiritual unfolding.

■S.F. February 24, March 10, March 24
Ritual & Personal Myth
Allan Frankel
Three one-day workshops $20 per day; $50 for the series

February 24 – The Hero Journey: (personal myth and transforming symbols, death-rebirth, the voyage). Please bring enough of one dish of food for 10 people, 3 pieces of fruit, dried fruit, nuts, a drinking vessel, ritual garb and writing supplies.

March 10 – Sexuality & Marriage to My Opposite: (golden age, dream lover, masculine-feminine principle). Please bring the same as above.

March 24 – Atonement (At-one-ment): (meeting with the father, perfect self, body ritual). Please bring a large mirror and writing supplies.

Each day is a separate event and may be taken without attending the other days. The workshops though not primarily, will involve some encountering and bodily and vocal expression of feelings. Alternate Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

ARICA TRAINING

The Arica Training offers a system of human development carefully structured to produce a total integration of mind, emotion and body. It is possible to learn how to reach and maintain a place of peace, joy and harmony – the natural condition of man – his heritage.

Workshops are designed as an introduction to the total process and are experiences within themselves. The work is done in groups, insuring the support and high energy of a number of people working together. Arica exercises have been gathered from ancient and modern systems, refined and simplified. They include physical movement, chanting, music, meditation – all with a foundation of natural rhythm.

The Arica staff consists of a group of people who have completed the basic process, plus additional training, allowing them to pass it to others. Workshop leaders will be drawn from that staff.

San Francisco Workshops:
January 6 One-day workshop $20
February 3 One-day workshop $20

Big Sur Workshops:
January 19-21 Weekend workshop $95
February 4-March 2 Four-week workshop $985

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Psychosynthesis

Psychosynthesis is a psychological and educational approach which strives to harmonize man's relation to his environment through a process of inner integration and synthesis. It is an inclusive and positive conception of man that considers him dynamically, as a being in a process of personal growth within an evolving universe.

More than a theory, psychosynthesis is a practical working method which leads to greater unity, by harmonizing the many often conflicting elements of our inner life. It assists each individual in reaching toward his true center, and in using its energy and harmony to bring about a more joyful and effective actualization of the meaning and value of his life.

Psychosynthesis chooses among a large number of methods and techniques those which are most appropriate to each existential situation. Some of these can be: guided imagery, movement, self-identification, gestalt, meditation, symbolic art work, ideal models, development of the intuition, creativity and other superconscious qualities, writing and journal keeping.

The emphasis is not on producing immediate breakthroughs, but rather on fostering a process of growth that, with continuing application, can gain increasing momentum and ultimately become a life-style.

This process of psychosynthesis brings about the overcoming of restrictions, limitations, and conflicts; the balanced and timely development of emerging positive functions and qualities; and the utilization and transmutation of the many inner energies and drives. It is a positive approach that includes the superconscious as well as the libido, the imagination as well as the complexes, the will as well as the instinctual urges.

Central to psychosynthesis is the discovery and the direct experience of a higher center of being and awareness—first the personal self, then the Transpersonal Self—and the progressive harmonization, integration and synthesis of body, feelings, mind and all other personality functions around this unifying center. This is a continuing process of individual growth and expanding awareness which leads gradually from the personal to the transpersonal to the universal.

The following Esalen Institute psychosynthesis programs are offered in cooperation with the Psychosynthesis Institute, Redwood City.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS TRAINING

■S.F. April 24-June 17

Psychosynthesis Training Series for Professionals
Jim & Susan Vargiu and Associates of the Psychosynthesis Institute

Eight Tuesday Evenings & a weekend $240

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS PROGRAMS

■S.F. Sunday, January 14

Introduction to Psychosynthesis
Tom Allen & Margaret Conway

Single evening event

[FREE] 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

We can't begin to tell you what psychosynthesis is all about in one evening, but you can get a taste, and you might want the full meal later.

■S.F. January 18-February 22

Psychosynthesis: Balance & Synthesis of Opposites
Tom Allen & Margaret Conway

Five Thursday evenings $45

Within each of us are many conflicting voices, desires and behaviors. We will learn techniques for balancing and integrating them. Bring a workbook and a sense of humor. Five Thursday evenings, 8-10:30 p.m., January 18, 25, February 1, 8, 22.

■S.F. January 20

Introduction to Psychosynthesis: Sub-Personalities & Disidentification
Steven Kull & Betsie Carter

One-day workshop $25

The basic principles and techniques of psychosynthesis, but with emphasis on distinguishing the particular sub-personalities from the essential self in each of us. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday.

●B.S. January 26-28

Psychosynthesis
Tom Allen & Margaret Conway

Weekend workshop $95

We have some very old ideas and some very new techniques! The old ideas might be stated this way: Man has a reason for being; love, joy and purpose in life are his needs, and he has a right to seek and find them. The new techniques are something you have to experience rather than read about.

■S.F. February 9-11

Psychosynthesis: Exploring Guided Imagery
Tom Allen & Margaret Conway

Weekend workshop $50

If you are a day dreamer you may as well learn to make it work for you. Experience in the use of this technique for growth. Bring a notebook.

●B.S. February 11-16

Psychosynthesis Workshop
Tom Allen & Margaret Conway

Five-day workshop $245

(See workshop description, January 26-28, above.)

The Act of Willing in Psychosynthesis
Steven Kull & Betsie Carter

Evening workshop

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

The will has had a bad press: it is associated with Victorian coercion, the clenched jaw, and will power. This evening will be concerned with the joyous, skillful and good willing that is at the essence of the human experience.

For reservation information, see page 27. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 28-31.

Shaping the Human Environment: A Film Series
Richard Cowan, Coordinator

Eight Thursday evenings
Individual admisison: $3 gen., $2 student
Series admission: $20 gen., $12 student

8-10:30 p.m., First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

The last ten thousand years have witnessed how society has evolved from simple bands of hunters and gatherers to modern civilization. During this period, as humankind has increased its technological ability, it has also forsaken its oneness with the environment. This film series will trace the pattern of these developments. The first three films depict the lifeways of hunting peoples and simple farmers; the next films show the ecstatic vision that can accompany harmony with self and nature; finally, the last two films are concerned with problems stemming from life in contemporary America. Each film has been selected not merely for what it shows but also for its artistic merit. There will be discussions to accompany each week's screening.

Jan. 18: The Hunters (John Marshall and Robert Gardner, c.1960) documents life among Kung Bushmen. It features a thirteen day chase after a wounded giraffe.

Jan. 25: Nanook of the North (Robert Flaherty, 1922) is the classic film on Eskimo life.

Feb. 1: Dead Birds (Robert Gardner, 1961) uses particularly beautiful images to interpret life within a group of New Guinean farmers who are also ritual warriors.

Feb. 8: To Find Our Life (Peter Furst, c.1967) highlights a typical peyote pilgramage of the Huichol Indians of northwestern Mexico.

Feb. 15: Holy Ghost People (Peter Adair, 1967) depicts a white Pentecostal church service in West Virginia in which the parishioners handle poisonous snakes and speak in tongues.

Feb. 22: Three films on trance behavior:
N'um Tchai (John Marshall, 1966) shows a ceremonial dance of the Kung Bushmen.
Trance and Dance in Bali (Gregory Bateson and Margaret Mead, c.1935)
Circle of the Sun (Colin Low, 1960) shows a Blackfoot Sun Dance through the eyes of the tribe's younger members.

March 1: The Exiles (Kent MacKenzie, 1961) is the story of a typical night in the lives of several Indians who have forsaken their reservations to live in downtown Los Angeles.

March 8: Invisible Walls (Richard Cowan, 1967) shows how middle-class Americans respond nonverbally to violations of their personal space.

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ▪ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Seminars

■S.F. Monday, January 8
Esalen Open House: An Evening with Cynthia (Werthman) Sheldon
Single evening event

[FREE]; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

An evening to discuss programs, methods, and directions with an Esalen leader, gestalt therapist, and director and trainer at the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco.

■S.F. January 13
Unorthodox Medicine
David Sobel
One-day seminar $20

A discussion of unorthodox medical approaches with an emphasis on positive health, preventive medicine and the medicine of the whole person. Areas to be drawn from include: primitive, ancient and Hippocratic medicine, Chinese medicine and acupuncture, yogic therapy, American Indian medicine, naturopathy, homeopathy, zone therapy, nutritional therapy, chiropractics, structural integration, relaxation therapy, and biofeedback training. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

●B.S. January 19-21
Changing Sex Roles
Shelly Dunnegan & Anica Vesel Mander
Weekend seminar $95

Men and women have been conditioned to fulfill particular roles in society. How does this conditioning limit our growth? What choices do we have? The men and women in the group will meet separately and together in order to re-examine and re-define what it means to be a woman and what it means to be a man. This group is open to individual women and men as well as couples.

■S.F. January 22-February 26
Sufi Stories
Josephine Leo
Six Monday evenings FREE

A series of Monday evenings where we can eat a few dates and share some sufi stories collected by Idries Shah. These "parables in action" of the Eastern dervish tradition claim the power to increase perception. 8-10 p.m., 1776 Union St., San Francisco.

●B.S. January 26-28
Dreams, Creativity & Altered States of Consciousness
Stanley Krippner
Weekend seminar $85

This workshop will utilize dream recall, guided imagery, group hypnosis, sensory bombardment, massage and body movement experiences to enter altered states of consciousness. In these states, participants will be trained to gain access to the personal and universal symbols, archetypes and thematic concepts which encourage creative development.

●B.S. January 26-28
Working with Sufi Stories
Robert Ornstein
Weekend seminar $85

Stories can be used in several ways; they can be humorous and allow us to laugh at parts of ourselves usually obscured, they can entertain and create movies within our heads, or function as drama with others. And they can create a special working consciousness enabled by no other means. A weekend of listening, dreaming, reflecting, meditating and laughing about stories. Bring your favorites.

●B.S. February 2-4
Good Medicine
David Sobel & Faith Hornbacher
Weekend workshop $85

"Your medicine is in you and you do not observe it. Your ailment is from yourself and you do not register it."

A practical approach to awareness and maintenance of your health and well-being with emphasis on our use/misuse of our bodies. Drawing from a body of exercises including breathing, movement, reflexology, structural patterning, Bates visual reeducation, body meditation and the Fantastic Voyage.

●B.S. February 9-11
An Ecology of Mind
Gregory Bateson
Weekend seminar $95

Participants are asked to read An Ecology of Mind before the seminar begins.

■S.F. February 16-17
Energetic Roots of the Mystical Experience
Stanley Keleman & Zalman Schachter
Two-day workshop $60

Keleman and Schachter write: "We will explore the role of the body in the mystical experience, combining the insights of biological-energetic thinking with the principles of the chassidic tradition. The Sabbath will be celebrated through an energetic liturgy, a ritual of grounding to open us to the heart of God." Friday, 12 Noon through the evening; Satruday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

●B.S. February 16-18
Acupuncture
Giovanni Boni, M.D.
Weekend seminar $85

This seminar will be an introduction to acupuncture with an emphasis on its traditional value as a preventive, healing art. As a concrete example, one of the meridians will be studied in depth in order to show its relationship to the entire circulation of energy and to the occult anatomy of man. Related drugless healing arts will also be explored.

For reservation information, see page 27. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 28-31.

Structural Integration

By realigning the body structure, the Rolf method of structural integration attempts to release excessive tensions so that the person may experience greater physical and emotional freedom and balance. The assumption is that a person's body and set are a mirror of his emotional past as well as a result of physical trauma. Structural integration is a process of direct physical manipulation and deep massage; working with a trained practitioner, the process is usually completed within ten individual sessions.

TRAINING in structural integration is offered only through the Ida P. Rolf Foundation for Structural Integration and only upon completion of certain prerequisites. Research in rolfing is encouraged by the Foundation. Information about training and research, as well as class announcements may be obtained by writing the Foundation, P.O. Box 1868, Boulder, Colo. 80302.

INDIVIDUAL SESSIONS with practitioners of structural integration are available by appointment only through the following offices:

Esalen Institute, Big Sur – no telephone appointments. Please request appointments in writing. Practitioners include Michael Butler, Al Drucker, Stanley Johnson, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Simone Surpin, Ed Taylor.

Esalen Institute, San Francisco – Telephone for appointments. Megan Gilchrist, Dub Leigh, Michael Salveson, Larry Swann.

STRUCTURAL PATTERNING is a body system which promotes structural balance and efficiency and economy of movement within the gravitational field. Patterns which block energy in the body are exchanged for those which allow energy to flow. It is particularly effective during or after rolfing for those who want to develop the use and awareness of their reorganized bodies, to produce further structural change along the same lines, and to rebalance themselves in situations of physical or emotional stress.

A course of private work in structural patterning usually consists of three to five supervised sessions, perhaps with a follow-up session after a few months.

Practitioners available for individual sessions are: Esalen/Big Sur – Ama Torrance; Esalen/San Francisco – Faith Hornbacher.

•B.S. January 26-28
At Home in Your Body
Elisa Lodge
Weekend workshop $85

Structural patterning is the basis of this workshop; becoming more at home within ourselves by eliminating what is unessential in our bodies. The patterns are adapted to each participant's personal needs so that he makes them his own. Together we will explore our everyday activities as well as widen our experience in spontaneous movement. Limited to 12 participants.

■S.F. February 10
Structural Patterning in Stillness & Motion
Faith Hornbacher
One-day workshop $25

This workshop is limited to 6 participants who have been or are being rolfed. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

The Human Body

AIKIDO is a Japanese art of self defense with the emphasis placed on centering, harmony and blending. It is presented as a physical manifestation of energy and spiritual Laws of the Universe.

THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE is concerned with the integration of posture and movement.

Alexander discovered that a basic correction of balance, and an accompanying reduction in stress, occurs when that particular relationship of the head to the neck which permits "the greatest possible lengthening of the spine in each and every act" is freely maintained.

This re-education is not accomplished by physical exercises or self-manipulative positioning, but by means of a conditioning procedure which alters the body image and through it the capacity for postural stability.

BIOENERGETIC ANALYSIS attempts to understand the life of the body through its expression of vitality, gesture, emotion, feeling and relationship. The body is viewed as an energetic process that participates as the world in the world of instinctual, social, imaginative and creative realms. Bioenergetics seeks to develop an individual's range of expression by working through this energetic process.

MASSAGE at Esalen is seen and taught as a caring relationship between two people. Consideration is given first to the feelings and sensory experience of both partners, and after that to technique. Workshops are attended by both couples and singles.

POLARITY THERAPY is an intensive pressure-point massage system similar in both theory and practice to Chinese acupuncture. Developed and synthesized by Dr. Randolph Stone from Oriental traditions many centuries old, its purpose is to realign posture and to release blocked energy throughout the body. Although advanced work in polarity therapy requires extensive training, a number of its more basic techniques are accessible to the interested layman.

SENSORY AWARENESS is Charlotte Selver's name for the work she studied with Elsa Gindler in Berlin and brought to the United States in 1938. Workshops in Sensory Awareness aim at a state of intellectual quiet in which each activity can be fully felt and allowed to find its natural way, free of inhibitions, techniques and images. When ideas are stilled, sense perceptions coming from the entire organism enable the person to function authentically, according to his nature, in all situations. Closely akin, in its pure form, to the practice of zen, Sensory Awareness brings the essential character of meditation to every aspect of daily living.

TAI-CHI CHUAN is an ancient Chinese exercise discipline practiced for health, meditation, energy flow and self-defense. The slow, flowing movements of this "shadow boxing" comprise the oldest and "softest" of the Asian martial arts. Developed from the Chinese practice of nei kung, or inner exercise, it is part of the system of Taoist yoga. The term tai chi can be translated as "grand ultimate" and is expressed by the familiar symbol of yang and yin. It is thus rooted in the Chinese philosophy of change as expressed in the I Ching.

■ Monday or Wednesday evenings

Sensory Awareness, Movement & Tai Chi
Ben & Judyth Weaver

Five-day workshop $215

● B.S. January 7-12

Renascence
Michael Butler

Five-day workshop $215

Each of us carries within him, buried beneath layers of psychic and physical tensions, the fertile seed of a new self. This workshop will use many of the Esalen body-oriented and psychological techniques to allow participants to experience that seed center of self and nourish it.

● B.S. January 7-12

Bioenergetics: A Workshop With Michael Conant

Five-day workshop $275

The focus of this workshop will be individual and group sessions utilizing bioenergetic, neo-Reichian and gestalt modalities. Limited to 16 participants.

● B.S. January 7-12

Gestalt With Body English
John & Sandy Enright

Five-day workshop $245

Mind: "I want to be free!"

Body: "No way! I want to go on just as I am, up-tight and holding in, but safe and familiar."

The body's part of this familiar dialogue is expressed in physical symptoms and chronic muscle tension. We will use gestalt and a variety of body approaches drawn from bioenergetics, dance and psychomotor training to work on the resolution of this eternal internal argument.

For reservation information, see page 27. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 28-31.

The Human Body

•B.S. January 12-14
The Physical, Psychological and Spiritual Aspects of Yoga
Joel Kramer
Weekend workshop $85

A workshop designed to introduce yoga and meditation as a means of exploring oneself and the nature of awareness. Yoga techniques such as hatha yoga, jnana yoga and pranayama (breathing) will be covered. There will be inquiry into the structures of mind.

■S.F. January 13
Unorthodox Medicine
David Sobel
One-day seminar $20

A discussion of unorthodox medical approaches with an emphasis on positive health, preventive medicine and the medicine of the whole person. Areas to be drawn from include: primitive, ancient and Hippocratic medicine, Chinese medicine and acupuncture, yogic therapy, American Indian medicine, naturopathy, homeopathy, zone therapy, nutritional therapy, chiropractics, structural integration, relaxation therapy, and biofeedback training. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

Knots Are from Nots
Gabrielle Roth
Five-day workshop $245

"DO NOT..." They cause knots in your body. Let's get rid of them by getting into our bodies, relaxing, breathing deep, massaging each other and dancing through all those blocks which are keeping us out of life and from each other.

■S.F. Wednesday, January 17
An Introduction to the Movement Ritual Series: Cycles of Movement-Feeling-Mind
Ann Halprin
Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Participants will create a collective ritual as an initiation to Ann Halprin's workshop series: Cycles of Movement-Feeling-Mind. (For a complete description see Extended Programs, p. 4.)

•B.S. January 19-21
Bodymind
William Schutz
Weekend workshop $95

The workshop will attempt to integrate the Feldenkrais exercises (a body method) with fantasy and encounter. Everyone will be given an opportunity to experience several exercises followed by a fantasy, then in an encounter group to deal with the material generated. The aim is for a more complete integration of each person's organism.

■S.F. January 19-21
Body/Mind/Spirit
Michael Butler
Weekend workshop $50

With a base of encounter and gestalt techniques, this workshop will integrate the balance concepts of structural integration with the centering and grounding practices of aikido and energy awareness. The goal will be to tap the sources of power and well-being within us.

■S.F. January 20
Dreams and the Body
George Downing
One-day workshop $25

In this workshop we will work with gestalt, breath awareness and other techniques in order to clarify and to integrate the messages of our dream bodies. Those who are out of touch with their dreams are also welcome: we will use deep fantasy methods in order to explore some of the same thematic material. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday.

WORKSHOPS WITH STANLEY KELEMAN – SAN FRANCISCO

The Human Body

■S.F. Wednesday, January 31
Body Awareness
George Downing
Single evening event

[FREE]; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco. Wear loose and comfortable clothing, and bring a blanket.

●B.S. February 2-4
Ann Halprin and the Dancers' Workshop Troupe
Journey through Body Consciousness
Weekend workshop $85

A micro-playshop for everyone. Psychic breakthrough with meditation through movement. Breathing. Exploring the six spinal centers. Spontaneous dancing and chanting with drums. . . and an environmental event by the participants, ritualizing the playshop when we get it together.

●B.S. February 2-4
Good Medicine
David Sobel & Faith Hornbacher
Weekend workshop $85

"Your medicine is in you and you do not observe it. Your ailment is from yourself and you do not register it."

A practical approach to awareness and maintenance of your health and well-being with emphasis on our use/misuse of our bodies. Drawing from a body of exercises including breathing, movement, reflexology, structural patterning, Bates visual reeducation, body meditation and the Fantastic Voyage.

■S.F. February 3
Releasing Fixed Patterns
Christie King
One-day workshop $20

The process of living builds defenses and rigid patterns into our bodies. From childhood our nervous systems learn to react with certain selected fixed patterns. This conditioning greatly restricts body awareness and prohibits alternative ways of body movement. Dr. Moshe Feldenkrais has developed sequences of profound, simple exercises and through these our awareness will be directed to releasing fixed patterns in the body and the corresponding opening of the whole body's energies. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

■S.F. February 3-4
Gestalt & Massage
Frank Rubenfeld & Mari Krieger
Weekend workshop $50

10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

●B.S. February 4-9
Centering Through Movement and Massage
Barbara Clemans
Five-day workshop $245

We will draw upon methods from neo-Reichian energetics, polarity therapy, massage, dance, movement and shiatsu.

●B.S. February 9-11
Movement & Massage
Patty Jordan & John Graham
Weekend workshop $85

We aim to combine the skills of movement and massage in order to heighten the experience of both. To enhance the awareness and knowledge of the body, movement patterns and sequences will be taught before and after the presentation and the giving and receiving of massage techniques. We would like to provide an environment where the release of energies from massage into movement and movement into massage can be explored more fully.

●B.S. February 9-11
Renascence
Michael Butler
Weekend workshop $85

(See workshop description, January 7-12, above.)

■S.F. February 9-April 8
Expression and Being
George Downing
Two-month program $200

An in-depth program providing a wider opportunity to explore and to integrate a number of different pathways toward personal growth. Our focus will be on the body as the source and center of our being; and on our individual styles of making contact, both with ourselves and with other persons. We will make extensive use of gestalt, and meditation, as well as a variety of methods of working directly with the body, including breath awareness, Feldenkrais techniques, movement, Esalen massage, polarity therapy and others. An intellectual as well as an emotional understanding of what we together have experienced will be encouraged. Two weekends (February 9-11; April 6-8) and one evening meeting per week (dates to be announced).

■S.F. February 10-11
Integrated Weekend Wake-up Shop
Lauree Moss & Steven Flynn
Weekend workshop $45

We will explore, using the gestalt method, our mind and body processes which inhibit our living more fully in the here and now. We also want to have fun in sharing some of the other tools we know, i.e. hatha yoga, Dr. Stone's yoga, concentration and some direct body work. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■S.F. February 14-April 4
Belly Dancing
Barbara Clemans
Eight Wednesday evenings $3.50 per session or $25 for eight sessions

"I have studied many ethnic dance forms and have found belly dancing to be the most female of the arts; perhaps because it originated as a dance of empathy for women during childbirth. I have also discovered methods of freeing the movement range and energy flow in the lower half of the body. I would like to share these discoveries with you using breath awareness, psychomotor techniques and belly dancing. The emphasis is not on performance but on enjoyment of movement." For women only. Wear loose, comfortable clothing, and do not eat heavily before the class. 7:30-9:30 p.m.

●B.S. February 16-18
Acupuncture
Giovanni Boni, M.D.
Weekend seminar $85

This seminar will be an introduction to acupuncture with an emphasis on its traditional value as a preventive, healing art. As a concrete example, one of the meridians will be studied in depth in order to show its relationship to the entire circulation of energy and to the occult anatomy of man. Related drugless healing arts will also be explored.

●B.S. February 16-18
Gestalt & Body Awareness
George Downing
Weekend workshop $85

We will work intensively with both the verbal methods of gestalt and a number of nonverbal techniques of body awareness, including fantasy, movement, breath awareness, Feldenkrais dynamics, energy exchange and others.

■S.F. February 23-25
A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter
Weekend workshop $50

"My work is living and teaching a way of life which gradually develops the capacity to live in the here and now and to be all there for whatever life brings. Working with the traditional methods of meditation and aikido, and the contemporary methods of gestalt and sensory awareness, this workshop will introduce participants to a Western approach to centering."

■S.F. February 24
Movement-Ritual Series: Cycles of Movement-Feeling-Mind
Ann Halprin
One-day workshop $20

We will evoke individual self-symbols of totems from concentration and movement of one part of the body. The process will become a way to discover an entranceway to begin our body journey. The group will discover and ritualize ways of making one complete body or group self-symbol out of all the individual parts; each part finding its place within the group persona. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday. (For a complete description of the Movement-Ritual Series, see Extended Programs, p. 4.)

■S.F.- February 24-25
Conscious Mind, Conscious Body: A Weekend for Women
Anica Vesel Mander & Anne Kent Rush
Weekend workshop $35

Women have been conditioned to be passive, dependent and mistrustful of their own feelings. In this workshop we will deal with ways of changing this conditioning by sharing our experiences and liberating specific body blocks. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

•B.S. February 25-March 2
Western Yoga
Bernard Gunther
Five-day workshop $245

A workshop that will move to the experiencing of a deeper mind body being integration and the practical application of these methods and their use in everyday life, relationships and situations. In this group, you will experience and come into contact with core aspects of yourself, nature and others through the amalgamation of sensory awakening and psychosynthesis processes along with other methods both Eastern and Western; physical, mental and spiritual.

A non-refundable deposit must accompany registration as follows: $10 per person for programs costing under $35; $20 for programs costing under $100; $50 for those over $100, unless otherwise noted. Mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Balance is payable at the first session of the program. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. Esalen accepts Master Charge and American Express.

INFORMATION, LITERATURE AND TICKETS: for lectures may be obtained Monday through Saturday, 10:00 to 5:00 at 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Tickets obtained by mail will indicate the exact location and time of events; when not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door.

WEEKEND SCHEDULES: Weekend workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sundays, unless otherwise indicated in workshop descriptions. Schedules are not rigid, however, and exact meeting times are discussed at the first session.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Most San Francisco programs are non-residential. Participants in these programs must reserve their own accommodations at local hotels or motels. Unless stated otherwise, meals are not provided at such workshops.

RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS: are indicated in individual workshop descriptions. Program cost of residential programs includes tuition, food and lodging. Shared occupancy only, no private accommodations available. Weekend residential programs, unless otherwise indicated, begin at 8 p.m. Friday (no supper served) and conclude following Sunday lunch. Programs are held at a conference center in Marin County or in Sonoma County; exact location will be included with reservation confirmation.

LOCATION: Participants will be informed of workshop location prior to the workshop date. Esalen uses several facilities in the Bay Area for its programs including its own building at 1757 Union Street, San Francisco. Call the San Francisco office for advance information on program location.

SCHOLARSHIPS, interest-free loans and work scholarships are available for many programs in San Francisco. Contact the S.F. office for information and forms. STUDENT AND "POOR PEOPLE" RATES are also possible on a space-available basis. These are stand-by rates of 50% off the stated workshop price. Come by the S.F. office no earlier or later than three days before the program's starting date to place your name on a stand-by waiting list, to leave a deposit for the program, and to validate that you qualify for stand-by rates. (The deposit is refundable if you do not get in the workshop.) Confirmations will not be made until the morning of the workshop date.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes for men.

WAITING LISTS: Names are placed on waiting lists in cases of over-subscription or when demanded by workshop requirements. Registrants placed on such a list will be informed immediately and deposit checks held. Checks will be refunded if reservation cannot be confirmed or upon request by persons not wanting to be on a waiting list.

Big Sur Information

For reservations and information, write or call:

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Deposits accompanying the reservations are required as follows: $20 for weekend programs; $70 for 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $400 for 4-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

PROGRAM COSTS: cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra. Foreign currency: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. Esalen accepts Master Charge and American Express.

GROUNDS ARE CLOSED EXCEPT BY RESERVATION. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

CHECK-IN/CHECK-OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening; however, guests are welcome to arrive earlier in the afternoon. All programs begin with dinner on Sunday evening; weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday evening. The last session of a five-day program is Friday morning. Two-week and four-week programs usually have final sessions on the last Friday morning. Weekend programs end on Sunday after the morning session. Check-out time is noon of the final day of all programs.

ACCOMMODATIONS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodging in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property – in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms – is strictly prohibited.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean, with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name.

From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – Reservations only.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE FROM MONTEREY: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is available between 11:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. on Fridays and Sundays at $10 per person from Monterey Airport or Greyhound Terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen Representative.

WORK COMMITMENT: Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer.

ORGANIC FOOD: The organic food garden on the Esalen grounds is flourishing and provides the kitchen with most of its vegetables and herbs. We try to serve only organically-produced meats, poultry and dairy products; most breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

STAFF-LED WORKSHOPS: Some of the four-week, two-week and five-day programs listed will be led by members of the Esalen Staff from Big Sur. Big Sur Staff includes: Michael Butler, Seymour Carter, Al Drucker, Brita Fluck, Betty Fuller, Janet Lederman, David Lees, Dub Leigh, Peggy Morrison, Richard Price, Paul Rebillot, Carole Rosenblatt, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Julian Silverman, Simone Surpin, Ben Weaver and Judyth Weaver.

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ▪ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

THE ESALEN PUBLISHING PROGRAM WITH VIKING PRESS

Far-ranging investigations, divinations and reports from the movement to develop human potentialities, highlighting recent work at Esalen.

The One Quest
by Claudio Naranjo
$8.95, hardbound.

Through an examination of ancient and modern systems of meditation, mysticism and sensory awareness, Claudio Naranjo illuminates universal patterns in man's search for self realization.

The Farther Reaches of Human Nature
by Abraham Maslow
$12.50, hardbound; $2.95, paper.

This adventurous volume is the last work Dr. Maslow completed before his death. In it he goes beyond earlier writings to carry the concerns of psychology into the realm of joy, creativity and spiritual experience, sketching a psychology for the highest of which man is capable.

On the Psychology of Meditation
by Claudio Naranjo and Robert Ornstein
$2.25, paper

Two psychologists examine the spiritual ground of meditation and the implications of meditation for modern psychology, incorporating insights from new experimental work in the nature of consciousness.

Golf in the Kingdom
by Michael Murphy
$7.95, hardbound

On the fog-shrouded golf course called Burningbush, Michael Murphy is swept into a magical world where untold potentials can be unleashed in a backswing governed by true gravity. A bagful of knowledge about the Higher Self is revealed through the metaphor of the game as Shivas Irons, the Scottish golf pro, leads Michael around the Links of Burningbush and into a place where the monster spirits are opening up the world.

OTHER BOOKS IN THE ESALEN-VIKING SERIES

Secrets of the Trade
Joe K. Adams $12.50, hardbound.

Psychosynthesis
Roberto Assagioli $2.75, paper.

Human Teaching for Human Learning
George I. Brown $8.50, hardbound; $2.75, paper.

Hot Springs
Stuart Miller $7.95, hardbound.

Books

OTHER TITLES OF SPECIAL INTEREST:

Power and Innocence
by Rollo May
$7.95, hardbound.

Stressing the creative aspects of power and innocence, Dr. May explores the sources of contemporary violence and its manifestation in race riots, police brutality and student revolts.

The Transformation
by George B. Leonard
$7.95, hardbound.

"After all the journeying, all the pain and joy, we may discover that the Transformation was difficult to grasp, not because it was so far away, but because it was so very near. To find the immense world of delight is, in the end, to come home again, where it always was."

Special Information

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published quarterly. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco office. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

ESALEN CONSULTING SERVICE: Esalen is devoted to making life more human at all levels. Our work has reached thousands of individuals and hundreds of institutions. Until recently most of this work was being done at our own facilities, either in Big Sur or San Francisco. There is now, however, an ever-expanding part of Esalen's universe that is moving toward helping to effect changes in the world outside the workshop. Through the Esalen Consulting Service, Esalen staff and leaders have designed and participated in projects for the U.S. Army, Ford Foundation, the Lockheed Corp., Model Cities, O.E.O., inservice training programs for hospitals, drug treatment centers, social agencies, colleges, universities and public school districts. Esalen courses are now being given at the University of California and at New York University. Many organizations have also used Esalen personnel as communications and human relations facilitators. If you are interested in learning more about the Consulting Service contact Bob Kriegel at the Esalen/San Francisco office.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please see membership form below.

ACCREDITATION and the USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs. Our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools.

FILMS of the work of Frederick S. Perls in gestalt therapy and Alexander Lowen in bioenergetic analysis, as well as films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow, Virginia Satir and others are available from Association for Humanistic Psychology, 416 Hoffman Street, San Francisco, California 94114.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA, KQED, KSAN, KSFX, and KMPX) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has a dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KLOS, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, and KPFT Houston, WBAI New York and WOMB New Hampshire, broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recordings of many past programs are available through a service which maintains archive copies for Esalen. Requests for tapes now come from educational and service institutions, libraries, religious and professional groups, business groups and individuals concerned with the human potential movement. Commercial use of these tapes is prohibited; all rights reserved. For a complete tape catalog, write Big Sur Recordings, 117 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, CA 94903. The cost of recordings is $8 per tape-hour (prepaid) and $10 per tape-hour (with purchase orders), stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette.

ABOUT THIS CATALOG

Catalog design: Red Dog Pieface. The designer states: this issue contains a few favorite patterns, continuing an earlier catalog theme. Patterns reveal basic philosophical realities about their executants. For example, the eskimo's direct application of his knowing that the many is one (p. 26); the Kiowa Indian's understanding that the way in is the way out (p. 13); how beauty "resides" in ordinary objects is attentively expressed by a Zen monk (p. 11); the pattern of human shape in movement is caught in its essence by a Bushman artist (p. 24); how opposites combined lead to higher perceptions is shown in a Tantric diagram (p. 7); and the felt unity of earth, sea and sky rhythms are laid out with great assurance by an early Roman mosaicist (p. 14).

Friends of Esalen MEMBERSHIP PROGRAM

Many people who have attended Esalen programs have expressed a strong interest in becoming more involved and keeping in touch with what is happening at Esalen. Similarly, we at Esalen have increasingly felt the need to involve more people in our expanding community. We want and need your energy, participation and support. We have developed Friends of Esalen, our membership program, as a means of bringing us together. This is your invitation to join.

As a Friend of Esalen you will receive Frog, the membership newsletter, which will keep you informed of new developments and activities at Esalen and in the Human Potential Movement. It will also serve as a forum for any of your ideas and comments. In addition, you will receive special prepublication rates on all new Esalen-Viking books.

INTRODUCING ESALEN'S SPORT CENTER

This is to announce the establishment of the Esalen Sports Center, the purpose of which is to help broaden the perspective on athletics and physical education as they exist in our country today. The Center has no hard and fixed ideas. It is genuinely committed to the broadest possible exploration. Many possibilities exist, such as: the invention of new sports for an age of transformation or the invention of a totally new system of physical education. But one major direction which has already emerged involved the more familiar: studying how to enrich the experience of participation in existing sports.

This study is a useful point of departure because athletics are in a process of change. Especially in the last four years, there have come substantial critiques of athletics from within the athletic world itslef, critiques of professional baseball, professional football, track and field, and of the role of the black athlete.

The resulting push toward transformation in athletics is seen by many athletes and commentators as symptomatic of and part of a more general transformation taking place in society at large. It is becoming clear that athletics needs new concepts. The athletic experience must be broadened to include spiritual, mental, emotional as well as physical development. From this viewpoint sports can become again one vehicle for the comprehensive development of the whole person – a yoga, in the broad sense of the word.

But at the present time there exists a vacuum in this "athletic revolution". Critical analyses of what is wrong with athletics abound: Jim Bounten's Ball Four, David Meggyesy's Out of Their League, Jack Scott's Revolution in Sport and Harry Edwards' The Black Athlete, to name only a few works. While many people have accepted large parts of the general critique presented in such books, they have been searching not only for criticism but for positive suggestions. They are looking for a body of concepts and practices which can elicit the extraordinary potential for total human growth that they feel should occur within the athletic experience. Michael Murphy's book Golf in the Kingdom evoked this potential and suggested some of the concepts and practices which can elicit it. As Murphy shows, sports can conceivably become a way toward total self-development, and they can even serve as a powerful metaphor for man's spiritual quest.

Such possibilities are exciting becuase the influence of sport on American life is immense. Via the mass media and our personal experience, sports enters our daily life. Sports constitute one of the most powerful shapers of childhood experience. Sports have a powerful impact on how we [illegible] the world and athletics articulate and reinforce the system of values which has been at the center of our cultural experience; values such as competition, aggression and combativeness. In the transformation our society is experiencing, it is precisely these values which must be re-thought.

The underlying work of Esalen has been to find and develop ideas and practices that point toward a higher vision of man – a vision that leaves behind some of the values which are central to the dis-ease many find in American life. The athletic revolution should include these new ideas and practices.

Our current intentions and objectives for the Esalen Sports center focus broadly on education. More and more people recognize the immense educational influence athletics have, particularly on the minds and lives of school-age people. We feel the need of a change in concepts and practices involved in teaching sports and physical education. It is precisely these practices which emphasize the mind-body split and create a dehumanized world of rationalized physical development. Because of narrow understanding of the functions of athletics – one which frequently views the purpose of physical education merely as the creation of winners – many people become alienated from sports and physical education. What is needed is a more comprehensive view and an understanding of the broad yogic potential that exists in the athletic process. Esalen's expertise can help provide such a new and more encompassing view.

In spite of the dehumanizing character of many, if not most, athletic institutions, many athletes continue to realize that their own participation in sports involves not only physical but also emotional, mental and spiritual dimensions. John Brodie's recent conversation with Michael Murphy in Intellectual Digest is only one example, on the part of a major athlete, of this continuing and increasing realization of the potential of sports.

Everyone is capable of experiencing sports with a richer and more varied sense of awareness. We believe that a thorough examination of the relevance of Esalen's work to sports and to physical education will make the athletic experience a richer and more rewarding one. This is the first direction we seek to explore.

Objectives of Esalen Sports Center

Education: New Curricula for Teaching Athletics.

The teaching of sports in America is very mechanical in quality. "How to" books for every sport minutely detail "rights" and "wrongs" for each motion. And each person strives with might and main to come up to these rigorous external norms. This approach overlooks the most important element in the athletic experience, indeed the source and aim of the experience: the uniqueness of each individual. By combining or blending much of Esalen's work, which emphasizes the unity of mind, body and emotions, with the traditional sporting curriculum, a psychosynthesis of sports may be affected which will merge the total individual with the athletic experience.

Increasing Participation in Sports. Such a blending of Esalen's work with sports should result in increasing the number of people participating in sports. Millions of these have become alienated from athletics and physical education, turning to such techniques as hatha yoga, aikido, tai chi chuan, and sensory awareness, to name only a few. These Americans have wished to increase their physical, mental, emotional and spiritual awareness. But athletics can be a vehicle for achieving the same results. Furthermore, insights and techniques derived from these new disciplines can be integrated with existing athletics. These disciplines can be studied not only by themselves but in combination with sports, with a view toward encircling sports. An athletics so enriched would present these people and others with a vehicle, and a much more familiar one than any of the new techniques alone, for achieving the same results: a synthesis of mind, body and spirit and a total awareness of the NOW.

Spiritual Development in Athletics:

Exploring the potential of athletic experience for eliciting higher levels of awareness. Many athletes have reported paranormal experiences, ecstatic states and other altered states of consciousness while playing sports. Furthermore the athletic experience can serve to reveal the larger meanings in our own lives and of life in general. But it must be looked at in new ways to give up such secrets. Work will be done to develop a conceptual framework to elaborate and explore this highest potential of the athletic experience.

Plans

a. Individual Programs – The Esalen Sports Center will sponsor programs relating Esalen techniques and disciplines to specific sports – tennis, golf, football, skiing, hiking and others. Similar programs will also be conducted relating to sports in general, i.e., centering in athletics, developing concentration, new ways of limbering up, body awareness and movement. The first of these programs will be the sports symposium which is described below. A two week summer institute for sports is being planned for late June – early July for teenagers as well as adults.

b. Consulting – The Esalen Sports Center staff will be available to schools, colleges, departments of recreation and professional organizations to discuss, demonstrate and give workshops in this new approach to athletics. Members of the staff have already given talks and lecture demonstrations at New York University, Oberlin College, and the University of California at Davis.

c. Special Projects – We plan to work with physical education instructors and coaches, towards the goal of developing a new curriculum for the teaching of athletics at all levels.

Sports Symposium

A major sports symposium is planned for the weekend of March 31 to April 1 to introduce the Esalen Sports Center. It will take place at Skyline College in San Bruno, California, near San Francisco. The cost will be $25 ($18 for students). Academic credits can be arranged. See page 25 for some Symposium details.

THE OPTOKINETIC PERCEPTUAL LEARNING DEVICE

Eleanor Criswell, the director of HPI, has added to the increasing trend toward consciousness-raising artifacts with the marketing of the Optokinetic Learning Drum, a device whose use apparently results in raised levels of brain activity, and increased consciousness and alertness. An experimental model of the now-patented device was demonstrated at an Esalen lecture last year and at the annual Menninger Conferences held at Council Grove, Kansas. Dr. Criswell's subjects have reported that five minutes per day using the drum, which consists of a cylinder that fits on a standard turntable, has resulted in increased reading speed, comprehension and concentration. Tests conducted with football players at Sonoma State College showed that visual reaction time increased by 15%. More information about the "O.K. Drum", its tradename, is available by writing to Esalen in San Francisco.

SACRED TRADITION AND PRESENT NEED

Arrangements are now being completed for a carefully focused series of evening programs that will bring to San Francisco authoritative spokesmen of the spiritual traditions that are now offering themselves anew to the Western world. Sponsored jointly by Esalen, the Marsden and other foundations, the series is under the direction of Jacob Needleman, author of The New Religions and editor of The Penguin Metaphysical Library.

According to Dr. Needleman, the central question of the series is whether Twentieth Century man can be genuinely helped to take in the hidden knowledge in ancient traditions: "Have the esoteric traditions the power to lead modern man toward a struggle for real consciousness?" Needleman feels that the current 'spiritual revolution' is not of itself a sign that a serious search is yet possible in the conditions of our civilization. "We still seem to be stranded amid the partial insights of contemporary psychology, the confusing results of our experiments with drugs and new communal relationships, and the artificial religions which we unconsciously fabricate by selecting from ancient traditions only those elements that sound agreeable or interesting to us. What is a complete teaching, one that touches all sides of the human structure? Has any such teaching been able to take root in the modern world? Will the traditions – in their totality – change form in ways that will make them psychologically effective for us? Or will there appear a new knowledge and new forms as real as the ancient, and emanating from the same primal source? How will we recongize them?"

News

On March 10, Dr. Needleman will introduce the series with a lecture and discussion stating who will follow during the remainder of the year. Toward the end of March, Seyyed Hossein Nasr will arrive from Iran to speak to these questions from the perspective of the Sufi traditions. Professor Nasr is the author of The Encounter of Man and Nature and Sufi Essays as well as numerous other books on the Islamic tradition, and is one of the world's leading expositors of Sufi teachings. Other speakers scheduled for the Spring include Lizelle Reymond, author of My Life With a Brahmin Family and To Live Within, who will base her talk on work in India with a master of the Samkhya, the most ancient and scientific of India's spiritual disciplines; Lobsang Lhalungpa, trained within the gamut of the Tibetan tradition, will present the response of Tibetan Buddhism; Pamela Travers, author of Mary Poppins and a long-time student of symbolism and the esoteric, will discuss the possibility of mythic transmission of knowledge.

Distinguished speakers are also being scheduled from within Orthodox Christianity, Zen Buddhism and other traditions that are now calling out to our time and place. Watch for a special announcement of the complete schedule after the turn of the year.

Programs

Extended Programs

The following programs represent ways in which participants can involve themselves with Esalen over an extended period of time. These long term programs present greater opportunities for professional development, learning experiences, and exposure to a wide variety of disciplines.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE/WEST UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAM AT ESALEN

Advanced undergraduate students (anyone who has completed some undergraduate work at any college or university) may enroll at Antioch College/West in San Francisco and work for their B.A. degree at Esalen. Course work is accredited through Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio; the B.A. degree is from Antioch College/West and the Union for Experimenting Colleges and Universities.

Students develop their own educational programs incorporating regularly scheduled Esalen workshops and courses and individual work created in conjunction with the Esalen staff. Esalen leaders and staff act as faculty and counselors for students in the program.

Tuition for an academic year (generally nine months) is $2700; students may begin their programs at any time. Financial aid is available. This program also qualifies for Veterans and Social Security benefits.

Inquiries for admission should be directed to: Ms. Cristy Willer, Antioch College/West, 149 Ninth Street, San Francisco, CA 94103. Information about program content and design should be addressed to: The Antioch West Program, Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco, CA 94123.

ON-GOING RESIDENTIAL PROGRAM IN BIG SUR

Esalen/Big Sur offers an ongoing residential program which may be initiated by an individual according to his specific needs and interests, chosen from among the continuing workshops available. Those interested in the program should be aware of a residence requirement of at least two months.

The cost of the program is $875 per month exclusive of weekend workshops. Individuals interested in applying must first attend a week-long workshop at Big Sur, the cost of which will not be applicable to the residential fee, should they be accepted to the program.

• B.S. March 4-30

Structural Integration & Gestalt
Al Drucker, Beverly Silverman, Ama Torrance

Four-week program $265 per week

This is an intensive program designed for those wishing to be rolfed. The rolfing sessions are given by advanced practitioners in a setting that is conducive to maximum body release and emotional growth. A series of eight hours can be completed in four weeks; however, individuals may register for each week separately instead. On a weekly basis the cost of the workshop includes two hours of rolfing and one hour of structural patterning. During the week there will be a daily morning exercise period including hatha yoga, Arica gym, and zazen meditation done in accordance with rolfing principles. In the evenings there will be a gestalt session. Additional sessions will be scheduled during the week. These may include tai chi, massage, movement, Feldenkrais exercises, anatomy/physiology/nutrition lectures and discussions on various related subjects such as acupuncture and energetics. One day per week will be designed as an optional day of fasting supervised by the staff.

The workshop will be limited each week to 10 persons. We can only accept individuals under 170 lbs. weight.

■ S.F. March 14-May31

Massage Training
Gunver Jackson

Twelve week class $260

Participants will receive instruction in massage techniques and will work to develop receptivity to touch, both giving and receiving. Relaxation, breathing and gestalt awareness exercises will be used to supplement thorough massage training. Gunver Jackson writes: "The goal here is to teach that life is an act, not a thought. Action in life and our basic need for touch will be combined in the teaching of massage."

The course consists of twelve three-hour classes in massage scheduled for two separate groups. There are also ten classes in human anatomy, taught by Ed Jackson, M.D. The anatomy course is limited to 24 participants and is open to the general public.

Massage Group I: 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., twelve Wednesday mornings, March 14-May 30; limited to eight participants.

Massage Group II: 7 to 10 p.m., twelve Thursday evenings, March 15-May 31; limited to ten participants.

Anatomy Class: 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., ten Wednesday evenings, March 14-May 16.

A non-refundable deposit of $150 is required. Indicate whether Group I or Group II is preferred when registering.

• B.S. May 6-June 1

Gestalt & Structural Ingetration
Richard Price & Esalen Staff

Four-week program $950

Structural Integration, while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body processes in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolfings as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.)

For reservation information, see page 30. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 31-35.

Seminars

Sunday Afternoons in Big Sur

Esalen/Big Sur continues its Sunday afternoon series during March and April. The grounds will be open from 12:30. The cost of the afternoon includes lunch and use of the hot baths and pool.

March 11 – Paul Krassner An Afternoon With a Self-Styled Con Man 3 p.m. $10

April 1 – A Talk With Claudio Naranjo 3 p.m. $10

Please write to Carole Levine, Program Coordinator, Esalen/Big Sur for tickets. Limited to 30 persons.

Shaping the Human Environment: A Film Series
Richard Cowan, Coordinator

Two Thursday evenings
$3 general, $2 student, per evening; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

These are the final two evenings of an eight-session film series which began in January. They are open to everyone; attendance at the previous six sessions not necessary. These two films are concerned with problems stemming from life in contemporary America. A discussion will follow each film.

March 1: The Exiles (Kent MacKenzie, 1961) is the story of a typical night in the lives of several Indians who have forsaken their reservations to live in downtown Los Angeles.

March 8: Invisible Walls (Richard Cowan, 1967) shows how middle-class Americans respond nonverbally to violations of their personal space.

The Song of Speech
Peter Marin

Weekend workshop $50

Touch is the stuff of intimacy; speech is the substance of community. The depth and quality of the landscape we share as communities and a society depend upon the extent to which we have found our own private and independent voices, our ability to speak the truths we know and discover. The problem is that we live in an age where we seem as deprived of speech as we are of touch, and most of us must learn from scratch how to speak our selves into the world – for, if we do not, we are isolate and diminished beings, just as birds would be if they could not sing. That is what this seminar is about: the song of speech, learning to speak the world into being and reweave, through language, a web of community. The seminar will be slanted toward conversation and away from exercises and technique – all in the hope of summoning forth real personhood from those involved. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Six Monday evenings $45

(See workshop description under The Human Body, page 24.)

■ S.F. March 7-April 25

Language, Consciousness & Reality
Arthur Hastings

Eight Wednesday evenings $30 per month

Learning how language, consciousness and reality are all causes and effects of each other. We will include how we can talk about internal states, how we select, process and communicate reality through language, and ways of getting outside language-controlled reality or of creating new languages. Hastings will provide information and experiences for learning in verbal and nonverbal ways. 8-10:30 p.m.

The Roots of Weirdness
Paul Krassner

Weekend seminar $85

A few laughs, a little insight. Neither therapy nor wisdom. Stimulation of memory and imagination is an end in itself. No organized meditation or sweet touchy-feely stuff in this seminar. Just a simple sharing of those acts of will which led inevitably to participation in an exercise in cultural decadence.

Integrative Seminar for Women in Academic Professions
Anica Vesel Mander & Lisby Mayer

Five Tuesday evenings $50

The academic world is primarily a male world; this is a seminar for women who would like a chance to explore their place in academia as women. We will focus particularly on ways of integrating aspects of the growth movement into our work, as well as developing our consciousness as women. For women only; students welcome; scholarships available. 8-10:30 p.m.

● B.S. March 16-18

The Living of a Personal Myth
Joseph Campbell

Weekend workshop $95

Carl Jung tells us in his Memories, Dreams, Reflections that hardly had he finished the writing of his Symbols of Transformation, when suddenly he realized "what it means to live with a myth, and what it means to live without one." He asked himself by what myth he was living, and found that he did not know; and so, he writes, "I took it upon myself to get to know 'my' myth, and I regarded this as the task of tasks."

How many of us know, or think we know, by what myth our lives are governed? Or is the myth by which we think we live the actual ruler of our life? Jung has described the method and crises of his own research and discovery. By what means may we, likewise, get to know – and perhaps even enrich and deepen – the roots out of which we spiritually grow?

In this seminar the general functions served by a traditional mythology will be reviewed and discussed, their relevance to our modern situation considered. Various ways of getting to know and enriching the myth by which one lives will be suggested. And, finally, illustrations from literature and life will be presented. Those wishing to offer their own life-quest for review will be encouraged and helped to do so.

Alternative Views of "Mental Illness"
Art & Janica Fox, Marion Saltman

One-day workshop $20

Recovering from schizophrenia, depression and other forms of "mental illness" are strongly affected by negative medical and cultural views. In this seminar we will share our experiences and explore other views: R.D. Laing, the megavitamin people, hypoglycemia, nutritionists, Stan Grof, Julian Silverman and the views of other cultures. We welcome professionals, individuals, and families who, like ourselves, have had personal experience with "mental illness." 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

● B.S. April 20-22

The Human Unconscious & Environment
Joan Halifax Grof, Stan Grof & Leni Schwartz

Weekend workshop $95

This workshop will explore the relationship between the human unconscious and environment – mediating and translating inner space through ritual, creation and celebration. The three facilitators are integrating their three areas of environmental psychology, anthropology and LSD research.

● Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Interpersonal

The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontations rather than away from them. The focus of encounter is to explore interpersonal relations. Over the past years encounter, as practiced at Esalen, has evolved into a broad approach incorporating several related disciplines to achieve its aims. Techniques and insights gained from gestalt, sensory awareness, bioenergetics, massage, movement and structural integration are all part of Esalen's encounter groups today.

SAN FRANCISCO INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS

These evening and one-day programs are specially intended for, but not limited to, persons who have not previously participated in Esalen encounter groups.

EVENING INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN: Working in small and large group sessions, participants will be introduced to many methods for personal growth being explored at Esalen. Comfortable clothing recommended; bring a pillow for easy sitting.

$3 general, $2 student; 7-11 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Mon., March 12 – Harry Sloan

Wed., April 4 – Art & Janica Fox - FREE

Mon., April 30 – Margaret Conway

ONE-DAY INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN: An intensive day of group work, along the lines of evening introductory programs, with the additional advantages of more hours and shared mealtimes.

Fair Fight Training for Couples
Lewis & Brandy Engel

Weekend workshop $90 per couple

In this weekend 8 couples will have the opportunity to learn and practice the basic techniques of Fair Fight Training as outlined in The Intimate Enemy by Dr. George Bach. Lewis and Brandy Engel write: "We teach a method for making constructive use of the aggressive feelings generated by the daily frictions, tensions and conflicts that inevitably arise in an intimate relationship. We feel that Fair Fight Training can be a source of revitalization, excitement, growth and change in a couple's life together."

Invitations to Openness
Walt Anderson

One-day workshop $20

Basic propositions: (1) An increased capacity for personal openness and honesty makes life easier and a lot more interesting. (2) The need for privacy is to be respected. (3) Openness is best achieved in response to an invitation, not a demand. We will all explore our own boundaries of privacy/openness, and work with some techniques for being open – and inviting openness – in everyday life. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

For reservation information, see page 30. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 31-35.

• B.S. March 4-9

Renascence
Michael Butler

Five-day workshop $215

Each of us carries within him, buried beneath layers of psychic and physical tensions, the fertile seed of a new self. This workshop will use many of the Esalen body-oriented and psychological techniques to allow participants to experience that seed center of self and nourish it.

New Ways of Meeting New People
Robert Cromey

Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Since many persons attend large group programs to meet other people, this evening's experience will focus explicitly on the acquaintance process. Using methods from encounter and gestalt awareness, group members will explore how they project themselves to others, how others perceive them and discover new ways of moving into friendships and social contact.

■ S.F. March 8-April 12

Techniques of Psychodrama

A Workshop for Change Agents
Stewart & Muriel Shapiro

Weekend workshop $50

In today's increasingly complex and independent world more and more of our time is spent in organizational life. It is through the humanistic viability of our organizations and institutions that our society will succeed or fail in the crucial tests that lie ahead. This workshop will be oriented toward tasks, goals and personal growth of those who wish to be active in individual and/or organizational change. There will be discussions and demonstrations of strategies and models for change in various systems including individuals, small groups, organizations and communities. Change agents for this workshop can be individuals or teams in business management, colleges, public schools, government, social agencies, volunteer organizations, churches or other community organizations.

Psychosynthesis

Psychosynthesis is a psychological and educational approach for recognizing and harmonizing the many, often conflicting, elements of our inner lives. It is a developmental process based on a positive conception of man within an evolving universe. Starting with each person's existential situation as he perceives it, personal growth is organized into a process aiming at the integration of personality and the emergence of an effective unifying center of being and awareness, the Self.

The practical work of psychosynthesis chooses in each situation the appropriate progressive activities among many techniques and methods available. Some of these are: guided imagery, movement, self-identification, creativity, gestalt, meditation, training of the will, symbolic art work, journal-keeping, ideal models, and development of intuition. The emphasis is on fostering an ongoing process of growth than can gain momentum and bring about a more joyful, balanced actualization of one's life.

The following Esalen Institute psychosynthesis programs are offered in cooperation with the Psychosynthesis Institute, Redwood City.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS TRAINING

■ S.F. April 24-June 17

Psychosynthesis Training Series for Professionals
Jim & Susan Vargiu and Associates of the Psychosynthesis Institute

Eight Tuesday Evenings & a weekend $240

A program designed for psychotherapists, educators, counselors and others involved in the helping professions. The group will explore the fundamentals of psychosynthesis, theoretically and experientially, in a coordinated program designed to give each participant both the understanding and the personal experience needed to begin to utilize and apply psychosynthesis within his own field. We will work together so that each can recognize the process of psychosynthesis at work, both in himself and in the others. There will be assignments and exercises to complete between meetings. Further individual work during the eight week period can be arranged. Eight Tuesday evenings, 7:30-11 p.m., April 24-June 12. Weekend workshop is June 16 and 17. For application form, contact Esalen/San Francisco.

Imagination & Intuition: A Direct Path to Self-Realization
Tom Allen

Weekend workshop $50

In each of us there are new, emerging aspects with which we are not fully in touch. Some of these aspects are energies that are blocked, but which can be released, realized and used as sources of inner strength and guidance: beauty, joy, serenity. Imagination and intuition are subjective functions which help us be open to these energies, and use them to reach higher, more integrated states of consciousness. We will explore ways in which psychosynthesis techniques can be used for the development and right use of imagination and intuition and to evoke one's own inner sources of wisdom and guidance.

• B.S. April 13-15

Psychosynthesis Workshop
Tom & Anne Yeomans

Weekend workshop $85

Psychosynthesis is a way of growing and a way of learning to direct one's growth. It seeks to develop a personal center from which to live, as well as deep connections with Self, Other, and the Universe. Through the use of directed fantasy, meditation, body movement and dialogue, it encourages new and more productive and harmonious relations between the many aspects of the personality. Its theory and practice offer a means toward greater integration of one's energies, which leads to a richer experience on all levels of being.

For reservation information, see page 30. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 31-35.

Identity
Piero Ferrucci
Five-day workshop $215

Learning how to become aware of one's own essence is one of the most useful steps for enabling us to realize the meaning and purpose of our life, relate with others and explore our transpersonal potentialities. This workshop will emphasize the delight in learning new skills in dealing with our inner and outer universes and of breaking through to new dimensions of awareness. We will use various techniques such as self-identity, will, right proportions in cosmic context, free drawing, humor, games, imagery, visualizations, meditation, etc. The emphasis will not be on temporary experience, but rather on building inner "equipment" for future independent work on one's self.

Crossing the Gender Gap: a Liberation Lab
Margaret Conway & Tom Allen
One-day workshop $5

Fill in the blanks: Men are
Woman are . Are you more aware of the similarities or the differences? Let's get beyond the subtle sexist life games we all play; games which lead to exploitation and/or separation. Using the psychosynthesis concept of the balance and synthesis of opposites, we will experiment in a series of excercises designed to change our set patterns of thinking and relating to the "opposite" sex. Bring a box lunch. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

• B.S. April 20-22
Being Awareness
Bernard Gunther
Weekend workshop $95

Our sense of being is constantly disrupted by our false identification with thoughts, feelings, emotions and desires. Our real self is a center of pure energy consciousness which is always in a state of quiet bliss. This workshop will focus on ways to disidentify with the undesirable disruptures and through the use of sensory awakening, psychosynthesis and meditation, experience and deepen this sense of I AM consciousness.

Gestalt

Gestalt Awareness Training is a theory and approach to personality integration first developed by Fritz and Laura Perls, though new styles and methods are being developed by other leaders. The goal of the training is to assist the participants to utilize excitement and awareness and to develop responsibility.

Excitement – to have life energy freely available and flowing, not blocked. Awareness – to be conscious of my energy as and where it flows; to have action accessible to consciousness, not happening mechanically. Responsibility – to know and act on the principle that I am the one who acts, thinks and feels whatever it may be that I act, think or feel. No one else or no event influences me except with my consent.

At times, everyone in the workshop may work simultaneously with some awareness exercise, or in interaction with each other. More traditionally, a fair amount of time will be spent with participants working individually with the leader. The starting point for such individual work is whatever is here and now of most involving concern for the organism; a fantasy or dream, an interaction with another person, a memory, or a physical posture. "Problems" are welcome as starting points, if they are truly present and not merely verbally presented. In keeping with the gestalt emphasis on personal responsibility, the leader usually leaves the initiative for such work with the participant. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients", but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

GESTALT PROGRAMS IN THE BAY AREA

For March and April, the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco is continuing to hold its workshops in co-operation with Esalen. Workshops sponsored or blessed by the Gestalt Institute are listed below, and no other brochure describing the Institute's workshops will be distributed.

■ S.F. March 3-4

Open Gestalt Workshop
Lois Brien & Michael Conant

Weekend workshop $65

Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

■ S.F. March 6 & 13

Gestalt Headtripping
Stella Resnick

Two Tuesday afternoons FREE

Headtripping can lead to self-awareness and growth. Let's meet together for five weeks and see what can be accomplished through discussion, exploring our own wisdom and what we can learn about ourselves through the arts, i.e. literature, poetry, etc. We may recommend readings to each other and do gestalt work. 12 noon to 1:30 p.m. 1776 Union St., San Francisco.

■ S.F. Thursdays,
March 8 & 22
April 5 & 19

Evenings with the Gestalt Institute

Single evening events

$3 general, $2 student for each evening; 8-10:30 p.m. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

On each of the evenings, two or more Members of the Institute (listed below) will be present to do gestalt demonstrations and awareness exercises, or even talk about gestalt. Call Esalen a few days before to find out which Members will be present on a given evening.

■ S.F. March 9-11

Gestalt at Wilbur Hot Springs
Richard Louis Miller and Gestalt Community

Two-day Gestalt Workplayshop Weekend
March 10-11 $35 including room and meals

Participants will live with the Gestalt Community at their country home, Wilbur Hot Springs, and share their balanced diet (prepared with care), 240 beautiful acres, hot mineral baths, etc. Teams of Gestalt Agents, supervised by Dr. Miller and Gestalt Community members, will lead groups of 10-12 demonstrating and applying principles of gestalt and existential life style. Saturday noon to Sunday at 5 p.m.

Three-day Gestalt Training Weekend
March 9-11 $65 including room and meals

This weekend is designed to offer those in the helping professions (people helpers) an opportunity to experience residential training in the study and application of gestalt principles and existential life style. This in-community training weekend is a mini-internship including a full day of training with Dr. Miller and Gestalt Community members, and two days supervised practicum working in teams with participants in the open gestalt workshop. Trainee group supervision and open evaluation sessions including the entire community are also included in the experience. Various approaches to working with the body, energy releasing exercises (Miller Energy Arm), sensory experiences, as well as hot mineral baths and a balanced diet will be integrated into the program. Friday noon to Sunday at 5 p.m.

Richard Miller writes: "Hello out there. I am living existentially when I choose to be aware that I can give up whatever I am putting meaning into at the moment and move on to a new life the next moment. Peace and energy to you."

■ S.F. March 10

Accentuating the Positive, Eliminating the Negative
Elaine Kepner & Jack Rosenberg

One-day workshop $35

In this workshop we will teach techniques for identifying negative attitudes and moving on. We will use meditation, yoga, body work as well as gestalt awareness methods. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday.

For reservation information, see page 30. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 31-35.

■ S.F. March 10-11

Finishing Unfinished Business
Stella Resnick & Frank Rubenfeld

Weekend workshop $60

Whether the business be recent, e.g. divorce, or primal, i.e. early childhood experiences, unresolved business blocks energy and prevents optimal functioning. Using the gestalt approach we will concentrate on achieving closure or becoming aware of the ways in which participants are unwilling to do so. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■ S.F. March 10-11

The Invisible Sound
Larry Bloomberg & Staff

Weekend workshop $45

Larry writes, "I will offer ways to your invisible sound and chances to share your mysteries with others. Meet with me for a weekend of listening and release. Please bring your favorite ways of making music."

From immemorial times, the inspiring effect of the invisible sound that moves all hearts, and draws them together, has mystified mankind.

I Ching, 16

10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■ S.F. March 16

Mini-Gestalt Workshop
Jerry Kogan and Eugene Sagan

Single-evening workshop $10

This workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt awareness process. Friday, 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

■ S.F. March 16-18

Gestalt Plus
George & Judith Brown

Residential weekend workshop $75 including room and meals

A workshop for individuals and couples where the approaches of gestalt therapy are combined with techniques from psychosynthesis. The focus will be on reowning energy and discovering new and alternative ways to be as individuals and in primal relationships. Emphasis will also be placed on what to do after leaving the workshop.

■ S.F. March 17-18

Couples Workshop
Cyndy (Werthman) Sheldon & Joe Camhi

Weekend workshop $100 per couple

We will explore patterns of interaction that unite and separate couples, and suggest alternative patterns leading to more harmonious co-existence. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■ S.F. Thursday, March 22

Evening with the Gestalt Institute

(See description, March 8, above.)

■ S.F. March 24-25

Open Gestalt Workshop
Stella Resnick & Janet Lederman

Weekend workshop $60

10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■ S.F. Monday, March 26
April 2, April 9

Taking Responsibility
John Enright

Single evening event with follow-up series

$3 for the first evening, March 26; $12.50 for the series; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

"Taking responsibility" sounds like brushing your teeth or "being grown up" – a drag. In fact, to know at gut-level that I am fully responsible for everything I do or that "happens to me" is one of the straightest paths to liberation. The first Monday will be an open participation-lecture designed to get into some issues of responsibility both experientially and theoretically; it can be attended as a single event. Those who continue for the whole series will be given a number of written exercises to do to prepare for the final two Monday meetings in April. Responsibility for past and future, as well as the here and now, will be considered.

■ S.F. Thursday, March 29

From the Primal Laugh to the Cosmic Giggle: Developing Positive Awareness
Stella Resnick

Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

People often imagine or behave as though self-awareness and growth depended upon developing a critical attitude toward self, focusing only on painful areas, and becoming more disciplined. The abundance and popularity of self-improvement courses and therapies attests to the prevalence of this attitude. While Dr. Resnick's philosophy and therapy deal with pain also, her work stresses developing an openness and sense of humor toward self and existence. This talk will focus on the development of self-nourishing behaviors, the elimination of self-defeating behaviors, and the fun, joy, laughter, spontaneity and creativity that comes from taking a good look at yourself rather than a bad one.

■ S.F. March 30-April 1

A Workshop for Families
Sid Gershenson & Joan Krueger

Weekend workshop $60 for each adult (dependent children free)

This workshop will combine gestalt awareness methods with family therapy approaches for the purpose of increasing pleasure among family members. Friday 7 p.m. to Sunday 3 p.m.

■ S.F. March 31-April 1

The Arts & Gestalt Self-Awareness
Steve Schoen

Weekend workshop $50

Literature, music, dance, the visual arts – all formalize feeling, giving it structure in words, sound, body movement, line, color. Gestalt work, analagously, formalizes self-awareness increasingly to define the person's own inner nature. This workshop is designed for those who desire further self-unfolding, especially those sensitive to the unfolding which occurs in the arts. When first offered last fall, the workshop was full of zest, warmth, affirmative tension and release, and these are the values I care to nourish again through the interweaving of gestalt work and artistic expression. Bring your own poetry or prose, music, drawing, bodies, minds. Creative work, I find, sometimes sparks work on personal problems, sometimes serves as a model of personal fulfillment. Saturday and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

■ S.F. Thursday, April 5

Evening with the Gestalt Institute

(See description, March 8, above.)

■ S.F. April 7-8

Gestalt & Gurdjieff
Joe Camhi

Weekend workshop $50

Energy is wasted in many forms of escape from who we are as well as in lack of understanding of how to conserve, build up and direct these energies. Gestalt techniques and elementary concepts and exercises of Gurdjieff will be used to explore these issues. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■ S.F. April 13-15

■ S.F. April 14-15
Enduring Relationships
Larry Bloomberg & Staff
Weekend workshop $45

Our experiences during freely self-renewing and enduring relationships have a clear focus, an exuberance, fullness and warmth; the emotions of peace, love, joy and passion accompany them – all "strong" emotions. Join us in an experiment in fostering enduring relationships through personal awareness and through free flow of energy between people. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■ S.F. Thursday, April 19
Evening with the Gestalt Institute
(See description, March 8, above.)

■ S.F. April 20-22
Gestalt Community Workshop
Sid Gershenson, Joan Krueger, Katie Marks & Larry Sheridan
Weekend residential workshop $60

For those interested in a community where life is experienced in a free-flowing, supportive setting. The staff has an interdisciplinary approach that incorporates gestalt, tai chi chuan, meditation, polarity, massage and movement. Fee includes food and lodging. Friday 7 p.m. to Sunday 3 p.m.

■ S.F. April 28-29
Gestalt and Homosexuality (for both sexes)
Steve Schoen
Weekend workshop $50

Homosexual relationship dramatizes, often with special clarity and poignance, the common human problem of relationship, "You be for me what I want to be myself." Or to state the problem in positive terms, as part of the common human quest for wholeness: "I learn what's important to me about myself in what I seek from you." As such, the relationship invites self-unfolding. At the same time it can involve special appreciations of the other – strengths, frailties, yearnings, resources – which further nourish inner wholeness. I am concerned with exploring this quest for wholeness in those for whom homosexuality serves intimacy needs. Working with both sexes, we also have the opportunity, as it fits for the person, to assess the invitation or the danger of experience that crosses one's sex boundary. Saturday and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

GESTALT PROGRAMS IN BIG SUR

• B.S. March 2-4
Gestalt Workshop
Joseph Camhi
Weekend workshop $85

• B.S. March 4-30
Structural Integration & Gestalt
Al Drucker, Beverly Silverman, Ama Torrance
Four-week program $265 per week

This is an intensive program designed for those wishing to be rolfed. The rolfing sessions are given by advanced practitioners in a setting that is conducive to maximum body release and emotional growth. A series of eight hours can be completed in four weeks; however, individuals may register for each week separately instead. On a weekly basis the cost of the workshop includes two hours of rolfing and one hour of structural patterning. During the week there will be a daily morning exercise period including hatha yoga, Arica gym, and zazen meditation done in accordance with rolfing principles. In the evenings there will be a gestalt session. Additional sessions will be scheduled during the week. These may include tai chi, massage, movement, Feldenkrais exercises, anatomy/physiology/nutrition lectures and discussions on various related subjects such as acupuncture and energetics. One day per week will be designed as an optional day of fasting supervised by the staff.

The workshop will be limited each week to 10 persons. We can only accept individuals under 170 lbs. weight.

• B.S. March 4-9
Integrating Alexander Technique & Gestalt
Ilana Rubenfeld
Five-day workshop $245

Emotions and memories are expressed through bodily tension and postures. Alexander Technique, gestalt, sensory awareness and deep muscle work will be combined toward understanding and releasing these tensions.

• B.S. March 9-11
A Weekend Workshop in Gestalt Training
Jack Downing $95

• B.S. March 11-16
Experiencing Wholeness
Seymour Carter
Five-day workshop $215

This workshop will emphasize gestalt methods for contacting ourselves as a self-regulating organism. The practice of integrating our senses, emotions and thought into a perceptual whole releases energy for a more connected experience of living and being. The work will be devoted to releasing excess efforts and tensions and awakening dormant functioning so that the participants may experience greater physical and emotional freedom.

• B.S. March 11-16
Gestalt Training Workshop
Jack Downing
Five-day workshop $275

• B.S. March 18-23
Gestalt & Breath Awareness
George Downing
Five-day workshop $215

The breath is a microcosm of the personality. Learning to find and unlock the breath can lead to more richness and certainty of emotion, increased energy, realignment of physical posture and a deeper grasp of one's personal rhythm of existence. We will both verbally and nonverbally explore these possibilities using gestalt and a number of different methods of working intensively with the breath.

• B.S. March 18-23
Advanced Gestalt Training Workshop

Five-day workshop $245

(See S.F. workshop description, March 16-18, above.)

• B.S. April 1-6
Awareness
Betty Fuller
Five-day workshop $275

In this week of intensive gestalt awareness training, the actual work of the workshop will take place all day and night every day in every way, attending the basic functions of existence. Formal sessions of the group, on the other hand, will be devoted to analyzing, avoiding, defending, explaining, projecting, rationalizing and having fun as we indulge in the polarity. Bring shoulder to the wheel, nose to the grindstone, money in hand and tongue in cheek.

• B.S. April 1-6
Gestalt & Feldenkrais Technique
Christine King & Calvin Leonard
Five-day workshop $245

We will be integrating body and psychic awareness through tapping the reservoir of authentic information about who we are and move from being who we are not. The Feldenkrais method is a system of group exercises that releases fixed patterns in the whole organism. Our bodies will be opened in the exercises, and through gestalt awareness we will move towards that place of full integration.

And the Walls Came Tumbling Down
Janet Lederman & Margo Smith
Weekend workshop $85

The Gestalt learning process . . . and the walls came tumbling down.
For the deaf, the non-deaf.

• B.S. April 6-8
The Middle Years
Jean Lanier
Weekend workshop $85

A workshop for the 'middle-aged'. Getting in touch with where we've been and where we might be headed is a matter of experiencing ourselves right now. A gestalt approach to our personal life drama. For the fortyish and over.

Weekend workshop $95

(See S.F. description, March 16-18, above.)

• B.S. April 29-May 4
Gestalt & Taoism
Richard Price & Gia-fu Feng
Five-day workshop $245

The student learns by daily gain.
The Way is gained by daily loss,
Loss after Loss until at last comes rest.
By letting go, all gets done;
The world is won by those that let it go!

Lao Tze

Gestalt training as a kind of Western Taoism where the focus is not on "gain" and "change", but on awareness and letting be.

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Transpersonal

Transpersonal generally refers to transcendence, mystical experience, peak experience and parapsychological phenomena. The following programs will explore insights and research into the physical and psychological aspects of such experience.

■ S.F. Tuesday evenings & Saturday mornings

Aikido & Energy Awareness
Robert Nadeau

Continuing program

(See workshop description under The Human Body, page 23.)

■ S.F. Thursday evenings

Sufi Stories
Josephine Leo

Continuing program FREE

A series of evenings where we can eat a few dates and share some sufi stories collected by Idries Shah. These "parables in action" of the Eastern dervish tradition claim the power to increase perception. 8-10 p.m., 1776 Union Street, San Francisco.

■ S.F. March 3

Introduction to Bio-Feedback
Jean Mayo

One-day workshop $20

In this workshop students will have an opportunity to experience two different bio-feedback techniques. One will measure the galvonic skin response. (The feedback sound goes up when the subject has an emotional response and the sound goes down when the subject is calm.) The other will be the ALPHAPHONE Brainwave Analyzer. This gives a reading on the frequency and amplitude of brain waves and feeds back sound and light for all the categories of Beta, Alpha, Theta and Delta. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

● B.S. March 4-9

Tuning Your Energy Body
Robert Nadeau

Five-day workshop $245

All of us have moments when we are balanced: when we are centered in ourselves yet open and at one with the richness of life around us. Such moments do not have to be rare accidents. We can exist in a vast reservoir of energy that we can learn to tune into and use to enrich our lives on every level. This workshop is an experience in the application of this life energy to relaxation, concentration, healing and life in general.

■ S.F. March 7-April 25

Language, Consciousness & Reality
Arthur Hastings

Eight Wednesday evenings $30 per month

Learning how language, consciousness and reality are all causes and effects of each other. We will include how we can talk about internal states, how we select, process and communicate reality through language, and ways of getting outside language-controlled reality or of creating new languages. Hastings will provide information and experiences for learning in verbal and nonverbal ways. 8-10:30 p.m.

SAT AT ESALEN/BIG SUR

SAT is a non-profit corporation operating in the form of a school for spiritual development and psychological transformation. The SAT process is about 50% derived from sufi influences and teachings and 50% other traditions and ingredients, most importantly Vajrayana Buddhism and contemporary psychology and psychotherapy.

The SAT approach to human growth is that of constant work of the individual on himself with the help of resources indicated as part of a sustained guidance situation.

Among the SAT faculty for 1972 has been Chu Fang Chu, an integrator of the esoteric taoist tradition, Oscar Ichazo, Claudio Naranjo, Roslyn Shaffer, Kathleen Riordan Speeth and Llama Tarthang Tulku, Rinpoche.

SAT Programs:
The scheduled days of SAT will not be described beyond a title and subtitle – Workshop I: SAT-at-Esalen, an occasion for smelling and tasting conducted by SAT staff under the direction and representation of Claudio Naranjo. Bring pencil and paper. Please read Techniques of Gestalt Therapy by Claudio Naranjo.

March 4-9 Five-day workshop $215

April 1 Talk with Claudio Naranjo $10

Apr. 29-May 4 Five-day workshop $215

■ S.F. March 10, March 24

Ritual & Personal Myth
Allan Frankel

Two one-day workshops $20 per day

March 10 – Sexuality & Marriage to My Opposite: (golden age, dream lover, masculine-femimine principle). Please bring enough of one dish of food for 10 people, 3 pieces of fruit, dried fruit, nuts, a drinking vessel, ritual garb and writing supplies.

March 24 – Atonement (At-one-ment): (meeting with the father, perfect self, body ritual). Please bring a large mirror and writing supplies.

Each day is a separate event and may be taken without attending the other day. The workshops, though not primarily, will involve some encountering and bodily and vocal expression of feelings. Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

● B.S. March 13-16

Bio-Feedback Training for Mind-Body Self-Regulation: A Workshop for Professionals
Elmer & Alyce Green

Three-day workshop $175

This workshop will be composed of both didactic training and discussion. Training will be had with bio-feedback instruments for blood control (temperature training), alpha and theta brainwaves, and demonstration of a heart rate trainer. Discussions will touch on creativity and self-realization through brainwave training, self-realization techniques from other cultures, (yoga, sufism and zen) and how it fits together with meditation, altered states of consciousness (whether self-induced or drug-induced), the relationship of all of this to transpersonal psychology including the field of mind theory which is subscribed to in general by East Indian yogis and American Indian medicine men. There will also be a report on research done with Swami Rama and Jack Schwarz, including a slide and movie presentation.

● B.S. March 16-18

A Weekend with Dhiravamsa

$85

The weekend will be composed of talks, discussions and sitting and walking meditations.

● B.S. March 23-25

A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

Weekend workshop $85

"My work is living and teaching a way of life which gradually develops the capacity to live in the here and now and to be all there for whatever life brings. Working with the traditional methods of meditation and aikido, and the contemporary methods of gestalt and sensory awareness, this workshop will introduce participants to a Western approach to centering."

For reservation information, see page 30. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 31-35.

Transpersonal

• B.S. March 30-April 1

Approaches to Transpersonal

Four workshops and an afternoon seminar reflecting as many different approaches to the transpersonal dimension.

Energy Awareness & Meditation
Harvey Moskowitz

Weekend workshop $85

Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude, mental concentration, centering and moving from center. We will experience life energy and its use in spiritual growth and healing as a tool for higher awareness.

Altered States of Consciousness and Transcendental Experience
Dan Brown

Weekend workshop $85

The transcendental dimensions of the personality will be uncovered and explored with the following emphasis: material and patterns of behavior that block the pathways to the transpersonal; the exploration of inner guiding resources, archetypal patternings and symbols of protection; the use of the transpersonal to disclose peak emotions, intrinsic personality values and latent artistic and healing abilities.

Getting High
Andrew Weil

Weekend workshop $85

This workshop will examine the physiological, psychological and social aspects of getting high.

The Psychology of Consciousness
Robert Ornstein

Weekend workshop $95

We will attempt to taste and integrate many of the new approaches to consciousness both personally and intellectually. The workshop will draw on meditation, research into brain function, esoteric psychological approaches and paranormal phenomena.

April 1

A Talk With Claudio Naranjo

Afternoon seminar $10

(See Seminars, Sunday Afternoons in Big Sur, page 5.)

■ S.F. March 31-April 1

Hypnotherapy to Clairvoyance
Anne Armstrong

Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Anne Armstrong will speak on how she discovered her psychic ability while undergoing hypnotherapy to relieve migraine headaches. Her experiences include past life re-call which seemed to be related to the cause of the headaches. She will also share with you how she finally stabilized her psychic ability and is now using it in her field of counseling.

• B.S. April 1-13

Transcendental Transformations of Consciousness
John and Antoinette Lilly & James Keys (G. Spencer Brown)

Two-week workshop $550

Before this workshop, each participant is requested to read the following four books; Center of the Cyclone, Programming and Metaprogramming and the Human Biocomputer, Only Two Can Play This Game, Laws of Form. Participants are to be selected from the applicants on the basis of suitability for advanced work. Previous workshop experience with the leaders helps, and is neither necessary nor sufficient. The work will be based on the fundamentals given in the four books. Approaches to the Void, the region of high density, the creative network, and the substantial nothingness of the central self will be explored. Practical applications will be made to the planet-side trip, dyadic fullness, intellectual-affective completion, complete versus partial fusions, and the limits placed by physical conditions on Transforms and Transitions.

• B.S. April 8-13

Centering
Robert Nadeau

Five-day workshop $245

Participants will start with centering practices in the physical dimension, move to centering as mental awareness, and culminate in meditation with centering as a focus for spiritual unfolding.

■ S.F. April 20-22

The Psychology of Consciousness
Robert Ornstein

Weekend workshop $60

(See B.S. description, March 30-April 1, above.)

• B.S. April 27-29

The Taoist Way of Integrating Body, Mind & Spirit
Gai-fu Feng & Jane English

Weekend workshop $85

The weekend will follow the three main themes of Taoism-Chi (energy flow), Ta Wo (I am God), and Wu Wo (surrender to whatever happens), or, as Gai-fu writes: "how to be comfortable, effortless and centered – to flow alone, with nature and with people." Participants are asked to be familiar with Gai-fu's books.

SELECTIVE AWARENESS in Big Sur

The human personality is a complex system of interrelated learned characteristics that are reflected on both physical and psychological planes. The multiple factors are organized by the central nervous system, which, like a complicated electronic computer, may be easily altered at one's discretion, given the proper language and methods. Selective Awareness provides a set of techniques for objectively identifying and unlearning undesirable characteristics of the mind or body and rapidly learning desirable patterns. These techniques are applied in a specific state of mind (similar to but not equivalent to meditational and self-hypnotic states) which allows complete recall of information necessary to illuminate and understand reflexes underlying any previously learned patterns.

Gestalt & Taoism
Richard Price & Gia-fu Feng

Five-day workshop $245

The student learns by daily gain.
The Way is gained by daily loss,
Loss after Loss until at last comes rest.

By letting go, all gets done;
The world is won by those that let it go!

Lao Tze

Gestalt training as a kind of Western Taoism where the focus is not on "gain" and "change", but on awareness and letting be.

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Sensory Awareness

SENSORY AWARENESS is Charlotte Selver's name for the work she studied with Elsa Gindler in Berlin and brought to the United States in 1938. Workshops in Sensory Awareness aim at a state of intellectual quiet in which each activity can be fully felt and allowed to find its natural way, free of inhibitions, techniques and images. When ideas are stilled, sense perceptions coming from the entire organism enable the person to function authentically, according to his nature, in all situations. Closely akin, in its pure form, to the practice of zen, Sensory Awareness brings the essential character of meditation to every aspect of daily living.

Sensory Awareness, Movement & Meditation
Ben & Judyth Weaver

Weekend workshop $50

A weekend devoted to the discovery of the authentic person: in the rich possibilities for awakening in the sensory nervous system; in the quiet of meditation; in the excitement of spontaneous, expressive movement and dance. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Towards a More Sensitive Relating
Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

Weekend workshop $95

In an increasingly alienated world, where mechanical ease often makes communication shallower, many of us are eager to find more meaningful contact both with ourselves and with others, and with our activities whatever they may be. We would like really to get in touch. But the conventional approaches we have learned, our social and intellectual conditioning, lie like callouses over our living nerve ends and, though occasionally useful, act as effective barriers between the perceiver and the perceived. The reality both of ourselves and of those we meet can only be discovered and explored when we begin to sense and discard the techniques and defenses we have come to rely on – when we become again consciously living organisms, open, as we were in childhood, to the unedited messages of our senses.

In this weekend, which will be devoted to practice rather than theory, a beginning will be made in exploring anew our natural capacities for clearly perceiving and relating to those around us and to the life within us, and to the many tasks which life presents.

• B.S. March 11-16

Experiencing Wholeness
Seymour Carter

Five-day workshop $215

This workshop will emphasize gestalt methods for contacting ourselves as a self-regulating organism. The practice of integrating our senses, emotions and thought into a perceptual whole releases energy for a more connected experience of living and being. The work will be devoted to releasing excess efforts and tensions and awakening dormant functioning so that the participants may experience greater physical and emotional freedom.

Movement and Breath
Seymour Carter

Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will be the integration of extensive studies in the development of awareness as practiced in meditation, gestalt, sensory awareness, and the martial arts. The approach emphasizes experiences in breath, sensory awareness and movement activities which alert our dormant natural capacities for sensitivity and wholeness. When we become more aware in our neuromuscular and perceptual energies there is a fuller possibility for living in the present, awakened for the adventure of being.

Sensory Awareness, Encounter, Movement & Tai Chi
Ben & Judyth Weaver

Five-day workshop $215

A workshop devoted to the discovery of authenticity and aliveness: In the rich possibilities for awakening in the sensory nervous system; in the heat of a core encounter group; in the excitement of spontaneous, expressive movement and dance; in the subtle, flowing movements of Tai Chi Chuan.

Expanding Consciousness Through Sensory Awareness
Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks

Weekend workshop $95

Expansion of consciousness is possible without the traditional religious practices of fasting and deprivation on the one hand, or the use of chemicals, on the other. Consciousness can be refined, deepened and enlarged through sensitive exploration of the living organism both in inner functioning and in interaction with the world of which we are part.

In a culture in which we have been geared mainly to being and keeping busy, to achieving and competing, the deeper levels of experience and relating have been neglected and often repressed, so that we have only cultivated a small fraction of our endowment. This study will be one of practice: for the awakening and unfolding of our perceptive organs, the senses. Through sensing, we learn to follow innate tendencies toward order, balance and more openness to the environment in which we move and act. Gradual development of inner quiet – clearing the head of over-busy thoughts – opens the way to richer perception, a component of creativity, and the feel and significance of each single happening and action in everyday life.

This weekend can be enough to start sensitive participants in new directions leading to modes of consciousness which produce a new freshness and a many-dimensional widening and deepening of thought, imagination and relating in action.

The Human Body

AIKIDO is a Japanese art of self defense with the emphasis placed on centering, harmony and blending. It is presented as a physical manifestation of energy and spiritual Laws of the Universe.

THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE is concerned with the integration of posture and movement.

Alexander discovered that a basic correction of balance, and an accompanying reduction in stress, occurs when that particular relationship of the head to the neck which permits "the greatest possible lengthening of the spine in each and every act" is freely maintained.

This re-education is not accomplished by physical exercises or self-manipulative positioning, but by means of a conditioning procedure which alters the body image and through it the capacity for postural stability.

BIOENERGETIC ANALYSIS attempts to understand the life of the body through its expression of vitality, gesture, emotion, feeling and relationship. The body is viewed as an energetic process that participates as the world in the world of instinctual, social, imaginative and creative realms. Bioenergetics seeks to develop an individual's range of expression by working through this energetic process.

MASSAGE at Esalen is seen and taught as a caring relationship between two people. Consideration is given first to the feelings and the sensory experience of both partners, and after that to technique. Workshops are attended by both couples and singles.

POLARITY THERAPY is an intensive pressure-point massage system similar in both theory and practice to Chinese acupuncture. Developed and synthesized by Dr. Randolph Stone from Oriental traditions many centuries old, its purpose is to realign posture and to release blocked energy throughout the body. Although advanced work in polarity therapy requires extensive training, a number of its more basic techniques are accessible to the interested layman.

TAI-CHI CHUAN is an ancient Chinese exercise discipline practiced for health, meditation, energy flow and self-defense. The slow, flowing movements of this "shadow boxing" comprise the oldest and "softest" of the Asian martial arts. Developed from the Chinese practice of nei kung, or inner exercise, it is part of the system of Taoist yoga. The term tai chi can be translated as "grand ultimate" and is expressed by the familiar symbol of yang and yin. It is thus rooted in the Chinese philosophy of change as expressed in the I Ching.

Releasing Fixed Patterns
Christine King

Weekend workshop $85

The process of living builds defenses and rigid patterns into our bodies. From childhood our nervous systems learn to react with certain selected fixed patterns. This conditioning greatly restricts body awareness and prohibits alternative ways of body movement. Dr. Moshe Feldenkrais has developed sequences of profound and simple exercises and through these our awareness will be directed to releasing fixed patterns in the body and the corresponding opening of the whole body's energies.

■ S.F. March 3-4

Sensory Awareness, Movement & Meditation
Ben & Judyth Weaver

Weekend workshop $50

A weekend devoted to the discovery of the authentic person: in the rich possibilities for awakening in the sensory nervous system; in the quiet of meditation; in the excitement of spontaneous, expressive movement and dance. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

• B.S. March 4-9

Tuning Your Energy Body
Robert Nadeau

Five-day workshop $245

All of us have moments when we are balanced: when we are centered in ourselves yet open and at one with the richness of life around us. Such moments do not have to be rare accidents. We can exist in a vast reservoir of energy that we can learn to tune into and use to enrich our lives on every level. This workshop is an experience in the application of this life energy to relaxation, concentration, healing and life in general.

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

The Human Body

• B.S. March 4-9

Integrating Alexander Technique & Gestalt
Ilana Rubenfeld

Five-day workshop $245

Emotions and memories are expressed through bodily tension and postures. Alexander Technique, gestalt, sensory awareness and deep muscle work will be combined toward understanding and releasing these tensions.

• B.S. March 4-9

Renascence
Michael Butler

Five-day workshop $215

Each of us carries within him, buried beneath layers of psychic and physical tensions, the fertile seed of a new self. This workshop will use many of the Esalen body-oriented and psychological techniques to allow participants to experience that seed center of self and nourish it.

■ S.F. March 5-April 9

On Health
David Sobel

Six Monday evenings $45

Health is much more than the absence of disease. It is a vibrant, energetic state of well-being of harmonious psycho-physiological integration. We will explore various techniques for cultivating a positive concept of health including: meditation, relaxation training, self-concept modification, dream control, yogic therapy, diet and nutrition, structural integration, reflexology and foot massage, Bate's eye exercises and various other forms of unorthodox medicine. The emphasis will be on practical techniques to increase psychological and physical well-being. 8-10:30 p.m.

■ S.F. March 7-April 4

Belly Dancing
Barbara Clemans

Five Wednesday evenings $3.50 per session

"I have studied many ethnic dance forms and have found belly dancing to be the most female of the arts; perhaps because it originated as a dance of empathy for women during childbirth. I have also discovered methods of freeing the movement range and energy flow in the lower half of the body. I would like to share these discoveries with you using breath awareness, psychomotor techniques and belly dancing. The emphasis is not on performance but on enjoyment of movement." For women only. Wear loose, comfortable clothing, and do not eat heavily before the class. 7:30-9:30 p.m.

• B.S. March 9-11

Massage and Meditation
Peggy Morrison

Weekend workshop $85

• B.S. March 11-16

Experiencing Wholeness
Seymour Carter

Five-day workshop $215

This workshop will emphasize gestalt methods for contacting ourselves as a self-regulating organism. The practice of integrating our senses, emotions and thought into a perceptual whole releases energy for a more connected experience of living and being. The work will be devoted to releasing excess efforts and tensions and awakening dormant functioning so that the participants may experience greater physical and emotional freedom.

■ S.F. March 14-May 16

Human Anatomy
Ed Jackson

Ten Wednesday evenings $90

An anatomy course oriented to therapies and disciplines that require a concern for human structure and function: movement, gestalt, dance, massage. Emphasis will be on the skeletal and muscular systems. The material will be presented both through lecture and direct examination and experience of the living body. 7:30-9:30 p.m. Limited to 24 participants. A non-refundable deposit of $50 is required.

■ S.F. March 14-May 31

Massage Training
Gunver Jackson

Twelve week class $260

Participants will receive instruction in massage techniques and will work to develop receptivity to touch, both giving and receiving. Relaxation, breathing and gestalt awareness exercises will be used to supplement thorough massage training. Gunver Jackson writes: "The goal here is to teach that life is an act, not a thought. Action in life and our basic need for touch will be combined in the teaching of massage."

The course consists of twelve three-hour classes in massage scheduled for two separate groups. There are also ten classes in human anatomy, taught by Ed Jackson, M.D. The anatomy course is limited to 24 participants and is open to the general public.

Massage Group I: 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., twelve Wednesday mornings, March 14-May 30; limited to eight participants.

Massage Group II: 7 to 10 p.m., twelve Thursday evenings, March 15-May 31; limited to ten participants.

Anatomy Class: 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., ten Wednesday evenings, March 14-May 16.

A non-refundable deposit of $150 is required. Indicate whether Group I or Group II is preferred when registering.

Let's Boogie!
Barbara Clemans

Weekend workshop $85

We are already perfect. When we experience negativity, upsets, and conflicts in our universe, we are only experiencing the barriers to our own perfection. Let us create a space to renew our sense of aliveness. Moving freely in our own perfect and personal rhythm, chanting, dancing, eating, tasting and soothing, caring and touching one another with massage.

■ S.F. March 17

Introduction to T'ai Chi Massage
Judy Unell

One-day workshop $20

This method is unique in its incorporation of t'ai chi movement which transmits a special energy flow and rhythm, relaxing the massager as well as the recipient. This workshop includes group t'ai chi relating to the method, a full massage demonstration, and a supervised working session in which participants will practice on each other. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

Women: Our Bodies – Our Selves

Weekend workshop for women only

$15 general; $10 students and unemployed

... Going on from "Women and Their Bodies" (Sept., 1972) to another weekend of exploration and integration: gestalt, massage, self-defense, natural movement, polarity therapy, breath awareness, health, consciousness raising, talking and sharing, singing, dancing and whatever else we have within us. All women are welcome. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, and a party on Saturday night.

Erika Asher, Julia Barfoot, Ruth Gravitt, Judy Knoop, Andra Lichtenstein, Anica Vesel Mander, Pam Melton, Lauree Moss, Anne Kent Rush.

• B.S. March 18-23

Body Being
Barbara Clemans

Five-day workshop $245

The most fundamental and basic channel to the being is the body. From the time we are first told to "sit still!" we become restricted and unconscious in our bodies. An unconscious and unexperienced body is the primary barrier to awareness on any other level. We will begin to confront these barriers moving through new spaces, dancing out tensions, breathing and chanting to relax constriction and experiencing anew the gentleness of another's touch through massage.

For reservation information, see page 30. For Leaders' Biographies, see pp. 31-35.

• B.S. March 18-23

Gestalt & Breath Awareness
George Downing

Five-day workshop $215

The breath is a microcosm of the personality. Learning to find and unlock the breath can lead to more richness and certainty of emotion, increased energy, realignment of physical posture and a deeper grasp of one's personal rhythm of existence. We will both verbally and nonverbally explore these possibilities using gestalt and a number of different methods of working intensively with the breath.

• B.S. March 23-25

A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

Weekend workshop $85

"My work is living and teaching a way of life which gradually develops the capacity to live in the here and now and to be all there for whatever life brings. Working with the traditional methods of meditation and aikido, and the contemporary methods of gestalt and sensory awareness, this workshop will introduce participants to a Western approach to centering."

WORKSHOPS WITH STANLEY KELEMAN – SAN FRANCISCO

Workshops with Stanley Keleman will focus on an exploration of ways in which the life of the body expresses itself as emotions, the intellect and the culture. These will be primarily teaching groups in which participants will be encouraged to contribute from their own life experiences.

March 10
Open Workshop $40
10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

March 24-25
The Vitality of Death
Stanley Keleman & Peter Koestenbaum
Weekend workshop $60

The fear of dying is one of the central blocks to being fully alive. In working with participants individually and as a group, bioenergetic and phenomenological principles will be supplied to living situations. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

April 21-22
Weekend workshop on Dreams $60
Stanley Keleman & Ludwig Lefebre

An investigation of the dream using energetic and phenomenological approaches. The work will include the use of the body in the dream and how to understand the dream in the light of the body's experience. Bring your dream journal. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

In addition to the above programs, Stanley Keleman teaches a tutorial program bi-weekly.

■ S.F. March 25

Knowing and Moving the Body
Frank Ottiwell and Judith Stransky

One-day workshop $20

This workshop will draw on the work of F.M. Alexander and Moshe Feldenkrais in mobilizing and re-educating the body/self. Techniques to improve postural alignment and release blocked energy will be taught individually and applied to such everyday activities as sitting, standing, walking and bending. Group exercises, performed within each individual's range of ease and enjoyment, will be used to increase kinesthetic awareness and to show the use of awareness and movement as self-teacher. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday.

■ S.F. Wednesday, March 28

The Tooth Trip
Thomas McGuire, D.D.S.

Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

An oral experience. A trip around and through the very sensual and perceptive oral cavity. An insight into why the mouth is there, why it need be healthy, and how oral disease can change your level of consciousness. Another step up in the evolution of human awareness.

■ S.F. March 29-April 26

Massage
Branda Sales & Drew Ford

Five Thursday evenings $35

We will develop a complete massage from basic techniques. We will emphasize the quality of touch – taking care – sensitizing ourselves. 7:30-10:30 p.m.

■ S.F. March 31-April 1

Sports Symposium

Weekend workshop $25 general, $18 student; Skyline College, San Bruno.

A major sports symposium to introduce the Esalen Sports Center (see News, page 2). The Human Body

■ S.F. March 31

Dreams and the Body
George Downing

One-day workshop $25

In this workshop we will work with gestalt, breath awareness and other techniques in order to clarify and to integrate the messages of our dream bodies. Those who are out of touch with their dreams are also welcome: we will use deep fantasy methods in order to explore some of the same thematic material. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday.

• B.S. April 1-6

Gestalt & Feldenkrais Technique
Christine King & Calvin Leonard

Five-day workshop $245

We will be integrating body and psychic awareness through tapping the reservoir of authentic information about who we are and move from being who we are not. The Feldenkrais method is a system of group exercises that releases fixed patterns in the whole organism. Our bodies will be opened in the exercises, and through gestalt awareness we will move towards that place of full integration.

■ S.F. April 6-8

Cycles of Movement-Feeling-Mind: Rituals & Art
Ann Halprin

Weekend workshop $50

Part of a series of workshops dedicated to exploring and developing a common language of creativity through movement and environmental arts. In this workshop we will each create life-size total self-portraits. In conjunction with on-going movement experiences this will take us further into the journey of our body-selves, distilling their essence. The group will become a support and participant in the enactment of everyone's totem/self-symbol. The performance itself becomes the experience and act of self-discovery and recognition.

• B.S. April 6-8

Sensory Awareness, Movement & Meditation
Ben & Judyth Weaver

Weekend workshop $85

(See S.F. description March 3-4, above).

Anita Feder
One-day workshop $20
10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday.

■ S.F. April 7-8
Conga Rhythms
Richard Adelman
Weekend workshop $35
As living human bodies we are inherently rhythmical and flowing. We will work to renew contact with our body rhythms by playing conga drums, singing and dancing together. We will use a variety of gestalt awareness, tension-releasing, and breathing exercises to deepen our experiences. We will learn authentic African rhythms and create our own rhythms. (If you can bring your own conga, let us know with your reservation.) 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

● B.S. April 8-13
Centering
Robert Nadeau
Five-day workshop $245
Participants will start with centering practices in the physical dimension, move to centering as mental awareness, and culminate in meditation with centering as a focus for spiritual unfolding.

On Yoga: A Lecture & Demonstration
Joel Kramer
Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
An evening designed to acquaint the interested non-practitioner, as well as the practitioner, with yoga. Mr. Kramer will demonstrate hatha yoga and discuss yoga both in classical structure and as an evolutionary approach to living in the modern world.

■ S.F. April 13-15
Freeing the Voice
Mary Corrigan
Weekend workshop $50
This workshop will concentrate on freeing the voice. It has been established that physical tensions inhibit the production of a free tone. This method employs various physical and vocal exercises that are designed to reduce tensions and to provide the kinaesthetic experience of what a free voice feels like. This experience also allows the participant to discover a sense of ease and effortless vocal power. This method is employed at most of the major residential theatres and professional training programs in the U.S. and England.

● B.S. April 13-15
Gestalt & Body Awareness
George Downing
Weekend workshop $85
We will work intensively with both the verbal methods of gestalt and a number of nonverbal techniques of body awareness, including fantasy, movement, breath awareness, Feldenkrais dynamics, energy exchange and others.

■ S.F. April 13-15
Movement and Breath
Seymour Carter
Weekend workshop $50
This workshop will be the integration of extensive studies in the development of awareness as practiced in meditation, gestalt, sensory awareness, and the martial arts. The approach emphasizes experiences in breath, sensory awareness and movement activities which alert our dormant natural capacities for sensitivity and wholeness. When we become more aware in our neuromuscular and perceptual energies there is a fuller possibility for living in the present, awakened for the adventure of being.

● B.S. April 13-15
Conscious Mind, Conscious Body: A Weekend for Women
Anica Vesel Mander & Anne Kent Rush
Weekend workshop $85
Women have been conditioned to be passive, dependent and mistrustful of their own feelings. In this workshop we will deal with ways of changing this conditioning by sharing our experiences and liberating specific body blocks.

● B.S. April 15-20
Sensory Awareness, Encounter, Movement & Tai Chi
Ben & Judyth Weaver
Five-day workshop $215
A workshop devoted to the discovery of authenticity and aliveness: In the rich possibilities for awakening in the sensory nervous system; in the heat of a core encounter group; in the excitement of spontaneous, expressive movement and dance; in the subtle, flowing movements of Tai Chi Chuan.

● B.S. April 15-20

Five-day workshop $245

● B.S. April 15-20
Education in Feeling & Purpose: A Neo-Reichian Bioenergetic Week
Charles & Erica Kelly
Five-day workshop $275
Powerful nonverbal techniques derived from Wilhelm Reich open deep involuntary expressions of pain, fear, rage and grief that have been blocked by the muscular armor. By working through these, participants can discover a new capacity for pleasure, for trust, love and joy. The freeing of feeling is then used to lead into a re-evaluation of the style and objectives on one's life.

■ S.F. Wednesday, April 18
Unorthodox Medicine
David Sobel
Single evening event
$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
This lecture will deal with alternative medical approaches with emphasis on positive health, preventive medicine, and the medicine of the whole person. Areas to be drawn from include: ancient medicine, Chinese medicine and acupuncture, yogic therapy, American Indian medicine, naturopathy, homeopathy, zone therapy, chiropractics, structural integration, autogenic training and bio-feedback.

● B.S. April 20-22
Being Awareness
Bernard Gunther
Weekend workshop $95
Our sense of being is constantly disrupted by our false identification with thoughts, feelings, emotions and desires. Our real self is a center of pure energy consciousness which is always in a state of quiet bliss. This workshop will focus on ways to disidentify with the undesirable disruptures and through the use of sensory awakening, psychosynthesis and meditation, experience and deepen this sense of I AM consciousness.

Sound Experience
Steven Halpern
Single evening event

$3 general, $2 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Many of us have been taught that music has three fundamental aspects: melody, harmony and rhythm. But few of us have been told that we can have fun with them! In this evening we'll be doing that by getting in touch with our own rhythms and sounds, and by relating them to others. You are invited to bring any instrument you dig to add to our painting in music, and to participate in the joyous process of collective creation.

■ S.F. March 24
Spring Festival: A Celebration of the Vernal Equinox
Marion Saltman & the Center for the Study of Play
Saturday afternoon and evening $5

The time has come to honor once again the great earth spirits. Join us in an ancient ceremony of the spring Sabot. We will call up the spirits of fertility and rebirth with ritual, ceremony, and festivity on the S.S. Vallejo houseboat, former home of Jean Varda. 3:30 p.m. until midnight. $5 fee covers wine and festivities; bring one item of food for a ritual feast.

Gestalt at Wilbur Hot Springs
Richard Louis Miller and Gestalt Community

Two-day Gestalt Workplayshop Weekend
March 10-11 $35 including room and meals

Participants will live with the Gestalt Community at their country home, Wilbur Hot Springs, and share their balanced diet (prepared with care), 240 beautiful acres, hot mineral baths, etc. Teams of Gestalt Agents, supervised by Dr. Miller and Gestalt Community members, will lead groups of 10-12 demonstrating and applying principles of gestalt and existential life style. Saturday noon to Sunday at 5 p.m.

Three-day Gestalt Training Weekend
March 9-11 $65 including room and meals

This weekend is designed to offer those in the helping professions (people helpers) an opportunity to experience residential training in the study and application of gestalt principles and existential life style. This in-community training weekend is a mini-internship including a full day of training with Dr. Miller and Gestalt Community members, and two days supervised practicum working in teams with participants in the open gestalt workshop. Trainee group supervision and open evaluation sessions including the entire community are also included in the experience. Various approaches to working with the body, energy releasing exercises (Miller Energy Arm), sensory experiences, as well as hot mineral baths and a balanced diet will be integrated into the program. Friday noon to Sunday at 5 p.m.

Richard Miller writes: "Hello out there. I am living existentially when I choose to be aware that I can give up whatever I am putting meaning into at the moment and move on to a new life the next moment. Peace and energy to you."

Structural Integration

By realigning the body structure, the Rolf method of structural integration attempts to release excessive tensions so that the person may experience greater physical and emotional freedom and balance. The assumption is that a person's body and set are a mirror of his emotional past as well as a result of physical trauma. Structural integration is a process of direct physical manipulation and deep massage; working with a trained practitioner, the process is usually completed within ten individual sessions.

TRAINING in structural integration is offered only through the Ida P. Rolf Foundation for Structural Integration and only upon completion of certain prerequisites. Research in rolfing is encouraged by the Foundation. Information about training and research, as well as class announcements may be obtained by writing the Foundation, P.O. Box 1868, Boulder, Colo. 80302.

INDIVIDUAL SESSIONS with practitioners of structural integration are available by appointment only through the following offices:

Esalen Institute, Big Sur – no telephone appointments. Please request appointments in writing. Practitioners include Michael Butler, Al Drucker, Stanley Johnson, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Simone Surpin.

Esalen Institute, San Francisco – Phone for appointments. Megan Gilchrist, Dub Leigh, Michael Salveson, Larry Swann, Ed Taylor.

STRUCTURAL PATTERNING is a body system which promotes structural balance and efficiency and economy of movement within the gravitational field. Patterns which block energy in the body are exchanged for those which allow energy to flow. It is particularly effective during or after rolfing for those who want to develop the use and awareness of their reorganized bodies, to produce further structural change along the same lines, and to rebalance themselves in situations of physical or emotional stress.

A course of private work in structural patterning usually consists of three to five supervised sessions, perhaps with a follow-up session after a few months.

Practitioners available for individual sessions are: Esalen/Big Sur – Ama Torrance; Esalen/San Francisco – Faith Hornbacher.

A non-refundable deposit must accompany registration as follows: $10 per person for programs costing under $35; $20 for programs costing under $100; $50 for those over $100, unless otherwise noted. Mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Balance is payable at the first session of the program. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. Esalen accepts Master Charge and American Express.

INFORMATION, LITERATURE AND TICKETS: for lectures may be obtained Monday through Saturday, 10:00 to 5:00 at 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Tickets obtained by mail will indicate the exact location and time of events; when not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door.

WEEKEND SCHEDULES: Weekend workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sundays, unless otherwise indicated in workshop descriptions. Schedules are not rigid, however, and exact meeting times are discussed at the first session.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Most San Francisco programs are non-residential. Participants in these programs must reserve their own accommodations at local hotels or motels. Unless stated otherwise, meals are not provided at such workshops.

RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS: are indicated in individual workshop descriptions. Program cost of residential programs includes tuition, food and lodging. Shared occupancy only, no private accommodations available. Weekend residential programs, unless otherwise indicated, begin at 8 p.m. Friday (no supper served) and conclude following Sunday lunch. Programs are held at a conference center in Marin County or in Sonoma County; exact location will be included with reservation confirmation.

LOCATION: Participants will be informed of workshop location prior to the workshop date. Esalen uses several facilities in the Bay Area for its programs including its own building at 1757 Union Street, San Francisco. Call the San Francisco office for advance information on program location.

SCHOLARSHIPS, interest-free loans and work scholarships are available for many programs in San Francisco. Contact the S.F. office for information and forms. STUDENT AND "POOR PEOPLE" RATES are also possible on a space-available basis. These are stand-by rates of 50% off the stated workshop price. Come by the S.F. office no earlier or later than three days before the program's starting date to place your name on a stand-by waiting list, to leave a deposit for the program, and to validate that you qualify for stand-by rates. (The deposit is refundable if you do not get in the workshop.) Confirmations will not be made until the morning of the workshop date.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes for men.

WAITING LISTS: Names are placed on waiting lists in cases of over-subscription or when demanded by workshop requirements. Registrants placed on such a list will be informed immediately and deposit checks held. Checks will be refunded if reservation cannot be confirmed or upon request by persons not wanting to be on a waiting list.

10 to 9, Sunday

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Deposits accompanying the reservations are required as follows: $20 for weekend programs; $70 for 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $400 for 4-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

PROGRAM COSTS: cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra. Foreign currency: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. Esalen accepts Master Charge and American Express.

GROUNDS ARE CLOSED EXCEPT BY RESERVATION. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

CHECK-IN/CHECK-OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening; however, guests are welcome to arrive earlier in the afternoon. All programs begin with dinner on Sunday evening; weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday evening. The last session of a five-day program is Friday morning. Two-week and four-week programs usually have final sessions on the last Friday morning. Weekend programs end on Sunday after the morning session. Check-out time is noon of the final day of all programs.

ACCOMMODATIONS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodging in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property – in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms – is strictly prohibited.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean, with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name.

From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – Reservations only.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE FROM MONTEREY: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is available between 11:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. on Fridays and Sundays at $10 per person from Monterey Airport or Greyhound Terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen Representative.

WORK COMMITMENT: Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer.

ORGANIC FOOD: The organic food garden on the Esalen grounds is flourishing and provides the kitchen with most of its vegetables and herbs. We try to serve only organically-produced meats, poultry and dairy products; most breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

STAFF-LED WORKSHOPS: Some of the four-week and five-day programs listed will be led by members of the Esalen Staff from Big Sur. Big Sur Staff includes: Michael Butler, Seymour Carter, Al Drucker, Brita Fluck, Betty Fuller, Janet Lederman, David Lees, Dub Leigh, Carole Levine, Peggy Morrison, Richard Price, Paul Rebillot, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Julian Silverman, Simone Surpin, Ben Weaver and Judyth Weaver.

THE ESALEN PUBLISHING PROGRAM WITH VIKING PRESS

Far-ranging investigations, divinations and reports from the movement to develop human potentialities, highlighting recent work at Esalen.

The One Quest
by Claudio Naranjo
$8.95, hardbound.

Through an examination of ancient and modern systems of meditation, mysticism and sensory awareness, Claudio Naranjo illuminates universal patterns in man's search for self realization.

The Farther Reaches of Human Nature
by Abraham Maslow
$12.50, hardbound; $2.95, paper.

This adventurous volume is the last work Dr. Maslow completed before his death. In it he goes beyond earlier writings to carry the concerns of psychology into the realm of joy, creativity and spiritual experience, sketching a psychology for the highest of which man is capable.

On the Psychology of Meditation
by Claudio Naranjo and
Robert Ornstein
$2.25, paper

Two psychologists examine the spiritual ground of meditation and the implications of meditation for modern psychology, incorporating insights from new experimental work in the nature of consciousness.

Golf in the Kingdom
by Michael Murphy
$7.95, hardbound

On the fog-shrouded golf course called Burningbush, Michael Murphy is swept into a magical world where untold potentials can be unleashed in a backswing governed by true gravity. A bagful of knowledge about the Higher Self is revealed through the metaphor of the game as Shivas Irons, the Scottish golf pro, leads Michael around the Links of Burningbush and into a place where the monster spirits are opening up the world.

OTHER BOOKS IN THE ESALEN-VIKING SERIES

Secrets of the Trade
Joe K. Adams $12.50, hardbound.

Psychosynthesis
Roberto Assagioli $2.75, paper.

Human Teaching for Human Learning
George I. Brown $8.50, hardbound; $2.75, paper.

Hot Springs
Stuart Miller $7.95, hardbound.

Books

OTHER TITLES OF SPECIAL INTEREST:

The Center of the Cyclone
by John Lilly
$6.95, hardbound

"Within the province of the mind, What I believe to be true is true or becomes true, within the limits to be found experimentally. These limits are further beliefs to be transcended. This is the major thing to be said about all inner trips, by LSD, by meditation, by hypnosis, by Gestalt therapy, by encounter group work, by dreaming, by isolation-solitude-confinement. This is what this book is about."

The Transformation
by George B. Leonard
$7.95, hardbound.

"After all the journeying, all the pain and joy, we may discover that the Transformation was difficult to grasp, not because it was so far away, but because it was so very near. To find the immense world of delight is, in the end, to come home again, where it always was."

Special Information

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published quarterly. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco office. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

ESALEN CONSULTING SERVICE: Esalen is devoted to making life more human at all levels. Our work has reached thousands of individuals and hundreds of institutions. Until recently most of this work was being done at our own facilities, either in Big Sur or San Francisco. There is now, however, an ever-expanding part of Esalen's universe that is moving toward helping to effect changes in the world outside the workshop. Through the Esalen Consulting Service, Esalen staff and leaders have designed and participated in projects for the U.S. Army, Ford Foundation, the Lockheed Corp., Model Cities, O.E.O., inservice training programs for hospitals, drug treatment centers, social agencies, colleges, universities and public school districts. Esalen courses are now being given at the University of California and at New York University. Many organizations have also used Esalen personnel as communications and human relations facilitators. If you are interested in learning more about the Consulting Service contact Bob Kriegel at the Esalen/San Francisco office.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please see membership form below.

ACCREDITATION and the USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs. Our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools.

FILMS of the work of Frederick S. Perls in gestalt therapy and Alexander Lowen in bioenergetic analysis, as well as films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow, Virginia Satir and others are available from Association for Humanistic Psychology, 416 Hoffman Street, San Francisco, California 94114.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA, KQED, KSAN, KSFX, and KMPX) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has s dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KLOS, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, and KPFT Houston, WBAI New York and WOMB New Hampshire, broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recordings of many past programs are available through a service which maintains archive copies for Esalen. Requests for tapes now come from educational and service institutions, libraries, religious and professional groups, business groups and individuals concerned with the human potential movement. Commercial use of these tapes is prohibited; all rights reserved. For a complete tape catalog, write Big Sur Recordings, 117 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, CA 94903. The cost of recordings is $8 per tape-hour (prepaid) and $10 per tape-hour (with purchase orders), stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette.

ABOUT THE ILLUSTRATIONS IN THIS CATALOG

"Spring is a season and a source," states Red Dog Pieface, the catalog designer. "The illustrations form a vernal commentary, a transition from Winter. The snow crystal on the cover is one created by electronic means, while that on page 11 is nature's. Likewise, the shells on pages 8 and 14 are natural forms, while those on pages 8 and 13 are cybernetically determined and expressive of mathematical formulae. The roof bosses (pages 17 and 28) from twelfth century English cathedrals are very early examples of Expressionism in art, and Thomas Bewick's 1775 wood engraving on page 6 is the first depiction of an encounter group. And on page 21 the wasps hint of summer.

The photograph on page 13 is by Paul B. Herbert.

Friends of Esalen MEMBERSHIP PROGRAM

Many people who have attended Esalen programs have expressed a strong interest in becoming more involved and keeping in touch with what is happening at Esalen. Similarly, we at Esalen have increasingly felt the need to involve more people in our expanding community. We want and need your energy, participation and support. We have developed Friends of Esalen, our membership program, as a means of bringing us together. This is your invitation to join.

As a Friend of Esalen you will receive Frog, the membership newsletter, which will keep you informed of new developments and activities at Esalen and in the Human Potential Movement. It will also serve as a forum for any of your ideas and comments. In addition, you will receive special prepublication rates on all new Esalen-Viking books.

TOWARDS A CENTER FOR PERCEPTION, CONSCIOUSNESS AND BEING

In the midst of undreamed-of physical riches, the peoples of the technologically advanced nations continue to be afflicted with profound social and personal discontent. The causes of the current malaise may be open to debate, but one thing is sure: The modern West suffers from an imbalance of vast and historic proportions. We have turned our attention and our enormous energy towards the manipulation and control of the external world. We have made no commensurate effort in the world of perception, consciousness and being. Western societies, in fact, have attempted to lock individual consciousness into a single frame, which may be described as objective, instrumental and detached from the self.

This attempt is in all likelihood destined for failure. The anthropological record is clear on the point that exploring and altering perception and consciousness is as much a normal human function as eating or dreaming or sex. The modern West (with its imitators) stands as probably the only culture in human history that assigns no value at all to what may be termed, for lack of a better vocabulary, possession or trance or shamanistic experience. Episodes of philosophical or religious exaltation are often looked upon with distrust, and may even result in enforced hospitalization.

Such severe censorship of human experiencing doubtless contributes to the dangerous dis-ease of our times. Cut off from the richness of the senses, body and inner life, the 19th century American or European turned to war and the conquest of the physical frontier. Now that the frontier is practically closed and war is becoming ever more futile and perilous, the impoverishment of the inner life leads the 20th century towards drugs, crime and a compulsive grabbing for consumer goods and transient external experience.

The persistent imbalance between doing and being poses another, even more immediate social danger. So long as established institutions neglect or oppose responsible and informed exploration of the inner life, the way is left open for the irresponsible, the uninformed, even the malicious. Society, no less than nature, abhors a vacuum. The longing for variety and richness of experience will be fulfilled.

Fortunately, people of intelligence, compassion and goodwill already are working in this area, and are achieving some significant results. Thus far, however, there has been inadequate communication and coordination among them. Furthermore, the sum total of the effort is far too small to accomplish the balance so urgently needed in our society.

Esalen proposes, therefore, to create a center within the Institute, not only to help coordinate and catalyze work already in progress, but also to sponsor further advanced studies in perception, consciousness and being.

We believe Esalen is well constituted for this undertaking. For ten years we have helped synthesize experimentation in widely diversified disciplines. We have had much practical experience in dealing with consciousness change. We have developed a stable matrix upon which exploration can flourish. We enjoy, in fact, all the resources needed to provide a base camp from which explorers of the intellect, the body and the spirit can venture forth. The new center would apply itself directly to the original dream of Esalen's founders – the quest for a higher human nature.

The first stage of the project – a survey of work-in-progress and work proposed by people in the field – is already underway. George Leonard is in charge of the survey. Since February 1, he and others have been interviewing, not only researchers who are specifically engaged in the study of altered states of consciousness, but also artists, writers, musicians, scientists and adepts whose work moves towards the transformation of being. We at Esalen feel that the accomplishment of the survey will itself have a significant effect, perhaps bringing a new field into view, just as Leonard's 1964 interviews of numerous psychologists, brain researchers and philosophers helped bring the human potential field into visibility.

The survey will be completed by the end of this summer. During the intervening months, Esalen will be exploring plans for establishing a permanent center for perception, consciousness and being. The center could provide a base for visiting researchers, scholars and adepts, and could become a central point for communications in the field. We shall have more news of this project in the next catalog.

TIME AND SPACE

Beginning with this summer catalog, Esalen/Big Sur will introduce a theme which unifies its programming for that period. The May-August concept is Space and Time and how we utilize both in our internal and external lives.

To feel the clothing that we wear
To taste the foods that we desire the familiar
the unfamiliar
Smells
Textures
The after-taste as well

Explorers all
Expanding/Contracting

Looking, seeing
Time

To have a sense of what is YOU and ME.

ESALEN-AT-ASPEN

Esalen Institute will again sponsor a series of workshops in Aspen, Colorado in July, 1973. Group leaders from Esalen Big Sur and San Francisco will conduct programs in gestalt training, encounter, psychosynthesis, sensory awareness and structural integration (rolfing). Among the leaders will be Larry Solomon and Seymour Carter. Fruther information on the program may be obtained by writing Esalen-at-Aspen, 1793 Union Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94123.

ESALEN/SAN FRANCISCO HAS FOUND A HOME

Esalen/San Francisco has moved to a new office and program center at 1793 Union Street, just across from our former quarters. The space is larger and provides us with an expanded bookstore, bigger meeting rooms and more offices. We hope that many of our friends will visit us in our new home, and that this move will help in our continuing development as an urban center in the San Francisco community.

1972 FINANCIAL REPORT

1972 was our tenth year of existence. During this time our annual income had grown until it approached $1,000,000. From the time when Dick Price and I started to take in a few dollars at Big Sur, our finances had always been on a catch as catch can basis. This worked well while we were small, but less and less well as we grew larger – and 1971 saw a disastrous $125,000 deficit.

In 1972 we reorganized. We enlarged our Board to seven, held monthly meetings to direct and coordinate Esalen operations, set up new financial systems, budgets and controls.

The entire staff then pitched in, and what they accomplished is still hard to believe. Our 1972 income was up some 25% over 1971 while our expenses actually went down. I still don't quite know how it was done – but I'll give an example: the cost of meals at Big Sur dropped from $128,000 in 1971 to $112,000 in 1972, during which time we served some 25% more meals – and most people say that the food at Big Sur is better than ever.

So the $125,000 deficit in 1971 became an operating net revenue of $230,000, and just in time. We used it to pay off $91,000 of 1971 bills, and $69,000 of loans. With our financial condition sound we were able to commit ourselves to the purchaser of the South Coast Center and the Dennis Murphy property just north of Esalen, giving us much needed space for new programs and housing for staff and faculty.

The figures below give the details of our operations.

The Esalen Programs

Extended Programs

The following programs represent ways in which participants can involve themselves with Esalen over an extended period of time. These long term programs present greater opportunities for professional development, learning experiences, and exposure to a wide variety of disciplines.

BIG SUR MONTH-LONG PROGRAMS

Environmental Workshops with a Gestalt Focus

Esalen/Big Sur offers a new series of four month-long programs with a focus on community living. The programs will take place on our newly acquired property north of Hot Springs Canyon (more familiarly known as "The Big House.") In addition to the orientation of each general workshop, the experience of living together will be stressed. This includes the preparation and sharing of meals and maintenance of the house, the grounds and each other.

•B.S. May 6-June 1

Gestalt & Structural Integration
Richard Price, Paul Rebillot, John Argue & Esalen Staff

Four-week program $950

Structural Integration, while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body processes in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolfings as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.). Recommended readings: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, Perls; Anatomy of Mental Illness, Janov.

•B.S. June 3-29

The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe – An Environmental Workshop
Julian & Beverly Silverman, Peggy Morrison, Janet Lederman, Lenore Lefer, Carole Levine, Ann Halprin & Dancers' Workshop

Four-week workshop $980

•B.S. July 1-27

Gestalt & Structural Integration
Richard Price, Paul Rebillot, Diana Bechetti & Esalen Staff

Four-week program $950

(See B.S. description, May 6-June 1, above.)

•B.S. August 5-31

Building Community at Esalen
Neil Lamper

Four-week program $980

We are going to form a community at Esalen. We are going to be an intentional community of singles, couples, families and kids. We will run our community as we go and hold special community meetings to deal with whatever is there. We will all risk something and no one will fail as there's no "should" and we will wrestle with what is.

We are going to be involved in creating our lives and the kind of world in which we want to live, and sharpen and deepen our awareness of both. We will try many times each day to awaken to the moment, to own who we are and to free our energies from fantasies. We will do this slowly, aware of our resistance, fear and pain and also the beauty of the tension between us and sharing the joy of discovery and surrender to the process. We will sense nature and not stop there: we will encounter and touch each other and go beyond that to our life styles. We will withdraw and then work with what we discover. We will use forms of self-expression and work to own it all. We will swim, hike and work and use it all to hone our living edge. We will care enough about ourselves to be strong and up-front.

We will work in the Gestalt Momentum to uncover what is true and the freedom we get from this truth.

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ▪ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Extended Programs

•B.S. May 20-June 1

Ventana Wilderness Experience
Steven Miller

Two-week workshop $400

This workshop will be a sustained backpacking expedition in the Ventana Wilderness immediately above and behind Esalen/Big Sur. It will be an intensive physical and, more importantly, social experience, patterned after Outward Bound. Comfort, safety and the realization of the group's material objective will depend totally on the quality of give and take manifested by the group. This experience is designed for beginners and skill training will be the minimum requisite to adequate performance. Equipment needed: hiking boots with lug soles and warm woolen clothing. A medical certificate, to be completed by a physician, will be sent to all applicants. Limited to 9 persons.

•S.F. July 15-28

Sports Institute Conducted by the Esalen Sports Center

Two-week residential program at Dominican College, San Rafael, Calif.

$325 including room and meals;
$240 non-residential fee, including meals

A program focusing on the points of integration between disciplines being practiced at Esalen and current methods of athletic practice, coaching and physical education instruction. The staff will include William Schutz, Judith Aston, Robert Nadeau, Al Huang and Bob Kriegel. For details see description under Sports, page 8.

AN INSTITUTE FOR EDUCATORS IN SAN FRANCISCO

Esalen Institute is primarily interested in the education of the whole person and, with the support of Ford Foundation grants, is continuing to research the applications of approaches used at Esalen to learning experience and learning communities. The Summer Institutes offered here are our fourth annual series of education workshops and teacher training programs derived from this investigation into the processes by which learning, growth and change take place.

All programs take place in San Francisco. Programs are nonresidential and no meals are provided, except if noted otherwise. Persons may register for the entire series, or for one or more programs in the series. To apply, please send the following: (1) Title of each workshop you wish to attend; (2) a deposit covering each program – 2-day programs, $20 and longer programs, $35.

Quarter units of post-graduate professional credit is available from University of California Santa Barbara Extension. Interested persons may enroll for credit and pay the credit fee at the first meeting of the workshop in which they are registered.

July 7-8

Making it Different Next Fall
Ford/Esalen Staff, Sara Miller & Marilyn Kriegel

Weekend workshop $30

An environment in which teachers can explore and build new beginnings for their classrooms based on the work of the Ford-Esalen Educational staff. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday; 10 a.m. to 12 noon, Sunday.

August 2-5

The Live Classroom
George Brown and Aaron Hillman

Four-day workshop $120

This workshop will combine theory and practice in an introduction to confluent education, the integration of feeling and thinking. There will be an emphasis on experiential work. George Brown will lead the first two days, focusing on gestalt and psychosynthesis and their application to education. Aaron Hillman will conclude the workshop with a variety of affective experiences, making specific applications to the classroom. Lodging is available at an extra cost for out-of-town participants; daily luncheons are included in tuition price. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursday through Sunday.

August 11-12

Experiencing Change
Janet Lederman

Weekend workshop $50

This program will focus on gestalt learning for educators and application of gestalt theory to the classroom. (Since Ms. Lederman has recently been working with the deaf, she expecially invites such persons to attend this program.)

August 13-17

A Workshop for Change Agents
Stewart Shapiro

Five-day workshop $120

In today's increasingly complex and independent world more and more of our time is spent in organizational life. It is through the humanistic viability of our organizations and institutions that our society will succeed or fail in the crucial tests that lie ahead. This workshop will be oriented toward tasks, goals and personal growth of those who wish to be active in individual and/or organizational change. There will be discussions and demonstrations of strategies and models for change in various systems including individuals, small groups, organizations and communities. Change agents for this workshop can be individuals or teams in business management, colleges, public schools, government, social agencies, churches and other community organizations. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

August 20-24

On Developing Self-Esteem
Stanley Coopersmith

Five-day workshop $120

This program will consider and employ a variety of methods for developing and raising self-esteem. Among these methods are self-exploration of favorable capacities and bases of esteem, role-taking, modeling, desensitization, challenge and defense. There will be occasions for examining and expanding personal limits by risk-taking, decision-making and long-term commitments. The goal throughout will be on increasing feelings of personal worthiness which eventuate in more effective performance and attainment of personal goals and satisfactions. There will be consideration of both theory and practices involved in establishing self-esteem and the implications of esteem in the school, home and personal relationships. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS: EXPLORATIONS, MAPS AND MODELS

Summer Program: Berkeley, California – July 13-August 12

The systematic exploration of human consciousness is emerging as one of the most significant and broadly-based revolutionary phenomena of this century. Investigation into the depths of the human mind and the search for boundaries of human spirit are not only adding to the sum of our knowledge, but also are stretching and modifying the traditional limits of Western psychology, physical science and religious inquiry. Many current discoveries are reverberating ancient wisdoms, creating a resonance between the methods and technology of modern science and the renewal of esoteric traditions.

Esalen Institute, in cooperation with the Association of Transpersonal Psychology, is planning its third summer institute on human consciousness, with a faculty of leading researchers, philosophers and teachers. Participants will enter into experiential and intellectual exploration of various models and maps of human consciousness as well as disciplines concerned with extending consciousness. The month-long program features brief, comprehensive seminars in such areas as: theories of consciousness, the analytical psychology of Carl Jung, esoteric psychologies, bio-feedback training, psychosynthesis, "paranormal" awareness, psychedelic research, psychology of religious experience, and various systems dealing with the effects of body states of consciousness.

CORE SEMINARS

Core Seminars (2-3 days each) will be led by the following people:

JOHN C. LILLY, M.D., has worked extensively in various research fields of science, including biophysics, neurophysiology, electronics, neuroanatomy and interspecies communication. He has done many years of study and research on solitude, isolation and confinement and is a qualified psychoanalyst. His books include Man and Dolphin, The Mind of the Dolphin, Programming and Metaprogramming in the Human Biocomputer and Center of the Cyclone. As a result of his study with Oscar Ichazo, Dr. Lilly has expanded his mind-brain-body biocomputer model of human consciousness to include the "essence". Using methods derived from Eastern and Western mystical traditions as well as modern science, his seminar will describe this biocomputer model.

JAMES FADIMAN, Ph.D., is a psychologist on the staff of the Counseling Service at Stanford University and is a lecturer in the Department of Design Engineering at Stanford. He is Associate Editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and is editor of The Proper Study of Man and the forthcoming Exploring Madness: Experience, Understanding and Research; The Practice of Psychosynthesis; and The Meaning of Personal Growth. His seminar on transpersonal psychology and altered states of consciousness will examine the range of techniques and research strategies available for altering consciousness. Special attention will be placed on how one's personal view of personality colors one's perception and focuses a person on certain disciplines rather than others.

JOHN PERRY, M.D., a Jungian analyst in private practice, is on the faculty of the C. G. Jung Institute of San Francisco. He is Assistant Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at U.C. Medical Center and is the author of The Self in Psychotic Process, Lord of the Four Quarters, and numerous articles. He is Supervising Psychiatrist of a new facility for the therapy of schizophrenics under Northeast Community Mental Health Services. In addition to presenting a brief introduction to Jungian thought, Dr. Perry will talk about the relationships of culture, myth and consciousness.

CHARLES T. TART, Ph.D., is Associate Professor of Psychology at the University of California, Davis. He has conducted extensive research into sleeping and dreaming, hypnosis, ESP and drugs. Dr. Tart is editor of Altered States of Consciousness: A Book of Readings, and author of On Being Stoned. His seminar will be a general overview, with emphasis on theoretical structure of various altered states of consciousness, including hypnosis and self-hypnosis, drug-induced states, extra-sensory perception and borderline states.

STANLEY KELEMAN heads the Center for Energetic Studies in Berkeley, runs professional training groups for psychotherapists and maintains a private practice. He is interested in the energetic expressions of the body, their relationship to the feeling life and the proper functioning of the organism. He is author of Sexuality, Self and Survival and Todtmoos, a book of poems. In his seminar, Keleman will outline the biological basis of consciousness and talk about the role of the body in the mystical experience.

ARTHUR HASTINGS, Ph.D., is a specialist in language and communication, with further interests in parapsychology and consciousness processes. He has taught at California State University, San Jose, and at Stanford University. His seminar will focus on how language, consciousness and reality are all causes and effects of each other. Included will be how we can talk about internal states, how we select, process and communicate reality through language, and ways of getting outside language-controlled reality or of creating new languages.

ARTHUR J. DEIKMAN, M.D., was trained at Harvard in psychoanalytically-oriented psychiatry. For more than ten years he has been doing research on meditation, mystical experience, psychedelics and consciousness. He has become increasingly involved in group therapy and process, and at the University of Colorado Medical Center he developed a nondrug intensive treatment unit for psychosis, worked on a theory of consciousness and began the study of Zen Buddhism. He is now in private practice in San Francisco. He is director for the Institute for the Study of Human Consciousness where he is focusing on the investigation of mystical consciousness. Dr. Deikman will talk about his research in meditation, theories and models of human consciousness and mystical perception; and he will present a way of integrating the data from Eastern and Western psychologies.

ADDITIONAL SEMINARS

In addition, there will be a series of seminars including the following subjects:

The Development of Consciousness: Dane Rudhyar

The Unconscious and Guided Imagery: Dorothy Fadiman

Aikido and Energy Awareness Robert Frager

Arthur Fox and Janica Fox, Esalen-trained group facilitators, will be in residence for the duration of the program.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Summer Institute will be held from July 13 through August 12, 1973 near the University of California, Berkeley. This program is intended primarily for teachers, students and researchers in psychology, psychiatry, philosophy and theology, as well as those outside the academic community who would like to integrate this study into their lives and environments.

The program must be taken in its entirety; no part-time participation is feasible. Program tuition is $425. Room and board fees are $140 for the program period; this includes shared accommodations, plus meals five days a week (weekend meals not provided). A nonrefundable deposit of $100 is required at time of acceptance. PARTIAL SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AVAILABLE; an application will be sent upon request. The program involves approximately five days of intensive participation per week for the full four-week period.

University credit (5 to 9 units) may be available from the University of California Extension; students should also check about obtaining credit from their own departments.

To apply, write us about who you are, what you are doing, studying or practicing and what your interest is in the Esalen Summer Institute. Apply early; the program is limited in enrollment.

Send to: Esalen Summer Institute, 1793 Union Street, San Francisco, CA 94123.

Ongoing Sports Seminar
Esalen Sports Center Staff

Six Wednesday evenings $45

The purpose of this seminar is to initiate, on a regular basis, an interchange of ideas and practices between Esalen, physical education teachers, coaches, athletes and individuals interested in athletics and physical education. Each evening will be led by a member of the Sports Center Staff or by individuals doing innovative work in physical education and athletics. Some of the leaders will be Robert Nadeau, Bob Kriegel, William Schutz, Michael Murphy, George Leonard, Mal Andrews and David Meggyesy.

■S.F. May 12-13

Tennis Flow
Dyveke Spino

Weekend workshop $30

This workshop will integrate principles of body awareness, movement, dance, music and meditation with traditional methods of tennis instruction and practice to master flowing tennis strokes. The workshop is designed for beginners as well as advanced students of the game. Bring your raquet. Limited to 10 participants.

■S.F. June 9-10

Golf & Energy Awareness
Michael Murphy, Robert Nadeau & Buddie Johnson

Weekend workshop $50

Centering and energy awareness will be applied to the game of golf. These principles of mind-body harmony are derived from meditation and aikido. There will be sessions for the practice of energy awareness and sessions integrating these principles by working with the golf swing at a local driving range.

A SPORTS INSTITUTE
Conducted by the Esalen Sports Center
July 15 to 28
San Francisco

Two-week residential program at Dominican College, San Rafael, Calif.

$325 including room and meals;
$240 non-residential fee, including meals

A program presenting disciplines being practiced at Esalen and elsewhere as well as innovative approaches currently taking place in physical education. The focus will be on finding points of integration between these disciplines and current methods of athletic practice, coaching and physical education instruction. The goal is for participants to formulate their own integrated approach with a view toward enriching participation in physical education and athletics.

There will be brief, intensive exposure in such areas as: yoga, sensory awareness, rolfing, Feldenkrais exercises, structural patterning, energy awareness and centering, aikido, t'ai chi, dance and movement. There will be special time alloted each day to integrate these approaches using the athletic facilities of Dominican College.

Core seminars (3-4 days each) will be led by the following:

WILLIAM SCHUTZ – Psychologist and author of Joy, Here Comes Everybody and The Interpersonal Underworld, he has worked with Ida Rolf, Moshe Feldenkrais and is evolving his own techniques for increasing body awareness and movement.

JUDITH ASTON – A structural patterner, rolfer and originator of Rolf-Aston Structural Patterning in Stillness and Motion, she has worked extensively with dancers, actors and athletes.

ROBERT NADEAU – An aikido master who has studied oriental martial arts for the past 20 years, he teaches aikido, energy awareness and meditation in the Bay Area.

AL HUANG – A T'ai Chi master who has integrated t'ai chi with dance and athletics at the University of Illinois and York University.

BOB KRIEGEL – Co-director of the Esalen Sports Center and a group leader combining various approaches in his work, he has been a swimming and skiing instructor and a basketball coach.

In addition the program will include the following guest leaders: Michael Murphy, George Leonard, Stanley Keleman, David Meggyesey, Buddie Johnson, Jack Scott, Dan Millman and Dyveke Spino.

University credit, non-residential fees, partial scholarships and special family rates are available. For more information write the Esalen Sports Center at the Esalen/San Francisco office.

For Reservation Information, see page 46. For Biographical Information, see pp. 41-45.

Interpersonal

The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontations rather than away from them. The focus of encounter is to explore interpersonal relations. Over the past years encounter, as practiced at Esalen, has evolved into a broad approach incorporating several related disciplines to achieve its aims. Techniques and insights gained from gestalt, sensory awareness, bioenergetics, massage, movement and structural integration are all part of Esalen's encounter groups today.

आनन्दाद्ध्येव खल्विमानि भूतानि जायन्ते,
आनन्देन जातानि जीवन्ति ।
आनन्दं प्रयन्त्यभिसंविशन्ति ।

"From Pure Joy springs all creation; by Joy it is sustained, towards joy it proceeds and to Joy it returns."

Humor: A Sense of Letting Go
Harry Sloan

Weekend workshop $50

Humor is a transpersonal transcendent quality frequently showering grace upon the most grim situation. Looking at what you find funny can help you appreciate and understand where you are NOW. Though there may be some tears along the way, looking at our laughter teaches us to find a liberating perspective, a "letting go" of self-imposed limits, with a pleasant bodily response. Bring anything that tickles you; a friend's uncle, an over-ripe banana, jokes, cartoons, personal incidents.

TA and Buber Communication Experience
Sherry Morgan

Weekend workshop $90

An invitation to leave the world of "monologue disguised as dialogue" to enter the world of "genuine dialogue," "hallowing," and the "I-Thou relationship". Eric Berne's theory of transactional analysis will be focused on the use of Ego States and Transactions as stepping stones into Martin Buber's world of Dialogue and Intimacy. Some theory, some practice, an easy happy experience, an excellent place for beginners and an interesting fresh approach for the experienced professional.

Expanding Heart-Full-Ness
Simone Surpin
Weekend workshop $90

Most of us know, essentially, that we are bigger hearted than we manifest to others. Often we continue to close and protect our hearts out of habit when the need is no longer present. This weekend we will 'hold awareness' on our hearts through practices of meditation, chanting, body work, silence and sharing our experiences.

EXPERIENCING ESALEN/BIG SUR

Esalen/Big Sur has chosen a theme for its summer programs: Exploring Space and Time. In accordance with this theme, we are offering a new, on-going workshop, Experiencing Esalen, This workshop is designed to explore the way we use our Space and Time for personal growth. Time to spend alone/together in the structured Space of a group setting and the expanded Space of the total Esalen/Big Sur environment. Workshops begin on Sunday evening and participants are invited to enroll for one or more five-day periods.

Gestalt

Gestalt Awareness Training is a theory and approach to personality integration first developed by Fritz and Laura Perls. Other theories, styles and methods are being developed by other leaders. The goal of the training is to assist the participants [illegible] and to develop [illegible]

[illegible] to have life energy free, available and flowing, not blocked [illegible] to be conscious of my environment and where it flows, to have action [illegible] not happen mechanically [illegible] to know and act on the principle that I am the one who acts, thinks and feels what even it may be that I act, think or feel. No one else or no event influences me except with my consent.

At times everyone in the group may work simultaneously with some awareness exercise or in interaction with each other. More traditionally, a fair amount of time will be spent with participants working individually with the leader. The starting point for such individual work is whatever is here and now of most involving concern for the participant: a fantasy or dream, an interaction with another person, a memory, or a physical posture. Problems are [illegible] starting points if they are truly present and not merely verbally presented. In keeping with the gestalt emphasis on personal responsibility, the leader usually leaves the initiative for such work with the participant. The assumption is made that participants are not patients but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

Gestalt & Structural Integration
Richard Price, Paul Rebillot, John Argue & Esalen Staff

Four-week program $950

Structural Integration, while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body processes in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolfings as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.). Recommended readings: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, Perls; Anatomy of Mental Illness, Janov.

Training in Gestalt Awareness & Existential Life Style
Richard Louis Miller, Kathleen Hanlon Lawson & the Gestalt Community at Wilbur Hot Springs
Residential weekend workshop $65

Drive the highway, then take a scenic ride on a country road to a remote setting, 240 private, beautiful acres, a large building, stop your car. Make a friendly greeting and receive one. Join us in natural, hot mineral baths, breathing exercises, great food prepared with love, Gestalt Community meetings, friendly teasing, meditation in action, body awareness, lectures, demonstrations, laughs, sex education, space and fresh air (no smoking in buildings), singing, and the golden rule of now. 6 p.m. Friday to Sunday after lunch. Fee includes tuition, room, board and baths.

•B.S. May 11-13
"Help! I'm Trapped in a Human Body"
Frank Rubenfeld
Weekend workshop $90

We will use gestalt to explore the existential angst of being human. More mundane concerns such as unfinished business, inveterate top-dogging, and being in the now and in your body will also be part of this weekend's activity.

Listen to Yourself: A Gestalt Workshop
Frank Rubenfeld
Five-day workshop $250

Depending on how you say "listen to yourself", its meaning changes. Listen to yourself say it. During these five days, we will listen to ourselves with humor, dismay, compassion and whatever else arises. Through listening may come awareness; through awareness, an opportunity to create your own fate.

■S.F. May 19-20
Gestalt & Gurdjieff
Joe Camhi
Weekend workshop $50

Energy is wasted in many forms of escape from who we are as well as in lack of understanding of how to conserve, build up and direct these energies. Gestalt techniques and elementary concepts and exercises of Gurdjieff will be used to explore these issues. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

■S.F. May 20

One-day workshop $20

We will combine the verbal methods of gestalt with a number of different ways of working with the body, including massage, Feldenkrais dynamics, and Proskauer breathing techniques.

•B.S. May 20-25
Gestalt Awareness and Self-Image
Stella Resnick
Five-day workshop $250

As we move around in our world we carry with us a fantasy of ourselves which mediates and dictates our actions and limits our choices. Using the gestalt approach embellished by a variety of other techniques including movement and methods of the actor, participants will work toward clarifying their individual self-image and getting in touch with the disparity between their self-image and how others see them. Particular emphasis will be given to body image, self-esteem, role expectations and withholding excitement. We will work toward expanding our behavioral repertory, our creativity and our aliveness through attaining a more realistic and nourishing self-image.

■S.F. May 25-27
Gestalt, Sensory Awareness & Self Response/Ability
Seymour Carter
Weekend workshop $50

This workshop is for people interested in discovering their own capacity for growth and self-responsibility. Many people engaged in the sometimes difficult quest for self-liberation are giving up their own potential for freedom to systems, techniques and charismatic leaders that provide a strong arm to lean on. In the process they are putting their center of gravity outside themselves and ignoring their inborn ability to find out who they really are.

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our no' being alienated from ourselves as living organisms with a natural endowment for growth and self-responsibility. Through the gestalt and meditation experiences of this workshop we will increase awareness of our innate perceptual faculties. With greater attention to our true natural capacities we deepen ourselves in each activity, our consciousness coming to fuller responsive aliveness. Gradually we find we can come to life with greater interest, strength, sensitivity and delight in ourselves, in other people, and our surroundings.

Chest In, Stomach Out, or Hang Out Your Hang Ups: A Low Structure Gestalt Weekend
Richard Louis Miller, Kathleen Hanlon Lawson & the Gestalt Community at Wilbur Hot Springs
Residential weekend workshop $65
Sit in a quiet place in a position comfortable for you. Close your eyes and pay attention. Focus on your breathing. Now loosen thoroughly anything which is touching or pressing against your stomach. Now breathe so that your stomach moves in and out with each breath. Counting each in-and-out as one, continue paying attention until you reach fifteen. Now replace all clothing, belts, etc. to their original position, still with eyes closed and paying attention. Would you believe that 98% of what people describe as anxiety is the result of faulty breathing caused by tight clothing? Would you believe 75%? Would you believe you personally? Are you ready to say goodbye to chest-out and stomach-in? This weekend is for those who, after doing the above experiment and reading the propaganda, felt their energy moving in the direction of looser clothes. 6 p.m. Friday to Sunday after lunch. Fee includes tuition, room, board and hot baths.

The Architecture of the Whole Person
Ilana Rubenfeld
Weekend workshop $60

This workshop will offer a unique blend of gestalt, Alexander, Feldenkrais and deep muscle work to intensify each person's process of self-awareness. Emotions and memories are often stored in our bodies, resulting in tensions and imbalance. Focus will be on how to release these tensions and explore ourselves as total beings.

■S.F. July 22-27
Five Days of Gestalt Therapy Training
Richard Louis Miller, Kathleen Hanlon Lawson & the Gestalt Community at Wilbur Hot Springs
Five-day residential workshop $160

We learn the skill of awareness by paying attention to our processes moment by moment as an integral part of our lives ever in motion. At any instant we tease one another, point out heavy furrows and brows, or release energy through physical work or animal yells. Together we face the mystery of graceful living – of being in balance with ourselves, going with our flow, living with the golden rule, maintaining our humor and realizing that at any moment we can choose a new focus for our awareness. "Each moment is the last moment of my past life."

Expansion of Consciousness in Jungian Analysis
Jean Shinoda Bolen

Evening Seminar $5

This seminar will explore from a Jungian perspective the inner imperatives for expanding consciousness with its potentials for creating conflict as well as promoting growth. When intrapsychic or interpersonal opposition to growth and change is encountered, psychotic symptoms or interpersonal problems can result. Seen in this context, can a Jungian therapist be a guide, guru or gardener in aiding the process of growth? 7:30 to 10 p.m.

■S.F. August 4

Person-Centered Astrology and Analytical Psychology
Dane Rudhyar and Crittenden Brookes

One-day workshop $20

Through the principles of synchronicity and the concept of the collective unconscious, Carl Jung's analytical psychology has made a major contribution to man's current struggle to find an identity and a meaning beyond the limitations of his own ego. Astrologer and philosopher Dane Rudhyar early recognized the importance of Jung's work and incorporated it into his own ideas about a truly person-centered astrology. The concepts in analytical psychology have great relevance to Rudhyar's version of the "Seed Man" and to his view of the birthchart as a "personal mandala" for the individual. In this seminar Rudhyar and Brookes will attempt through dialogue to elaborate the parallels between Jung's thought and Rudhyar's cosmological philosophy and to work toward some synthesis of the two view points. 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

■S.F. Tuesday, August 28

Jung's Psychology of Transference

● Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Psychosynthesis

Psychosynthesis is a psychological and educational approach for recognizing and harmonizing the many, often conflicting, elements of our inner lives. It is a developmental process based on a positive conception of man within an evolving universe. Starting with each person's existential situation as he perceives it, personal growth is organized into a process aiming at the integration of personality and the emergence of an effective unifying center of being and awareness, the Self.

The practical work of psychosynthesis chooses in each situation the appropriate progressive activities among many techniques and methods available. Some of these are: guided imagery, movement, self-identification, creativity, gestalt, meditation, training of the will, symbolic art work, journal keeping, ideal models, and development of intuition. The emphasis is on fostering an ongoing process of growth than can gain momentum and bring about a more joyful, balanced actualization of one's life.

Esalen Institute Psychosynthesis programs are offered in cooperation with the Psychosynthesis Institute, Redwood City, and are coordinated by its directors, Jim and Susan Vargiu.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS TRAINING

■ S.F. May 8-June 17

Psychosynthesis Training Series for Professionals
Jim & Susan Vargiu and Associates of the Psychosynthesis Institute

Six Tuesday Evenings, a weekend, and individual sessions $240

A program designed for psychotherapists, educators, counselors and others involved in the helping professions. The group will explore the fundamentals of psychosynthesis, theoretically and experientially, in a coordinated program designed to give each participant both the understanding and the personal experience needed to begin to utilize and apply psychosynthesis within his own field. We will work together so that each can recognize the process of psychosynthesis at work, both in himself and in the others. There will be assignments and exercises to complete between meetings. In addition, each participant will have one private psychosynthesis session by arrangement with an associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, and will have the opportunity to observe one or two sessions of other members of the group. Further individual work during the six week period can be arranged. Six Tuesday evenings, 7:30-11 p.m., May 8-June 12. Weekend workshop is June 16 and 17. For application form, contact Esalen/San Francisco.

$2 general, $1 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

A presentation, with exercises, of the principles of psychosynthesis and the approach it offers to foster the balanced development of body, feelings and mind, and their harmonious integration around our unifying center.

● B.S. May 18-20

Psychosynthesis – The Self
Steven Kull & Betsie Carter

Weekend workshop $100

In this workshop we will explore means for actualizing the transpersonal Self – that higher, most essential Self which we may have glimpsed in peak experiences. We will begin by examining our various "selves", our roles and subpersonalities, and work towards integrating them into a more joyous and whole expression of that higher Self.

■ S.F. June 1-3

Imagination and Intuition: A Direct Path to Self-Realization
Tom Allen

Weekend workshop $50

In each of us there are new, emerging aspects with which we are not yet fully in touch. Some of these aspects are energies that are blocked, but which can be released, realized, and used as sources in inner strength and guidance: beauty, joy, serenity. Imagination and intuition are subjective functions which help us be open to these energies, and use them to reach higher, more integrated states of consciousness. In this workshop we will explore ways for the development and right use of imagination and intuition: guided imagery, symbolic artwork, the mandala, movement and the mudra, seed thoughts, inner alignment, spontaneous drawing, meditation, inner dialogue, and other processes which can be utilized to evoke one's own inner sources of wisdom and guidance.

● B.S. June 3-8

Psychosynthesis
Piero Ferrucci

Five-day workshop $220

Among the main aims of psychosynthesis are: to intensify one's sense of identity and to increase mastery over psychological functions; to transform psychic "vicious circles" into "virtuous circles" through re-directed and right handling of energies; to awake inner sources of insight and creativity, and gradually get acquainted with the Transpersonal Self, the innermost core of our being. This workshop will deal with practical steps and a wide variety of techniques to fulfill these aims.

For Reservation Information, see page 46. For Biographical Information, see pp. 41-45.

■S.F. Wednesday, June 13
Will-To-Good
Piero Ferrucci
Single evening event

$2 general, $1 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

Kindness, solidarity, comprehension, joy for the success of others, empathy, inclusiveness, cooperation, care, will-to-understand, compassion are not just words: they can be made real through precise practical steps. This workshop will deal with the means whereby we can consciously make this happen. A variety of techniques will be employed.

■S.F. June 16
Psychosynthesis – Centering
Steven Kull & Betsie Carter
One-day workshop $25

This will be a general introduction to psychosynthesis with an emphasis on the unifying center which we can use to integrate body, feelings, mind and spirit. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday.

•B.S. June 29-July 1
Hints from Above
Piero Ferrucci
Weekend workshop $90

This seminar will deal with learning to listen to hints and "messages" that come from the Superconscious, and to actively explore those levels within ourselves; learning how to differentiate inner "messages", hunches, and insights according to their nature and source; learning how to integrate, express, and give a shape in our present existential situation to received inspiration; developing one's own plan for future continuing work on oneself.

•B.S. July 8-13
Psychosynthesis
Steven Kull & Betsie Carter
Five-day workshop $220

See B.S. description, May 18-20, above.

■S.F. July 13-15
Willing
Piero Ferrucci
Weekend workshop $50

The will is the central, basic function of our being, the closest one to the self, according to psychosynthesis. Its discovery and full-functioning are essential steps toward self-actualization. We will deal with its stages, aspects and qualities, using several psychosynthetic techniques.

•B.S. August 3-5
Psychosynthesis
Tom Allen & Margaret Conway
Weekend workshop $100

An introductory workshop in psychosynthesis.

■S.F. August 4
Psychosynthesis-Transpersonal
Steven Kull & Betsie Carter
One-day workshop $25

This will be a general introduction to psychosynthesis emphasizing the transpersonal or spiritual dimension. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday.

Psychosynthesis

■S.F. Wednesday, August 8
Introduction to Psychosynthesis: Lecture-Demonstration
Tom & Anne Yeomans
Single evening event

$2 general, $1 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

An evening of experience designed to introduce participants to psychosynthesis, both as a means of growth and a way of living.

■S.F. August 17-19
Psychosynthesis: An Introductory Workshop
Tom & Anne Yeomans
Weekend workshop $50

Psychosynthesis is a way of growing and a way of learning to direct one's growth. Through the use of various techniques, we will encourage new and more productive, harmonious relations among the many aspects of the personality. Together we will achieve a richer experience on all levels of being by integrating our energies and connecting with self, other, and the universe.

•B.S. August 19-24
Psychosynthesis
Tom Allen & Margaret Conway
Five-day workshop $220

Though the scope of psychosynthesis is very broad, one of its most promising characteristics is that it has a simplicity of application. In this workshop, the focus will be on processes that can later be used independently by participants as steps toward self-realization.

WORKSHOPS USING PSYCHOSYNTHESIS TECHNIQUES

Several leaders use psychosynthesis techniques in their programs. Their workshops are described elsewhere in the catalog as follows:

George & Judith Brown, see Gestalt;

Bob & Marilyn Kriegel, see Interpersonal;

Carole Levine & Lenore Lefer, see Interpersonal;

Julian & Beverly Silverman, see Gestalt;

Transpersonal

Transpersonal generally refers to transcendence, mystical experience, peak experience and parapsychological phenomena. The following programs will explore insights and research into the physical and psychological aspects of such experience.

•B.S. May 11-13
Universal Centering
Robert Nadeau
Weekend workshop $90

Center is the state you reach in those special moments when you transcend your norm and function beautifully. Awareness of Energy is the key to that happening. Meditation is experiencing the clarity of that Energy as a Universal Law and a state of Being.

■S.F. May 19-20
Creativity & Altered States of Consciousness
Stanley Krippner
Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will utilize guided imagery, group hypnosis, sensory bombardment, massage and body movement experiences to enter altered states of consciousness. In these states, participants will be trained to gain access to the personal and universal symbols, archetypes and thematic concepts which encourage creative development.

■S.F. Tuesday, May 22
Science, Philosophy & Psychology of Acupuncture and the Chakras
Rammurti S. Mishra, M.D.
Evening Seminar $5 general; $3 student

Dr. Mishra will discuss acupuncture in relation to the yogic chakras. The philosophy of acupuncture depends on the monistic flow of life. When persons are isolated from this flow, they lose their integration with the universe. This disintegration becomes the cause of imbalance of energy circulating in the organism as positive and negative current, yang and yin. Acupuncture is the system of treatment by which physical, mental and spiritual harmony and integrity are brought together with the integral harmony of the universe. The acupuncture points and yogic chakras are practically the same. 7-10:30 p.m. Limited to 35 participants.

• B.S. June 1-3
The Human Biofield
George Leonard
Weekend workshop $90

All living things possess fields of energy, more complex and various than electromagnetic fields, but no less real. Awareness and understanding of the human biofield is essential for centering and balance and for bodily and emotional change. The biofield influences our interaction with nature and other people. It offers us a way towards higher realms of being. Using techniques derived from aikido and breathing, George Leonard will present his approach to the human biofield. The weekend will involve light physical exercises as well as exercises in perception, consciousness and being.

•B.S. June 8-10
Space & Time
Roland Fischer
Weekend seminar $100

Space and time are cortical interpretations or projections of sub-cortical central nervous system activity checked out through voluntary motor performance; as location, sequence and cycle out there.

Whatever intercepts this objective out-look of our worldly 'I' – e.g. fatigue, certain drugs, etc. – turns us inward and the former interplay, (equivalence) of space and time becomes transmuted into non-ordinary states of consciousness. In these non-verbal, intuitive gestalt-making (non-dominant) hemispheric states of 'self' awareness, visuo-spatial symbols and meaning become the ordering structure and function of inside. It will be attempted to catorgraph the spatio-temporal in relation to the meaningful symbolic.

•B.S. June 10-15
Body, Mind, Spirit
Michael Butler
Five-day workshop $220

The focus in this group will be on the common meeting place of various physical, mental and spiritual paths. Encounter and gestalt will be practiced as meditation. Spiritual spaces will be tested in interpersonal contact. Physical techniques based on rolting and aikido will be explored as paths to the spirit. This group is limited to 12 participants.

•B.S. June 15-17
The Psychology of Consciousness
Robert Ornstein
Weekend workshop $100

We will attempt to taste and integrate many of the new approaches to consciousness both personally and intellectually. The workshop will draw on meditation, research into brain function, esoteric psychological approaches and paranormal phenomena.

■S.F. June 16-17
Biofeedback Training
Eleanor Criswell
Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will focus on biofeedback as it relates to self-exploration, self-development and altering consciousness. An understanding of biofeedback, how to experience it, and how to use your own body signals as feedback will be included.

■S.F. June 22-24
Extending Awareness Through Hypnosis
Lee Pulos
Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will combine the approaches of hypnosis and psychosynthesis. Hypnosis and self-hypnosis will be taught so that participants can focus in on themselves through hypnotically induced dreams, automatic writing and drawings. These self-discoveries will be extended through guided fantasies, symbolic imagery and learning how to tune into the "inner theater" of one's unconscious.

WORKSHOPS WITH JOHN LILLY

John Lilly will do workshops this summer in both Big Sur and San Francisco; the program dates will be announced in the late spring. If you are interested in receiving information on these workshops, please send a note to the Esalen/San Francisco office and you will be sent an announcement of the workshops as soon as they are scheduled.

•B.S. June 22-24
Universal Centering
Robert Nadeau
Weekend workshop $90

See B.S. description, May 11-13, above.

•B.S. June 24-29
Universal Centering
Robert Nadeau
Five-day workshop $250

See B.S. description, May 11-13, above.

Transpersonal

■S.F. July 28
Lightening the Load
Dorothy Fadiman
One-day workshop $20

Our inner worlds are often heavy with images. In this workshop we plan to set new energy into motion by loosening fixed conceptions, through a combination of simple drawings and meditation. As released material becomes available to work with, progressive integration will follow. Techniques of drawing from the unconscious will be used.

■S.F. August 4-5
Universal Centering
Robert Nadeau
Weekend workshop $50

See B.S. description, May 11-13, above.

•B.S. August 10-12
Bio-Feedback Training for Psychosomatic Problems: A Workshop for Professionals
Joe Kamiya
Weekend workshop $100

A seminar for professionals in psychotherapy, medicine and other fields dealing with mind/body relations. Demonstrations and discussions of bio-feedback training methods for enhancing self-control over tension headaches, migraine, anxiety, insomnia, hypertension, gastric acidity, impotence, frigidity and other symptoms of imbalance in brain and autonomic functions. The potential for application in education and self-development will be explored.

•B.S. August 5-9
The Theory and Practice of Buddhist & Taoist Meditation
Alan Watts & Al Chung-Liang Huang
Four-day workshop $220

Alan Watts writes: "We have consulted with each other for some time, and have come to the conclusion that the various forms of yoga and za-zen as now taught in the West are, though beneficial, much too stiff and up-tight in style. We are copying Asian methods of teaching them to be obedient, but basically reluctant adolescents. Professor Huang and I are agreed that one's meditation practice is not working properly unless it is delightful, and we are inviting you to join with us in a four-day sesshin or retreat as we think it should be conducted for adult Westerners."

•B.S. August 17-19
Further Reaches of Human Experiencing
George Leonard
Weekend workshop $90

Using the concept of the energy body and the human biofield, Mr. Leonard will carry on experiments in perception, consciousness and being, seeking states of heightened awareness uncommon in Western culture. The physical exercise required will be light. No previous experience is needed. Wholeheartedness is. Those who wish to extend their work in this field may want to attend the Robert Nadeau workshop immediately following.

•B.S. August 19-24
Universal Centering
Robert Nadeau
Five-day workshop $250

See B.S. description, May 11-13, above.

•B.S. August 19-24
Body, Mind, Spirit
Michael Butler
Five-day workshop $220

See B.S. description, June 10-15, above.

•B.S. August 24-26
Remembering Through Reminding
James Fadiman
Weekend workshop $90

We are beings whose natures are in some sense divine. We often forget this connection and experience ourselves separated from our center. We remember at special moments when we are reminded. Using psychosynthesis and related transpersonal techniques, we will enjoy remembering to remind one another of being One.

■S.F. August 25
E.S.P. Workshop & Seminar
Arthur Hastings
One-day workshop $20

A discussion of what is known about E.S.P. from scientific research and human experience with individual and group practice exercises for developing E.S.P. abilities.

•B.S. August 31-Sept. 2
Workshop for Potential Psychics
Robert Nadeau & Ron Jones
Weekend workshop $100

A workshop for those who think they might be sensitive or psychic and wish to explore, understand and be more comfortable with it. There will be discussion, awareness practices to clarify your ability, and techniques to be at ease with it.

■S.F. September 1-2
Educating Your Dreams To Work For You
Clara Stewart Flagg and Allen Flagg
Weekend workshop $50

The techniques of dream education used in this workshop come from the cross-cultural research of Dr. Kilton Stewart, the first psychologist to study the Senoi of Malaya. The Senoi believe that dreams are psychological forces that the dreamer can learn to control through a process of dream education. The dream directives help toward control of the dream mind and its integration with the conscious mind for increased creativity and psychological maturity. The program includes Senoi dream music recordings, slides of Senoi life, including dream dances and printed materials.

For Reservation Information, see page 46. For Biographical Information, see pp. 41-45.

■S.F. July 1
Science Fiction: Gateway to Other Realities
Arthur Hastings
One-day workshop $20

We will use science fiction to explore and experience other possible and impossible realities of the self, society and the universe.

■S.F. July 6-8
Mandala
Jose & Miriam Arguelles
Weekend workshop $50

"Mandala in the broad sense is all-encompassing space which accomodates the self-existing cosmic structure, radiating different energies: pacifying, magnetizing, increasing, destroying." This workshop will include: an illustrated introduction to the theory and practice of the Mandala; a discussion of the discovery of the Mandala in everyday experience; and explorations in the creation of the Mandala. We suggest participants read Mandala and bring some simple drawing materials.

■S.F. July 13-August 12
Human Consciousness: Explorations, Maps and Models
Four-Week Summer Institute, Berkeley, Calif.

See description under Extended Programs, page 7.

■S.F. July 13-15
Working in the Dream Factory
Joel Latner & Meredith Sabini
Weekend workshop $50

The Senoi Indians use dreams to foster social interaction and openness, and to make permeable the division between waking and sleeping life. Workshop members will be introduced to Senoi dreamwork and a variety of other methods – including gestalt, guided fantasy, association, dream theatre – for making dreams part of our daily lives.

SELECTIVE AWARENESS
Big Sur

The human personality is a complex system of interrelated learned characteristics that are reflected on both physical and psychological planes. The multiple factors are organized by the central nervous system, which, like a complicated electronic computer, may be easily altered at one's discretion, given the proper language and methods. Selective Awareness provides a set of techniques for objectively identifying and unlearning undesirable characteristics of the mind or body and rapidly learning desirable patterns. These techniques are applied in a specific state of mind (similar to but not equivalent to meditational and self-hypnotic states) which allows complete recall of information necessary to illuminate and understand reflexes underlying any previously learned patterns.

B.S. July 13-15 Emmett Miller $100

■S.F. July 15
Introduction to Energy Awareness
Betsy Hill & Harvey Moskowitz
One-day workshop $20

We are both physical and energy beings. This will be a day of experiencing ourselves as energy beings.

•B.S. July 20-22
Drawing From the Unconscious
Dorothy & James Fadiman
Weekend workshop $90

The capacity for integrating our inner selves has been underestimated. We will offer various ways of drawing upon the unconscious to resolve conflicts and create new opportunities. Techniques drawn from psychosynthesis and related disciplines will be utilized. The emphasis is on developing personal tools so that each member of the workshop may continue to develop at his own pace.

Transpersonal

■S.F. July 22
A Sunday of Sufi Stories
Bronni Galin
One-day workshop $20

Students of the sufi tradition are instructed to immerse themselves in the literature – to make the material their own. The stories are considered powerful tools in reshaping consciousness. For those of us new to the tales, here is an opportunity to make their acquaintance. For those of us to whom they are familiar, come anyway – more is better.

•B.S. July 22-27
The Energy Body in Action
George Leonard
Five-day workshop $250

Many ancient and modern disciplines of personal health, growth and change depend upon concepts of "energy flows" in and around the bodies of living things. Western science has not yet identified all of these biofields, but some significant work is under way, as in acupuncture, for example. Using techniques derived from aikido and breathing, Mr. Leonard will present his approach to the human biofield. He will discuss the application of biofield work to other growth disciplines and to certain currents in Western thought. Through bodily movement and exercises in perception, consciousness and being, participants will experience their energy bodies in interaction with nature and other people, and will practice centering and heightened awareness.

•B.S. July 22-27
Encounter, Gestalt: Meditation
Michael Butler
Five-day workshop $220

In much the same way that we watch our breath in meditation, we can learn to watch ourselves in our contacts with other people. We are part of the dance and yet not caught in it. In this workshop we will explore this approach to relating and learn to practice it. Meditation, relaxation and physical quieting exercises from the Arica training will be used to provide a base for the interpersonal work. Limited to 12 participants.

•B.S. July 27-29
Contact and Meditation
Michael Butler
Weekend workshop $90

Contact with other people and contact with ourself through meditation are different practices that can enhance each other. The more of myself I am in touch with through meditation the more I have available for others. Conversely, when I make contact with others mindfully, it becomes a meditation that supports and strengthens my inner life. In this workshop we will explore the common ground between inner worlds and our outer world. Limited to 12 participants.

• Big Sur programs include room, meals and tuition. ■ San Francisco programs generally do not include room or meals.

Sensory Awareness

Sensory Awareness is Charlotte Selver's name for the work she studied with Elsa Gindler in Berlin and brought to the United States in 1938. Workshops in Sensory Awareness aim at a state of intellectual quiet in which each activity can be fully felt and allowed to find its natural way, free of inhibitions, techniques and images. When ideas are stilled, sense perceptions coming from the entire organism enable the person to function authentically, according to his nature, in all situations. Closely akin in its pure form to the practice of zen, Sensory Awareness brings the essential character of meditation to every aspect of daily living.

■S.F. May 4-6
Towards a More Sensitive Relating
Charlotte Selver & Charles Brooks
Weekend workshop $50

In an increasingly alienated world, where mechanical ease often makes communication shallower, many of us are eager to find more meaningful contact both with ourselves and with others, and with our activities whatever they may be. We would like really to get in touch. But the conventional approaches we have learned, our social and intellectual conditioning, lie like callouses over our living nerve ends and, though occasionally useful, act as effective barriers between the perceiver and the perceived. The reality both of ourselves and of those we meet can only be discovered and explored when we begin to sense and discard the techniques and defenses we have come to rely on – when we become again consciously living organisms, open, as we were in childhood, to the unedited messages of our senses.

In this weekend, which will be devoted to practice rather than theory, a beginning will be made in exploring anew our natural capacities for clearly perceiving and relating to those around us and to the life within us, and to the many tasks which life presents.

■S.F. May 25-27
Gestalt, Sensory Awareness & Self Response/Ability
Seymour Carter
Weekend workshop $50

This workshop is for people interested in discovering their own capacity for growth and self-responsibility.. Many people engaged in the sometimes difficult quest for self-liberation are giving up their own potential for freedom to systems, techniques and charismatic leaders that provide a strong arm to lean on. In the process they are putting their center of gravity outside themselves and ignoring their inborn ability to find out who they really are.

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as living organisms with a natural endowment for growth and self-responsibility. Through the gestalt and meditation experiences of this workshop we will increase awareness of our innate perceptual faculties. With greater attention to our true natural capacities we deepen ourselves in each activity, our consciousness coming to fuller responsive aliveness. Gradually we find we can come to life with greater interest, strength, sensitivity and delight in ourselves, in other people, and our surroundings.

The Human Body

AIKIDO is a Japanese art of self defense with the emphasis placed on centering, harmony and blending. It is presented as a physical manifestation of energy and spiritual laws of the Universe.

THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE is a method of re-educating the body that can have dramatic effects on the whole person. By applying sensory awareness, inhibition and conscious choice to such everyday activities as sitting, standing, walking and bending under conditions of continuous feedback from an instructor, we can experience the specific ways in which we interfere with the natural flow of our total pattern and learn to permit and encourage a response that will strengthen our innate tendency towards an integrated use of ourselves, allowing new alternatives of movement and being. Guided by the direct touch of the instructor's hands, the process involves a gentle reorganization of the body in movement and at rest.

BIOENERGETIC ANALYSIS attempts to understand the life of the body through its expression of vitality, posture, emotion, feeling and relationship. The body is viewed as an energetic process that participates in the world — the world of instinctual, social, imaginative and creative realms. Bioenergetics seeks to develop an individual's range of expression by working through this energetic process.

MASSAGE at Esalen is born and fulfilled in a relationship between two people. Consideration is given to the feeling and the sensory experience of both giver and receiver, and also that to technique. Work may be attended by both simple and unique.

POLARITY THERAPY is an intensive pressure-point massage system similar in both theory and practice to Chinese acupuncture. Developed and synthesized by Dr. Randolph Stone from Oriental traditions many centuries old, its purpose is to realign posture and to release blocked energy throughout the body. Although advanced work in polarity therapy requires extensive training, a number of its more basic techniques are accessible to the interested layman.

TA CHI CHUAN is an ancient Chinese exercise discipline practiced for health, meditation, energy flow and self defense. The slow, flowing movement of this shadow boxing comprise the oldest and softest of the Asian martial arts. Developed from the Chinese practice of [illegible] or inner exercise, it is part of the system of Taoist yoga. The term [illegible] can be translated as "grand ultimate" and is expressed by the familiar symbol of yang and yin. It is thus rooted in the Chinese philosophy of change as expressed in the I Ching.

■S.F. Tuesday evenings & Saturday mornings

Robert Nadeau (Tuesdays)
Frank Doran (Saturdays)

Continuing program

One meeting per week; $15 per month (general & student); Two meetings per week: $25 per month (general), $20 per month (student).

A continuous program of instruction in energy awareness and in aikido as a physical expression of that awareness. This course meets each week; participants can be in one or two sessions per week, with tuition based on the schedule of participation. Tuesday, 8-9:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10-12 noon. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

■Monday or Wednesday evenings

Alexander Technique

Frank Ottiwell, (Mondays)
Joan Schirle, (Wednesdays)

Continuing program $35 per month

Enrollment in each class is limited to 6 persons; new persons may join the classes as spaces become available. Monday evenings, 6-7:30 p.m.; Wednesday evenings, 7:30-9 p.m.

INDIVIDUAL MASSAGE APPOINTMENTS are available in both Big Sur and San Francisco to program registrants and Friends of Esalen. In Big Sur, contact the office during your stay at Esalen. In San Francisco, call 771-1710 for appointments.

■S.F. Thursday, May 10
Psychology of Overeating
Leonard Pearson
Single evening event
$2 general, $1 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco
Leonard Pearson will present in detail the concepts of "liberated eating" which is designed to free the individual from the tyranny of food. He will explore the ways that people relate to food and the important emotional needs satisfied by eating. His approach to the problem of overeating does away with counting calories, forbidden foods and dietary deprivation.

SAN FRANCISCO WORKSHOPS WITH MOSHE FELDENKRAIS

Moshe Feldenkrais is the originator of a system of body awareness, movement and functional coordination. During June and July Dr. Feldenkrais will be in residence at Esalen/San Francisco where he will offer a professional training workshop (participation by invitation only). He will also lead the following workshops open to the general public:

Tuesday, June 26
Introduction to the Feldenkrais Method: Lecture & Demonstration
$2 general and student; 8-10:30 p.m.; Location to be announced.

June 28-July 19
Open Series in the Feldenkrais Method
Seven evening series $45
Dr. Feldenkrais will lead participants in the group exercises developed by him. Registration for the series includes the lecture-demonstration on June 26. Single evening registration is $7.50, but attendance to the whole series is recommended, as the work is progressive. Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 8-10 p.m., June 28, July 3, 5, 10, 12, 17, 19.

Sunday, July 1
One-Day Workshop $25
10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Sunday, July 8
One-Day Workshop $25
10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Individual sessions with Dr. Feldenkrais are also available, by appointment. Call the Esalen/San Francisco office for information.

•B.S. May 13-18
Body Being
Barbara Clemans
Five-day workshop $250
The most fundamental and basic channel to the being is the body. From the time we are first told to "sit still!" we become restricted and unconscious in our bodies. An unconscious and unexperienced body is the primary barrier to awareness on any other level. We will begin to confront these barriers moving through new spaces, dancing out tensions, breathing and chanting to relax constriction and experiencing anew the gentleness of another's touch through massage.

•B.S. May 13-18
Energy/Body
Simone Surpin
Five-day workshop $220
In many esoteric psychologies the body is a major tool for altering consciousness. Through group process, body work and meditation, we will focus on using our whole body as a tool of perception and sensing. We will explore our individual energetic flow as reflected in the bigger flow of group process.

■S.F. May 18-20
To Your Emotions Through Massage
Robert Cromey
Weekend workshop $50
See description, Interpersonal, p. 10.

■S.F. May 20
Body Awareness & Gestalt
George Downing
One-day workshop $20
We will combine the verbal methods of gestalt with a number of different ways of working with the body, including massage, Feldenkrais dynamics, and Proskauer breathing techniques.

•B.S. May 20-25
Bioenergetics: A Workshop with Michael Conant
Five-day workshop $280
We will focus on both individual and group sessions utilizing neo-Reichian and bioenergetic work; in this approach, the background is fundamentally gestalt. Participants will deal with many of the psychophysical ways one isolates oneself from further experience, expression and identity as we contact ourselves and each other. To allow for a relaxed, supportive setting, the workshop is limited to 12 participants.

Cycles of Movement-Feeling-Mind: Rituals & Art
Ann Halprin
Weekend workshop $50
Part of a series of dance workshops dedicated to exploring and developing a common language of creativity through movement and environmental arts. In this series, immersion in the natural environment will lead to new forms of group creativity. This workshop will take place in and around an outdoor amphitheatre surrounded by a forest hillside at the base of Mt. Tamalpais in Marin County.

■S.F. May 26-27
Jnana Yoga: The Yoga of Self-Knowledge
Joel Kramer
Weekend workshop $50
Different yogas are doors or routes of exploration into the nature of existence. Jnana yoga opens the door to the eternal via the use of the mind. Through jnana one learns to see the nature, function and limitations of the intellect. Jnana yoga will be introduced as a vehicle for self-inquiry and as a way of examining the nature of psychological and spiritual structure and clarifying the meaning and importance of meditation. No previous experience in yoga necessary.

Energy Alignment: Massage Workshop
Nancy DeWoskin & Diane Weinberg
One-day workshop $20
In the energy dimensions we are already balanced beings. Physical imbalance is a partial disconnection from these dimensions. The process of balancing is a process of energy alignment. The Energy Alignment process evolved as we applied the principles of energy awareness to our work in massage.

See S.F. description, May 20, above.

■S.F. June 2
Conga Drumming: Everybody Has Rhythm
Richard Adelman
One-day workshop $20
A journey into the primitive dimension of ourselves. A yielding to our breathing, our heart beats and flowing blood. Rituals using conga drumming, dancing and singing will give us an opportunity to let go and experience new and exciting possibilities of movement and feeling. We will use gestalt and breathing exercises to relax blocks that cause us to forget we are natural, rhythmic creatures. We'll learn authentic African rhythms and create our own rhythms. Tell us if you can bring your own drum.

■S.F. June 2-3
Introduction to Centering
Betsy Hill & Harvey Moskowitz
Weekend workshop $50
Centering is experiencing a balanced, relaxed and comfortable space. We will present basic principles and exercises for physical, mental and spiritual centering. Emphasis will be on recognizing a centered state and discovering what draws us off.

•B.S. June 3-8
Bodymind
William Schutz
Five-day workshop $280
The workshop will attempt to integrate the Feldenkrais exercises with fantasy and encounter. Everyone will be given an opportunity to experience several exercises followed by a fantasy, then in an encounter group to deal with the material generated. The aim is for a more complete integration of each person's organism.

•B.S. June 15-17
Extending Human Possibility
Judith Stransky
Weekend workshop $90
This is an experience in the Feldenkrais method. Moshe Feldenkrais is the originator of a subtle and powerful new body technique. He has devised a series of simple, ingenious exercises which involve integration of the physical and the mental, expand boundaries of human possibility and lead to release from fixed habits that restrict us. Awareness of our self-image is developed, and the range of our movements is greatly extended. The work teaches integration, differentiation, relaxation and balance, improvement in alignment and greater ease in movement, and is a unique means of bringing us closer to the fulfillment of our human potential.

Everybody Knows How to Dance
Pamela Portugal & the Trust Band
Single evening event
$2 general, $1 student; 8-10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco
Since Adam and Eve ate the apple from the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil, we, as a species, have become progressively more preoccupied with judging and ranking our behavior. Natural human functions, like using dance to let the energy flow through, have become something for only the best professionals to do, on TV. . . . . .This event will be a chance for us all to move as the spirit moves us, without regard to good and bad.

■S.F. July 21-22
The Architecture of the Whole Person
Ilana Rubenfeld
Weekend workshop $60

This workshop will offer a unique blend of gestalt, Alexander, Feldenkrais and deep muscle work to intensify each person's process of self-awareness. Emotions and memories are often stored in our bodies, resulting in tensions and imbalance. Focus will be on how to release these tensions and explore ourselves as total beings.

●B.S. July 22-27
The Energy Body in Action
George Leonard
Five-day workshop $250

Many ancient and modern disciplines of personal health, growth and change depend upon concepts of "energy flows" in and around the bodies of living things. Western science has not yet identified all of these biofields, but some significant work is under way, as in acupuncture, for example. Using techniques derived from aikido and breathing, Mr. Leonard will present his approach to the human biofield. He will discuss the application of biofield work to other growth disciplines and to certain currents in Western thought. Through bodily movement and exercises in perception, consciousness and being, participants will experience their energy bodies in interaction with nature and other people, and will practice centering and heightened awareness.

Weekend workshop $50

We will develop a complete massage from basic techniques. We will emphasize the quality of touch—taking care—sensitizing ourselves.

■S.F. July 29
Know Your Pleasure: A Workshop for Women
Anne Kent Rush & Pamela Melton
One-day workshop $20

What is pleasurable to me? What is deeply satisfying? How can I get to know my needs and preferences better? How can I communicate and share these things with another person? Our culture orients us toward outer achievement and production at the expense of inner satisfaction. Women today are beginning to take a look at some of the ways our natural responses are repressed. In this workshop, verbally and through body work, we will explore ways of moving beyond repressive conditioning into patterns which allow us to experience more total body pleasure.

●B.S. July 29-August 3
Integrating Gestalt & Alexander Technique
Ilana Rubenfeld
Five-day workshop $250

"The sea always has waves . . . sea and waves are one. To speak of waves apart from the sea is a delusion – so mind and body are one." This workshop will flow from gestalt therapy, Alexander technique, Feldenkrais exercises to deep muscle work. Emotions and memories are often stored in the body, resulting in muscular tensions. Focus will be on the exploration of one's own body and emotions as a total organism.

Belly Dancing-Breath Energy
Barbara Clemans
Weekend workshop $50

The lower abdomen is a vital energy center in the body. Belly dancing is an ancient art form utilized not to entice the male but to free and give expression to this energy. We will use chanting and special breath exercises along with movements and postures which facilitate freeing this flow. Once learned, you can use the techniques at home. Emphasis on personal movement, not on performance. Men most welcome.

■S.F. August 11
Polarity Therapy
Anne Kent Rush
One-day workshop $20

This workshop will include experiential learning of selected basic techniques, individual physical exercises to facilitate energy balance and circulation, and some discussion of the theoretical principles of polarity therapy.

A T'ai Chi Experience
Al Chung-liang Huang
Five-day workshop $250

The calligraphic translation in Chinese of T'AI – Man, centering, in touch with universal time and infinite space.

CHI – Man, between heaven and earth, exercising circular energy and flowing with the way of nature.

This workshop is devoted to the creative exploration of the TAO, the wisdom of the East, interpreted for the man of the West. Al Chung-liang introduces the Taoist disciplines with a practical and individual approach. The week's work-play will include meditation, T'ai Chi Chuan practice, reading and writing from the Chinese texts of the Tao Te Ching, I Ching, Chuang Tzu and a great deal of joyous dancing. Participants are urged to bring Chinese brush and ink set and writing pads for calligraphy practice.

A Day of Health
Faith Louise Hornbacher & David Sobel
One-day workshop $20

"What is done for you – allow it to be done, what you must do yourself – make sure you do it." (Khawwas)

This will be a day of exploring, with your head as well as your body, ways to care for yourself; experiencing the practical everyday things you can do to feel better and maintain your health. We will focus attention on areas from body movement and patterning to eye exercises and foot reflexology, from relaxing to bathing, brushing and breathing, from eating to fasting and some will training to develop your own daily rituals.

•B.S. August 26-31
Knowing and Moving the Body
Frank Ottiwell & Judith Stransky
Five-day workshop $250

This workshop will draw on the work of F.M. Alexander and Moshe Feldenkrais in mobilizing and re-educating the body/self. Techniques to improve postural alignment and release blocked energy will be taught individually and applied to such everyday activities as sitting, standing, walking and bending. Group exercises, performed within each individual's range of ease and enjoyment, will be used to increase kinesthetic awareness and to show the use of awareness and movement as self-teacher.

Structural Integration

By realigning the body structure, the Rolf method of structural integration attempts to release excessive tensions so that the person may experience greater physical and emotional freedom and balance. The assumption is that a person's body and set are a mirror of his emotional past as well as a result of physical trauma. Structural integration is a process of direct physical manipulation and deep massage; working with a trained practitioner, the process is usually completed within ten individual sessions.

TRAINING in structural integration is offered only through the Ida P. Rolf Foundation for Structural Integration and only upon completion of certain prerequisites. Research in rolfing is encouraged by the Foundation. Information about training and research, as well as class announcements may be obtained by writing the Foundation, P.O. Box 1868, Boulder, Colo. 80302.

INDIVIDUAL SESSIONS with practitioners of structural integration are available by appointment only through the following offices:

Esalen Institute, Big Sur – no telephone appointments. Please request appointments in writing. Practitioners include Michael Kilgroe, Al Drucker, Stanley Johnson, Beverly Silverman.

Esalen Institute, San Francisco – Phone for appointments. Megan Gilchrist, Dub Leigh, Michael Salveson, Larry Swann, Ed Taylor.

STRUCTURAL PATTERNING, a system designed to achieve structural balance and movement efficiency, works by reinforcing the body in its relationship to the pull of gravity. It directs itself toward providing for change through movement, rather than attempting to achieve idealized static postures. The patterns evoke functional movement in the body's horizontal hinges: ankles, knees, pelvis, etc., and encourage rebalancing around the vertical core. Work sessions are arranged in sequences, and basic movements are gradually integrated into more complex action. The patterns themselves are not exercises of the physical body only, but are designed to enhance awareness. They are not performed vigorously; the movements are slow, sometimes subtle, and are done to produce change through awareness. A course of private work in structural patterning consists of 6 supervised sessions. The patterns are taught and adapted to the individual's needs, so that he makes them his own. Each session is about 90 minutes long.

Practitioners available for individual sessions are: Esalen/Big Sur – Ama Torrance; Esalen/San Francisco – Faith Hornbacher.

•B.S. May 6-June 1
Gestalt & Structural Integration
Richard Price, Paul Rebillot, John Argue & Esalen Staff

Four-week program $950

Structural Integration, while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body processes in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolfings as part of the workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.). Recommended readings: Gestalt Therapy Verbatim, Perls; Anatomy of Mental Illness, Janov.

RICHARD ADELMAN has an M.A. in psychology and has been playing congas and bongos for 16 years – 10 years with Latin bands. He lives in Berkeley where he teaches conga drumming privately as a way of centering and allowing expression of one's natural rhythmic feeling. His teaching approach is influenced by his experience in bioenergetics, gestalt and various forms of meditation.

SANDRA AGUILAR, SALLY GEARHART, CLOVER HERZSTAM, MARCIA KALLEN, DAVID KLEINBERG, JOHN SHULTZ & GARY TITUS are seven members of the San Francisco feminist and gay community, ages 21 to 41, with a wide range of experiences and training. They are presently developing alternative life styles.

SANDRA AGUILAR & MARCIA KALLEN have been active in racism and sexism training for the past 5 years working with school age people as well as adults. Their broad range of experience includes working with drug abuse program people, teachers, community boards, and their sisters in the women's movement. Both have taught in public schools and colleges.

TOM ALLEN, a senior associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute and a former Esalen resident fellow, underwent advanced training at the Psychosynthesis Institute with Jim and Susan Vargiu, and didactic training with Roberto Assagioli in Italy. He has led workshops for several years at growth centers and educational institutions in this country and abroad, and has taught psychosynthesis at college and university level. He is an artist and has worked to integrate art into the psychosynthesis process as a means of self-realization.

MAURICA ANDERSON is a former staff member of the California Institute of Psychodrama, and is currently working in psychodrama and encounter with various Berkeley women's groups.

WALT ANDERSON trained at the California Institute of Psychodrama and is accredited by the Moreno Academy of New York. He is a teacher, organizational consultant, author and/or editor of a number of books including the recent Humanistic Perspectives in Politics, and has a private practice in Berkeley.

JOHN ARGUE teaches acting in Berkeley.

JOSE ARGUELLES has taught art and cultural history at various colleges and universities. He is currently on leave from the Evergreen State College, Olympia, Washington. He is an artist and author of several books including Mandala.

MIRIAM ARGUELLES, currently engaged in creative research in male/female symbology, is an artist, illustrator, and writer, author of the recently published Mandala.

GREGORY BATESON is a world-famous ecologist and ethnologist. He originated the "double bind" theory which explains some of the causes of schizophrenia. His most recent interests join the workings of the human mind and emotions to the problem of ecology.

SCOTT BEACH is an actor, director and writer. He was a founding member of The Committee, a satirical, improvisational revue in San Francisco.

DIANA BECHETTI is in training with Richard Price. She has coordinated Esalen/Big Sur's student weekends for the past year.

JUDITH BELL is a clinical specialist in psychiatric nursing and gestalt therapist in private practice, as well as an instructor for University of California Continuing Education. She is presently gathering data on the process of jealousy and pleasuring.

LARRY BLOOMBERG, clinical psychologist, helped found the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco, the Gestalt Institute for Multiple Psychotherapy, and gestalt communities in Albuquerque, San Francisco and Wilbur Springs, Calif. He consults the I Ching as a repository of wisdom and as one way of visiting with the masters.

JEAN SHINODA BOLEN, a medical doctor, is Assistant Clinical Professor, University of California School of Medicine and Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute, and a Jungian psychiatrist in private practice in San Francisco.

PETER BREGGIN, best known for his campaign against lobotomy and psychosurgery, is director of the project to examine psychiatric technology at the Washington School of Psychiatry in Washington, D.C. He is author of two novels dealing with the ethics and politics of psychiatry, The Crazy from the Sane and After the Good War.

LOIS BRIEN is a director and trainer at the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco, an organization consultant in the Bay Area and a member of the faculty of the California School of Professional Psychology. She is a gestalt author, painter and activist in the feminist movement.

CRITTENDEN BROOKES, a certified Jungian analyst, teaches psychiatric trainees as Assistant Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at U.C. Medical Center and As Supervisor, Department of Psychiatry, Mount Zion Hospital, San Francisco. He is engaged in the private practice of psychiatry and psychotherapy.

GEORGE BROWN, an associate of the Psychosynthesis Institute, is one of the first to combine gestalt and psychosynthesis in workshop and educational contexts. He is director of DRICE, the Ford Foundation Center in confluent education at the University of California at Santa Barbara and is the author of Human Teaching for Human Learning.

JUDITH BROWN has an international reputation as a gestalt awareness trainer and has been interested in the use of symbols as an expression of the creative unconscious. In addition to her own groups, she has co-led numerous groups with her husband.

JOHN BUEHLER, before he earned his medical degree at University of California Medical Center, was a psychologist and head of the graduate program in psychology at Fresno State College. He is a certified Jungian analyst and a member of the C. G. Jung Institute of San Francisco.

MICHAEL BUTLER is a group leader with a background in body techniques. A former Esalen resident fellow, he was trained in group process by John Heider and subsequently as a practitioner of structural integration by Ida Rolf. He has a special interest in ways to adapt the personal growth practices of the group meeting room to everyday life.

GEORGE CALMENSON is the director of Esalen/San Francisco and the publisher/editor of Lodestar Press.

JOSEPH CAMHI, clinical psychologist and gestalt therapist, recently spent a year studying at a Gurdjieff-oriented school in England and is now in private practice in San Francisco.

Check-out time is noon of the final day of all programs.

ACCOMMODATIONS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodging in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property – in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms – is strictly prohibited.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean, with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name.

From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – Reservations only.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE FROM MONTEREY: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is available between 11:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. on Fridays and Sundays at $10 per person from Monterey Airport or Greyhound Terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen Representative.

WORK COMMITMENT: Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required of participants in all programs of two weeks duration or longer.

ORGANIC FOOD: The organic food garden on the Esalen grounds is flourishing and provides the kitchen with most of its vegetables and herbs. We try to serve only organically-produced meats, poultry and dairy products; most breads and pastries are made by Esalen bakers.

STAFF-LED WORKSHOPS: Some of the four-week and five-day programs listed will be led by members of the Esalen Staff from Big Sur. Big Sur Staff includes: Michael Butler, Seymour Carter, Al Drucker, Brita Fluck, Betty Fuller, Janet Lederman, David Lees, Dub Leigh, Carole Levine, Peggy Morrison, Richard Price, Paul Rebillot, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Beverly Silverman, Julian Silverman, Simone Surpin, Ben Weaver and Judyth Weaver.

An extensive selection of titles including the Esalen-Viking Series is available through the Esalen Bookshop. The store is open Monday through Saturday, 10 to 5, at 1793 Union St., San Francisco. Mail orders are handled promptly. Both books and tape recordings are listed in a comprehensive catalog, available upon request.

RECENT ADDITIONS

GETTING THERE WITHOUT DRUGS
by Buryl Payne
$7.95, hardbound

With the belief that mystical experience is not supernatural, but an extension of ordinary awareness, Buryl Payne presents no shortcut to enlightenment. The former physicist does offer a series of meditational exercises designed to help the reader explore nonverbal realms of experience and transcendent awareness.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF CONSCIOUSNESS
by Robert E. Ornstein
$8.95, hardbound

Recent research indicates that there are significant differences in the functioning of the two hemispheres of the brain. Ornstein uses this theme to provoke a re-examination of the psychology of consciousness, attempting to reconcile the two forms of consciousness termed "linear" or rational, and "nonlinear", or intuitive.

THE ONE QUEST
by Claudio Naranjo
$8.95, hardbound

Through an examination of ancient and modern systems of meditation, mysticism and sensory awareness, Naranjo illuminates universal patterns in man's search for self realization.

THE ACT OF WILL
by Roberto Assagioli
$10.00, hardbound

The will is depicted as a central human function which harmonizes and directs the energies of mind and emotion. The recognition of the will and the development of its strength and skill lead to broader considerations – the relation of will and love, of the personal will and the transpersonal will, of the individual's will and the Universal will. Dr. Assagioli includes practical suggestions for developing the will fully.

Publication date: August, 1973. Advance mail orders will be filled around September 1st.

Special Information

THE ESALEN CATALOG is published quarterly. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco office. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

ESALEN CONSULTING SERVICE: Esalen is devoted to making life more human at all levels. Our work has reached thousands of individuals and hundreds of institutions. Until recently most of this work was being done at our own facilities, either in Big Sur or San Francisco. There is now, however, an ever-expanding part of Esalen's universe that is moving toward helping to effect changes in the world outside the workshop. Through the Esalen Consulting Service, Esalen staff and leaders have designed and participated in projects for the U.S. Army, Ford Foundation, the Lockheed Corp., Model Cities, O.E.O., inservice training programs for hospitals, drug treatment centers, social agencies, colleges, universities and public school districts. Esalen courses are now being given at the University of California and at New York University. Many organizations have also used Esalen personnel as communications and human relations facilitators. If you are interested in learning more about the Consulting Service contact Bob Kriegel at the Esalen/San Francisco office.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please see membership form below.

ACCREDITATION and the USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs. Our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools.

FILMS of the work of Frederick S. Perls in gestalt therapy and Alexander Lowen in bioenergetic analysis, as well as films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow, Virginia Satir and others are available from Psychological Films, 205 West 20th Street, Santa Ana, California 92706. Sources of more films, including work of Alan Watts and Huston Smith, are available from Association for Humanistic Psychology, 416 Hoffman Street, San Francisco, California 94114.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (K101, KPFA, KQED, KSAN, KSFX, and KMPX) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures. (K101 has s dependable weekly program each Sunday evening at 11:00 p.m.) Other West Coast radio stations, KZAP Sacramento, KTAO Los Gatos, KCSB Santa Barbara, KLOS, KUSC and KPFK Los Angeles, and KPFT Houston, WBAI New York and WOMB New Hampshire, broadcast Esalen programs on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recordings of many past programs are available through a service which maintains archive copies for Esalen. Requests for tapes now come from educational and service institutions, libraries, religious and professional groups, business groups and individuals concerned with the human potential movement. Commercial use of these tapes is prohibited; all rights reserved. For a complete tape catalog, write Big Sur Recordings, 117 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, CA 94903. The cost of recordings is $8 per tape-hour (prepaid) and $10 per tape-hour (with purchase orders), stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette.

ABOUT THE ILLUSTRATIONS IN THIS CATALOG

"The theme for this issue is the Mandala, the most ancient and widespread of man's symbols," states the catalog designer, Red Dog Pieface. "From the earliest scratchings of a cross on a stone to a Calder mobile in motion, man has fashioned mandalas to steady his mind and raise his spirit." Some of the examples used here are: tile mazes from Chartres Cathedral, a tantric yantra, a Renaissance figure of ideal proportions, the Willendorf Venus and two variants, a 2000 year old incised shell ornament from Ohio (on page 11), a Fifteenth century Turkish horse mandala, a splash of milk in its crowning glory, the pattern of a typhoon, Brancusi's 'Kiss', Mondrian's 'Pier and Ocean', and a Brownie who is doing his bit ot turn the great wheel of karma.

The cosmic doily on the covers is a 'Mandala for Those in Psychic Agony' and was compiled and executed by Red Dog Pieface.

NEW ESALEN CENTER SPURS A SPORTS REVOLUTION

(This article is reprinted from The New York Times, Sunday, April 15, 1973, and was written by William Wallace.)

On a walk through a small town in Virginia a year ago, George Leonard passed the high school field where 35 boys and girls were sitting on a grassy bank. In front was an athletic young man in tee-shirt, gym pants and shoes, a clipboard in one fist and a serious look on his face. He was standing next to a single chinning bar.

Leonard, a writer in town to make a speech, paused.

"Babcock" shouted the clipboard man. Babcock, the class fat boy, walked clumsily to the chinning bar. Everyone knew what was coming. "I can't," he said.

"You can try," said clipboard.

There was no way Babcock's chin was going to reach that bar. He gripped the bar and no more and then returned to his place with head bowed. Leonard felt that his classmates had shared the fat boy's shame.

That incident, as much as any other, inspired the Esalen Sports Center. The latter launched itself here two weekends ago with a two-day symposium attended by 400 physical education teachers, coaches, athletes and just plain interested people.

The response to the symposium was so enthusiastic that Esalen Institute announced here this week it would run a summer sports institute at Dominican College in nearby San Rafael, Calif., July 15–28. The purpose? To explore new trends in sports, games and physical education.

Such is the clout generated by Esalen that the occasion may be to a change in sports what the storming of the Bastille was to the French Revolution.

Leonard returned from the Virginia village to Esalen Institute at Big Sur, Calif., where he was a member of the staff of that center for the study of humanities. Talk came easy.

Michael Murphy, the co-founder of Esalen and an intense golfer, had been having long dialogues with his new friend, John Brodie, the 49ers' quarterback and also a golfer.

Dave Meggyesy, the former St. Louis linebacker who rapped pro football in his book, "Out of Their League," had found his way onto the Esalen staff. There were others around like Bob Kriegel, a former ski instructor and basketball coach.

"It seemed like a natural thing to do, to get into sports," said Murphy.

It is not the intention of the Esalen Sports Center to attack the sports establishment on scholastic, collegiate or professional levels, although a few sneaky blows may be delivered from the side.

It is the contention of Murphy, Leonard and other heavyweights that our society cries for a broadening perspective of athletics and physical education. Murphy, the author of a book called "Golf in the Kingdom," is even bold enough to suggest that sports can become a way towards self-development, that "they can even serve as a powerful metaphor for man's spiritual quest."

At the sports symposium two weekends ago the quests were for a better forehand at the yoga tennis clinic conducted by Tim Gallwey; a grasp of the Eastern disciplines of tai chi and aikido as explained by Al Huang and Bob Nadeau; an appreciation of Stewart Brand's new games, 'slaughter' and 'boffing' or Leonard's version of frisbee, and a comprehension of Judith Aston's structural patterning—why we walk the way we do.

Feldenkrais exercises and the concept of rolfing were also a part of the menu of 27 different selections as those in attendance moved from one 90-minute session to another over two long days at Skyline College in nearby San Bruno.

Feldenkrais and rolfing? Not many know what they are, but more will. Feldenkrais deals with neurological body responses, while rolfing is a type of deep massage designed to free mental blocks in parts of the body where muscles are tight.

"What I liked," said Kriegel, the co-director with Meggyesy of the sports center, "was the approval and understanding we got from such a broad cross section of people there. To me there was a universal understanding of what we are trying to say—that the body and the mind are so closely related. We have to use them both together. Esalen has been saying that for years, but sports may be the best approach."

Leonard, in his opening remarks, provided fervent rhetoric about change in the land over the uses and importance of sport. Jack Scott, the new athletic director at Oberlin College in Ohio, who has departed from tradition, centered on how to bring ideas into institutions, especially with regard to women and blacks.

Other participants included Brodie; Bill Toomey, the Olympic decathalon star; Susy Chaffee, the national women's free-style skiing champion; Chip Oliver, another pro football dropout; Marilyn King, an Olympic pentathlon competitor; Gary Powers, a world class hurdler and Abigail Hoffman and Gerry Morro, Canadian Olympians in track.

After the summer institute, Kriegel hopes to put the Esalen Sports Center on the road with similar weekend sessions in all parts of the country. "We seem to be saying something about sports," he said, "that a lot of people want to hear."

NEWS

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in education, religion, philosophy and the physical and behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Our activities consist of seminars and workshops, residential programs, consulting and research.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some persons, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.

ESALEN CENTER: WORK–IN–PROGRESS

As of press time the Esalen Survey of Work-in-Progress in Perception, Consciousness and Being is nearing completion. A fundraising campaign is underway for the establishment of a Center for Theoretical Studies, which may constitute the theoretical wing of Esalen Institute.

MID-ATLANTIC CONFERENCE

Sponsored by the University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland, this marks the first time that Esalen group leaders, theoreticians and researchers have come together to present a program in the Mid-Atlantic states. The leaders include: William Schutz, Janet Lederman, James Fadiman, Bob Kriegel, Marilyn Kriegel, Al Huang, Betty Fuller, Bernard Gunther. The Conference will be held at the University of Maryland Center for Adult Education, November 16, 17 and 18. For more information write Mike Stephens, Conference Coordinator, Center for Adult Education, University of Maryland, College Park, Md. 29742, or call (303) 454-5241.

ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS CONFERENCE

(This article is reprinted from SCIENCE, March 9, 1973, Vol. 179, No. 4077. It was written by Constance Holder.)

Exploration of the hidden and uncharted portions of the mind is no longer the sole domain of religious mystics, dreamers, LSD trippers or schizophrenics.

In one of the first scientific symposia of its kind, a group of brain researchers, chemists, pharmacologists, psychologists, and biofeedback and dream researchers recently got together to discuss altered states of consciousness – the kind of brain phenomena which hitherto have been largely ignored by Western science.

The meeting was engineered by the Smithsonian Institution and the Drug Abuse Council, a private foundation-supported organization that promotes research and education in drug abuse. One of its purposes was to discuss how some drugs can be more healthily integrated into society; by "socializing" the use of certain drugs, such as marijuana, some people think standards could be set for their use and destructive use of drugs could be curbed.

Another and more radical idea that is being discussed these days is the possibility that people can be taught to achieve mental highs without the use of drugs. This is already happening in some circles where people have abandoned hallucinogens in favor of various types of meditation.

The massive experimentation with mindaltering drugs during the 1960's has expanded awareness of what is possible in the "normal" brain. As Julian Silverman, director of California's Esalen Institute, said: " . . . spontaneous hallucinations in normal individuals were regarded as psychiatric problems." Now mind researchers are discovering that a large number of individuals with healthy, nondrugged minds have occasional "extraordinary" perceptions that were rarely recorded because such perceptions have been regarded as deviant.

The type of mind research described at the symposium is opening up new ways, free of value judgments, for defining different states of consciousness. Pejorative terms such as "schizoid", "regressive," or "primary process" thinking are being replaced by terms which treat this thinking as altered ways of perceiving reality.

What goes on within the brain to produce these phenomena? One appealing theory was offered by Roland Fischer, a Johns Hopkins pharmacologist, who talked about the "cartography of inner space." Fischer says that most behavior is governed by the left hemisphere of the brain—essentially the rational, linear-thinking, verbally oriented half, and that this hemisphere is cultivated by experience and education at the expense of the right hemisphere which is the seat of the creative, visual and artistic impulses that govern a different—subjective, nontemporal—consciousness. Fischer says the reasons that most children's artistic impulses start disappearing around the age of 9 is because they are "brainwashed" from the age of 6 onward to use their left hemispheres. Eastern mystics have learned how to shift consciousness to a nonverbal, nonlinear state, not necessarily responsive to external reality, the consciousness of dreams and hallucinations—located, Fischer would say, in the right hemisphere. In Western culture the "normal" brain is not expected to have this capacity. Another experience that scientists are now acknowledging as normal is the "flashback", where a scene registered by the everyday consciousness triggers a usually inhibited association. A temporary switch of consciousness occurs so that the internal image becomes momentary reality.

NEWS

These revelations paved the way for some mindbending tales by Jean Houston, director of the Foundation for Mind Research in Pomona, N. Y. Houston began by theorizing that current fascination with altered mind states and nonrational cults is correlated with the breakdown of social institutions. "The psychological energy that was bonded to these structures tends to go inward," she said. Furthermore, the emotionalism, fantasy and primitivism evidenced by renewed interest in magic, yoga, and the like represent an attempt to "remythologize the reality that has become so demythologized outside" by the "sacramentalization of science."

So, what with all this "rising of the depths," the time has come to mobilize and use capacities that have never been systematically explored.

Houston went on to describe experiments—none involving drugs—whose object is to "break through the surface crust of consciousness" or "cultural trance." To do this, subjects at the Pomona Foundation are put into trances through a variety of time-honored means such as hypnosis, drumming, dancing and yoga. One method is to put a person in a sort of swing with goggles over his eyes so that he is deprived of his usual sensory reference points. Another way is to use bizarre combinations of sounds and lights to create a sensory overload. Whatever the means, the purpose is to overwhelm the normal consciousness so that it goes into a reduction response, another functional state takes over to supply its own reference points and images. In this altered state, the subject goes through a variety of experiences, such as regression, fantasy, image-making and hallucinations, which are susceptible to guidance both by the experimenter and the subject.

One of the purposes of such experiments is to help the subject unleash creative energies that are normally blocked. An author, for example, who was unable to write the last chapter of a novel, was put into a trance and instructed to watch and listen to the characters in his book as they finished the story. He did this successfully, and after three more trances, where he put his characters through three different final chapters, he rushed home, unblocked, to finish his book.

These trances were of very short duration because of what Houston called "subjective time"—the same that pertains with dreams. "Most thinking tends to adhere to the movements of the body. In high-level creativity the mind can do weeks of work in a short time." In Houston's lab a pianist worked out an interpretation of a Bach toccata, condensing 8 hours of practice time into 10 minutes; and a songwriter imagined in her trance that she walked down a street into a cabaret, ordered a sandwich and a beer, listened to a singer render three songs—all in 2 minutes. After the trance she was able to sing the songs, all original, complete with lyrics.

The experiments get close to why great musicians have been able to sit down and have their music virtually pour out of them. This is common with creative geniuses. Houston said that Albert Einstein claimed he thought not only with words but visually and with his muscles, an indication that somehow an "other" state of consciousness was making direct inputs into his rational thinking.

Trance states are used for many other purposes. An 8-year old girl who suffered from dreams about monsters was instructed to approach and befriend them in her trance. She did so. While this didn't clear up all her problems, it

LONG-TERM PROGRAMS

ESALEN COLLEGE PROGRAM

For the past year approximately 20 students currently enrolled in Antioch/West and Goddard Colleges were also accepted by Esalen to study here and receive credit from their respective colleges. Esalen is now expanding its college program to involve those students currently enrolled in any college or university in the U.S. or abroad who would like to spend a semester or longer at Esalen. Students are encouraged to investigate the possibility of academic credit at their schools for the program of study done at Esalen. The Esalen staff will assist students in documenting their work here.

The Esalen College Program is designed to include: advisor-tutors, who meet with students individually, recommend and discuss readings, and coordinate the students' overall program, which the student creates from the total catalog program offering; twice-a-month group meetings of the Esalen students and their advisors; and courses or workshops specifically for students in the program. We expect that most students will proceed from a broad exposure to concentrated study in one area. Students and teachers interested in designing programs with Esalen should write: Arthur Fox, College Program, c/o Esalen/San Francisco.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE/WEST UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAM AT ESALEN

Advanced undergraduate students (anyone who has completed some undergraduate work at any college or university) may enroll at Antioch College/West in San Francisco and work for their B.A. degree at Esalen. Course work is accredited through Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio; the B.A. degree is from Antioch College/West and the Union for Experimenting Colleges and Universities.

Students develop their own educational programs incorporating regularly scheduled Esalen workshops and courses and individual work created in conjunction with the Esalen staff. Esalen leaders and staff act as faculty and counselors for students in the program.

Tuition for an academic year (generally nine months) is $2700; students may begin their programs at any time. Financial aid is available. This program also qualifies for Veterans and Social Security benefits.

Inquiries for admission should be directed to: Ms. Cristy Willer, Antioch College/West, 149 Ninth Street, San Francisco, CA 94103. Information about program content and design should be addressed to: Arthur Fox, College Program, c/o Esalen/San Francisco.

INTRODUCTORY EVENINGS FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS

MONDAYS DURING OCTOBER

A series of experiential evenings to introduce some of the work being explored at Esalen. Designed especially for college students, there will be time at each event to ask questions both about the work and about Esalen's College Studies Program.

Each Monday evening will cost $1 and will take place at the First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco, 8–10:30 p.m.

Extended Growth Program
George Downing

Six month program $550

The Extended Growth Program is an in-depth, continuing six-month program in the San Francisco Bay Area; it combines a selected schedule of workshops with ongoing small group work under the direction of the program coordinator, George Downing. As a non-resident program in an urban area, it provides a way for persons to experience directed and focused work in several disciplines while living and working in their own environment.

George Downing writes: "This year's program will provide an opportunity to explore and to integrate a number of different pathways toward personal growth. Our focus will be on the body as the source and center of our being; and on our individual styles of making contact, both with ourselves and with other persons. We will make extensive use of gestalt, meditation and dream journals, and a variety of methods of working intensively with the body, including breath awareness, Feldenkrais techniques, movement, Esalen massage, polarity therapy and others. An intellectual as well as an emotional understanding of our shared experience will be encouraged."

The program consists of the following, all in the San Francisco area: continuous group work with George Downing during the six-month period, specifically one evening meeting per week; two weekend workshops with George Downing (November 3–4 and May 4–5); one special weekend workshop for program members only with Stanley Keleman; and three weekend programs to be selected by participants according to individual interest from regularly scheduled Esalen/San Francisco workshops during the November through April period. A month will be taken off for Christmas vacation from mid-December to mid-January.

Limited to 16 persons, selection will be made by interview with George Downing between October 15 and November 1. If you are interested in applying, send a letter briefly telling us about yourself. We will contact you after October 15 about an interview.

You Don't Have to Suffer to Feel Good
Harry Sloan
Single evening event

$2 general, $1 student; 8–10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Frequently participants come to workshops believing the only way to get in touch with themselves is through pain, anguish and earth-shaking breakthroughs. Growing becomes humorless and heavy and so does life. This evening will tap into the absurdity of conflicts and problems, offering the participants an opportunity to laugh at themselves and the seemingly tragic fates they have chosen.

September 15–16
Health Farm Chapel & New Age Body Shop
Betty Fuller
Weekend workshop $55

A synthesis of massage, meditation and movement creating a weekend of experimental learning and dynamic relaxation. The three M's will be practiced as separate disciplines and, to balance this largely non-verbal experience, there will be some group sessions devoted to words, music and dancing.

September 15–16
When Your Marriage Dies You Can Have New Life: A Workshop for the Divorced
Robert Cromey
Weekend workshop $50

Through the pain of separation and divorce can come an awareness of new life. Dealing with the anger, hurt and sadness of divorce can be a way to joy and happiness and peace. The life-positive tools of gestalt, encounter and sensory awareness will be used in this workshop to enhance personal change.

September 21–23
Celebrating Uniqueness
Lenore Lefer
Weekend workshop $50

By encouraging our non-judgmental and nourishing sides we will learn to accept, recognize and appreciate the uniqueness of ourselves and others. Using psychosynthesis techniques, gestalt awareness and soft-encounter, we will encourage the dimensions of our own uniqueness in an atmosphere that is supportive.

INTERPERSONAL

The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontations rather than away from them. The focus of encounter is to explore interpersonal relations. Over the past years encounter, as practiced at Esalen, has evolved into a broad approach incorporating several related disciplines to achieve its aims. Techniques and insights gained from gestalt, sensory awareness, bioenergetics, massage, movement and structural integration are all part of Esalen's encounter groups today.

New Ways of Meeting New People
Robert Cromey

Single evening event

$2 general, $1 student; 8–10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets; San Francisco.

Since many persons attend large group programs to meet other people, this evening's experience will focus explicitly on the acquaintance process. Using methods from encounter and gestalt awareness, group members will explore how they project themselves to others, how others perceive them and discover new ways of moving into friendships and social contact.

October 13–14

Exploration and Integration
Arthur & Janica Fox

Weekend workshop $50

Come and use a combination of the richness of encounter, gestalt, sensory awareness and massage. Use these to explore more of you, your potential, your awareness and your capacity for openness. We will also explore ways of retaining and integrating this richness so that you have access to it not just at Esalen, but also in your daily life.

October 5–7

The Workshop is You & Me, Work & Play, Joy & Sadness; The Title Is Unimportant
Bob, Marilyn & Otis Kriegel

Weekend workshop $50

This workshop is based on the premise that the process of change and growth can be facilitated by each individual increasing his available resources and options for being and interacting. Traditional encounter, gestalt, bioenergetic and psychosynthesis techniques will be used as well as games and massage to enable the participants to explore and extend the resources that exist within themselves.

October 7

Singles' Workshop
Lenore Lefer

One-day workshop $20

A workshop for unattached persons. Please state sex and age on application.

October 15–November 19

Invitations to Openness
Walt Anderson

Six Monday evenings $50

Basic propositions: (1) An increased capacity for personal openness and honesty makes life easier and a lot more interesting. (2) The need for privacy is to be respected. (3) Openness is best achieved in response to an invitation, not a demand. We will all explore our own boundaries of privacy/openness, and work with some techniques for being open—and inviting openness—in everyday life. 7:30–10:30 p.m.

October 20–21

To Your Emotions Through Massage
Robert Cromey

Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will provide the basic Esalen massage. In addition participants will have the opportunity to bring to the group feelings and emotions released in the massage.

October 20

Humor: A Sense of Letting Go
Harry Sloan

One-day workshop $20

Humor is a transpersonal transcendent quality frequently showering grace upon the most grim situation. Looking at what you find funny can help you appreciate and understand where you are NOW. Though there may be some tears along the way, looking at our laughter teaches us to find a liberating perspective, a "letting go" of self-imposed limits, with a pleasant bodily response. Bring anything that tickles you: a friend's uncle, an over-ripe banana, jokes, cartoons, personal incidents.

October 21

Open Psychodrama Encounter
Walt & Maurica Anderson

One-day workshop $20

We will use a wide variety of techniques for encountering everybody who's here this day, and psychodrama for encountering everybody who isn't.

October 26–28

Couples in Communication
Bill and Audrey McGaw

Weekend workshop $120 per couple

This workshop will provide an opportunity for couples to explore their relationship as a vital and personal way of life. The McGaws will concentrate on the positive aspects of partnership, increased understanding of self and mate, and deeper, more meaningful communication. Participating couples should expect to spend 20 to 25 hours in group sessions over the workshop period.

Childcare can be arranged during all weekends for San Francisco workshops. See page 46.

SAN FRANCISCO

ANNOUNCING A WOMEN'S STUDIES PROGRAM

This fall women at Esalen are beginning a Women's Studies Program in an attempt to include female consciousness in Esalen's long term programs. Until now this major state of consciousness has been omitted from most Esalen programs, from humanistic psychology in general, from the helping professions and from our socialization in Western culture.

Our aim is to include and make available the woman's point of view to workshop participants and to ourselves as group coordinators; to correct misconceptions by re-examining history, facts and theories; to acknowledge the role played by women in the cultural, political and economic development of the world's civilizations; and from this to develop new and particularly female growth tools and therapeutic forms.

Our point of departure is that not much is known about women; that the information available in the West has been compiled principally by men and/or by women trained in a male-dominated culture. This means starting from scratch, re-examining everything and gaining knowledge from other cultures (American Indians, Amazons, Etruscans, Spartans, etc.). There are no "experts", no "leaders". The program's main orientation is toward getting in touch with buried parts of ourselves and coming out, thereby trading information and skills.

Specific cross-cultural studies will include both the conscious and unconscious roles of women in the world as mirrored in dreams, myths, legends, folk customs, alchemy, religions and art.

Women's Studies Programs will explore the following categories:

Female Consciousness: menstruation, pregnancy, menopause, language, art, literature, feelings, body/mind;

Female Sexuality: masturbation, orgasm, lesbianism, bisexuality, heterosexuality, child sexuality, etc.;

Sex Roles and Relationships: comparative cross-cultural studies of women's roles, matriarchies and patriarchies – a comparison, biological and social determinants of sex differences, children's sex and social role development, body language, models;

Third World Women: Courses and workshops to be developed by a committee of Third World Women.

Courses, workshops and groups will range from pure theory courses to experiential workshops. They will be aimed at specific groups or at general groups (including men and children). There will be long range programs, shorter workshops and a guest lecture series.

LONG-TERM PROGRAM

September 22–December 16

Female Consciousness

Twelve week program
$0–$400 (sliding scale)

This first long-range Women's Studies Program will run for twelve weeks, beginning and ending with weekend workshops (Sept. 22–23 and Dec. 15–16). Female Consciousness is the area of study around which the program will develop. We will seek to integrate and synthesize all levels of our experience by exploring together gestalt, body awareness, breath energy, movement, massage, yoga, meditation, polarity therapy, health, self-help, music, dance, literature, art, films, women's herstory and whatever new evolves out of our own growth and our sharing.

Participants will be solicited and selected from applications to hopefully include a wide range in age and cultural background. The coordinators of the group will work as a collective, and all decisions concerning the group as a whole will be made collectively. The program is limited to 24 women.

There will be three evening meetings and one day-long workshop every four weeks. There will also be special workshops with guest participants. Childcare will be provided throughout the program.

Payment will be on a sliding scale of fees ranging from $0 to $400, with tuition based on each woman's ability to pay. Selection and determination of individual fees will be done by interview with the coordinators during the two weeks before the start of the program. If you are interested in the program send a brief letter telling about yourself to: Women's Studies Program, Esalen Institute, 1793 Union Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94123.

Margot Edwards & Helen Price

Two-weekend workshop
$50 per person
$70 for two persons

A workshop for anyone interested in joyful childbirth. (Anyone includes everyone, male/female and/or her/his friend, acquaintance, lover, partner.) The workshop will explore feelings and physical changes associated with all trimesters of pregnancy, including the first three months after birth. Although focus will be on the vital processes of birth, the learning extends into total life, allowing an integration of the childbirth experience. Labor and birth is perceived from the natural body perspective with the realities of labor, complications, and individual fears considered. The approach is eclectic and includes Reid, Lamaze, Hazell, and Kitzinger within the framework of gestalt, transactional analysis and sensory awareness. Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., each weekend. Lunches to be provided. Scholarships available.

Two one-day workshops $0–$35 (sliding scale)

We will examine present sex role stereotyping from birth through elementary school years. From a multi-racial perspective, we will consider the effects of parent attitudes and behavior, the role of schools, and the influence of media. There will be discussion of alternative practices and a presentation of materials (books, puzzles, toys) to use with kids. The workshop is designed for women interested in helping children establish a sense of identity and purpose regardless of their sex. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., each Saturday.

October 27
Massage for Women
Mari Krieger

One-day workshop $0–$20 (sliding scale)

We will learn to do massage as a relaxing, sensory experience as well as work on the relaxing of knots and other muscular tension.

Childcare can be arranged during all weekends for San Francisco workshops. See page 46.

SAN FRANCISCO

September 1–2
Gestalt & Gurdjieff
Joe Camhi
Weekend workshop $50

Energy is wasted in many forms of escape from who we are as well as in lack of understanding of how to conserve, build up and direct these energies. Gestalt techniques and elementary concepts and exercises of Gurdjieff will be used to explore these issues.

September 8–9
Gestalt Awareness Training Workshop
Sid Gershenson & Joan Sullivan
Weekend workshop $50

Awareness can be experienced and taught to each other. Our focus will be on yours and on our process. The content of the workshop will flow from our experiences together. Consultation and supervision will be available to those interested in working with others in the workshop.

September 15–16
Gestalt and Human Liberation
Frank Rubenfeld & Mari Krieger
Weekend workshop $50

Being human is being both tough and tender; intuitive and intellective; assertive and receptive. Conforming to societally approved sex-typed behavior we limit our human potential. Gestalt techniques and exercises will aid in heightening our awareness of how we are our own limiters and expanders.

September 28–29
What Do You Want?
John & Sandy Enright
Weekend workshop $50

The lengths we go to avoid simply knowing from moment to moment what we want are almost unbelievable. If you have trouble making meaning of this statement, look closely at a few segments of your own life and see if you freely and fully acknowledge even to yourself, let alone others, what you want. In this workshop we will weave exercises from a variety of sources together to look closely at this central but elusive fact, "What do I want?" Friday evening 8–11 p.m. Saturday 10 a.m. to 11 p.m.

October 6–7
Experiencing Wholeness
Seymour Carter
Weekend workshop $50

This workshop will emphasize gestalt methods for contacting ourselves as a self-regulating organism. The practice of integrating our senses, emotions and thought into a perceptual whole releases energy for a more connected experience of living and being. The work will be devoted to releasing excess efforts and tensions and awakening dormant functioning so that the participants may experience greater physical and emotional freedom.

Monday, October 8
Introduction to Gestalt: An Evening for College Students
Lauree Moss & Walter Barney
Single evening event

$1 for students; 8–10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

Part of a Monday evening series for students interested in the Esalen College Studies Program. See page 6 for more information.

October 13
Gestalt and Your Body
Anne Kent Rush & Lauree Ellen Moss
One-day workshop $20

We will explore the relationship of our individual verbal statements to our characteristic body expressions by combining gestalt and various body therapy techniques (including breath awareness, Reichian release techniques, polarity and massage).

GESTALT

Gestalt Awareness Training is a theory and approach to personality integration first developed by Fritz and Laura Perls, though new styles and methods are being developed by other leaders. The goal of the training is to assist the participants to utilize excitement and awareness and to develop responsibility.

Excitement — to have life energy freely available and flowing, not blocked. Awareness — to be conscious of my energy as and where it flows; to have action accessible to consciousness, not happening mechanically. Responsibility — to know and act on the principle that I am the one who acts, thinks and feels whatever it may be that I act, think or feel. No one else or no event influences me except with my consent.

At times, everyone in the workshop may work simultaneously with some awareness exercise, or in interaction with each other. More traditionally, a fair amount of time will be spent with participants working individually with the leader. The starting point for such individual work is whatever is here and now of most involving concern for the organism; a fantasy or dream, an interaction with another person, a memory, or a physical posture. "Problems" are welcome as starting points, if they are truly present and not merely verbally presented. In keeping with the gestalt emphasis on personal responsibility, the leader usually leaves the initiative for such work with the participant. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients" but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

Theory & Practice of Aliveness
John Enright

Single evening events

$2 general per session; $1 student per session; 8–10:30 p.m., First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

A discussion of what it means to be aware or awake as opposed to automatic or asleep, including gestalt exercises to help stay in the state of awareness for longer periods. The two evenings will supplement and reinforce each other, but each is organized to be meaningful and complete by itself.

October 27–28

"Help! I'm Trapped in a Human Body" ©
Frank Rubenfeld

Weekend workshop $50

We will use gestalt to explore the existential angst of being human. More mundane concerns such as unfinished business, inveterate top-dogging, and being in the now and in your body will also be part of this weekend's activity.

Releasing People-Helping From the Money Economy
John Enright and a Panel of Discussants from the Good Neighbor Project

Single evening event

FREE; 8–10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

A discussion of several models of "people helping" that may avoid the expense and defects of professionalism. Participants in an ongoing alternative model will discuss their experiences and plans for the development of a free counseling center.

September 16

Unorthodox Medicine
David Sobel

One-day seminar $20

A discussion of unorthodox medical approaches with an emphasis on positive health, preventive medicine and the medicine of the whole person. Areas to be drawn from include: primitive, ancient and Hippocratic medicine, Chinese medicine and acupuncture, yogic therapy, American Indian medicine, nutritional therapy, chiropractics, structural integration, relaxation therapy, and biofeedback training.

September 26-28; October 5-6

Jewish High Holy Day Services: Ritual & Celebration
Rabbi-Hassid Zalman M. Schachter

Rosh Hashana & Yom Kippur Services $65

Zalman Schachter writes: "Through meditation, chanting, breathing, davvining and sacred dance, we will experience the High Holy Days as a ritual in depth and take stock of our inner lives. After honest self-judgement of the past year, a new page in the Book of Life can be written. The wordless sound of the Shofar will accompany our voices from within. The chant of reconciliation, the Kol Nidrey, will mark the release from all commitments, rendering them accessible for re-evaluation. The fast from food and conversation will permit entrance into the innermost sanctuary, and there the most High will be named during the experience of at-one-ment. We will break the fast after Yom Kippur with a love feast."

Prayer manuals will be provided. Participants are urged to dress in white and to bring blankets, cushions, Prayer Shawls and Robes.

Sept. 26 – 3 p.m. to one hour after sunset
Sept. 27 – 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.; 5 p.m. to one hour after sunset;
Sept. 28 – 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS

Psychosynthesis is a psychological and educational approach for recognizing and harmonizing the many, often conflicting, elements of our inner lives. It is a developmental process based on a positive conception of man within an evolving universe. Starting with each person's existential situation as he perceives it, personal growth is organized into a process aiming at the integration of personality and the emergence of an effective unifying center of being and awareness, the Self.

The practical work of psychosynthesis chooses in each situation the appropriate progressive activities among many techniques and methods available. Some of these are: guided imagery, movement, self-identification, creativity, gestalt, meditation, training of the will, symbolic art work, journal-keeping, ideal models, and development of intuition. The emphasis is on fostering an ongoing process of growth that can gain momentum and bring about a more joyful, balanced actualization of one's life.

Esalen Institute Psychosynthesis Programs are offered in cooperation with the Psychosynthesis Institute, Redwood City, and are coordinated by its directors, Jim and Susan Vargiu.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS PROGRAMS

September 7–9

The Tailor Re-tailored
John and Heidi Firman

Weekend workshop $50

"Happy he who can look through the Clothes of a Man . . . into the Man himself; and discern . . . an inscrutable venerable Mystery." (Thomas Carlyle, Sartor Resartus). We all have been spending our lives sewing ourselves clothes to appear in different inner and outer situations. We will have the opportunity in this workshop to rediscover the tailor in us, who frequently gets lost in the clothing. Growth can be seen as a process of changing clothes, and the tailor's viewpoint can alter the process from compulsive drudgery into playful and purposeful art.

September 22

Introduction to Psychosynthesis
Tom Allen and Margaret Conway

One-day workshop $20

October 12–14

Reality
Steven Kull

Weekend workshop $50

Our lives are limited by what we know as reality. What happens if we let go of the limitations we impose on ourselves? What happens if we let go of our definition of the universe? In this workshop we will explore the reality we live in and look for ways to let go of its limitations so as to open ourselves to new ways of perceiving and being in the world.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS TRAINING

October 30–December 9

Psychosynthesis Professional Training Series
Jim and Susan Vargiu and Associates of the Psychosynthesis Institute

Six Tuesday evenings, a weekend, and individual sessions. $240

A program designed for psychotherapists, educators, counselors and others involved in the helping professions. The group will explore the fundamentals of psychosynthesis, theoretically and experientially, in a coordinated program designed to give each participant both the understanding and the personal experience needed to begin to utilize and apply psychosynthesis within his own field.

The program includes: self-discovery and self-realization–identification and harmonization of subpersonalities–balancing and synthesis of opposites–integration of body, feelings, and mind–development of desired qualities–guided daydream principles and practice–release and utilization of psychological energies–"ideal models"–a model of personality in terms of energy fields–the nature of creativity and of imagination–Height Psychology and the Transpersonal Self–bridging the superconscious: inspiration and ascent-symbols, and the development of intuition–the inner dialogue–reflective and receptive meditation: principles and practice–meditation as a tool for directing energy– optimum utilization of current major approaches to growth.

We will work together so that each can recognize the process of psychosynthesis at work, both in himself and in the others. There will be assignments and exercises to complete between meetings. In addition, each participant will have one private psychosynthesis session, and will have the opportunity to observe one or two sessions of other members of the group. Further individual work during the six weeks period can be arranged.

Six Tuesday evenings, October 30–December 4, and weekend workshop, December 8 and 9. For application form, contact Esalen/San Francisco.

Childcare can be arranged during all weekends for San Francisco workshops. See page 46.

AIKIDO is a Japanese art of self defense with the emphasis placed on centering, harmony and blending. It is presented as a physical manifestation of energy and spiritual Laws of the Universe.

THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE is a method of re-educating the body that can have dramatic effects on the whole person. By applying sensory awareness, inhibition and conscious choice to such everyday activities as sitting, standing, walking and bending, under conditions of continuous feedback from an instructor, we can experience the specific ways in which we interfere with the natural flow of our total pattern and learn to permit and encourage a response that will strengthen our innate tendency towards an integrated use of ourselves—allowing new alternatives of movement and being. Guided by the direct touch of the instructor's hands, the process involves a gentle reorganization of the body in movement and at rest.

BIOENERGETIC ANALYSIS attempts to understand the life of the body through its expression of vitality, gesture, emotion, feeling and relationship. The body is viewed as an energetic process that participates as the world in the world of instinctual, social, imaginative and creative realms. Bioenergetics seeks to develop an individual's range of expression by working through this energetic process.

MASSAGE at Esalen is seen and taught as a caring relationship between two people. Consideration is given first to the feelings and the sensory experience of both partners, and after that to technique. Workshops are attended by both couples and singles.

POLARITY THERAPY is an intensive pressure-point massage system similar in both theory and practice to Chinese acupuncture. Developed and synthesized by Dr. Randolph Stone from Oriental traditions many centuries old, its purpose is to realign posture and to release blocked energy throughout the body. Although advanced work in polarity therapy requires extensive training, a number of its more basic techniques are accessible to the interested layman.

By realigning the body structure, THE ROLF METHOD OF STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION attempts to release excessive tensions so that the person may experience greater physical and emotional freedom and balance. The assumption is that a person's body and set are a mirror of his emotional past as well as a result of physical trauma. Structural integration is a process of direct physical manipulation and deep massage; working with a trained practitioner, the process is usually completed within ten individual sessions.

SENSORY AWARENESS is Charlotte Selver's name for the work she studied with Elsa Gindler in Berlin and brought to the United States in 1938. Workshops in sensory awareness aim at a state of intellectual quiet in which each activity can be fully felt and allowed to find its natural way, free of inhibitions, techniques and images. When ideas are stilled, sense perceptions coming from the entire organism enable the person to function authentically, according to his nature, in all situations. Closely akin, in its pure form, to the practice of zen, Sensory Awareness brings the essential character of meditation to every aspect of daily living.

INDIVIDUAL STRUCTURAL PATTERNING APPOINTMENTS are available with Faith Hornbacher by appointment only. A course of private work consists of 6 supervised sessions. Each session is about 90 minutes long. Phone 771-1710 for an appointment.

TRAINING IN STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION is offered only through the Ida P. Rolf Foundation for Structural Integration and only upon completion of certain prerequisites. Information about training and research, as well as class announcements may be obtained by writing the Foundation, P.O. Box 1868, Boulder, Colo. 80302.

STRUCTURAL PATTERNING IN STILLNESS AND MOTION, a system designed to achieve structural balance and movement efficiency, works by reinforcing the body in its relationship to the pull of gravity. It directs itself toward providing for change through movement, rather than attempting to achieve idealized static postures. Work sessions are arranged in sequences, and basic movements are gradually integrated into more complex action. The patterns themselves are slow, sometimes subtle, and are done to produce change through awareness.

T'AI CHI CHUAN is an ancient Chinese exercise discipline practiced for health, meditaiton, energy flow and self-defense. The slow, flowing movements of this "shadow boxing" comprise the oldest and "softest" of the Asian martial arts. Developed from the Chinese practice of nei kung, or inner exercise, it is part of the system of Taoist yoga. The term t'ai chi can be translated as "grand ultimate" and is expressed by the familiar symbol of yang and yin. It is thus rooted in the Chinese philosophy of change as expressed in the I Ching.

September 19–December 13
Massage Training
Gunver Jackson
Twelve week class $260

Participants will receive instruction in massage techniques and will work to develop receptivity to touch, both giving and receiving. Relaxation, breathing and gestalt awareness exercises will be used to supplement thorough massage training. Gunver Jackson writes: "The goal here is to teach that life is an act, not a thought. Action in life and our basic need for touch will be combined in the teaching of massage."

The course consists of twelve four-hour classes in massage scheduled for two separate groups. There are also ten classes in human anatomy, taught by Ed Jackson, M.D. The anatomy course is limited to 25 participants and is also open to the general public. Classes will not meet during Thanksgiving week.

Massage Group I: 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., twelve Wednesday mornings, September 19–December 12; limited to ten participants.

Massage Group II: 7 to 11 p.m., twelve Thursday evenings, September 20–December 13; limited to ten participants.

Educating Your Dreams to Work for You
Clara Stewart Flagg & Allen Flagg
Weekend workshop $50

The techniques of dream education used in this workshop come from the cross-cultural research of Dr. Kilton Stewart, the first psychologist to study the Senoi of Malava. The Senoi believe that dreams are psychological forces that the dreamer can learn to control through a process of dream education. The dream directives help toward control of the dream mind and its integration with the conscious mind for increased creativity and psychological maturity. The program includes Senoi dream music recordings, slides of Senoi life, including dream dances and printed materials.

This workshop will combine the approaches of hypnosis and psychosynthesis. Hypnosis and self-hypnosis will be taught so that participants can focus in on themselves through hypnotically induced dreams, automatic writing and drawings. These self-discoveries will be extended through guided fantasies, symbolic imagery and learning how to tune into the "inner theater" of one's unconscious.

September 29–30
Universal Centering
Robert Nadeau
Weekend workshop $50

Center is the state you reach in those special moments when you transcend your norm and function beautifully. Awareness of Energy is the key to that happening. Meditation is experiencing the clarity of that Energy as a Universal Law and a state of Being.

October 20–21
Dream Improvisation
John Parkinson and Nina Winter
Weekend workshop $35

Materials will be drawn exclusively from the dream lives of workshop participants. We will use improvisation, movement and other techniques to open these messages from our inner lives. We will explore, share, re-enact our dreams as a means of coming into touch with deeper layers of ourselves.

TRANSPERSONAL

Transpersonal generally refers to transcendence, mystical experience, peak experience and parapsychological phenomena. The following programs will explore the physical and psychological aspects of such experience.

September 14–16
Transpersonal Growth
Geir V. Vilhjalmsson
Weekend workshop $50

This workshop is focused on new and on ancient ways for exploring the farther reaches of human nature. Participants will experience: Tibetan Buddhist meditation techniques, chanting, visualization, the use of mandalas for expansion of consciousness and music that facilitates peak experiences.

Monday, September 24
Psychotherapy as a Spiritual Discipline
Arthur Deikman
Single evening event

$2 general, $1 student; 8–10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco

Psychotherapy as a philosophy, as a relationship, and as a technical procedure will be compared to aspects of classical, spiritual disciplines and shown to be congruent with them. Examples will be drawn from zen, sufi, hasidic and yogic literatures. The limitations of psychotherapy as a spiritual path will also be discussed.

October 26–28
The Breath and the Dream
Magda Proskauer
Residential weekend workshop $75 including room and meals

A workshop to explore the relationship between body and psyche in the process of consciousness.

October 27–28
Introduction to Energy Awareness
Betsy Hill & Harvey Moskowitz
Weekend workshop $50

We are both physical and energy beings. This will be a weekend of experiencing ourselves as energy beings.

Childcare can be arranged during all weekends for San Francisco workshops. See page 46.

SAN FRANCISCO

Thursday, September 6

Introduction to the Esalen Sports Center
Bob Kriegel, Dave Meggyesy & Sports Center Staff

Single evening event

$2 general, $1 student; 8–10:30 p.m.; First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

September 8–9

A Reunion With the Sea
Ron Clark

Weekend workshop in La Jolla $65

Water has long provided us with a profound metaphor and dream symbol for our emergent bodily states—for our formative processes. Actual experience in the water can provide us with a unique growth-exploration process—a process through which we can, to some degree, experience formative processes and a direction for ourselves to become more fully functioning organisms; more at one with our bodies. In this workshop you will work in a pool and in the ocean. Through group process, bioenergetics, gestalt awareness and meditative techniques we will attempt contact, expression, integration, and sharing of experiences and internal states. Fee includes room but not meals.

September 9–15

The Joy Of The Mountains
Kurt Wehbring

Seven day workshop $180

"Climb the mountains and get their good tidings. Nature's peace will flow into you as sunshine flows into trees." (John Muir)

Mountaineering as a fulfilling, joyful and intense personal experience developing trust and openness with others in the climbing group. Instruction in rock climbing and mountaineering such as rope handling, belaying, rapelling, free climbing, route finding, placing protection will be combined with sensory awareness and positive group encounter. Organization meeting in San Francisco followed by a week in the High Sierras. Meals, specialized mountaineering equipment, and tents will be provided. Details and personal equipment list will be provided on application.

September 15–16

Tennis Flow
Dyveke Spino

Weekend workshop $40

This workshop will integrate principles of body awareness, movement, dance, music and meditation with traditional methods of tennis instruction and practice, to master flowing tennis strokes. The workshop is designed for beginners as well as advanced students of the game. Bring your racquet and a can of tennis balls. Limited to 20 people.

September 17–20; 24–27

Jogging, Conditioning and Creativity
Mike Spino

Eight evenings $20

Cardio-vascular exercise is the base upon which all athletic activities are performed. Without stamina, developed when the body increases its ability to utilize oxygen, sports, games and recreational leisure cannot be performed to capacity. Jogging and running are most effective means of cardio-vascular conditioning. Information about environment, equipment, nutrition, visualization and sensory stimulation techniques, assimilation of yoga and Eastern meditations will be discussed and practiced. Every participant will receive a suggested training plan based on a scale of their potential improvements. Combined with this physical orientation there will be focus on creative work evolving out of the running experience. 5:30–7 p.m., Monday through Thursday each week.

September 18–October 23

Women in Motion
Dyveke Spino & Lillie Leonard

Six Tuesday evenings $30

These seminars are to initiate an interchange of ideas and practices involved in exploring personal growth through physical movement and sports. Each session will include lecture demonstrations, experiential work and discussion so that all may share in the development of a new concept of body awareness through relevant athletic programs for women. These sessions will culminate in a two-day women's Symposium in mid November. A snack dinner will be provided. 7:30–10 p.m. (Co-sponsored by the Esalen Sports Center and Women's Studies Program. Scholarships available.)

September 22–23

Inner Game of Tennis
Tim Gallwey

Weekend workshop in Los Angeles area $40

What flying was to Jonathan Livingston Seagull, tennis can be for contemporary man—a Western Yoga. This workshop explores several practical methods to accelerate the learning process and to achieve the state of relaxed concentration necessary for spontaneous, excellent performance. Appropriate for beginners to advanced players. Limited enrollment.

A Day on Mount Tamalpais
Lillie and George Leonard

One-day excursion $10

For five years Lillie and George Leonard have been exploring the 200 miles of trails on and around Mount Tamalpais—in their mystical as well as physical dimensions. During a day-long mountain excursion, they will share their hiking lore, which includes modes of centering, blending and energy awareness derived from aikido. Participants should bring light lunches, and meet at the Mountain Home Inn parking lot. 10 a.m.–5 p.m.

For Reservation Information, see page 46. For Biographical Information, see pp. 38-42

October 18–November 15

Pre-Season Ski Workshop
Dyveke Spino, Judith Aston, Bob Kriegel and Mike Spino

Five Thursday evenings $25

There's more to skiing than just getting down the slope. These workshops will explore other important aspects necessary for the safe enjoyment of the skiing experience, such as: new learning techniques based on body awareness, movement, balance, rhythm, visualization and centering, latest technical equipment, reading the mountain, understanding the snow conditions, and ski touring. An extra session will be devoted to introducing children to skiing. The series will culminate in a weekend ski trip to Squaw Valley (Cost not included). Details will be worked out at a later date. Five Thursday evenings, 7:30–10 p.m.

October 20–21

Aikido and Creativity in Sport
Bob Nadeau

Weekend workshop $40

Through the physical art of aikido we will work with a psychological and philosophical approach to movement. We will learn how to observe attitudes in motion and how to make corrections and improvements on those attitudes leading to a more complete mind/body unity.

October 26–28

Sensory Awareness in Sports
Seymour Carter

Weekend workshop $40

This workshop will aim for a state of intellectual quiet in which each movement can be fully felt and allowed to find its natural way, free of inhibitions, techniques and images. When the mind is stilled, sense perceptions coming from the entire organism enable each person to function authentically according to their nature in all situations.

November 24–December 2

Nine Days in the Bahamas–A Reunion With the Sea
Ron Clark, Willy Myers, Bob Kriegel

Nine-day workshop $585

The sea has long provided us with a profound metaphor and dream symbol. It offers many unique opportunities to develop mind/body unity in a different gravity situation, and to explore our new/old environment, psychologically, physically and sensually.

This workshop on a secluded island in the Exumas, Bahamas, will focus on points of integration between land and sea experiences. Traditional growth techniques will be integrated with scuba diving, spear fishing, snorkeling, sailing, deep sea fishing, water skiing, tennis, and blending with the sun, sea, air and earth. All equipment including room and board will be supplied. The round trip fare from Miami to Georgetown, Exumas, Bahamas is approximately $65. Deadline for reservations is October 1.

October 6

New Games
Stewart Brand and George Leonard

One-day workshop $15

Anthropologists have noted that sports and games reflect a culture's basic values. At this time of cultural transformation, it is reasonable to look for the emergence of new forms of play. For several years Stewart Brand and George Leonard have been involved in the invention of games and sports. They will invite participants to engage in these innovative activities. Participants hopefully will help invent additional sports and games during the workshop. 10 a.m.–5 p.m.

The Sports Center is publishing a bimonthly newsletter which is devoted to developing an interchange of new concepts, practices and information in sports, physical education and recreation. If you would like a copy, just drop us a note, c/o Esalen/San Francisco. Sports Center representatives are also available to give talks, lecture-demonstrations, workshops and clinics, and to design courses for schools.

Childcare can be arranged during all weekends for San Francisco workshops. See page 46.

BIG SUR

THE WEEKEND OF AUGUST 31 – SEPTEMBER 2

What's Available
George & Judith Brown

An experiential weekend workshop to help participants get more in touch with what's inside (the self, personal and transpersonal) and outside (one's living and working environment, including others). Focus will be on individual growth in a group setting. Suitable for couples as well. Limited to 20 persons. $100.

Workshop for Potential Psychics
Robert Nadeau & Ron Jones

A workshop for those who think they might be sensitive or psychic and wish to explore, understand and be more comfortable with it. There will be discussion, awareness practices to clarify your ability, and techniques to be at ease with it. $100.

Intensive Breath Workshop
George Downing

The breath is a microcosm of the personality. Learning to find and unlock the breath can lead to more richness and certainty of emotion, increased energy, realignment of physical posture and a deeper grasp of one's personal rhythm of existence. We will both verbally and nonverbally explore these possibilities using gestalt and a number of different methods of working intensively with the breath. $90.

THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 2-7

A Tender Invitation
Harry Sloan

You are invited to go beyond where you are through seeing how you keep yourself behind. Beyond is a rich, alive experience – love, anger, joy, sadness and spirituality. Behind is a fear of seeing what is there. Participants will be offered a chance, a tender invitation, to see what is behind and go beyond. Traditional encounter, gestalt, bioenergetic and psychosynthesis techniques will be utilized, in addition to a new approach aimed at developing perspective, the ability to "see oneself beyond the impasse." $220

Massage Workshop
Peggy Morrison & Richard Horan

Esalen massage for singles and couples. $250

Experiencing Wholeness
Seymour Carter

This workshop will emphasize gestalt methods for contacting ourselves as self-regulating organisms. The practice of integrating our senses, emotions and thought into a perceptual whole releases energy for a more connected experience of living and being. The work will be devoted to releasing excess efforts and tensions and awakening dormant functioning so that the participants may experience greater physical and emotional freedom. $220

Education in Feeling & Purpose: A Neo-Reichian Bioenergetic Week
Charles Kelley, Laura Dillon & Rita Carmen

Powerful non-verbal techniques derived from Wilhelm Reich open deep involuntary expressions of pain, fear, rage and grief that have been blocked by the muscular armor. By working through these, participants can discover a new capacity for pleasure, for trust, love and joy. The freeing of feeling is then used to lead into a re-evaluation of the style and objectives of one's life. $280

THE WEEKEND OF SEPTEMBER 7-9

One Plus One
Bob & Marilyn Kriegel

A workshop for couples. $90

Improvisational Gestalt
Jack Downing & Lyn Davis

Improvising together, we will create and explore our laughter, sadness and rage. Our synthesis of Perlsian gestalt, Esalen encounter and massage, joined with Arica consciousness expanding exercises works to dissolve your blocks to expression. $100

Accentuate the Positive
Lenore Lefer

Hidden within many of our traits, habits and hangups are positive, creative qualities wanting to emerge. In an atmosphere that is supportive and nourishing, we will explore and encourage that emergence. Gestalt, soft-encounter and psychosynthesis techniques will be used to accentuate the positive. $90

Psychosomatic Medicine, A.D. 2000
Karl Pribram

1. Definition – it isn't what it's supposed to be or the "no matter, never mind" approach to the mind-body problem.
2. Informaiton and Uncertainty – processing characteristics of the nervous system.
3. Reflex and Will – control characteristics of the nervous system.
4. Health – a problem of control?

From these building blocks it will be suggested – and evidence presented – that medical practice in the 21st century will be as different from current practice as current practice is different from that which characterized medicine in the preantibiotic period. The biological revolution continues – and what we call "medicine" becomes altered almost beyond recognition. $90

For Reservation Information, see page 46. For Biographical Information, see pp. 38-42

THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 9-14

Gestalt
Richard Price & Chris Stewart
$250

Body, Mind, Spirit
Michael Butler
Body, mind and spirit are one. We will explore encounter, gestalt, meditation, rolfing and aikido as paths to their common meeting place, the self. Limited to 12. $250

Everyday Mind
Judyth Weaver
We will acknowledge and encourage our own true natures through movement and meditation, through the form of tai chi chuan, massage, breathing, sitting, standing, walking, running, laughing, crying, being . . . living. $220

Beyond Encounter
Bob & Marilyn Kriegel
This workshop will combine encounter, gestalt and psychosynthesis techniques to achieve greater unity of mind, body and emotions. Some work and some play . . . a chance to experience each other in as wide a range as possible. $220

THE WEEKEND OF SEPTEMBER 14-16

Renascence
Michael Butler
Each of us carries within him, buried beneath layers of psychic tensions, the fertile seed of a new self. We will use many of the Esalen body-oriented and psychological techniques to allow ourselves to experience that seed center of self and nourish it. Limited to 12. $100

Psychodrama & Encounter
Walt & Maurica Anderson, Mary Moore
We will use a wide variety of techniques for encountering everybody who's here this weekend and psychodrama for encountering everybody who isn't. $90

Gestalt Plus
George & Judith Brown
A workshop for individuals and couples where the approaches of gestalt therapy are combined with techniques from psychosynthesis. The focus will be on reowning energy and discovering new and alternative ways to be as individuals and in primal relationships. Emphasis will also be placed on what to do after leaving the workshop. $100

Changing Times: Cultural Innovation as Viewed by Jungian Psychology
John Perry
In times of profound cultural reorientation, the archetypal psyche becomes activated in its innermost depths and gives rise through gifted visionaries to new forms that speak for the new psychic conditions. $90

THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 16-21

Process of Aliveness
Simone Surpin
This week we will focus on extending our experiential "knowing" of our energy process: how we contract and expand our energies within ourselves, with each other and with the harmonies of the universe. As tools we will use an integration of group process and body work with meditation, chanting and energy awareness exercises. $220

Universal Centering
Robert Nadeau
Center is the state you reach in those special moments when you transcend your norm and function beautifully. Awareness of energy is the key to that happening. Meditation is experiencing the clarity of that energy as a Universal Law and a state of being. $250

Experiencing Esalen
Esalen Staff
$220

Encounter & Massage
Harry Sloan
We will explore how we touch each other verbally and non-verbally . . . how to communicate what we are feeling and how to ask for what we want. $225

BIG SUR

THE WEEKEND OF SEPTEMBER 21-23

Dance as a Creative Experience For Everyone
Ann Halprin, Xavier Nash & Benito Santiago

"Tis to create, and in creating live a being more intense, that we endow with form our fancy, gaining as we give the life we image."

We will learn to move our bodies, inter-act as a group together in movement, and utilize our Big Sur setting to celebrate the ways we come together through movement and dance. $100

Being a Woman: Liberation From Within
Ann Yeomans & Ann Hubbell

In this workshop we will use the tools of psychosynthesis to identify and explore the inner blocks to true liberation. In so doing, we will work toward balancing and synthesizing our many selves, developing a center of consciousness and choice, and freeing and directing energy to act. We will seek ways to honor the strength and the wisdom of the women of the past as well as to make ourselves ready for the challenges and opportunities the present and future offer us. $90

Self-Hypnosis & Selective Awareness
Emmett Miller

Selective Awareness provides a set of techniques for objectively identifying and unlearning undesirable characteristics of the mind or body and rapidly learning desirable patterns. These techniques are applied in a specific state of mind (similar to but not equivalent to meditational and self-hypnotic states) which allows complete recall of information necessary to illuminate and understand reflexes underlying any previously learned patterns. $100

A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

My work is living and teaching a way of life which gradually develops the capacity to live in the here and now and to be all there for whatever life brings. Working with the traditional methods of meditation and aikido, and the contemporary methods of gestalt and sensory awareness, this workshop will introduce participants to a Western approach to centering. $90

THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 23-28

Health Farm Chapel & New Age Body Shop
Wm. S. Dub Leigh & Betty Fuller, props.

A synthesis of massage, meditation and movement, creating five days of experimental learning and dynamic relaxation. The 3 M's will be practiced daily as separate disciplines and integrated into the total environment. To balance this largely non-verbal experience, at least one group session each day will be devoted to words, music and dancing. $280

Work, Worship & Wisdom
Deborah Medow & Lynne Johnson

We will share with you what helps make our lives meaningful – meditation, chanting, yoga, diet, balancing the body, music, movement and massage. $220

Being Together
Julian & Beverly Silverman

A workshop for couples. $220

THE WEEKEND OF SEPTEMBER 28-30

The Physical, Psychological & Spiritual Dimensions of Yoga
Joel Kramer

Both the interested novice and the serious student of yoga can learn how to read his own feedback system so that he can become his own teacher. Hatha yoga, jnana yoga and pranayama (breathing) will be covered, as well as the nature of yoga as it relates to the basic problems of human beings: fear, death, time, sexuality, love, freedom, pleasure and bliss. $100

Massage for Couples
Peggy Morrison & Richard Horan

$100

Something Very Serious
Andrew Weil & Robert Ornstein

$100

Our Experience of Sai Baba
Indra Devi, Dick & Janet Bock

Satya Sai Baba proclaimed himself at 14 to be an avatar of God, who had appeared, like Christ, Rama and Krishna, to bring a suffering mankind back to truth, holy duty, peace and love. Baba reveals his divinity by materializing sacred objects with a wave of his hands, by miracles of healing and other extraordinary powers. His message is that God (pure consciousness) already exists within us, but will be fully realized only after we awake from the imprisonment of our ego and senses and follow the path of the heart. We will show a sound film and slides of Baba, teach the devotional songs, and recreate a typical day at the ashram starting at 5 a.m. on Saturday with meditation and chanting. Bring instruments. $85

For Reservation Information, see page 46. For Biographical Information, see pp. 38-42

THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 30–OCTOBER 5

Advanced Gestalt Workshop
Robert Martin

The emphasis in this workshop will be on straight gestalt work with individuals who have prior gestalt experience. This workshop is not open to the novice. When making application, please include a statement of prior gestalt experience and the therapists with whom you have worked. $250

Finding Your Own Way
Lenore Lefer

The focus of this workshop will be on becoming more aware of yourself and what is around you. This awareness will allow alternatives to emerge and choices to become clear.

Gestalt, soft-encounter and psychosynthesis techniques will be offered and participants will then have the opportunity to select what they can best use to find their own way. $220

Psychosynthesis
Steven Kull & Betsy Carter

In this workshop we will explore means for actualizing the transpersonal Self – that higher, most essential Self which we may have glimpsed in peak experiences. We will begin by examining our various "selves," our roles and subpersonalities, and work toward integrating them into a more joyous and whole experience of that higher Self. $250

Music–Meditation–Massage–Movement
Barbara Clemans

Meditation need not be an austere discipline. Each breath, each gesture, each shift of weight in the body, each sound, each contact with another can be experienced fully – can be a meditation. We will use some Arica meditations with music, massage and movement to ease tensions. $250

THE WEEKEND OF OCTOBER 5-7

They May Never Understand You, But It's O.K.
Alan Schwartz

For those who seem never to be taken seriously, those who always seem to be taken seriously, and those who are too serious. We'll explore various growth techniques to find, perhaps, that we're closer to each other's minds and hearts than we think. $90

Massage & Gestalt
Frank Rubenfeld & Mari Krieger

A weekend to explore gestalt and massage as a way to contact ourselves and each other. $100

You Only Have Your Body
Barbara Clemans

Are you living in it? Do you know more about Europe than about your own heartbeat? Let us begin to experience a conscious and awake body. We will loosen tension with simple, flowing, natural movement. We will learn to give and receive massage. We will expand our capacity to breathe and relax deeply through chants and special exercises. You can take it home with you. $90

Imagination & Intuition: A Direct Path to Self-Realization
Tom Allen

In each of us there are new, emerging aspects with which we are not fully in touch. Some of these aspects are energies that are blocked, but which can be released, realized and used as sources of inner strength and guidance. Imagination and intuition are subjective functions which help us be open to these energies, and use them to reach higher, more integrated states of consciousness. In this workshop we will explore ways for the development and right use of imagination and intuition: guided imagery, symbolic art work, movement and gesture, seed thoughts, meditation, inner dialogue and other processes which can be utilized to evoke one's own inner sources of wisdom and guidance. $90

THE WEEK OF OCTOBER 7-12

A Week on the Other Side of Self
Alan Schwartz

Poets, artists and mystics have all conveyed, in many times and in many ways, the idea that the path to what is simple and natural may often be experiencing what society might call the craziness in us. This week, using techniques of encounter, bioenergetics, gestalt and massage, we will have the chance to be in touch with our outlandishness, whether divine or diabolical. $220

Contact with Life: A Bioenergetic Workshop
Michael Conant

As a way to get more in touch with the life within us, we will utilize bioenergetic, neo-Reichian and gestalt methods in a relaxed and supportive setting. Limited to 12. $280

Experiencing Esalen
Esalen Staff

$220

Listen to Yourself: A Gestalt Workshop
Frank Rubenfeld

During these five days, we will listen to ourselves with humor, dismay, compassion and whatever else arises. Through listening may come awareness; through awareness, an opportunity to create your own fate. $250

BIG SUR

THE WEEKEND OF OCTOBER 12-14

You Don't Have to Suffer To Feel Good
Harry Sloan

Frequently people come to workshops believing the only way to get in touch with themselves is through pain, anguish and earth-shaking breakthroughs. Growing becomes humorless and heavy and so does life. Though real experience will not be avoided, this workshop will tap into the absurdity of conflicts and problems, offering the participants an opportunity to laugh at themselves and the seemingly tragic fates they have chosen. $90

Releasing Fixed Patterns
Christine King

The process of living builds defenses and rigid patterns into our bodies. From childhood our nervous systems learn to react with certain selected fixed patterns. This conditioning greatly restricts body awareness and prohibits alternative ways of body movement. Dr. Moshe Feldenkrais has developed sequences of profound and simple exercises; through these our awareness will be directed to releasing fixed patterns in the body and the corresponding opening of the whole body's energies. $90

Introduction to Aikido
Robert Nadeau

A weekend to explore the Japanese art of aikido. The emphasis will be on centering, blending and energy awareness. Bring comfortable clothing for movement. $100

Gestalt Perception In Life Styles
Janie Rhyne

Experiencing with graphic media how you structure your life-space in your life-time. Learning to recognize your patterns and alternatives. $100

THE WEEK OF OCTOBER 14-19

Renascence
Michael Butler

Each of us carries within him, buried beneath layers of psychic and physical tensions, the fertile seed of a new self. We will use many of the Esalen body-oriented and psychological techniques to allow ourselves to experience that seed center of self and nourish it. Limited to 12. $250

Gestalt & Massage
Richard Price & Chris Stewart

$250

Universal Centering
Robert Nadeau

Center is the state you reach in those special moments when you transcend your norm and function beautifully. Awareness of energy is the key to that happening. Meditation is experiencing the clarity of that energy as a Universal Law and a state of being. $250

Encounter & Massage
Harry Sloan

We will explore how we touch each other verbally and non-verbally . . . how to communicate what we are feeling and how to ask for what we want. $225

THE WEEKEND OF OCTOBER 19-21

More
Michael Butler

Each of us is capable of more . . . emotional creativity, aliveness, sensuality. The methods of this workshop will be body disciplines, encounter and gestalt tools, and the life positive forces in the Esalen environment. Its goal: to experience "more," not just for a weekend at Esalen, but wherever we happen to be. Limited to 12. $100

A Western Approach to Centering
Seymour Carter

My work is living and teaching a way of life which gradually develops the capacity to live in the here and now and to be all there for whatever life brings. Working with the traditional methods of meditation and aikido, and the contemporary methods of gestalt and sensory awareness, this workshop will introduce participants to a Western approach to centering. $90

Improvisational Gestalt
Jack Downing & Lyn Davis

Improvising together, we will create and explore our laughter, sadness and rage. Our synthesis of Perlsian gestalt, Esalen encounter and massage, joined with Arica consciousness expanding exercises works to dissolve your blocks to expression. $100

Education: A Political Process
John Vasconcellos

Is education ever neutral? Doesn't it always intend and operate toward domestication or liberation of the person and human spirit? We will search out the vital issues and trends underlying education today: assumptions about human nature and potential freedom and responsibility, self-denial and self-actualization, the mind-body split, the biological roots of self-esteem, the affective domain. $90

For Reservation Information, see page 46. For Biographical Information, see pp. 38-42

THE WEEK OF OCTOBER 21-26

Experiencing Wholeness
Seymour Carter

This workshop will emphasize gestalt methods for contacting ourselves as self-regulating organisms. The practice of integrating our senses, emotions and thought into a perceptual whole releases energy for a more connected experience of living and being. The work will be devoted to releasing excess efforts and tensions and awakening dormant functioning so that the participants may experience greater physical and emotional freedom. $220

Dance Workshop
Ann Halprin, Xavier Nash & Benito Santiago

Dance and movement will be used as the catalyst to arrive at a group sense of family. This will permit us to realize our own creativity as individuals and as a group – to reinforce, support and energize each other and utilize our resources to the fullest and find our own identity and values as part of a creative community. Through this process we will be able to grow further, faster, than by having to rely solely on our own energy and initiative. Out of this collective energy, we will create our own unique rituals and ceremonies, celebrating our life experiences. Live music. $220

Improvisational Gestalt
Jack Downing & Lyn Davis

Improvising together, we will create and explore our laughter, sadness and rage. Our synthesis of Perlsian gestalt, Esalen encounter and massage, joined with Arica consciousness-expanding exercises works to dissolve your blocks to expression. $280

THE WEEKEND OF OCTOBER 26-28

Introduction to Body Consciousness
Simone Surpin

A weekend to learn more about how to integrate body energy and awareness through guided fantasy, meditation, massage, and Arica and bioenergetic exercises. $90

Massage for Couples
Peggy Morrison & Richard Horan

$100

Meditations in Action
Judyth Weaver

We will acknowledge and encourage our own true natures through movement and meditation, through the form of tai chi chuan, massage, breathing, sitting, standing, walking, running, laughing, crying, being . . . living. $90

Personality & Personal Growth
James Fadiman

"Everybody is right." Walt Whitman. We are learning that each school of therapy and enlightenment offers something for a special aspect of our growth. In this workshop we will explore consciousness using exercises from the heart of Freud, Jung, Assagioli, William James, Buddha, Skinner and others. He who tastes, knows. $90

THE WEEK OF OCTOBER 28–NOVEMBER 2

Gestalt & Movement
Richard Price & Chris Stewart

$250

The Workshop is You & Me, Work & Play, Joy & Sadness; The Title is Unimportant
Bob, Marilyn & Otis Kriegel

Our premise is that the process of change and growth can be facilitated by individuals increasing their available resources and options for being and interacting. Traditional encounter, gestalt, bioenergetic and psychosynthesis techniques will be used, as well as games and massage, to enable the participants to explore and expand the resources that exist within themselves. $220

Treasure Hunt
Margaret Conway

Discover and set free that best and most creative self you secretly know is inside! We will work primarily with psychosynthesis techniques aiming for the balance and synthesis of opposing qualities and harmonies through conflict. Be prepared for self-inventory and a search for clues to your real identity. Bring your workin' clothes and your dancin' shoes! $220
